A UNION CONCERT AT STEWARTS

Given Last Night by The Choir—Peterborough Preacher There

A concert in connection with the Union Methodist and Presbyterian church of Stewart's settlement, Otonabee, was held last night and proved to be an exceedingly interesting event. A programme chiefly consisting of music, was prepared by the choir. Addresses were given by Rev. C. H. Cone, of the Mark street Methodist church and Rev. Mr. McKenzie, of the Springville Presbyterian church. Miss Lucile Doyell was heard in two excellent recitations which were particularly well rendered.

Had to Draw the Line.

A prominent lawyer of Belleville, Ont., tells the following story which is very well known in that town, but may not be familiar to readers elsewhere. A few years ago there used to be an hotel there which was notoriously "tough," so much so that it was not supposed to be safe for a farmer in his cups to venture within its walls. It occasioned little surprise, therefore, when one day a visitor from the backlands of Hastings made the allegation that on the previous night he had entered the hotel and the bartender, whom we shall call Bill, had relieved him of $100 and slugged him into the bargain. The bartender was arraigned before the magistrate and secured a remand. When the hearing took place, the victim told his sordid tale, fixing the date with exactness. Much to the surprise of all, when the defence was called, six bizarre-looking persons from Trenton entered the witness-box and swore positively that on the night in question Bill was in Trenton playing a friendly game of poker with them. So complete was the alibi that it apparently convinced the prisoner himself, as subsequent events proved. His character restored by the dismissal of the charge, Bill returned to the hotel, put on his apron and resumed his vocation. During the afternoon his friends from Trenton came in, and lining up at the bar, suggested to Bill that he ought to do the handsome thing.

"Out!" said Bill, "have a glass of beer."

"Say, Bill," said one, "it's up to you to open wine. You know how we swore you out of it this morning."

"What!" shouted the horrified bartender, "you mean to say you're a lot of condemned perjurers. Get out of this bar; we don't allow no such characters around this hotel!"

Like the Parrot.

"Thumper occasionally says things that are wonderfully apropos," said one statesman.

"Yes," answered the other; "he's like our parrot at home. It doesn't know much, but what it does know it keeps repeating until some circumstance arises that makes the remark seem marvelously apt."

RUGBY HOCKEY ATHLETICS | SEASONABLE ....SPORTS.... | BOWLING BASKETBALL CURLING

THE PUBLIC SHOULD SUPPORT THE STRATHCONA O.H.A. TEAM

If you want hockey in Peterborough this year, show it by supporting the Strathconas; if you don't, stay home from the games, and knock. There's no use in keeping reiterating the cry, "There never will be a team like the old one." There certainly won't be as long as the public of Peterborough adopt that attitude. What is needed is support and encouragement for the young players, if hockey is to be successful here. The material is available for a fast young team that, before the season is over, will take a whole lot of beating, but nothing can be accomplished unless the citizens turn out well and patronize the games. If the public will do this, the Strathconas guaranteed to put up an article of hockey that will keep Peterborough's name as a hockey town to the fore as of yore, and maybe a little more.

Walter Miller is apparently making good in Brantford, judging from the following in the Expositor: In regard to Miller, the left wing man,

The Peterboro' Man Who is Doped Out To Be The Star of The Western Professional Hockey League

It would not be surprising if he developed into the star of the pro. league. He is one of the men that the local management are particularly pleased with. The east is a good place to pick the winners from and if Fenelon Falls responds as well as Peterborough the outfit of purple and white will be a dazzling success.

LIGHTNING SLOW HOCKEY TEAM

Teams From Cressman's Store Skated After The Puck Last Night

A fast game of hockey was played at Brock street rink last night between the lower and upper flat teams of Cressman's store. The men showed every appearance of being green to the game, and how the players escaped without one of them being knocked out is still an unsolved mystery to the large number of spectators who witnessed the game. The third floor septette was very light compared with the weighty bunch that represented the ground floor. The half-time score was 4-2 in favour of the upper seven, and during the second half they put in four more to their opponents' duck egg. Goalkeeper Keon had a busier time than at a special matinee bargain sale, and the fast forwards of the third skated rings around the heavier men from the ground floor. The teams faced each other as follows:

SPORTING NEWS AND VIEWS.....

Tom Coley of the Irish-Canadians, Toronto, won the ten-mile Christmas Day race at Hamilton yesterday in comparatively easy fashion. Among the other runners were Dennis Bennett and Hilton Green. The latter was beaten by Ellis, an inexperienced runner who showed more speed in the last stages than the Mohawk. The time made, 59.50, was fast, considering the state of the roads.

Joe Fischer of Jordan, a new Indian runner, will make his first public appearance in a ten-mile race at St. Catharines on New Year's Day. He is undoubtedly the cleanest-cut of the runners of his blood that have thus far appeared in the game. It is claimed by those behind him that his appearance is no deception of his ability. Petch, Pearce, Woods and Boylen of Toronto have already entered, and others are sure to follow shortly.

Why Beauty Fades

Real beauty is rare. It belongs to perfect health. Just as soon as the blood gets thin and watery and the nerves become exhausted, beauty fades, wrinkles show themselves, and the glow of health disappears and beauty curves give place to leanness and angles. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the great blood builder and nerve restorative, is woman's greatest blessing from youth to old age. A few weeks' use of this treatment will do wonders for any woman who is pale, thin, weak and nervous.

HISTORY OF THE GUARDIANS OF THE PRAIRIES; INCIDENTS IN THEIR EVENTFUL LIVES

The Royal North-West Mounted Police as seen Through The Eyes of a Newly Enlisted Member of the Force Who Has Written to Friends in Peterboro'

THEY UPHOLD THE RIGHT

Indespensable To The Eastern Militia in the North-West Rebellion—Unsurpassed as Scouts in South Africa

From the cosy barracks of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police, Regina, a letter was received this week by a citizen from a friend, Private John Hewitt, who has recently enlisted in this historic organization. The young policeman is greatly pleased with his new surroundings and has made many friends among the force.

It is not every person who sends in an application to the headquarters, is accepted. Yearly, hundreds of applications are not even considered, while many men who come up for examination cannot qualify for membership. Every man who joins must be a British subject of good character. He must also be able to read and write a legible hand.

After passing this stage he has two months of probation to serve and at the end of that time must be able to do police work. If he is accepted he enlists for three years and becomes a member of the R.N.W.M.P.

The system is something similar to enlistment in the regular army. But the men who join the corps at Toronto or Kingston must serve three years before they can qualify. Many of them are now holding the offices of corporals and sergeants in the police.

If a visitor was to inspect the books at Regina he would find written there in the names of sons of some of our English Lords and Earls and would find to-day enlisted in the ranks of this noble army, representatives of some of Canada's most prominent families. Therefore it may be plainly seen that it is an honour to have associations with this splendid corps.

Some uninformed people are of the opinion that life on this great constabulary is an easy one. Such is not thecase. The life is like that of a British sailor, a fascinating but an arduous one. The duties of the force are varied. The officers in addaddition to their military and police work, and that of management, training and inspection of the men, are also called upon to perform the duties of magistrates, doctors, surveyors, mine recorders, revenue and custom officers, etc. While the men under their command often act in the capacity of scouts, riders, explorers, telegraphers, mail carriers, public health and veterinary surgeons.

Their Uniforms

The uniforms of the members of this force are very attractive. While the policeman is on parade he wears a uniform similar to that of the Royal Canadian Dragoons. The pill box hat, red tunic with yellow facings, dark riding trousers with a double yellow stripe down the side. His dress is completed with a high polished pair of black riding boots. On all occasions except drill the rifle is carried across the saddle. On duty he wears the regimental khaki uniform with a bandolier thrown across his chest. A broad Stetson hat adorns his head and the tan Colonel Steel riding boots completes the footgear. He is mounted on a fine spirited steed which is necessary in the carrying out of his work.

The provinces under the jurisdiction of the force are Alberta, Saskatchewan, but the men are also called upon to preserve law and order in the frozen Yukon and the ice-bound Arctic regions of Hudson Bay.

These men are ever trained to be fearless and brave, to always place duty first, always uphold their old motto "Mainteem le Droit," and there are many spots on the Canadian prairie where a member of this noble body has fallen in the upholding of this grand motto. These instances of undenying sacrifice have made the R.N.W.M.P. what it is. The members have always maintained an unbroken record of good work done, and by this have endeared themselves to the heart of every settler. The policeman's word is law and the settlers feel safe under the protection of the boys in khaki.

History of the Corps

The force has only been in existance a short time. It is only thirty-four years ago since the first body of policemen bearing the brass initials R.N.W.M.P. on their shoulders followed General French across what was then known as a vast wilderness. Since that time British law and justice has been fairly handed out to the residents of that country.

In the year 1873, reports began to come to the eastern provinces from this wild country, of the awful massacres that were being indulged in by the Indians there. It was also stated that the redskins were very unsettled and an uprising was feared.

Word was sent to Toronto and General French who saw the approaching danger, began at once his work of organization and in the spring of 1874, a fine body of young men, the cream of Ontario, left their homes and pleasant surroundings to help to maintain the King's law in the Northwest.

The great leader, who had been out in the Northwest, was aware of the exact condition of the country, and knew what to expect. The men had not the slightest idea of what they were going into. On the day of their departure from Toronto, General French in addressing the men, told them in plain words, what to expect. They were not going to have any child's play. They must expect plenty of hardship and privation. They would be wet day after day and would have to lie down in their damp clothes, on wet ground, night after night. They might be a day or two without food, and he feared that they would often be without water to drink.

The men were all of an adventurous spirit, and the privations predicted, which fell to their lot a few weeks later, were treated in a jovial manner.

Their first march across the prairie from Fort Garry, now Winnipeg, to the Bow River, at McLeod, was a distance of seven hundred and eighty-one miles and after traversing the first eight miles no human being was seen, except a few Indian tepees. The force was guided half the distance by half breed scouts, and and after that they had to grope their own way through the wilderness.

Their first few years of their work was full of exciting adventure. Volumes could be published from the stories told by these first soldier-police. At most times the great trouble was the large amount of whisky that was distributed among the red skins, which had a most demoralising effect. The white settlers would send the cursed firewater into the camps in every manner imaginable. Some whisky was found concealed in eggs, and in beams of wood. Horse stealing at this time was at its height.

The Indians indulged in all kinds of barbarity, such as the sun-dance, which was an awful mode of inhuman torture, and this had to be put down.

Opening of Posts

Posts were then established at different points throughout the country, where prisoners could be brought and given a fair trial. In the places where these posts generally stood, large cities now take their place. When law was rightly established in the west, Canadians from the Eastern Provinces, and people from all parts of Europe flocked in great numbers to this barren waste. So we can safely say that these first men who entered the service of the North West Mounted Police were important factors in the opening up and civilization of the Canadian West. Most of the men after serving a certain length of time in active service, were given a piece of land by the Government and became settlers in the country.

When the Northwest Rebellion broke out in 1885, these men were alive to the conditions of the country and the modes of fighting practiced by their opponents, and, with great success, defended five of the most important points against the red-skins and half-breeds, who were conspicuous in the uprising. This was the first instance in which the value of the force was brought before the eyes of Eastern Canadians, and, in fact, the whole civilized world. They also made a great impression on the western people, who held them in great awe after the rebellion was suppressed. As scouts and guides they proved indispensable to the eastern regiments, who took part in the campaign. Col. Otter, and Sir Garnet Woolsley, upon their return after the rebellion, spoke in glowing terms of the excellency of this brave body of Canadians. Since that time Royalty has often visited their headquarters and taken an interest in the welfare of the men.

They have further distinguished themselves since 1885. During the South African war, the mounted police were once more brought before the eyes of the world by their daring and bravery, and also their ability as scouts was fully recognized. Upon the close of the war many of them joined the Royal South African Constabulary, which was organised for the purpose of guarding isolated and rural districts.

There were at first fifty men in the corps, and now they number five hundred. If the authorities would permit every one to join who applied the number would rank well up into the thousand.

Instances of Bravery

There are several instances of bravery which have become traditions of the corps, and are green in the memory of the old officers.

Private Dewitt in his letter, mentions a few of them which are particularly brilliant as instances of bravery and devotion to duty.

During the construction of the C. P. R. through the North-west, an incident occurred, which is now one of the traditions of the force. The railway line had been constructed as far west as Swift Current, when the surveyors saw before them an Indian encampment of considerable size under Chief Piapot. When they explained matters to the chief, he replied that he would not move, and said he and his followers would remain. The railway officials telegraphed to the Governor of the Northwest Territories for protection and he sent word to the headquarters of the N.W.M.P., and this body took prompt measures to remove the difficulty.

The Indians at this time were very unsettled and were eagerly looking for a bloody conflict. This did not worry the force. They never count numbers when law and order are on their side, and therefore only sent two policemen, a sergeant and a private. The men set out for the camp and did not draw rein till they had reached the tent of the haughty chief. On reaching it the sergeant dismounted and calmly ordered the chief to break camp at once and go north. The chief defiantly refused and the whole camp got into an hilarious uproar of laughter at the absurdity of the order. The sergeant summoned all the appearance of sternness he could command and told the chief that camp must be cleared in fifteen minutes, taking out his watch to keep time. The younger Indians of the camp danced around the two policemen, firing guns and screeching, but the antics of these whirling Dervishes did not frighten the officers in the least. At the end of the allotted time the sergeant went from one tent to another loosing the main poles, and soon the entire canvas village lay on the ground. The redskins set up a howl of rage and ran for their guns, but the police remained perfectly calm. This had the desired effect, and Piapot and his braves were soon on their way to the northern country. The C.P.R. line was then continued.

Indian Shoots Police

Shortly after the rebellion a sergeant named Colbrook was detailed to arrest a certain Cree Indian named Almighty Voice. With the aid of a half breed scout, the brave of-

DON'T WORRY

While every intelligent person realizes the danger encountered every day from germ diseases, it is comforting to know that none of them can develop in a perfectly healthy body. Rich blood and a clean body are the greatest protection, but it is very important to keep the body clean. If the bowels are irregular, the body cannot be clean, as the poisonous matter, instead of being eliminated, is re-absorbed into the system. In that condition you are not safe and might easily fall a victim to any of the germ diseases, such as typhoid fever, typhus fever, diphtheria and even tuberculosis. Common sense dictates that you should keep your liver and kidneys active, and no better medicine has been discovered for this purpose than King Palmetto Compound. As an intelligent individual, you want to know what you are taking, and the manufacturers of King Palmetto Compound make no secret of the ingredients of their preparation. The formula is on the wrapper. They do claim, however, that they know how to prepare it scientifically and are in a position to obtain the very purest material. Price $1.00 per bottle. Write for free sample, King Palmetto Co., Bridgeburg, Ont. King Palmetto Compound is guaranteed to act directly on the bowels, liver and kidneys and on the strength of this fact it is guaranteed and recommended by McDermid & Jury, druggists.

PLAIN TALK FROM THE DOCTOR

A prominent physician, famous for his success in the treatment of kidney and bladder troubles, stated that to the following prescription is due a great deal of his success:

One ounce fluid extract dandelion;
One ounce compound salatone;
Four ounces compound syrup sarsaparilla.

Mix and take a teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime, drinking plenty of water.

This mixture will, he says, positively cure any diseases arising from weak, clogged or inactive kidneys, and will assist these organs to cleanse the blood of the poisonous waste matter and acids, which if allowed to remain, cause lumbago, lame back, rheumatism and sciatics, and at the same time will restore the kidneys to healthy normal action. The ingredients, which are purely vegetable and entirely harmless, can be procured from any good druggist and mixed at home at very little cost.

This advice will undoubtedly be much appreciated by many readers.

The Helmet of Navarre

A STORY OF LOVE AND ADVENTURE

BY BERTHA RUNKLE.

Copyright by The Century Co.

She made no answer save to look at him as at a madman.

"Nay, I mean not now, past the sentry. I am not so crazy as that. But you will slip out, you will find a way, and come to me."

Silently, sadly she shook her head. His arms loosened and she freed herself from him. But instantly he was close on her again.

"But you must! You will, you must! Ah, Lorance, my father is won over. He bids me win you. He has sworn to welcome you; when he sees you he will be your slave."

"But my cousin Mayenne is not won over."

"Devil fly away with your cousin Mayenne!" M. Etienne retorted with a vehemence that made me shudder, lest the walls have ears.

"Ah, you are free to say that, monsieur, but I am not. I am of his blood and dwell in his house and eat at his board."

He was looking at her with a passionate ardor, grasping her actual words less than their import of refusal.

"Are you afraid?" he cried. "Are you frightened, heart-root of mine? You need not be, mignonne. You can contrive to slip from the house—Mlle de Tavanne will help you. Once in the street I will meet you; I will carry you home to hold you against all the world."

"It is not that," she answered.

"Am I your fear?" he cried quickly. "Ah, Lorance, my Lorance, you need not. I love you as I love the Queen of Heaven."

"Ah, hush!"

"As I love the Queen of Heaven. I will as soon do sacrilege toward her as ill to you."

He dropped on his knees before her, kissing the hem of her gown. She stood looking down on his bowed head with a tenderness that seemed to infold him as with a mantle.

He raised his eyes to hers, still kneeling at her feet.

"Lorance, will you come with me?"

She was silent a moment, with heaving breast and face a-quiver.

"Monsieur, I am sworn. That night when Felix came, when I was in deadly terror for him and for you, Etienne, I promised my lord, an he would lift his hand from you, to obey him in all things. He bade me never again to hold intercourse with you—nigck. I am already forsworn! But I cannot"——

He leaped to his feet, crying out:

"Lorance, he was the first forsworn! For he did move against me"——

"He told you—the warning went through Felix—that if you tried to reach me he would crush you as a buzzing fly. Oh, monsieur, I implored you to leave Paris! You are not kind to me, you are cruel, when you venture here."

"You are cruel to me, Lorance."

Sighing, she turned from him, hiding her face in her hands.

"Mayenne has not kept faith with you!" monsieur went on vehemently. "He has broken his oath. I mean not last night. I had my warning; the attack was provoked. But yesterday in the afternoon, before I made the attempt to see you, he sent to arrest me for the murder of the lackey Ponton."

"Paul's deed!" she cried in white surprise. "He spoke of it—we heard, Felix and I. What, monsieur! sent to arrest you? But you are here."

"They missed me. They took by mistake Paul de Lorraine."

"He was not here last night!" she cried. "Mayenne was demanding him of me."

"Then he slept pleasantly in the Bastille. May he never look on the outside of its walls again!"

"But he will, he does. He must be free by this time; they cannot keep Mayenne's nephew in the Bastille. And oh, if he hated you before, how he will hate you now! Oh, Etienne, if you love me go! Go to your own side, at St. Denis. There are you safe. Here in Paris you may not draw a tranquil breath."

"And shall I flee my dangers? Shall I run, in the face of my peril?"

"Ah, monsieur, perhaps your life is nothing to you. But it is more to me than tongue can tell."

"My love, my love!" He snatched her into his arms; she held away from him to look him beseechingly in the face, her little clutching hands on his shoulders.

"Oh, you will go! you will go!"

"Only if you come with me. Lorance, it is such a little way! Only to meet me in the next square. We will slip out of the gates together—leave Paris and all its plots and murders, and at St. Denis keep our honeymoon."

"Monsieur," she said slowly, "I am told that my cousin Mayenne offered a month ago to give me to you for your name on the roster of the League. Is that true?"

"It is true. But you cannot think, Lorance, it was for any lack of love for you. I swear to you"——

"Nay, you need not. I have it by heart that you love me."

"Lorance!"

"But when you could not take me with honor you would not take me. Your house stands against us; you would not desert your house. Am I then to be false to mine?"

"A woman belongs to her husband's house."

"Aye, but she does not wed the enemy of her own. Monsieur, you are full of loyalty; shall I have none? I was born, my father before me, in the shadow of the house of Lorraine; the Lorraine princes our kinsmen, our masters, our friends. When I was orphaned young, and penniless because King Henry's Huguenots had wrenched our lands away, I came here to my cousin Mayenne to dwell here in kindness and love as a daughter of the house. Am I to turn traitor now?"

"Lorance," he was fiercely beginning, when Mlle. de Tavanne bounded in.

"On guard!" she hissed at us. "They come!"

She looked behind her into the corridor. Mademoiselle gave her lips to monsieur in one last kiss and slipped like water from his arms. I was at his side, and we busied ourselves over the trinkets, he with shaking fingers, cheeks burning through the strain.

The ladies streamed into the room, the lovely Mme. de Montpensier alone conspicuous by her absence. Mme. de Mayenne's face was hot and angry and bore marks of tears. Not in this room only had a combat raged.

"Never shall he come into this house again," madame was crying vigorously. "I had had him strangled, the vile beast, an she had not seized him. I will now if she ever dares bring him hither again."

"You certainly should, madame," replied the nearest of the ladies. "You have been, in the goodness of your heart, far too forbearing, too patient under many presumptions. One would suppose the mistress here to be Mme. de Montpensier."

"I will show who is mistress here," the Duchess de Mayenne retorted. Then her eye fell on Mlle. de Montluc, making her way softly to the door, and the vials of her wrath overflowed upon her:

"What, Lorance, you could not be at the pains to follow me to the rescue of my child! Your little cousin, poor innocent, may be eaten by the beasts for aught you care, while you prink over trinkets."

Mademoiselle faced her blankly, scarce understanding, midst the whirl of her own thoughts, of what she was accused. The little Tavanne came gallantly to the rescue:

"I did not follow you, either, madame. We thought it scarcely safe; Lorance could not bear to leave this fellow alone."

Mme. de Mayenne glanced instinctively at her dressing table's rich accoutrements, touched in spite of herself by such care of her belongings.

"I had not suspected you maids of such forethought," she said with relenting. "I vow for once I am beholden to you. You did quite right, Lorance."

CHAPTER XXVI.

Mademoiselle slipped softly out of the room, taking our hearts with her. Our one desire now was to be gone; but it was easier wished than accomplished, for there remained the dreary process of bargaining. Mme. de Mayenne had set her heart on a pearl bracelet, Mme. de Brie wanted a vinaigrette, a third lady a pair of shoe buckles. M. Etienne developed a recklessness about prices that would have whitened the hair of a goldsmith father; I thought the ladies could not fail to be suspicious of such prodigality, to imagine we carried stolen goods. But no; the quick settlements defeated their own ends; they fired our customers with longing to purchase further. I was despairing, when at length Mme. de Mayenne bethought herself that supper time was at hand, and that no one was yet dressed. To my eyes the company already looked fine enough for a coronation; but I rejoiced to hear them thanking madame for her reminder with the gratitude of victims snatched from an awful fate. We were commanded to bundle out, which with all alacrity we did.

Freedom was in sight. I was not so nervous on this journey as I had been coming in. As we passed, lackey-led, through the long corridors, I had ea enough of mind to enable me to take my bearings and to whisper to my master, "That door yonder is the door of the council-room, where I was." Even as I spoke the door opened, two gentlemen appearing at the threshold. One was a stranger; the other was Mayenne.

Our guide held back in deference. The duke and his friend stood a moment or two in low-voiced converse; then the visitor made his farewells and went off down the staircase.

Mayenne had not appeared aware of our existence, thirty feet up the passage, but now he inquired, as if we had been pieces of merchandise.

"What have you there, Louis?"

Your Grace. Madame has just dismissed him."

He led us forward. Mayenne surveyed us deliberately, and at length said to M. le Comte:

"I will look at your wares."

M. Etienne smiled his eager, deprecating smile, informing His Highness that we, poor creatures, spoke no French.

"How came you in Paris, then?"

M. Etienne for the fourth time went through with his tale. I think this time he must have trembled over it. My Lord Mayenne had not the reputation of being easily gulled. For aught we knew he might be informed of the name and condition of every person who had entered Paris this year. He might, as he listened, stolid-faced, be checking off to himself the number of monsieur's lies. But if M. Etienne trembled in his soul his words never faltered; he knew his history well, by this. At its finish Mayenne said:

"Come in here."

The lackey was ordered to wait outside, while we followed His Grace of Mayenne across the council-room to that table by the window where he had sat with Lucas night before last. I clinched my teeth to keep them from chattering together. Not Grammont's brutality, not Lucas's venom, not Mlle. de Tavanne's rampant suspicion, had ever frightened me so horribly as did Mayenne's amiable composure. He made me feel as I had felt when I entered the tunnel, helpless in the dark, unable to cope with dangers I could not see. Mayenne was a well, the light shining down its sides a way, and far below, the still surface of the water. You hang over the edge and peer till your eyes drop out; you can as easily look through iron as discern how deep the water is. I seemed to see clearly that Mayenne suspected us not in the least. He was as placid as a summer day, turning over the contents of the box, showing little interest in us, much in our wares, every now and then speaking a generous word of praise or asking a friendly question. He was the very model of the gracious prince; the humble tradesmen whom we feigned to be must needs have worshipfully loved him. Yet withal I believed that all the time he knew us; that he was amusing himself with us. Presently when he tired, he would walk casually out of the room and send in his creatures to stab us.

Had I known this for a truth, that he had discovered us, I should have braced myself, I trow, to meet it. The certainty would have been bearable; I had courage to face ruin. It was the uncertainty that was so heart-shaking—like crossing a morass in the dark. We might be on the safe path; we might with every step be wandering away further and further into the treacherous bog; there was no way to tell. Mayenne was quite the man to be kindly patron of the crafts, to pick out a rich present for a friend. He was also the man to sit in the presence of his enemy, unbetraying, tranquil, assured, waiting. It seemed to me that in a few minutes more of this I should go mad; I should scream out: "Yes, I am Felix Broux and he is M. le Comte de Mar!"

But before I had verily come to this something happened to change the situation. Entered like a young tempest, slamming the door after him, Lucas.

M. Etienne clutched me by the arm, drawing me back into the embrasure of the window, where we stood in plain sight, but with our faces blotted out against the light. Mayenne looked up from two rings he was comparing, one in each hand. Lucas, hat on head, came rapidly across the room.

"So you have appeared again," Mayenne said. I could almost believe myself back in night before last.

"Aye, at last I have." Lucas was all hot and ruffled, panting half from hurry, half from wrath.

"You saw fit to be absent last night," Mayenne went on indifferently, his eyes on the ring. "I trust, for your sake, you have used your time profitably."

"I have been about my own concerns," Lucas answered lightly, arming himself with his insolence against the other's disdain. In a moment he had mastered the excitement that brought him so stormily into the room. He was once more the Lucas who had entered that other night, nonchalant, mocking.

"Pretty trinkets," he observed, sitting down and lifting a bracelet from the tray.

The close kinship of these men betrayed itself in nothing so sharply as in their unerring instinct for annoying each other. Had Lucas volunteered explanation for his absence Mayenne would not have listened to it, but as he withheld it the duke demanded brusquely:

"Well, do you give an account of yourself? You had better."

Lucas repeated the tactics which he had found such good entertainment before. He looked with raised eyebrows toward us.

"You would not have me speak before these vermin, uncle?"

"These vermin understand no French," Mayenne made answer. "But do as it likes you. It is nothing to me."

My master pinched my hand. Mayenne did not know us! After all he was what M. Etienne had called him—a man, neither god nor devil. He could make mistakes like the rest of us. For once he had been caught napping.

Lucas leaned back in his chair with a meditative air as if idly wondering whether to speak or not. In his place I should not have wondered one moment. Had Mayenne assured me in that quiet tone that he cared nothing whether I spoke I should scarce have been able to utter my words [illegible] enough. But there was so strange a twist in Lucas's nature that he must sometimes thwart his own interests, value his caprice above his prosperity. Also in this case his story was no triumphant one. But at length he did begin it:

"I went to Belin to inform him that day before yesterday Etienne de Mar murdered his lackey Ponton in Mar's house in the Rue Coupejarrets."

"Was that you errand?" Mayenne said, looking up in slow surprise. "My faith! your oaths to Lorance trouble you little."

Lucas started forward sharply. "Do you tell me you did not know my purpose?"

"I knew, of course, that you were up to some warlockry," Mayenne answered; "I did not concern myself to discover what."

"There speaks the general! There speaks the gentleman!" Lucas cried out. "A general hangs a spy, yet he profits by spying. The spy runs the risks, incurs the shames; the general sits in his tent, his honor untarnished, pocketing all the glory. Faugh, you gentlemen! You will not do dirty work, but you will have it done for you. You sit at home with clean hands and eyes that see not, while we go forth to serve you. You are the Duke of Mayenne. I am your bastard nephew, living on your favor. But you go too far when you sneer at my smirches."

He was on his feet, standing over Mayenne, his face blazing. M. Etienne made an instinctive step forward, thinking him about to knife the duke. But Mayenne, as we well knew, was no craven.

"Be a little quieter, Paul," he said, unmoved. "You will have the guard in a moment."

Lucas held absolutely still for a second. So did Mayenne. He knew that Lucas, standing, could stab quicker than he defend. He sat there with both hands on the table, looking composedly up at his nephew. Lucas flung away across the room.

"I shall have dismissed these people directly," Mayenne continued. "Then you can tell me your tale."

"I can tell it now in two words," Lucas answered, coming abruptly back. "Belin signed the warrant and sent a young ass of the burgher guard after Mar. I attended to some affairs of my own. Then after a time I went round to the Trois Lanternes to see if they had got him. He was not there—only that cub of a boy of his. When I came in he swore, the innkeeper swore, the whole crew swore, I was Mar. The fool of an officer arrested me."

I expected Mayenne to burst out laughing in Lucas's chagrined face. But instead he seemed less struck with his nephew's misfortune than with some other aspect of the affair. He said slowly:

"You told Belin this arrest was my desire?"

"I may have implied something of the sort."

"You repeated it to the arresting officer before Mar's boy?"

"I had not time to say anything before they hustled me off," Lucas exclaimed. "Mille tonnerres! Never had any man such luck as I. It's enough to make me sign papers with the devil."

"Mar would believe I had broken faith with him?"

"I dare say. One isn't responsible for what Mar believes," Lucas answered carelessly.

Mayenne was silent, with kit brows, drumming his hand on the table. Lucas went on with the tale of his woes:

"At the Bastille I ordered the commissary to send to you. He did not; he sent to Belin. Belin was busy, didn't understand the message, wouldn't be bothered. I lay in my cell like a mouse in a trap till an hour agone, when at last he saw fit to appear—damn him!"

Mayenne fell to laughing. Lucas cried out:

"When they arrested me my first thought was that this was your work."

"In that case how should you be free now?"

"You found you needed me."

"You are twice wrong, Paul. For I knew nothing of your arrest. Nor do I think I need you. Pardieu! you succeed too badly to give me confidence."

Lucas stood glowering, gnawing his lip, picturing the chagrin, the angry reproaches, the justifications he did not utter. I am certain he pitied himself as the sport of fate and of tyrants, the most shamefully used of mortal men. And so long as he aspired to the hand of Mayenne's ward so long was he helpless under Mayenne's will.

"'Twas pity," Mayenne said reflectively, "that you thought best to be absent last night. Had you been here you had had sport. Your young friend Mar came to sing under his lady's window."

"Saw she him?" Lucas cried sharply.

"How should I know? She does not confide in me."

"You took care to find out!" Lucas cried, knowing he was being badgered, yet powerless to keep himself from writhing.

"I may have."

"Did she see him?" Lucas demanded again, the heavy lines of hatred and jealousy searing his face.

"No credit to you if she did not. You accomplish singularly little to harass M. de Mar in his love-making. You deserve that she should have seen him. But as a matter of fact she did not. She was in the chapel with madame."

"What happened?"

"Francois de Brie—now there is a youngster, Paul," Mayenne interrupted himself to point out, "who has not a tithe of your cleverness, but he has the advantage of being on the spot when needed. Desiring a word with mademoiselle he betook himself to her chamber. She was not there, but Mar was warbling under the window."

"Brie?"

"Brie bestirred himself. He sent two of the guard round behind the house to cut off the retreat, while he and Latour attacked from the front."

"Mar's killed?" Lucas cried. "He's killed!"

"By no means," answered Mayenne. "He got away."

Before he could explain further—if he meant to—the door opened and Mlle. de Montluc came in.

ESTIMATES AND RESULTS

The evidence before the Royal Commission showed that over 700 SUN LIFE policies had already matured and that in thirty-four per cent. of the cases the amounts originally estimated as likely to be received at the end of the terms, had been realized or exceeded. On all the cases combined the average amount paid had been about ninety-seven per cent. of the estimate. The management may be pardoned for being proud of this record. The estimates now in use since 1900 are lower than former ones, and premiums are higher, so that present estimates should certainly be realized. Statements were also filed showing that $102 is on hand for every $100 required to pay the amounts called for by the present estimates for every deferred profit policy on the books and this without taking into account the Company's great and increasingly valuable contingent fund. Our policyholders are therefore justified in being particularly optimistic in regard to the Company's probable future profits.

Some one has said "the true value of a life assurance policy must be guaged by the security of the protection given; if it proves to be a good investment, all the better: when both are shown, there is nothing on earth to equal it."

The security of the protection afforded by the Sun Life of Canada needs no comment and the profits paid—let our results tell their own forceful story.

Leader of Britain's "Suffragettes."

suffers a disadvantage from the eccentricities of this small minority of hysterical women.

The syllogism on which the argumentative women mainly rely may be put in a plausible and easy shape. They say no anomaly ought to be allowed in legislation; that the difference of the Parliamentary and municipal registers is an anomaly; therefore, women ought to vote at the Parliamentary elections. But the tactics of the suffragettes are injuring rather than benefiting the movement. They persistently interrupt speakers, break up meetings and conduct themselves generally in such a riotous manner that they are frequently locked up by the police.

At one of these gatherings the interrupters were surrounded by students, who rushed them into an anteroom and administered the sort of punishment usually restricted to unruly occupants of the nursery. The following ceremony is reported to have taken place. A medical student wielding a birch rod said:

"I publish the banns of matrimony between this rod and this woman. If any of you know just cause of impediment why they should not be united you are to declare it."

Another student—"I forbid the banns."

"For what cause?"

"Because the parties are not agreed."

The validity of the objection was allowed and the rod was not used, but a milder form of punishment was administered to the suffragettes.

Promoters of the movement seem to be well supplied with the sinews of war, and the secret is being religiously kept as to where the money comes from. They are so well organised that one day this week they were able to send delegates to almost every police court in the big towns and cities in the United Kingdom to protest against women being tried by men and under laws passed without the assent of women. On the evening of the same day almost every political meeting in the country was interrupted or broken up by members of the Women's Rights Society. That their conduct is disapproved by a large section of their own sex is shown by the fact that at several meetings addressed by His Majesty's Ministers women have constituted themselves checkers out.

At one meeting addressed by Mr. Herbert Gladstone a noisy suffragette was lifted off her feet by another woman and carried to the door kicking and screaming amid much excitement and such exclamations as "It's worth ten shillings to be here. It's better than a pantomine."

One of the favorite arguments of agitators is that the suffrage is already possessed by multitudes of voters who are imperiously qualified for the discharge of political duties. Any inconvenience which might result from promiscuous suffrage is not likely to be abated by the extension of the system which is assumed to have caused mischief.

It may seem offensive to hint that the balance of the political forces ultimately depends on physical force, but it is not altogether prudent to disregard natural laws. If on any great question women outvoted mere man the defeated party wouldn't for a moment think of submitting. It is perfectly conceivable that in a general election nine-tenths of the female voters might, if philanthropic agitation were raging, select as representatives only candidates who would support immediate war with some nation which might for the moment be unpopular. There are people audacious enough to contend that men, if not gentler, are habitually more prudent and infinitely less intolerant.

Those who know women best and appreciate them most highly are disposed intentionally to abstain from explaining their instinctive conviction that the female intellect and character are ill-advised to practice political activity. The bulk of the women of Great Britain don't want franchise and it is highly probable that the most judicious and reasonable women would decline to perform an uncongenial function.

THE ROYAL BOX.

The empress of Japan is a great advocate of the spread of education in her husband's dominions.

The little crown prince of Spain in pursuance of an ancient custom holds a reception during his morning nap nearly every day. The ministers in attendance and other high officials assemble in the palace at a fixed hour and are admitted in a body to the nursery to gaze upon the sleeping infant.

The wedding dress of lilac poplin worn by Queen Alexandra on the occasion of her marriage, forty-four years ago, and in which she first won the hearts of her future subjects is still carefully preserved by her majesty. The dress was chosen in compliment to Queen Victoria, who always had a fondness for lilac.

The Princess Marie Bonaparte will be a very busy young woman when she becomes crown princess of Greece if she attempts to wear all the dresses included in her wedding trousseau. Seldom has a bride had such beautiful raiment, according to a dispatch, for there are dresses for every hour in the day, and those for evening alone number thirty-four.

WOMAN'S REALM.

One-third of Great Britain's telegraph operators are women.

Mrs. Adelaide Ballard, ex-president of the Iowa Equal Suffrage association, has moved to Chico, Cal., with her family and has been elected president of the local suffrage club there.

At the last general election in New Zealand there were 263,597 males and 212,875 females on the roll. There actually voted 221,611 males and 175,046 females. In fourteen contests the female voters outnumbered the males.

The Ohio Woman's Suffrage association has presented to the Reuben McMillan Free library in Youngstown the "History of Woman Suffrage," which is comprised in four large volumes. Volumes 1, 2 and 3 were written by Elizabeth Cady Stanton, Susan B. Anthony and Matilda Joslyn Gage and volume 4 by Miss Anthony and Ida Husted Harper.

COLLEGE AND SCHOOL.

Fifty more teachers have been employed for the rapidly growing night schools of Manila.

The Cambridge (England) freshmen number 1,112 as against 1,021 last year, this being a record.

In some of the elementary schools of France "tables of sight and hearing" are prepared for each class, and according to these the children are seated—the short sighted near the blackboard and those hard of hearing nearest the teacher.

Professor Crook of Amherst college recently broke up the monotony of teaching by selecting by lot a member of each of his junior divisions in political economy to conduct the class while he played the part of a student. Warning of this plan was given the day before.

Irish Wit.

As Sir Walter Scott was riding with a friend near Abbotsford he came to a field gate, which an Irish beggar, who happened to be near, opened for him. Sir Walter was desirous of rewarding him by the present of sixpence, but found he had not so small a coin in his purse. "Here, my good fellow," said he; "here is a shilling for you, but, mind, you owe me sixpence." "God bless your honor!" exclaimed the Irishman. "May your honor live till I pay you!"

BABIES IN PUBLIC HOUSES.

Beer Given to Infants to Keep Them Quiet—English Statistics.

From statistics prepared by the police forces of London and the large provincial towns, and issued by the English Home Secretary, it is clear that there is an extensive practice among women in lower class districts to take infants and young children into public houses at all hours from early morning until late at night.

In many cases women were seen to give infants beer to drink—as it made them sleepy and quiet—and in others to dip a finger in the liquor and so give the child "a taste." Several of the chief constables hold it unusual to find a child much over three or four years of age in a public house with its parents, which indicates that the mother takes the child only when it is too young to be left to its own devices.

The custom, which all the police authorities lament, occurs most frequently on licensed premises which have music or other entertainments, which appear to have attraction for the women. Some, as in Birmingham, resort to the public houses soon after 10 a. m., when they are supposed to be shopping. On Saturday nights the practice is also prevalent.

Connecticut.

The discoverer of the Connecticut river was the Dutch navigator Adrian Block, whose name survives in Block Island. In 1614 Block discovered the river and sailed up its course some sixty miles, very nearly to the present northern boundary of the state. The word "Connecticut" is of Indian origin, meaning the "Long Tidal river."

An Ice Cave.

A summer attraction in Colebrook, N. H., is the ice cave in Dixville notch. This cave is formed by a fissure in the ledge of the mountain that fills with snow in winter and is protected from the sun's rays at all seasons.

GOLD COINS.

Why Bankers Don't Like Them and Prefer to Handle Paper.

"Of the different kinds of American money now in circulation the gold coins of all denominations are the most disliked in my business," said a prominent New York banker.

"Take a greenback, a silver or a gold certificate or a national bank note to your bank and it is received and placed to your credit without a moment's delay. Not so with gold. A few days ago a gentleman brought to our bank upward of $3,000 in gold of different denominations and was much provoked because we would not receive it and give him credit with the amount the face of the coin represented. This we could not do because the law requires that gold shall be redeemed only at its actual value. Coins carried in the pocket for any length of time naturally lose something by abrasion—probably but a fractional part of a cent on a ten dollar piece, but it is a loss nevertheless—and therefore bankers cannot give credit for gold deposits until the coin shall have been weighed. In the case mentioned my friend took his gold to the subtreasury and was compelled to wait there nearly an hour before he could get notes for it.

"Every coin had to be passed through the scales, and after the weighing process had been completed three of the coins—two five dollar pieces and a ten dollar piece—were returned to him as short in weight. Before returning short weight coins the department stamps on the face of each coin a cross. The owner is either left to send the coins to the United States mint for redemption or again put them into circulation. Eventually the coins with crosses on their faces will go to the mint and be redeemed at their actual value. In many instances there may not be more than several cents' shortage on $50 worth of coins. Business men, however, naturally object to the inconvenience and get rid of their gold as fast as possible."

Almost as Bad.

"Was no one injured in the railway collision, count?"

No. Nevertheless it was a most painful situation. First, second, third and fourth class passengers all mingled together. Simply unheard of!"—Transatlantic Tales.

Heart Interest.

"That play," remarked the critical person, "lacks heart interest."

"It does, eh?" answered the star. "You just ought to see the way the manager is taking the box office receipts to heart."

JEWELLERS TAKEN IN.

Clever Thieves Secure $3,000 Worth of Ornaments.

One morning not long ago a lady, well but quietly dressed, drove up to a fashionable West End jeweller's, London, in a neatly appointed brougham, and, entering, made careful selection of a necklace and rings worth in all about $3,000. "I should like my husband to see them before I definitely decide upon them," she said. "May one of your assistants accompany me home for that purpose?"

The jeweller was agreeable; the assistant carrying the jewellery in a hand-bag went with the lady, and presently the carriage drew up at a handsome house in a street north of Oxford street.

It was the residence of a famous mental specialist, but of this the assistant was ignorant. The lady left the assistant in the waiting room and went into the consulting room.

"Oh, doctor," she exclaimed, "a dreadful thing has happened. My son has gone suddenly mad and believes himself to be a jeweler. What shall I do?"

The doctor went into the consulting room to interview the supposed lunatic, and naturally some time elapsed before he realized that the jeweller was sane, and that they both had been the dupes of a clever thief. In the meantime the fashionably-dressed lady had departed with her booty, and was never caught.

More recently two jewellery firms, one in Regent street, one in Bond street, have been heavy losers at the hands of a couple of clever confederates. The trick was as simple as ingenious. One man entered the shop and asked for a cheap diamond ring and a couple of inexpensive brooches. He made his selection and paid for them, on the understanding that if he found any of the articles unsuitable he should be permitted to return them the following day, and have the price refunded. He also asked that the price tickets might not be removed.

Shortly after number one had left, number two appeared, and requested to be shown a diamond ring worth about $500. When the assistant had placed the tray of expensive rings upon the counter, the thief, who had the $50 ring previously purchased by his confederate palmed in the left hand, soon succeeded in substituting it for one of the expensive rings. The fact that the original ticket was on it, and that none of the rings was missing, prevented any suspicion.

The trick was worked again and again with such success that over $20,000 worth of jewellery was secured.

TRIED TO SELL TITLE.

Wealthy Widow's Experience With a Cute Matrimonial Agent.

Quite recently a rich and charming widow, no longer very young, had the following unpleasant adventure at a smart and well-known West End London hotel. She was sitting in the lounge when a middle-aged gentleman, of distinguished and aristocratic appearance, addressed her courteously by name, and asked her if she would favor him with a few minutes' conversation. On her consenting, he said, "You are a widow. Pray forgive me if I seem impertinent, but would you like to marry again?" The lady in question, who was gifted with a sense of humor, said: "Is this an offer of marriage?" "Not for myself; but tell me, would you like a title?"

Entering into the spirit of the fun, the lady replied, "Immensely. How am I to get one?" Instantly he thrust his hand into his pocket, and placed before her an array of photographs representing several foreign man in uniform, and all young. It was their youth that struck the lady as the most obnoxious feature of the strange business. They were nearly all German or Austrian barons and counts, with the exception of two princes. To test her new acquaintance, she put her finger on one of the photos and said: "I like this one. What is his price?" "A settlement of six thousand a year is what he wants for his personal requirements, but his is a very ancient title," replied the gentleman. He then proceeded to say that he could arrange a speedy introduction, and he would not require his commission until after the marriage. From many remarks he made the lady gathered that he was in possession of every detail regarding her fortune and estates. Finally, when the incident had begun to thoroughly disgust her, she returned the photo, with the remark: "I am sorry that you are forced to earn your living in so disreputable a way that such men as these exist at all."

Who Gets the Most Out of Life?

Not the wealthiest, not the most learned, nor the idler—but the man who has good health and works for his living. This truth is trite, but not trivial.

Every man should guard his health as his most valuable possession. The more so because health is easier to retain than regain.

Keep your grip on health by regular exercise, reasonable care in eating and requisite sleep. Take Beecham's Pills occasionally, to tone the stomach and keep the liver and bowels in good working order. And don't worry.

Observe these simple rules and you will agree that the one who gets the most from life is

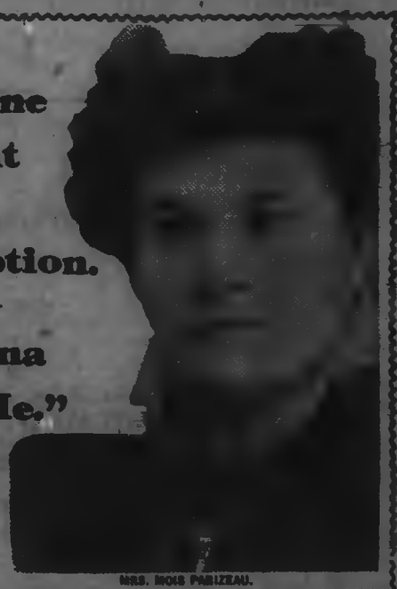
"Every One Thought I Had Consumption. Pe-ru-na Saved Me."



"I THANK DR. HARTMAN FOR PE-RU-NA."

MRS. MOIS PARIZEAU.

"I hardly know how to thank you for the good Peruna has done me.

"I suffered five years with pain in the stomach. About a year ago it became so bad I could hardly bear it. I coughed day and night and grew weaker and weaker. The pain extended through my body and I also had difficulty in breathing, which made me cough. Everyone thought I had consumption.

"My husband heard of Peruna and bought five bottles. This treatment virtually cured me and now I recommend Peruna to every one who is suffering.

"I thank Dr. Hartman for this excellent remedy."

Ste. Julie de Vercheres, P. Q., Canada. —Mrs. Mois Pariseau.

A NEGLECTED cold is generally the first cause of catarrh.

Women are especially liable to colds. These colds occur more frequently during the wet, sloppy weather of winter and spring than any other time of the year. Often they are not considered serious and are allowed to run on, or they are treated in such a way as to only palliate the symptoms, while the cold becomes more deep-seated and the patient finally awakens to the fact that she has a well-developed case of catarrh.

WOMEN SHOULD BEWARE OF CATCHING COLD.

By reason of their delicate structure, the lungs are frequently the seat of a cold, especially if there is the slightest weakness of these organs. The treatment of catarrh of the lungs is also more difficult and discouraging than catarrh of any other organ of the body.

It would be wise therefore, to guard against it by every precaution possible.

Peruna has been found the most reliable of all remedies for coughs, colds and catarrh, by reason of the fact that it goes at once to the very seat of the trouble.

It searches out every crevice, every duct of the body. It quickens and equalizes the circulation of the blood, thus relieving the congested mucous membranes. It exercises a healing and soothing effect upon the mucous membranes, no matter whether they are the more exposed membranes of the head and throat, or whether they line the remotest cells of the lungs.

W. G. Morrow, Esq.,
Agent Imperial Life Assurance Co.,
Peterborough.

Dear Sir:—I have received notification of the option available in respect to my ten-year Endowment Policy of $2000 which matured to-day and it affords me pleasure to say that I view with much satisfaction the results of my investment with your Company.

The substantial surplus which the Policy has earned in the comparatively short period of ten years makes the returns which would be made to me, under any of the options now open to my selection, most liberal and attractive.

It is greatly to the credit of the Company that after having granted me an Insurance of $2000 from the issue of the Policy in 1907 to the present time, it can now offer me under the cash value option a sum so greatly in excess of the total premium that I have paid into it, or under the paid up Insurance option, a paid up life Policy considerable more than double the amount of my original Policy.

Permit me to wish the Company a long continuance of its prosperity

Yours very truly,

J. R. STRATTON.

ENGLAND

During the motor show, which has just closed in London, a great amount of money was spent on illumination. Having gone thoroughly into the matter, the directors give the official figures as over £340 per day. In the evening, when all the lights were on, the cost to the consumers worked out at more than £1 a minute. Nearly a quarter of a million people visited the show.

The other night a band of Scottish fisher girls who had been at Yarmouth for the fishing season and were about to leave Great Yarmouth for the north, were entertained by the British and Foreign Sailors' Society to a service of fruit provided by the Princess Royal (Duchess of Fife). A telegram was read from the Princess Royal assuring them of her continued interest in their welfare.

A particularly mean case of theft was dealt with recently in a London police court. Maggie Stratton, who was sentenced to three months' hard labour at Marylebone, was described as a church pest. She attended the Roman Catholic Church in Spanish place, and while a lady worshipper was kneeling the thief picked up her satchel and walked out.

A novel departure in church matters has been made in a Coventry, Warwicks, church. "Come and bring your pipe with you" is the invitation issued to men attending the services on Sunday afternoons at the mission church of St. Michael's, in that town. The services are well attended and seem to be having a good effect.

At Dunstable, Bedford, the annual ceremony "riding the marches" was observed recently. At each point of the boundary the mayor was lifted and bumped on to the top of a post, then the aldermen were bumped and finally the superintendent of the police and the group of police officers were individually bumped.

One of the medical professors at Cardiff University College in Wales, has had the temerity to proclaim that the Welsh language is of no commercial value as compared with others, and that to learn it is so much time more or less wasted. When the professor met his pupils there was a strong Welsh demonstration.

At Wareham, Dorsetshire, man named Wellstead found four blind baby rabbits on his holding and took them home to his cat for food. Puss was nursing her one kitten, and instead of eating the rabbits she promoted to nurse them and under her fostering care they are doing well.

Following the example of the Metropolitan Police in acquiring a knowledge of jiu-jitsu, the Manchester Police authorities have arranged for their men to learn this style of wrestling so as to be better able to deal with violent prisoners.

The Rev. J O West chaplain of Bristol Workhouse, recently allowed the ex-hangman Berry to act as his deputy in the pulpit. At a meeting of the Bristol Guardians his conduct was very adversely criticised.

Red currants, strawberries and plums are growing for the second time this year in Aspley-gardens, Nottingham. Over 2 lb. of currants were pulled the other week.

About a hundred people, of whom only a few were Hindus, have formed themselves into a "Buddhist Society of Great Britain," in London.

IRELAND

A violent scene was enacted in a Galway district the other day. Mr. White Blake, an Irish landlord, and his mother were the victims of a daring shooting outrage while returning from mass at the parish chapel of Kilconieran. Mr. Blake has recently been at variance with the Irish Land League concerning a farm held by him from Lord Ardilaun. He was asked to relinquish this farm in order that it might be divided up to increase several holdings. No arrangement was come to, and Mr. Blake's cattle were driven off the land, and afterwards police protection for Mr. Blake became necessary. On their way home from church one Sunday morning Mr. Blake and his mother, followed by two policemen, were walking along what is known as the "Mass Path" from the chapel which leads to his own residence at Holly Park near Craughwell. When near a thick wood two shots rang out in quick succession and Mr. Blake was struck in about half a dozen places, and his mother was also wounded. Fortunately neither was seriously hurt. The officers at once rushed to the wood, each firing his revolver twice in the direction from which the first shots proceeded. Owing to the density of the undergrowth, however, they were unable to find any trace of the assailants. A crowd of people near the scene of the outrage loudly cheered the assailants.

Recently published figures go to show that Ireland as one reservoir of stored-up gold seems to have been overlooked in the recent crisis. According to a return issued by the Irish Department of Agriculture, not only are the savings of the people represented by the banking and statistics higher than ever before, but more money was put away in 1906 than in any previous year, and the bank deposits on June 30 of this year amounted to £48,067,000, an increase compared with 1906 of £2,225,000. The postoffice savings banks deposits amounted to £10,637,000, an increase of £6,000. Government funds amounted to £31,191,000, an increase of £2,239,000. Under the above four heads investments increased in 20 years from £64,950,000 to £109,391,000. Irish railway receipts in 1907 are also the highest on record.

One of the first British trades to be affected by the financial crisis in America is the Irish linen trade. The head of one of the largest Irish linen manufactories says that the travelling men are returning from America without orders, and those who have big establishments in the United States report that orders are very scarce. It certainly is new to most people to learn that the largest portion of the Irish linen manufactured goods is exported to America, and that the big firms which have London as well as New York houses regard their New York business as the more important of the two.

At Derry Recorder's Court, Dr. Todd, a solicitor, who was conducting agent for the Irish Solicitor-General at the North Tyrone election last February, obtained judgmnet against himself in an action to recover a £22 advertising account in favour of a local printing firm, which, Dr. Todd added, was not presented within a stautable period. In seeking to recover the amount from himself he was acting for his firm against himself. The Acting-Recorder at once granted a decree for the full amount.

SCOTLAND

Rev. Henry Williamson, of Dundee, is about to institute a crusade against the system of home lessons which obtains in Dundee. Parents have complained of what is a burden to themselves and a strain upon youthful intellects and eyes. Mr. Williamson considers that in many cases teachers relegate to home preparation what should be done in class and further there is a diversity of practice. Some teachers restrict the one short of a prodigy can go through home task to one, which, by a pupil of average intelligence, may be mastered in half an hour. Others give out work which must be performed under pain and penalty, which no inside of four hours. When there are domestic circumstances to be considered. In many households home conditions do not lend themselves to study. A table on which to write is not always available. Another aspect of the question is the strain put upon parents who try to assist the children.

The death of Sir Leopold McClintock has just been announced. Admiral Sir F. L. McClintock, was one of the best known of British Arctic explorers in the middle of the nineteenth century. He served in three Government expeditions between 1848 and 1854, which were despatched in search of Sir John Franklin, whose expedition vanished in the Arctic regions. His long quest closed with success as in 1857 he in 1857 he started in the yacht Fox, equipped by himself and Lady Franklin, and with this vessel in 1859, found the last traces of Franklin's ships and many relics of that expedition. He was commander-in-chief on the North American station in 1879-82, and shortly afterwards retired from the navy, and was appointed an Elder Brother of the Trinity House.

An angler of Sanquhar, Dumfriesshire, had a novel catch a few days ago. He was fishing with a fly, and the lure attracted a playful kitten, which was promptly hooked.

The opinion is gaining ground among German hygienic experts that the method of destroying germs in milk by heating it, which also kills the useful germs, should be abandoned in favor of a process based on the introduction of bacteria which destroy the disease germs only.

Mrs. Ida Husted has completed the writing of the third volume of the "Life and Work of Susan B. Anthony." It is expected that the book will be ready for circulation in February, Miss Anthony's birth month.

George E. Woodberry, who has just produced a new book, "The Appreciation of Literature," has taken up residence in a Massachusetts country town, where he is busying himself in literary work.

THE COOKBOOK.

Some housekeepers when preparing a fowl to roast rub it inside and out with sugar, stuff it as usual, and when done the meat is said to be much sweeter and juicier than if prepared in the old way.

When eggs are high priced an excellent substitute for them in pumpkin pies is to add soda crackers rolled fine, allowing two for each pie. They may be used instead of eggs, even when eggs are plenty and cheap.

The next time you make dumplings to add to stewed chicken instead of mixing them with water use some of the liquor in which the chicken has been cooked. The flavor is much richer. The same may be tested with good results when making a baked potpie, and the richness of the dough is delicious.

Those Horrid Bilious Spells

HAVE BECOME A HABIT—BUT YOU CAN BREAK UP THE HABIT BY USING

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

"It is nothing when you get used to it," is a common expression which many seem to apply to attacks of biliousness.

Year after year they suffer from frequent spells of bilious headache, indigestion, constipation followed by looseness of the bowels, dizziness, despondency and ill-temper, and the habit seems to have become so firmly established that they do not think of breaking the chains of bondage.

Why not make a break for liberty, health and happiness. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills stand ready to help you. They have helped thousands under just such circumstances to know again the joys of healthful living.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills cure biliousness by reason of their direct and specific action on the liver, causing the bile to be properly filtered from the blood, where it acts as a poison, and passed into the intestines where it is necessary to aid digestion and regulate the action of the bowels.

By this treatment you not only obtain relief from the attack, but bring about lasting cure, and prevent kidney disease, which is the usual outcome of neglected biliousness.

"I was suffering for years with stomach trouble and terrible headaches, and spent a good many dollars in medicine without receiving any benefit. Hearing Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills highly recommended, I determined to give them a trial and did so with most satisfactory results as I was very greatly benefitted, and do not hesitate to recommend this treatment as the best obtainable for such ailments." — Mrs. Thomas Covert, Highland Grove, Peterborough Co., Ont.

A WONDERFUL CURE OF RHEUMATISM

THE CAUSE An excess of uric acid and ureates are deposited in the tissues of the body and joints, causing aches and pains which are called rheumatic.

All the various causes of rheumatism, such as the acute, articular, muscular and gout, have the same common cause—Uric Acid.

To effect a satisfactory cure the uric acid must be removed. This can only be done by introducing into the circulation a remedy which will dissolve the uric acid and stimulate the action of the excretory organs.

No Case That Ferrozone Can't Cure

The remarkable success of Ferrozone is due to the fact that it attacks the disease in the blood. It goes right to the root and cause of the trouble.

Ferrozone is a perfect solvent for uric acid and quickly destroys its evil effect. It stimulates and quickens the sluggish circulation and drives every trace of rheumatic poison out of the system.

Rheumatism Can't Last If FERROZONE is Used.

We have conclusive proof of this. The strongest possible endorsements from people who have been cured after all else failed. If you suffer from rheumatism yourself, or in case you have a friend or relative subject to this disease, read the following—they tell their own tale.

LIFE-LONG CRIPPLE CURED

Mr. Louis Noll, 16 Fulton street, New York, N. Y., writes: "Ever since boyhood I have been a sufferer from rheumatism. My joints were twisted and swollen, and the pain at times was really intense. I used gallons of liniments, vapor baths, and other treatments, but was first noticeably relieved by Ferrozone. It cured me perfectly after taking twelve boxes."

Mr. Henry Hehr, Pharmacist, 23 Eldridge Ave., New York, vouches for Mr. Noll's absolute cure. He says: "Mr. Noll has been freed from chronic rheumatism by Ferrozone. For years he has not been so well, and today shows no signs of rheumatic trouble. It is a pleasure to recommend Ferrozone."

The BEST remedy for rheumatism that science has produced is Ferrozone—it is unquestionably the only sure and lasting cure. Sold everywhere by druggists. Price 50c per box or six boxes for $2.50—by mail to any address if price is forwarded to N. C. POLSON & CO., Kingston, Ont., and Hartford, Conn., U.S.A.

Dummer Temperance Man Tells About Local Option

He Has Made Many Enquiries—Figures Are Compiled as Evidence of The Effect

TAX LAW IS KEPT, HE SAYS

Dear Sir,—With reference to the effect of local option in Dummer township, where formerly we had two licenses, I wish to say that I have communicated by letter with each of the seven members of the Council, the president of the Farmers' Institute, three of the ministers, the principal of the village school, and most of the business men and merchants of the village of Warsaw in Dummer.

Out of 19 replies to hand by letter, 14 reply that local option is a benefit, 3 not a benefit, and 2 but little difference.

With regard to drinking done, out of the 19 replies only 2 thought there was more, and 13 that there was less drinking done then before, especially of late; and one who lives near the hotel said there was 75 per cent. less drinking done.

With regard to business, 8 claimed that it was somewhat improved and 8 that there was but little difference.

Nearly all agreed that property was about the same in value.

With reference to accommodation, 12 claimed that it was satisfactory, or at least no serious complaints; and the others made no complaint except that the price was higher. This above applies more particularly to the village of Warsaw, but some of the replies were from the surrounding parts of the township.

In the rural section of the township where I live, on one of the main thoroughfares, I used to see the loads of liquor or beer in cases and kegs going by here quite often on their way to the summer hotel with a six months' license, at McCracken's Landing; but since the local option law came into force a year ago last May, I don't remember seeing one load go by here. Also I have not heard of any person getting intoxicated in the township since the law passed, although some beer is brought in in kegs, but I have not learned of any illicit liquor selling going on. The former hotelkeeper at Warsaw is now engaged in farming, at which he seems to be doing well, and his family are much benefited by the change. One business man in Warsaw told me that he believed that if local option was voted on again, that there would be more vote for it than before. The majority for local option ten years ago was only three, but two years ago it was 162.

I could give much more favorable testimony to the benefits of local option, but space forbids. Personally I think one of the chief advantages of local option is in creating a public sentiment favorable to temperance. In a contest of any kind the best thing to do is that which our opponents least desire; and in this case it is to vote for local option when we have the opportunity on polling day; for the brewers and liquor sellers and their followers consistently and strenuously oppose local option at all times, because it hurts their business.

Yours respectfully,
W. F. PAYNE,
Hall's Glen, Ont.

Formerly secretary of the township Temperance organization in the referendum campaign.

HISTORY OF GUARDIANS OF PRAIRIES; INCIDENTS IN THEIR EVENTFUL LIVES

ficer pursued this outlaw, for several days and at last came upon him as he shot a prairie chicken. The sergeant instructed the scout to tell the Indian they had come to arrest him. The Cree shouted back, "Tell him if he advances I will kill him." The scout brought his carbine to his shoulder and was about to shoot the Cree, but Colbrook interfered, his instructions being to arrest; not to kill.

Without further conversation the sergeant rode towards the Indian, who warned him as he advanced of his peril. Colbrook paid not heed and rode on. The Indian was desperate and shot the heroic policeman through the heart.

Two months later the Cree, accompanied by two other outlaws, was surrounded on a rise near Duck Lake. Field guns were brought from Regina, the hill surrounded, and the attack on the trio was commenced in earnest, and after two constables and a Prince Albert resident had been killed, Almighty Voice and his notorious companions went to their account by the bursting of a shell.

In a Prairie Fire

Another story is told of a corporal on patrol who tried to save a family from the clutches of a prairie fire. He reached the house of the rancher, and with the help of the older members of his family made what is called a back fire. The flames jumped the back fire as he was getting the family to a nearby slough. He then ordered them to gather round him, and picking up the little child in his arms he rushed through the thinnest part of the flames. In this operation the heroic corporal had his coat burned off his back, his hands and face blistered, and was nearly suffocated.

Only a few years ago a young lad of good family, who was used to carry despatches, set out one day in a blinding blizzard. Days slid into weeks and weeks into months, but no tidings were received of the unfortunate constable. In the spring when the snow had disappeared from the ground and the prairies became green once more, a patrol entering a secluded coulee found the storm-worn uniform of the force encasing the bones of the noble courier. On his orders, which were found in his pocket, were scrawled these few brief sentences, "Lost. Horse dead. Am trying to push ahead. Have done my best." It is likely that the young man wrote the last sentence as he sunk on the snow-covered ground exhausted. These stories are indications of the high sense of duty and honour known to this famous body of soldier police.

There are stories of daring and danger told day after day in the barrack rooms by old constables of the force who have braved the blizzards of the Canadian prairie year after year. These men love the force, but when their old days come they settle down on a farm, but always look back with pleasure on the grand old days spent on duty, and in the barracks of the Royal North west Mounted Police.

TO KILL THE DANDRUFF GERM

Is the Only Possible way of Having an Effective Cure

If you see a woman or a man with luxuriant glossy hair, you may be sure neither has dandruff to amount to anything. In nearly every case where women and men have thin, brittle hair, they owe it to dandruff. There are hundreds of preparations that "claim" to cure dandruff, but not one but Newbro's Herpicide tells you that dandruff is the result of a germ burrowing into the scalp, and that permanent cure of dandruff and its consequent falling hair and baldness, can only be had by killing the germ; and there is no other preparation that will destroy that germ but Newbro's Herpicide. "Destroy the cause you remove the effect." Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Two sizes—50c and $1. The Market Drug Store, Special Agents.

THE UNIFORMS OF THE STRATHCONAS

Handsome Suits of Red and White Have Arrived

The new uniforms ordered by the Peterborough Strathcona O. H. A. team from Messrs. Merrill & Meredith have arrived in the city and will likely be on exhibition in the window of that establishment. The Straths will have one of the neatest and most showy uniforms that has been seen here for some time. The body of the sweater is of white with neck and cuffs off red. A red sash runs diagonally across the sweater bearing the legend "Strathconas." The O. H. A. team will therefore wear red and white this year instead of the familiar old blue and white. This is owing to the fact that the red and white uniforms were ordered before the fact that the club was to play O.H.A. was known.

Why Beauty Fades

Real beauty is rare. It belongs to perfect health. Just as soon as the blood gets thin and watery, and the nerves become exhausted, beauty fades, wrinkles show themselves, and the glow of health disappears and beauty curves give place to leanness and angles. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the great blood builder and nerve restorative, is woman's greatest blessing from youth to old age. A few weeks' use of this treatment will do wonders for any woman who is pale, thin, weak and nervous.

IS RHEUMATISM A CURABLE NOW?

Science Proves It a Symptom of Kidney Trouble and Easily Relieved

GIVES THIS RECIPE TO YOU

Recent hospital records show that the dread disease, rheumatism, is steadily increasing throughout the country. All known means of relief are being suggested to save the great amount of suffering this winter, especially among those who are not in a position to pack up and visit the noted health resorts to be treated. Recent tests prove rheumatism not exactly a disease in itself, but a severe symptom of kidney trouble, a condition caused by clogged-up pores of the eliminative tissues in the kidneys, which fail to filter the poisonous waste matter and uric acid from the blood, permitting these substances to remain in the veins and decompose, usually settling about the joints and muscles, causing the intense pain, swelling and stiffness of rheumatism.

There are numerous remedies known which many persons believe will relieve this suffering—salicilate of soda, colchicum, potash, etc.—but these drugs are terribly hard on the stomach, often ruining this most important organ, and they fail as often as they relieve.

A well-known specialist, who has probably treated more cases of rheumatism than anyone else, and who is also the most successful, gives the following simple treatment, which is harmless and inexpensive, and so simple that anybody can mix it at home.

The ingredients are: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Go to any good prescription pharmacy and get these three vegetable ingredients and mix them by shaking in a bottle, taking as a dose a teaspoonful after each meal and again at bedtime.

There is nothing better for the world for backache, kidney and bladder trouble, too. Such symptoms as frequent and painful urination, soreness, weakness, general and nervous debility are caused by certain acids and poisonous waste matter, decayed tissue, etc., in the blood, which the kidneys will clear and purify after a few doses of this prescription. No. 13.

ST. PAUL'S IN PERIL

Signs of Weakness Shown in the Cathedral Dome and Towers.

Subterranean dangers to London's famous cathedral were dealt with in an important paper read by Mr. Mervyn Macartney, surveyor to the fabric of St. Paul's, recently to the Royal Institute of British Architects. Mr. Macartney laid special stress on the danger which would threaten the cathedral if the County Council sewer were constructed near to it, and urged the adoption of another route in order to guard against risk.

The main points of weakness, it was pointed out, are the dome, the south transept, and the western towers and portico. The settlement of the dome shows that, in spite of the care with which Wren spread the weight, the centre of the great mass has sunk, and is now severed from the surrounding masses. The dome is carried on eight great piers about thirty feet long; those at the crypt are connected with the bastion-like masses at the angles of transepts with nave and choir by long barrel vaults; these are in every case cracked through. Moreover, these great piers have not sunk equally, those on the south side connecting with the south transept being lower than the others; and of these the westernmost have descended bodily over six inches.

At the west front the two towers are out of the perpendicular, and the portico, which has been said to be the only flimsy piece of construction in the cathedral, has followed the direction of the towers, and, in addition, has moved westwards. These inclinations are sufficient in themselves to jeopardise the safety of the two wide arches of the portico between the towers.

Walls and foundations, however, are sound, and all observations tend to prove that the danger to the cathedral comes from subterranean or atmospheric influences. Interference with the subsoil was clearly not contemplated by Wren, and without it the danger to the cathedral may even now, Mr. Macartney considers, be reduced to a minimum.

HON. J. J. FOY INVITED TO LECTURE BEFORE THE ANCIENT ORDER OF HIBERNIANS

The Ancient Order of Hibernians are making arrangements for a social night which will probably be held on Jan. 10th. The affair will take the form of a lecture and the Hon. J. J. Foy, K.C., Attorney General for Ontario has been invited but no definite word has been received from him as to whether he will be able to accept the invitation. It is the intention of the committee to make the occasion a pleasant one which will be enjoyed by those who will have the opportunity of being present.

It is hoped by the committee that Hon. Mr. Foy will speak before the Society as he has not as yet appeared before a Peterborough audience. He is reported to be an able speaker who is thoroughly conversant with the important current subjects of general interest.

A TRAGEDY DISTURBS THE QUIETNESS OF THE LITTLE VILLAGE OF GOODERHAM

Examiner Special.

Lindsay, Dec. 28.—The little village of Gooderham, in Haliburton county, was the scene of a vicious stabbing affair on Christmas Eve, wherein a young man named Roland Madill received injuries which may prove fatal. Among the arrivals from the camps was Roland Madill, 23 years of age, who was on his way to his home in Monmouth township, seven miles distant, where a wife and children were awaiting him. During his stay he met his uncle, James Morrison, a married man, aged about 50 years, whose home is in the village, and whilst the two were conversing in front of Barr's general store Morrison became suddenly enraged and attacked his nephew with a knife, inflicting five deep wounds before help arrived, two in the side, one in the back, and two in the shoulder. The weapon used was a hunter's knife, having a long blade.

The wounded man was carried into the nearest house and a doctor sent for, who found it difficult to stanch the flow of blood. In the meantime Constable John Kennedy arrested Morrison. There being no lock-up in the village, he was compelled to confine the prisoner in a room in his own dwelling.

The wounded man was brought to the Ross Hospital, Lindsay, and is in a critical condition. No theory can be advanced as to the cause of the deadly assault.

MUNICIPAL PRANCE WILL BE STARTED ON MONDAY MORNING

Monday will be nomination day, and it is expected that there will be unusual interest displayed in the event this year, owing to the contest for the Mayoralty, and the fact that there is likely to be a large field in the aldermanic race. Nominations will be received by City Clerk Armstrong, in the council chamber, as usual.

From ten to eleven o'clock nominations will be received for Mayor, Water Commissioners and Board of Education. The hour from 11 to 12, will be devoted to speaking, if the candidates see fit to so use it. The nominations for aldermen will take place between 12 and 1 o'clock.

One Water Commissioner is to be elected, owing to the fact that Mr. W. H. Hill's term of office is at an end. Mr. Hill will be a candidate again, and will likely go in by acclimation, as there is no talk or opposition.

Widower Who Wants a Wife

Next year is leap year again and it may be a welcome one to the women who are awaiting opportunities. Here is one to begin with. A widower in Hoisington, Kansas, has written to a local lady whom he believed to be a widow, making a proposal. His calculations, however, have been astray. The letter of proposal refers to a photograph of a Peterborough woman in a Yankee paper, but it was not the picture of the person who has received the letter and whose husband is a well known citizen of Peterborough. The letter reads:

Dear Madam,—I saw your picture in the Johnson catalogue. Pardon me for addressing you. I am writing this note, thinking perhaps you might be a widow. If you are, I would like to correspond with you. I am a widower and well supplied with this world's goods. Hoping to hear from you soon, if single, I am,

Very truly,

THE WATER COMMISSIONERS MAKE STATEMENT REGARDING THE BY-LAW TO BE VOTED ON NEXT ELECTION DAY

They Believe That All Property Passed by Water Mains Should Be Taxed

MEANING OF THE BY-LAW

The Water Commissioners have handed to the Examiner for publication the following explanatory statement in reference to the by-law to provide for levying water rates upon all property past which water mains run:

The Water Commissioners think it well to place before the ratepayers a short statement of the objects to be attained by the by-law that has been published and which is to be submitted to them to be voted upon, on election day.

The intention is, that property fronted by a water main shall contribute towards the cost of such main, an annual sum that bears a just rate to the value conferred on the property by the main. In the past much property (particularly vacant lots), thus benefited, has paid nothing whatever towards the large expense of laying the main, but such expense has had to be borne by the general water users. The Commissioners consider this to be an injustice, which the by-law will greatly if not altogether remedy. By thus placing the burden where it should be, the Commissioners feel that they will be able to increase the present discount of twenty-five per cent. on the rates to thirty-three and one-third per cent., which will effect a considerable saving to water consumers; thus, a twelve dollar water rate with twenty-five per cent. discount is nine dollars net, and with thirty-three and one-third per cent. discount, is eight dollars net.

The special rate in the by-law, as will be observed, is four and one-half cents per running foot, which, reduced by thirty-three and one-third per cent. discount for prompt payment will be three cents per foot net, and a thirty foot lot will pay ninety cents per year, with this proviso, however, that if the owner or occupant pays for the use of water for the same property ninety cents or over, the front foot rate will be cancelled and only the water rate collected, but if no water rate is paid the front foot rate will be collected. If the front foot rate is greater than the water rate paid, the excess of the former over the latter will also be paid.

The Commissioners are not aware of a single case in the city where if a water rate is paid at all, it will not for the same property be in excess of the special rate, and when as pointed out there will only be the water rate less its discount to be paid.

In short the object of the Commissioners is to cause vacant land fronted by a water main and thus enhanced in value, to pay a fair share of its cost, and likewise to compel occupied property where the owner refuses to take water, to pay the frontage rate.

The Commissioners have given this matter much consideration and are of opinion that the by-law is in the interests of the city generally, and hope it may pass.

All ratepayers have the right to vote upon the by-law.

Signed,
T. F. MATTHEWS,
W. H. HILL,
W. H. MOORE,
Water Commissioners.

CANADA, AS IT WAS DESCRIBED BY THE GEOGRAPHIES IN THE YEAR 1805

In an "Introduction to Geography—Fourth Edition, much improved, by John Sharman, Dublin, 1805," the following extract relating to Canada, is found. This reference to this country, as it was then regarded, will be read with great interest, as an example of how Canada was known and regarded a hundred years ago. The contrast with existing conditions will be interesting. The reference to Canada is verbatim et literatim, as follows:

How is Canada bounded? Canada is bounded on the north by New Britain, James Bay, and New South Wales; on the east by the Gulph of St. Lawrence, New England and New York; on the south by Lakes Ontario, Erie, Huron and Superior; and on the west by New South Wales. The climate is cold, but the soil very good, producing corn, fruits, tobacco, etc. Quebec is the capital of Lower and Montreal of Upper, Canada, both seated on the St. Lawrence River; it belongs to Great Britain."

A CAVENDISH MAN ARRESTED AND CHARGED WITH DRAWING A GUN ON ONE OF HIS BOARDERS

Hector Smith Laid the Complaint —The Accused Tried And Remanded Until Jan. 6th

FOUND IN CITY TO-DAY

Hector Smith, a Cavendish farmer who has been boarding with a man named Moncrief, claims his life is in danger. A couple of days ago, according to Smith, Moncrief told him he would have to get a new boarding house. To this Smith agreed.

One of Mr. Moncrief's daughters asked Smith to hitch up his horse and go for the mail, which he says he did. Coming back to the house, he entered the kitchen with the mail, when Moncrief made a dash at him and a tussle followed. The lodge-keeper got the worst of it, says Smith, and went to his bedroom, where he pulled a revolver on him. The latter ran out the door and hid behind the stump of a tree some feet from the house. Moncrief came out with a double-barrelled gun under his arm. He asked a boy where Smith was, and getting an unfavourable reply, he went into the house and is said to have told his daughter that he would always keep a loaded revolver around the house, and that if Smith ever passed along that roadway again he would blow his brains out.

Smith was in the city to-day and gave the above information to a reporter. About 3 o'clock Moncrief was arrested by Constables Cochrane and Moore and was given a hearing by Magistrate Edmison, and lodged in the county jail to await his trial on January 6.

TWO MORE DAYS FOR EXAMINER NEWSBOYS

The Examiner Newsboys' Competition will close on Tuesday night, December 31st, and on New Year's morning the prizes will be divided among the most successful workers in the campaign. The contest has been a most successful one, the boys having worked faithfully since its opening. However, there are two more days in which the work may be carried out, and which may yet bring a victory to one or more. Remember that the announcements will be made on New Year's morning.

THE NORWOOD HOCKEY CLUB'S BALL

Attended by Large Number Who Had Enjoyable Time

Mr. Archie Moore attended the ball given by the Norwood Hockey Club in the town hall there last night, and returned this morning. The affair was very successful, about fifty couples being in attendance, including people from Peterborough, Hastings and Havelock. Mr. Moore acted as director of ceremonies in a manner that greatly pleased the dancers. Freeman's orchestra supplied the music.

ANOTHER CASE WHERE THE LETTER WAS LATE

And Mr. Hayes Misses Opportunity To See the Engineer

Last night the Examiner published a complaint from Messrs. Duncan & Doupe, in regard to an important letter which they did not receive until too late to be of any use and now another case of the same kind has come to light. Mr. J E Hayes, the local contractor, received a letter from a government engineer which, according to the post marks was posted at Ottawa on Dec. 21, and received at Peterborough on Dec. 22nd. The letter was to the effect that the engineer wished to see Mr. Hayes in Peterborough two days ago about an important matter, and as a result of not receiving the letter which was marked "On His Majesty's Service" Mr. Hayes failed to see the engineer. The communication was here five days before being delivered.

BUILDING PERMITS ARE GOING OUT SLOW

Since the review of the building operations published by the Examiner a few weeks ago only three building permits have been issued at the city clerk's office. This is, however, the slackest time of the year for the building trades and the time will not be long in rolling around until there will be another rush in this department of the city's business, which was successfully instituted this year. Since the last list printed a permit has been issued to Mrs. Crowley, 736 Water street, for the erection of a new verandah on her residence to cost $40, to Mr John Craig, 360 Park street for repairs to dwelling, at a total cost of $200, and to Mr. George Curtis, who is erecting a new dwelling on Edinburgh street. The cost of the building will be about $1,200.

CARD OF SYMPATHY

Bridgenorth, Ont,
December 16th, 1907.

To Mr. and Mrs. John Belleghem, Bridgenorth, Ontario.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Belleghem,—I have been instructed by Court Bridgenorth, No. 815, Canadian Order of Foresters, to convey to you and to the members of your family, our heartfelt sympathies, on account of the sad and sudden death of your beloved son, Brother W. Belleghem. We passed a resolution of condolence at our Court on December 12th, 1907, expressing the high esteem and fraternal regard in which he was held by all the members of this Court, during the short time he was amongst us.

We feel you have met with a great loss, but what is your loss is his eternal gain and we hope and trust when the call comes to you, "that you may also be prepared to meet your Saviour and all loved ones, who have gone before and who are now enjoying the blessings of that Heavenly Home. The stately ships go on to their haven under the hill,
But oh, the touch of a vanished hand, and the sound of a voice that is still"

Signed on behalf of the Court,
R. F. SMITH,
Recording Secretary.

THE WATER WORKS BYLAW

The signed statement of the Water Commissioners printed in another place in this issue is worthy of extremely careful perusal. It concerns a bylaw, which is to be submitted to vote at the coming municipal elections, which, if passed, will affect every property owner in the city. It will permit of the increase of the discount made for prompt payment to 33 1-3 per cent. which means that to satisfy a bill of $1.00 for water rates, only 66 2-3 cents will have to be paid. This is made possible by the fact that the revenue will be increased by the payment of a frontage water rate by all property passed by the water mains, whether the owners or occupants are or are not actual consumers. This additional revenue will justify the increase of the discount and the lessening of the net cost of water to all consumers. The frontage tax does not seem to be any injustice, for it will be admitted that the value of vacant property is enhanced by the presence of water mains, as it would be by the presence of sewers. The matter is, however, in the hands of the ratepayers and the adoption or rejection of the bylaw will depend upon their decision at the polls. Every one interested, and that includes almost every citizen, is invited to read the statement of the commissioners referred to. They at least are entitled to be heard. From the excellent manner in which they have managed the Water Works in the interests of the public, they have shown that they have a real concern in promoting the interests of the citizens. It may be concluded that the commissioners feel that these interests will be better served by the adoption of the bylaw. The sincerity of their feeling cannot be questioned and the fact of their being in favour of the adoption of the bylaw establishes a strong prima facie case. As remarked their past successful management, shows that they have the interests of the Water Works and the welfare of the citizens at heart. They have give further evidence of their interest by submitting the statement referred to, which clearly explains the scope and meaning of the bylaw, much more clearly than its text, with its meaning rather obscured than clarified, by abstruse legal verbiage. It is to be hoped that the ratepayers will serve their own interests by a careful study of the letter of the commissioners which it appears should convince them that they can make and will make, no mistake in passing the bylaw. Whatever justifiable pride we may have in our Water Works System management and results is pretty sure to be enhanced by an endorsation of the advanced policy of the commissioners, as implied in the bylaw.

THE PEOPLE WANT SOMETHING

The result of the recent Dominion bye-elections has been the rejection of the Conservatives' programme. With such a programme of plausibility and opportunism, the Conservatives' want of success is not a surprise. Especially when to this is added the fact of the party being split into contending factions, with prominent members quarrelling with each other. The support of the electorate cannot be expected. The people at large may, on both sides, be influenced—to an undesirable extent—by partisan considerations; but there is a preponderating body of the electors who have a real interest in the good of the country, who are desirous of good government, and are willing to give their support to whichever party provides and insures good government and capable administration of public affairs. With such a feeling, how can the electorate be expected to endorse the record of the Conservative party and entrust it with the task of governing the country, which is now well governed and prosperous. In sharp contrast with previously prevailing conditions of both kinds? Men who have once betrayed a trust, and even betrayed their co-workers, cannot, except under exceptional conditions, expect a renewal of confidence. It is true that the people overlooked the shortcomings of the late Sir John Macdonald. But he appealed to them upon a platform which was popular, and to secure the advantages, the people were led to believe would accrue to the country by the application of that platform, the public forgave much, and trusted a man whose programme showed real ability for the administration of a positive policy. For Sir John's platform was positive and progressive in terms and intention. It was a tremendous contrast to the policy of "ifs," "buts" and "providens," that are woven into the web of Mr. Borden's "policy of platitudes," which appeals little to the public spirit. Especially when its inherent ineffectiveness and weakness are intensified by the circumstance that in the application of this policy Mr. Borden is to be supported by a divided parliamentary following, more intent upon advancing the personal ambitions of its leading members than upon providing an administration in the interests of the country. To secure their support of a party or party leader, the people want something—something positive and promising of good results. They cannot grow enthusiastic over a policy like that of Mr. Borden, which contains little of definite character, much that is unpractical, more that is impracticable, and some things which are vicious in their tendencies.

MUNICIPAL MATTERS

The people are apt to complain, and are justified in complaining, if the administration of civic affairs is not satisfactory. While this may, primarily, be laid to the charge of the representatives of the city, yet, haps, the electors are themselves to blame. They do not take the interest in municipal matters that should be taken. They seem to content themselves with electing those who offer, and they consider their duty done. They fail to follow up the course, and watch the acts, of the aldermen, and merely content themselves with grappling with unsatisfactory results. The people do not seem to get into touch with their representatives. They fail to come into effective personal contact with the aldermen, and, therefore, fail to impress the latter with the public sense of their failure to provide administration in the interests of the public. There is too great public apathy over the important matter of aldermanic representation. We are within practically a day of nomination, and no new aldermanic candidates have declared themselves, or have been brought out. When the citizens and business men, who are especially affected, by good or bad civic administration, show such indifference, they cannot complain if the resulting council board does not prove satisfactory.

EDITORIAL NOTES

A Conservative speaker in the West says that the Laurier Government came into being by accident. It has developed into a happy chapter of accidents, anyway.

The Conservative Opposition makes molehills of matter into mountains of mendacity over what it calls the "land and timber scandals." A speech made in Centre York by Mr. J. G. Turriff, M.P., showed that while the Conservatives gave away 29,500 square miles of timber limits and only received $127,000 in return, this Government has disposed of only 3,600 square miles, but for that has obtained $245,000. Comment is superfluous.

Statistics show that Canada is the most sober country in the world. We are the most prosperous and happiest people under the sun, too; in fact, without offensive boasting, we may claim that we are the people. With sobriety and reasonable industry, there in general happiness and comfort and no suffering from privation, except, perhaps, by the wilfully vicious. In no country in the world, possibly, is there such a general distribution of comfortable conditions of living with such a generally high average of morality and intelligence.

The enforcement of the Sunday law in St. Louis, U. S., has resulted in the closing of 700 out of the city's 2,300 saloons. A business which cannot thrive with the same privileges as any other business; which cannot conform to the requirements of Christian civilization by the observance of the day universally consecrated to rest, should go to the wall. Saloons do not represent a productive enterprise, nor one resulting in benefit to the community in which they operate, and they should not ask favours which are denied to more beneficial forms of business.

FEATHERED ANGLERS.

How the Great Heron Stabs Fish With Its Lancelike Bill.

While the kingfisher feeds by day, the great heron begins his fishing at dusk just as the stars peep forth. When I am about to make the last few casts and stop fishing in a trout pool I hear the loud whiz of his vast stretch of wings passing close by, flying low to a favorite shallow part of the river, and down drop his long legs, and he settles right down to business, motionless as a stone. Sometimes for half an hour not a feather moves.

He watches with unwearied patience. When he does strike it is as quick and as sure as fate, for the first luckless fish that approaches within his reach is seized with surprising dexterity. Like the kingfisher, the heron beats to death those fish of larger size, swallowing them whole, headforemost, such being their uniform positions when found in the stomach. He will then at once assume the same attitude of silent watchfulness, and the finny tribe, though frightened at his first dash among them, return again in a short interval only to be transfixed with his long lance shaped bill.

Hornaday's "Natural History" says: "When a heron is fishing it stalks slowly and silently along the shore, preferably in water about six inches deep, its head carried well forward, but about on a level with its shoulders, while its big eyes keenly scrutinize every object in the water. It takes long steps and plants each foot softly in the true still hunter fashion to avoid alarming its game. When a fish is found within range the kinks of the neck fly straight and the fish is seized between the mandibles. The fish is not stabbed through and through."

This latter statement is only correct when small fish are taken. I have it on expert authority that herons repeatedly stab large trout up to two pounds in weight, making a hole in the back large enough to insert the thumb.—Louis Rhead in Recreation.

THOUGHT HIM A SPY.

An English Official's Narrow Escape in France in 1870.

The thrilling adventure which befell Captain Haworth, one of Queen Victoria's messengers, vividly illustrates the perils of the diplomatic service when a member of that corps is traversing a country where the storm and stress of war is raging.

It was during the Franco-German war, and Captain Haworth was on his way home charged with dispatches from the English ambassador, then at Tours. He got as far as the town of Le Mans, when something suggested to the excited townsfolk the idea that he was a Prussian spy.

He was arrested, carried before the juge de paix and required to give an account of himself. He explained that he was in the service of the British government and produced his credentials. He was then asked to show the contents of the little bag which, as he affirmed, contained his official dispatches. This he absolutely refused to do, though he showed them the government label and seal.

His refusal was thought suspicious, and he was plainly told that unless he could produce some more satisfactory evidence he must be prepared to die. The unlucky messenger was actually led away for execution and was saved only by some little glimmering of common sense in the captain of the guard he was committed to.

This officer remonstrated with his prisoner on the folly of refusing to satisfy the court by submitting his papers to their inspection. Captain Haworth told him that their bullets should go through that bag and his breast at the same time and that then they would have to reckon with the British government. The officer seemed to be impressed and sent him back to the authorities. After further parley the Englishman was ordered to clear out of the town with all speed, an order which he did his best to comply with.

Dog Attacks Lion.

A story of a heroic fox terrier that saved its master's life by attacking an enraged and wounded lion comes from Rhodesia.

While out shooting at Lomagundi, a settler named Marsh, accompanied by a fox terrier, encountered a fine male lion. A rifle bullet rolled the huge brute over, and it lay, to all appearances, dead.

But as Marsh approached it, the lion leaped upon its assailant, knocked him down, and severely mauled him.

The terrier pluckily rushed upon the beast and worried it so much that the lion was compelled to turn upon its tormentor. This gave the man an opportunity to reload his gun and shoot the lion dead with a bullet through its brain.

Marsh was conveyed to a hospital in a serious condition.

The Reason.

"Well, well," surprisedly commented the patent churn man as the village brass band tore rapidly past, smashing out tintinnabulatory strains as they went, "those fellows are pretty nearly on a dead run! What makes them march so fast?"

"Trying to get away from the music, I guess," replied the landlord of the Pruntytown tavern, who was a pessimistic old grouch, anyhow.

How Local Option Hurts Owen Sound

Creates Discord
Increases Drunkenness
Harms Business
Promotes Disorder

"I CONSIDER Local Option detrimental to the best interests of the town from a business point of view, as it has created discord and set up one portion of the town against the other. From a moral or temperance standpoint, I consider it the worst blow the temperance cause ever had in the town. I believe it will take a great many years before the sympathy of the people as a whole can again be secured through temperance movements, such as we had before Local Option was carried. It has created more drinking among young men than there ever was in town under a good license system. The arguments advanced when Local Option was advocated that the working classes would have more money to spend in foodstuffs have been proven to be absolutely wrong, as it has not been the case at all."

HOME RULE FOR INDIA.

National Congress at Surat Broke Up With Free Fight.

Surat, Bombay Dec. 28.—After two days of futile efforts to elect a president, the Indian National Congress broke up yesterday afternoon in a free fight, during which the police had to be called in.

The congress, which meets annually, was of especial interest this year owing to the agitation for home rule in India. When the delegates assembled Thursday the Moderates and Extremists at once locked horns on this issue, and the meeting was adjourned amid much disorder.

When the delegates reassembled yesterday their overheated passions broke loose a second time, and the platform from which moderation and constitutional action had been advised was rushed by the Extremists in a body, who loudly demanded the speedy establishment of complete home rule.

Chairs and tables were broken in the scrimmage and table legs and other pieces of shattered furniture were used by the delegates as bludgeons upon each other.

The fighting became fierce and many delegates sustained serious injuries before the police finally came in and cleared the hall.

POINTED GUN FOR JOKE.

Terrace Wept Bitterly When He Heard Old Man Was Dead.

Brampton, Dec. 28.—When John Terrace recovered consciousness and was told that William Curry was dead, he broke down and wept.

He was preparing to go to bed, he declares, when "for a bit of foolery," he pointed the gun at James Curry.

Curry answered him sharply, and the old man came to the door of his bedroom in his nightdress and asked what the quarrel was about. Terrace states he answered him that there was no quarrel at all, and to go back, but that the old gentleman rushed up close to him and the younger man knocked the weapon up in his hands. In doing so the gun was discharged, the shot entering the left breast of the old man.

He declares he had no intention of harming anybody.

Terrace arrived in Canada from Welsen-on-Tyne only Dec. 4. He has a wife and two children in England.

The Toronto immigration officials recall that Terrace arrived here Dec. 4, dead broke, having been robbed while on his way over on the steamship Manitoba. The next day he was engaged by James Curry.

POND MYSTERY UNSOLVED.

Newark Citizens Cannot Identify the Beautiful Woman's Body.

New York, Dec. 28.—While the mystery surrounding the circumstances of the murder of the unknown young woman whose body was found nearly submerged in a pond on the outskirts of Harrison, N.J., appears no nearer solution than when the body was discovered, the theory which the detectives are now working on is that the woman came to her death in Newark and her body carried to the lonely pond, that the real scene of the crime and the identity of the slayer might be concealed.

The Newark police are searching for the slayer, who is believed to have met the young woman by appointment in Newark, and then lured her to her death. Evidence was obtained yesterday that the woman was seen in Newark on Christmas evening.

Prisoners Had a Hot Time.

Kingston, Dec. 28.—All Christmas night there was a hot time in the penitentiary. The prisoners kept pounding in their cells and sang, "We'll Hang O'Leary on a Sour Apple Tree."

The guards were powerless to silence them, and they contented themselves with marking 27 for the dungeon, but as there are only 11 cells in the dark place, the prison of isolation, closed for some time, had to be opened for the surplus offenders.

Thomas Murphy attempted to commit suicide in the Queen's Hotel on Thursday night by taking carbolic acid. Medical aid may have saved his life.

Steamship Mount Royal Overdue.

St. John, N. B., Dec. 28.—There is much uneasiness in this port over the non-arrival of the C. P. R. steamship Mount Royal, seven days overdue from Antwerp.

Officials here believe some word would be received yesterday, but they were disappointed. The Lake Michigan, which left Antwerp five days after the Mount Royal, arrived here Thursday, but did not see her.

The captain of the Lake Michigan says the passage out was very rough, gales and terrific seas being encountered all the way across.

Caught by Sewer Cave-in.

Galt, Dec. 28.—By the cave-in of a sewer yesterday, Joseph Gear, an Englishman, sustained probably fatal injuries. He leaves a wife and family in England.

Supreme Court Adejurns.

Spanking does not cure children of bed-wetting. There is a constitutional cause for this trouble. Mrs. M. Summers, Box W. 61, Windsor, Ont., will send free to any mother her successful home treatment, with full instructions. Send no money, but write her to-day if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child; the chances are it can't help it. This treatment also cures adults and aged people troubled with urine difficulties by day or night. 4

Poor Children of The City Thoroughly Happy Last Night

The Christmas Tree Entertainment Under Auspices of the Children's Aid Society Was a Success—Moving Pictures and Music by The Band

MANY GIFTS PRESENTED

Anyone who was present at the Christmas tree entertainment held in the market hall last night, under the auspices of the Children's Aid Society, could not fail to see that for once in their lives at least the three hundred or more children that were in attendance were thoroughly happy. So much could be seen from the bright faces and the joyous laughter which rang out in the big hall. The poverty of their homes and the fact that they were not as richly clad as some of their neighbours was forgotten by the little tots in their wonder at the moving pictures, their delight in the music and their anticipative excitement in connection with the Christmas tree.

The affair was arranged by the Children's Aid Society, with the co-operation of every church in the city, which had representatives on the committee. The result of this undenominational policy was that poor children from all parts of the city were present and none were missed who wanted to come. With the children came their mothers, and they too, seemed to find a new happiness in the enjoyment of the little ones. Fathers were not so plentiful, but here and there throughout the hall was one of the sterner sex, apparently enjoying the programme as much as any of the children.

That the little ones were delighted could not be doubted. Considering their large numbers they were very orderly and although they shouted with laughter at the pictures and greeted the arrival of Santa Claus with hilarity and delight, there was no confusion. Long before seven o'clock, the hour set for commencing the programme, the little folks had begun to gather and were warmly welcomed by the officers and members of the committee, nearly all of whom were present and with tact and kindness made the little ones and their parents feel thoroughly at home.

The first part of the programme consisted of the showing of a number of moving pictures, the films for which were very kindly supplied by Mr. Edwards, proprietor of the Crystal, while the lantern for showing them was furnished by the Radial Railway Company. Mr. Herb. Fife operated the machine with satisfaction and the pictures, which included views on an ostrich farm and an amusing automobiling series, were a source of great pleasure to the children, who showed it by their laughter and applause.

The Salvation Army Band sacrificed a night from the scrubbing campaign to be present at the affair and their kindness is much appreciated by those in charge. The band was in full strength and under the leadership of Mr. J. M. Greene, rendered a choice programme that thoroughly pleased the children and their friends.

Perhaps the biggest event of the evening, from the children's standpoint, was the distribution of gifts from the Christmas tree, or rather trees, for so many were the good things to be given out that it was found necessary to employ three noble spruces to carry them all. The trees were gaily decorated and brilliantly lighted and presented a most attractive appearance. Mr. John E. Belcher made a most suitable Santa Claus and his arrival was greeted with shouts of delight by the little folks and their enjoyment was increased when they received the gifts he distributed. Six hundred and eight bags of candies, nuts, etc., were on hand ready for the children, and the trees contained over 500 toys of all descriptions, everything dear to the youthful heart being there. There was something for every child and they all seemed satisfied with what they had received.

During the evening refreshments, consisting of lemonade and cake, were served to the little ones and there was plenty of hot tea for the mothers. The gathering did ample justice to the good things provided by the ladies. The affair was brought to a close at an early hour, in order not to weary the children, who departed from home thoroughly satisfied with the entertainment.

The committee in charge, of which Miss Halliday was secretary and Mrs. Kendry, convenor, have every reason to be satisfied with the success of the venture, which is due not only to the earnest efforts of the committee, but also to the co-operative spirit displayed by the different churches, the representatives of which worked together with an unanimity that left no doubt of the success of the affair from the start.

MERCHANT OF VENICE

Mr. Henry Ludlow, as Shylock, in the Merchant of Venice, gave an exceptionally fine portrayal of Shakspere's famous character to a fairly large audience at the Grand Opera House last night. In their two engagements the company presented two of Shakspere's best productions in a most scholarly and interesting manner. The Merchant of Venice is not new to a Peterborough audience, but nothing has ever been seen in this city that could approach last night's presentation in point of histrionic finesse on the part of the whole company and lavishness of scenery appropriate for the piece.

Shylock was the principal figure during the first four acts and in depicting the niggard avariciousness of the old Jew, Mr. Ludlow's impersonation was true to the very detail. From his acceptance of the bond to his gradual gathering of the meshes about Antonio to the trial scene, when his dearest hope was so near its consummation only to be snatched from him when the flesh was bared to his breast, Shylock affected the audience by the dramatic interest of his rise and fall.

The trial scene was undoubtedly the best in the play and was particularly well staged. The company offered Mr. Ludlow strong support, the character of Gratiano being particularly pleasingly presented. Miss Keith Wakeman as Portia was captivating and carried out the part according to the generally accepted idea which Shakspere wished to convey.

Words cannot describe the scenery, and those who missed Mr. Ludlow neglected the opportunity of seeing one of the best actors that the management of the Grand will present this season.

THE COLLEGE GIRL

The Partello Stock Co. Plays to a Large And Pleased Audience

Despite the sloppy weather, an immense crowd gathered at the Grand Opera House last night and was enchanted with the charmingly bright and sweet play presented by the Partello Stock Company, and its still more charmingly bright and sweeter little star, Miss Alice Kennedy, in the title role of "The College Girl."

Who Appears With the "Partello Stock Co." for Five Nights Commencing Next Tuesday, Dec. 31st. Matinee New Year's Day and Saturday

The name, stock company, is almost a mis-nomer, for they are away above all competitors in that line. Their real status is an aggregation of splendid actors and actresses, supporting a star, Miss Kennedy, playing repertoire.

"The College Girl" is from the pen of Mr. Austin Adams. The play is jolly and bright, with just enough drama. The comedy parts had the audiences in continual roars of laughter. Mr. Partello carries a full car load of scenery, which adds much to realistic effects of his plays. The play opens on the evening of the 18th birthday of Jail Hadleigh, daughter of Prof. Hadleigh, and herself and undergraduate. From that point the play moves on quickly, brightly, until the climax is reached in the tower and belfry of the old dormitory.

The role of Jail Hadleigh suits Miss Kennedy splendidly. On the stage, she hardly appears to be acting, so naturally does she play the part. Her vivacious, free manner was unstudied, yet never for a moment was she off her guard. This is Miss Kennedy's first visit to Kingston, but she is assured of a warm welcome during the rest of the week and any time she may return.—From the Kingston News, Tuesday, Dec. 24, 1907.

SOLD WHISKEY TO AN INDIAN

Walter Head Was Fined $50 and Costs—Vagrant Allowed to Go

Only one prisoner, James Christian, charged as a vagrant, appeared in the court this morning, and he was allowed to go.

The next case was that of Walter Head charged with selling liquor to an Indian. He had been remanded from yesterday until to-day for sentence. The Magistrate said he would give him the smallest possible fine, which was $50 and costs, amounting to $52.52, to be paid in ten days.

Mr. G. Gordon, counsel for the defendant will probably appeal the case.

The License Inspector On Local Option Enforcement

Is Inspector Justified in Refusing To Act on Anonymous Information? Correspondent Shows What His Duty Is

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—In your evening contemporary I read,—"Although Buckhorn is under local option jurisdiction, the charge is made that liquor is being sold here in large quantities and that everything is going free and easy as far as the selling of spirits is concerned."

I also read,—"License Inspector Joseph Stewart has received an anonymous letter from some person, who apparently resides in the vicinity of Buckhorn, in which it is stated that the local option by-law is not being observed at all. Drinking is going on freely, the writer states, and the name of one party who is selling liquor without a license is mentioned."

Then again I read what is supposed to be Mr. Stewart's defence,—"Mr. Stewart will take no action regarding the matter unless the writer of the letter furnishes his name. The inspector pays no attention to anonymous communications, but if he receives information from a person who signs his name, he at once makes a complete investigation.

Now, Mr. Editor, if I may be permitted to express an opinion, I would say that, first it is the duty of the inspector to see that no liquor is sold in a local option township. This is part of his duties, and this is what he is partly paid for, and it is his duty to act upon any information, no matter from what source, so long as he has reason to believe that it explains the conditions. It is well known fact that there is no law or practice that can regulate absolutely the liquor traffic, and it is a well known fact that people who would like to give information will not trust themselves in the hands of other persons in writing. That liquor has been sold during the year at Young's Point and Buckhorn there is no reasonable question of doubt, and for the inspector of Licenses to take this high, lofty and mighty ground may be an excuse that he thinks will satisfy himself, but it will not go down with the public. One would think that in some quarters he had granted permission; he stays away so carefully for fear he will see something.

If in the discovery of crime the Chief of Police were to receive an anonymous communication giving him valuable information would he be justified in saying that it was anonymous and he would not look into it? Would he not make a thorough and immediate investigation to see if there was any reason for the letter having been written, would he not follow up any clue presented? Mr. Stewart will have to make a more plausible excuse for the conditions which are being tolerated, simply because we cannot help ourselves. It is Mr. Stewart's duty to see that liquor is not sold at Buckhorn and Young's Point, and it is his duty to act upon information received no matter from what source. He will be more thought of as a public officer and the party will be given greater credit, and he will be performing his duties more satisfactorily if he sees that the law is properly enforced. Does Mr. Stewart think that the public are of the opinion that the law is being observed elsewhere, where there is no local option? If he is innocently satisfying himself, he is not satisfying the public.

Yours truly,
ONE INTERESTED.

Discouraging Market This Morning—Effects of Weather and Holidays

The market was badly dampened by the recent rain and as a result there was a small attendance from the country. The proximity of Christmas, too, had a bad effect as the citizens are fairly well stocked. Butter sold at 30 cents and eggs at 35 cents. Potatoes are still at 80 and 85 cents, while pork and beef show no variation.

There was but a fair supply of fowl. Geese disappeared at an average of $1.15 and turkeys ranged from $1.50 to $2.00.

The following is the price list:

ENTERTAINMENT AT KNOX CHURCH

Two Christmas Trees Erected on Special Platform—Excellent Programme

SUNDAY SCHOOL GROWTH

The annual Christmas entertainment of Knox Church Sunday School held last night was a great success. The church, which was prettily decorated with evergreens and mistletoe, was filled with an enthusiastic assembly of the scholars and their parents. A special platform was erected for the occasion and it supported two beautifully illuminated Christmas trees, heavily laden with presents for members of the Sunday school. Sheriff Hall, the superintendent of the school, was in the chair.

The congregation of Knox church has every reason to be proud of the splendid manner in which it has progressed. Rev. H. J. Keith came to the church in April last, at which time the Sunday school had a membership of 75, while now it has an average attendance of 134, and 165 names on the roll. The congregation has also grown in the same proportion.

The entertainment last night was a very enjoyable one and much appreciated by the audience.

HAPPY CHRISTMAS DAY GATHERING

At The Home of Mr. D. Hillier, Park Street—Re-union of Old Friends

One of the happy gatherings that took place on Christmas Day was that held at the residence of Mr. D. Hillier, 161 Park street, when for the first Christmas in 37 years his sister, Mrs. Thos. Targett, and family, from Wiltshire, Eng., were present. Mr. Geo. Dredge of 554 Downie street, was also present for the first time in 26 years. There was also a number of other guests in attendance, including Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Curtis of Ilkeston, Derbyshire, Eng.; Mr. R. J. Cox of Chard, Somerset, Eng.; Mr. and Mrs. J. Byron of Toronto. A most enjoyable time was spent, and Christmas Day will be remembered by all present for many years to come.

New Real Estate Firm Has Been Established

Mr. W. A. Bell Has Recently Returned From the West—Enters Into Partnership With Mr. H. C. Stabler — Impression Of The West

FARMERS ARE NOT BLUE

Mr. W. A. Bell, who is well known to the public by his two years' connection with the real estate firm of A. Brown & Company, has entered into partnership with Mr. H. C. Stabler, in the real estate business. Mr. Bell has recently returned from a seven months visit to the Canadian west and has acquired a vast fund of knowledge of real estate and other conditions there that will be decidedly useful to him in his new business venture. Most of the time was spent in Saskatchewan in the Regina district, and Mr. Bell expresses himself as being delighted with the prospects, not only in that section but all through the west.

Speaking of the conditions in the west just now, Mr. Bell states, that they are much better than they were in the summer. While the frost had done some damage yet the farmers will not be impoverished because of the fact that they are getting higher prices for what they have to sell. Mr. Bell said that the farmers he saw were not "blue" over the outlook.

"I have great faith in the country out there," continued Mr. Bell, Regina will be a very fine city. The parliament buildings will be erected there next season at a cost of $1,500,000, the contract having been let to a Monte real firm.

The new firm of Stabler and Bell will handle all lines of real estate, not only the best of eastern property but farm lands and city lots in Saskatchewan and Alberta, in fact, throughout the west. The firm have control of some of the best lots in the west, particularly in Regina, and Mr. Bell will be glad to welcome any of his old business friends who are looking for investment in this line.

HOW TO DEAL WITH A MASHER

Girl Solves the Problem And Worked It Successfully The First Time

TALKED ON RELIGION

Many girls have been annoyed by conceited young men forcing their attentions upon them while going home after work or at any other time in the evening. In some cases where impudence supports this conceit it is difficult for the young lady to dismiss these attentions, but a splendid artifice is described by one sensible girl, who can see through the shallowness of some of these would-be "wooers."

In an article entitled "Tied to the Grind," in Collier's Weekly, a girl states her experience with one young man whom she squelched in a crushing manner. Her story is as follows:

"Oh it was funny! He was such an idiot!" she exclaimed between giggling bursts of laughter. "You wouldn't believe how silly they look, and its the same way every time. They leave you like you had the smallpox. I've tried it again and again, and it works fine."

"He's been comin' to my counter for the last week or two, buyin' little things, but I had my suspicions of him from the first. I've seen 'em before. He was more interested in lookin' at me than the things he bought, and he was too friendly, sayin', 'it was a shame how hard I had to work,' and all that. Oh, I sized him up pretty quick. He threw out a hint or two, but I never noticed, just waited on him, same as on anybody else.

"Well, to-night, I hadn't more than gotten outside the store to come home when up he walks beside me with a 'Good evenin'!' For a minute I didn't know what to do. These kind are so persistent. You tell 'em to go away, and they just laugh and say you're 'jokin'.' Oh, they'll keep at you for blocks, and walk along with you till they find out where you live, and then you don't have a minute's peace for 'em. You can't make a fuss about it on the street. Like as not, the police would insult you if you went to them. (They have already, and we girls don't take much stock in the police, I can tell you.) But I know what will stop 'em, so I turned and faced this fellow all of a sudden.

"'Do you love the Lord?' I asked him, lookin' solemn as I could. He stuttered somethin', and I went on kind of severe. 'Do you love the Lord? Is your soul saved? He sort of hesitated, beginnin to get red in the face. 'Come to the Mission with me. I will save you soul,' I told him, and then he started away (without even raisin' his hat, mind you), and I says: 'Tell me you address and I'll send you some tracts.'

"I guess the people in the street thought I was crazy, I was laughin' so; he looked so silly. But that'll stop 'em every time. Just you look solemn and say you want to save their souls and they'll drop you like you was awful hot. Try it the next time some fellow comes up to you, and you'll laugh for a week, just thinkin' of the way he looked."

BANK OF OTTAWA FIXTURES

Handsome Structure, With a Handsome Interior and Exterior is Now Completed

ALL THE CONVENIENCES

The completion of the work upon the premises of the Bank of Ottawa has presented to the citizens another handsome bank structure in Peterborough which deserves more than a passing consideration. Although the local branch of the Bank of Ottawa has been in operation here but a year and a half it has made rapid strides, gaining respect from not only citizens of Peterborough but also many from the country.

The premises have now been enlarged, taking in the store that was formerly north of the bank building, so that the interior is commodious as well as handsomely finished. The front of the office has been reconstructed and brightened. It is made of red pressed brick, relieved by square fluted pilasters of Indiana stone. It is lit up by two large globes on brackets of hammered iron, and the name "Bank of Ottawa" is printed in large gold letters on a wire netting. Two large plate glass windows in the front with ship glass screens provide an abundance of light to all parts of the office.

The interior of the building is beautifully and substantially finished in quartered oak with golden finish. To the right of the glass vestibule, which contains two doors, the one to the right for ladies and that to the left for gentlemen, is a private banking apartment for the members of the feminine sex with a wicket into the savings department. The other wickets are arranged in order around to the manager's office.

To the left of the entrance is a corner surrounded by a picket fence railing, containing a handsome oaken desk and oaken chairs, for the convenience of patrons wishing to contract private business. The electric light fixtures are unique, consisting of square globes on pillars.

The ceiling is perhaps the most attractive one in the city. It is made of straw-coloured burlap and beamed with quartered oak. The floor to the exterior of the offices is covered covered with a pretty light coloured linoleum made especially to harmonize with the fittings. The interior floor is covered with a brown linoleum. The paper on the walls gives a wood effect and also harmonizes with the entire interior.

To the rear of the office are the vaults. Also a cloak room for the use of the clerks is erected as well as lavatories. On the next floor is the stationery room and three sleeping rooms for the use of the staff.

The whole work has been done by local contractors and creditably done too, so that the staff of the local branch of the Bank of Ottawa is conveniently quartered in commodious offices fitted out handsomely and with a view to providing every convenience for the patrons.

The bank has a staff of 12, who are all courteous and obliging. With Mr. A. A. Hollingshead as the manager the business has and is increasing at a remarkable rate and the Bank of Ottawa has certainly obtained a reputation throughout the city and county.

TRAINS CRASH TOGETHER IN A FOG

Two Fatal Railway Wrecks on Southern Tracks.

DEATH ROLL REACHES EIGHT

Eighteen Reported Badly Injured in Collision on Elevated Track at Camden, N. J.—Wreckage Took Fire—Other Smash Was at Lenox—G. T. R. Express Runs Into Coal Train—All Trainmen.

Camden, N. J., Dec. 28.—Three persons were killed and 18 injured in a collision on the elevated tracks of the Pennsylvania Railroad, just outside the station here, yesterday, when a Pemberton accommodation train ran into the rear-end of an Atlantic City express. A heavy fog was the principal contributory cause of the accident. The dead are: C. P. Sontjen, Stanwick, N. J.; J. L. Garbanini, Mount Holley, N. J.; T. L. Webster, Merchantville, N. J.

Several of the injured may die. All those killed or injured were passengers in the first car of the Pemberton accommodation.

There was a very thick fog when the accident occurred, and it is believed that this condition is the primary cause of the collision.

The wreckage immediately took fire from the hot coals from the Pemberton locomotive and the fire departments of Camden were called into service. The fact that the collision occurred on the elevated structure made the work of rescue difficult. None of the cars left the elevated structure.

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 28.—In a dense fog a collision took place at Lenox, Mich., 35 miles north of here, at 7.30 o'clock last night, between Grand Trunk through train No. 8, southbound, from Port Huron to Detroit, and a northbound coal train half a mile long, which had taken the switch, which, however, had been left open, and the passenger train at 40 miles an hour left the main line and plunged headlong into the first of the two engines of the coal train, plowing underneath the leader and bending the second.

Three of the dead are still in the wreckage. Tyler's body was recovered, and McCall died two hours after being extricated. He had lost one leg and received other severe injuries.

Engineer Fred Hang and Fireman Washburn was in the second engine of the doubleheader. The former was caught in the wreckage, but escaped uninjured, while Washburn, who jumped, was only slightly hurt.

Four years ago at the same place there was a collision from a similar cause, two engineers being killed.

The passenger coaches remained on the rails, and no one was hurt, though the first end of the baggage car was demolished.

It is said that the engineer was unable to see any signal owing to the heavy fog.

The dead are: James Bennett, engineer, Detroit; Andrew Bohnski, engineer, Detroit; Willard Tyler, switchman, Detroit; George Boughner, fireman, Detroit; Albert McCall, fireman, Port Huron.

Gale on British Coast.

London, Dec. 28.—An easterly gale has been prevailing for the past 80 hours and still shows no signs of abatement. Terrible seas are running along the British and Irish coasts Many wrecks have been reported. The Cunarder Lucania was not able to enter Queenstown.

None of the incoming steamers sighted the Leyland line steamer Cambrian, before reported with her shaft broken in tow of the steamer William Cliff, and it is the opinion among seafaring men that the Cliff had to cast the Cambrian adrift. If this is the case the Cliff will stand by the disabled vessel and take here in tow again when the weather moderates.

Cut Into Small Pieces.

Elmira, N. Y., Dec. 28.—T. F. Stockbine of Susquehanna, a fireman on the Erie Railroad, was feeding the furnace of an extra eastbound freight engine when the drawhead connecting the tender pulled out and let the steelplate on which he was working drop to the ground. Stockbine fell under the wheels and was cut into small pieces by the long train, which passed over him.

GREAT BERLIN LIBEL CASE

Herr Liman Says Bismarck Hated the Camarilla.

EVIDENCE AT HARDEN TRIAL

Chancellor Ascribed His Dismissal to Its Machinations—Prince Zu Eulenburg Relates His Estrangement From Him—Declares He Never Influenced the Emperor—Frau Von Elbe's Charges.

Berlin, Dec. 28.—The hearing of the Harden-Von Moltke libel suit was resumed here yesterday with open doors. The greater part of the morning session was taken up with the testimony of Dr. Frey of Vienna, who at one time treated Frau Von Elbe, the divorced wife of Gen. Count Kuno Von Moltke. The witness declared that the former countess was most hysterical, and that her charges against Von Moltke were based upon fantasy.

Dr. Liman, editor of The Leipsiger Neuste Nachrichten, who at one time had rather intimate relations with Prince Von Bismarck, and who, since the death of the prince, has been one of the chief apostles of the Bismarck cult, was then called upon to testify regarding a remark he had heard Bismarck make concerning Prince Philip Zu Eulenburg. This remark played a considerable role in the first Harden trial, when Harden interpreted in an equivocal sense as implying a charge of secret vices of an abominable character against Zu Eulenburg. Dr. Liman swore yesterday that he understood Bismarck's words to mean simply that Zu Eulenburg was responsible for certain political occurrences, and that they conveyed no covert innuendo about vile practices.

Prince Zu Eulenburg, who had come into the courtroom with the assistance of his two sons, here asked permission to make a statement. This was granted and the prince said he had enjoyed the most friendly relations with Bismarck until the latter broke with the Emperor, when their intercourse ceased entirely. He had learned from various sources that Bismarck thought he should have made common cause with him and withdrawn his support from the Emperor when he did.

"This, for many reasons, I did not do," Prince Zu Eulenburg continued, "and I encountered much hostility because of my course. Bismarck's was a volcanic nature, and he was volcanic in his hate. I still think with joy of the hospitality I enjoyed at Bismarck's table, but with sorrow of the break in our relations. Bismarck complained of the presence of irresponsible persons in the entourage of the Emperor, but the Emperor had the right to summon who he would."

Prince Zu Eulenburg often accompanied the Emperor on his Norwegian voyages and hunting excursions as a representative of the Foreign Office, but he took oath that he had never sought to obtain political influence over His Majesty.

The prince spoke with deep earnestness, amid the profound silence of the court.

Strikes Were Few.

Ottawa, Dec. 28.—There were very few trade disputes in Canada during November, and the losses through this cause were comparatively slight. The only locality where a large body of employes was affected was at St. John, N. B., where transportation was hampered through a strike of longshoremen, during the latter part of the month. The total number of trade disputes reported to have been in existence in Canada during November was eight, a decrease of 14, compared with the previous month, and a decrease of 11, compared with November, 1906. About 34 firms and 1,686 employes were affected by these disputes, 15 firms and about 1,107 employes being involved in the disputes which began in November.

Gains Bride and Fortune.

Madrid, Dec. 28.—A remarkable stroke of luck has just befallen a soldier of the Saboya Regiment, in garrison here. He was enamored of a buxom cook, and they were discussing recently the prospects of their marriage in the near future, which were very slim indeed. Their combined financial resources amounted to only 100 pesetas ($18), and the marriage fees, etc., amounted to much more.

Finally they concluded to invest their savings in the Government Christmas lottery, which was drawn Dec. 23. Yesterday the loving couple were informed that their share of the ticket had brought them $80,000. The marriage will take place shortly.

Boy Killed by Whisky.

St. John, N. B., Dec. 28.—John Maxwell, a 10-year-old boy, living at Bonny River, a station on the New Brunswick Southern Railway, Charlotte County, died on Christmas Day from drinking too much whisky. Maxwell and another lad, while playing about the station the day previous, discovered liquor in transit and drank some, with tragic consequences.

UPRISING REPORTED IN CHINA

Dowager Empress Alarmed at Growth of Popular Agitation.

EDICT AGAINST MEETINGS

Cry For Recovery of Rights—Spreading With Great Rapidity—Government Thoroughly Aroused—Question of British Patrol—Position of Yuan Shi Kai Strengthened—Suppression of Piracy.

Pekin, Dec. 28.—The Dowager Empress has given verbal orders to the Interior Department and to the police to suppress all public meetings in Pekin and there is reason to believe that this order will be extended to the province.

The popular agitation along the lines of "rights recovery" is growing in a phenomenal manner. The question of provincial as against federal sovereignty enters largely into the matter. Women's societies, schools for boys and for girls, the family newspapers and the political press all are participating in the agitation, and for a month past the Government here has been receiving telegrams in increasing numbers expressing the strong desire of the senders that the rights which have been alienated from them by foreigners be restored to the Chinese.

The movement has reached such magnitude that the Government is thoroughly alarmed and is striving to find a conciliatory position between the revolutionary agitators and those who consider themselves to be aggrieved. The agitations embraces the question of the patrol of the West river by Great Britain, in an effort to put an end to the piracy there, and leading Englishmen here apprehend that the present popular hostility will result in an enquiry into the British trade.

The Government is relying on the support of Great Britain, whose insistence upon China's maintenance of her original position has produced an apparent solidarity among the Chinese Ministers. The pressure of the British Government is strengthening the position of Yuan Shikaik, whose security and influence in Pekin is regarded by foreigners as essential to the safety and progress of China.

It is declared here that the foreign agitation in the matter of the attitude adopted by Great Britain with regard to Manchuria and the warning of Russia concerning the annulment of the telegraph convention, have led the British Foreign Office to take action and it is understood that this has been in the form of representations to the Tokio Government. China, it is stated here, considers the attitude taken by Japan to be based upon impossible claims and Japan, it is averred, is taking advantage of China's complications with Great Britain in order to postpone the negotiations regarding Manchuria.

Travelers arriving here complain of what they call the organized incivility, and in some cases even the "brutal conduct" of the Japanese trainmen and guards on the Manchurian railway.

BOY BURGLAR SENTENCED.

Cook and Porter Locked In Blazing Parlor Car.

Stratford, Dec. 28.—Anthony Steeves, one of the boys convicted of wholesale burglary in this city, was yesterday sentenced to two years in Kingston Penitentiary.

A peculiar accident happened in the parlor cafe car between Stratford and Goderich. A gasolene pipe exploded, and the concussion slammed the door, locking the cook and the porter inside. Flames sprang up and the two men were in imminent danger of a horrible death. By breaking open the door of the kitchen when the fire started they managed to get away. Their clothing was badly burnt. The car was badly damaged, and was taken to Toronto for repairs.

Halifax School Closed.

Halifax, Dec. 28.—Compton Avenue Public school, an eight-roomed building, accommodating six hundred pupils, was gutted by fire last night. The loss will be about $20,000, with $9,500 insurance on the building and $1,250 on the furnishings. The janitors were cleaning the building during the day, and the fire is supposed to have originated from a fire in the basement which they used to heat water. The school had been closed for the holidays.

Counsel Darrow Very Ill.

Boise, Idaho, Dec. 28.—Too ill to stand while speaking to the jury, Clarence Darrow, chief counsel for the defence in the Pettibone trial, sat in his chair as he outlined his case. He spoke with effort at times and never raised his voice above a conversational tone.

Darrow's statement made it evident that to a great degree the same line of defence would be followed as in the Haywood trial.

John Keith Reid's Suicide.

London, Dec. 28.—In a letter left by John Keith Reid, the Canadian, who committed suicide in Bloomsbury, he referred to his despondency and to his son. Giving evidence at the inquest a witness said deceased had expressed a hope that he would recover from the effects of the poison for his son's sake. The verdict was, "Suicide while of unsound mind."

Fire at Buffalo.

Buffalo, Dec. 28.—Fire last night did $50,000 damage in the wholesale produce market at Elk and Michigan streets. D. M. Wattles & Sons and Gleason & Ecker were burned out.

New Liskeard, Dec. 28.—Fire broke out about 3 o'clock in the residence of John Marshland, Catharine street, yesterday morning, and before the blaze was under control had entirely destroyed his residence, along with the workshop and stable of Fred Balle, next door. The loss will be about $8,000.

CITIZENS FOUGHT THIEVES.

Fierce Battle With Revolvers in Bank at St. Joseph.

St. Joseph, Mo., Dec. 28.—The Bank of Camden Point, 35 miles southwest of this city, was robbed by three men early yesterday.

The robbers were discovered by Prof. Barhan, president of the Camden Point College, who saw a light in the bank and aroused the citizens. Three explosions, set off by the burglars after the alarm was given, wrecked the safe and the interior of the bank.

A fierce battle between citizens and the robbers took place, in which many shots were exchanged, but the robbers escaped. Later they were captured in the woods on the Platte River. The loot was about $2,500, of which $1,000 was in silver. The robbers have told where they hid the money in a straw-stack near Edgerton.

One of the bandits has been identified as Clyde Reed, aged 24, son of a respectable farmer near Edgerton.

A SOFT LEATHER

"One of the 14"

A horrible thing is coarse, brittle, hard leather, and most of it answers to that description. It rubs the tender feet of the gentler sex into blisters, corns etc. It will almost blister a horse's hoof.

The Dolly Varden Shoe is made from a soft silken leather. Arduous and costly experiments resulted in "Velvetta" Kid, a leather as soft as velvet but as tough and unwear-outable as cowhide. It is not frail and papery, but firm and silky.

The counters and uppers of all Dolly Varden Shoes are made exclusively of this cloth-like leather, which can be found in no other feminine shoe in the world, as we control all rights, while the soles are of oak-tanned cowhide, the pliant and wearing qualities of which are widely known.

The Dolly Varden store will gladly show you this soft shoe, which is as comfortable at the first fitting as at the last wearing. Purchasers or investigators equally welcome. $4.00 to $5.00 in Canada and the States. Every pair Goodyear welted.

A PAINFUL INCIDENT.

Witness Faints In Prisoner's Box at Douma Trial.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 28.—The trial yesterday on charges of treason of members of the first Douma, who signed the Viborg manifesto, calling upon the citizens of Russia to stand up for their rights, was interrupted by a painful occurrence. M. Rainischwill, who was taken into custody last June, tried to address the court as the spokesman of the Social-Democrats. Hardly had he begun speaking than he fainted from weakness, and his body hung limply over the railing of the prisoner's pen. Rainischwili has contracted consumption during his confinement. Since the beginning of the trial he has been brought to court from prison in a carriage every day.

Health of the Province.

Toronto, Dec. 28.—The returns to the Provincial Board of Health from 730 divisions for November give 2,070 deaths from all causes, making a death rate of 12.6 in 1,000.

The reports made of contagious diseases show smallpox, scarlet fever, diphtheria and measles to have been much more prevalent in the province than for the corresponding month of 1906, but happily of a mild type, as no deaths were reported from smallpox, and out of 444 cases of scarlet fever only six deaths occurred, and of 338 cases of diphtheria 31 deaths were reported.

Typheid fever caused 73 less deaths for the month, with 315 fewer cases reported.

VALUE OF SILLINESS.

An Occasional Dose of Giggling Good For the Health.

"See how sedately Katherine is conversing with the learned Mr. B.," said a certain maiden, apparently the most light hearted of a merry group of young people at a hospitable country house. "Poor Kitty! She doesn't know how to divide her days between folly and wisdom, and I'm convinced her health is suffering in consequence, and incidentally her temper likewise. I don't suppose she ever experienced the exhilarating and cheering effect of a continuous fit of giggling at nothing in particular. No doubt giggling is very silly, but when our friends implore us not to be silly it's safe to assume that we're in a more than usually jovial mood and that we have temporarily forgotten all our difficulties, our dignity and our conceit. I don't intend ever to have any nervous breakdowns like other people and am conscientiously studying the science of silliness as a preventive, but Katherine, poor dear, will be sure to end in an insane asylum if she keeps on as she has begun. She's just the one to benefit by an occasional season of silliness if she could only be persuaded to try the experiment, because she's habitually so very wise. By being silly she would effect an escape from her own personality—she would get a holiday from herself and would be immensely the better for it. Probably most people think there is no need to proclaim the value of silliness, because they believe its possibilities are all too fully realized already, but that's generally by the men and women who are silly all the time, and they get no good from it because monotony of any kind must be injurious to the constitution in time."

OUNCE OF PREVENTION.

How Children's Stockings May Be Easily Darned.

"A stitch in time saves nine," it is said, but there are some stitches that may be taken even before "in time" and thus save more than "nine." Most truly is this the case in regard to children's stockings. Our grandmothers were accustomed carefully to "run" the heels and toes of new stockings before ever they were worn, which made them so thick that darning, like the evil day, was put "afar off." The manufacturer takes care of that now by weaving the heels and toes double, but somehow he seems to have overlooked the knees. The little bones of children are sharp and soon cut through, especially when "a fellow plays marbles" or does any other of a thousand nice things that may be done if one never has to think of the consequences to one's clothes.

Mother can save herself and the child many an uncomfortable quarter of an hour if she will take a little precaution. Before the stockings are worn at all a piece of material from an old pair may be cut to fit over the knee. This can be attached to the new stocking by invisible stitches. It will not only form a pad which will prevent the stocking from going so quickly, but it will be a foundation in which to darn when the stocking begins to wear, which last will prevent the appearance of those hideous, big, crossbarred darns which look like nothing so much as a prison window.

COOKING WITH GAS.

How to Avoid Disagreeable Odors From Getting About.

For the woman whose troubles arise from the odor of the gas while preparing meals the remedy lies in having a small pipe between the range and the chimney to carry off the gases.

A large bowl of water placed near will also help prevent the odor. The smell of gas when a rubber tube is used, no leak being apparent, is usually caused by the tube itself having become saturated with gas.

New tubing is the only remedy. The lighting of a burner is very simple if understood. Turn on the gas for six seconds before applying the match This permits the air to escape from the pipe and makes the burner show a clear blue flame from the first.

If a white flame appears on the first lighting, turn off the gas immediately and try again. The dull roaring sound means the gas flame has leaped back inside the supply pipe. When having a gas range put in be sure to see that the supply pipe is large enough to allow sufficient gas to enable all the burners to be used at one time. This is very necessary. It is annoying to discover that you can't boil two kettles when the oven is in use. See also that the oven is large and commodious and that there is plenty of room on top for boiling and frying. It is poor economy to use a gas range that is too small. On the other hand, don't have it too large.

To Remove Window Panes.

Panes of glass may be easily removed by applying soft soap to the putty which holds them. Leave the soap on for a few hours before attempting to remove the putty, which, however hard it may be, will rarely fail to soften under this treatment.

Brides as Expert Cooks.

Under a new law, says Health of New York, in Norway every would be bride must exhibit a certificate that she knows how to cook. In Norway a dyspeptic is regarded as a natural curiosity.

EFFECT OF ORANGE DIET.

Smart Society's Latest Fad For Reducing Tea, To Solid Flesh.

Oranges are society's latest fad for obesity, and the theory upon which this fruit is used is that the juice is a substitute for food, no other nourishment being taken except at night, when the cult declares that the heaviest and most ravening of dinners may be eaten without danger of adding a pound of flesh.

There is no doubt that the pure juice is one of the best blood purifiers and system regulators that are known, and its effect upon the complexion is evident after a few weeks. The skin becomes clear and the color fresh, while the eyes are brighter. This metamorphosis is not to be expected in a week, of course, but it will come in time, and the cure is neither so expensive nor unpleasant as not to commend itself.

According to experts on the subject, the pulp is to be rejected, for only the juice is of value. This must come from sweet, sound and sufficiently ripe fruit. Sugar, with it is not permitted.

The orange diet should be taken as follows: On waking the juice of one fruit is drunk, and this should be cold.

A second meal taken about an hour later than the first should be composed of the juice of two oranges and must be sipped slowly. If one is ravenously hungry there is no objection to taking at the same time one piece of very thin and crusty toast. No butter is permitted.

At intervals of two hours throughout the day juice may be sipped. One orange at a time is usually enough, for it is not to be expected that quarts of the fruit would allay real pangs of hunger. Another bit of toast is permissible during the afternoon, but if flesh reduction is the object of the cure the toast must be crusty and dry.

At dinner one is supposed to eat a hearty meal. No sweets or greasy dishes should be indulged in if reduction of flesh is the aim of the diet.

A CHRISTMAS PRESENT.

Pretty Lawn Ties That Can Be Made For a Song.

Perhaps the greatest distinction between the waists of this season and last lies in the embroidered linen collar, which is worn not only with the shirt waists, but with gowns of voile and silk.

The embroidered collar is higher than we have been accustomed to of late, but so well built that it does not seem the least uncomfortable.

Well fitting ones are not to be purchased for less than $1.50 to $2, and as one can make several of them at home for this price they will repay the making.

It is the same with the lawn ties, the designs for the ends of which are shown in the illustration.

These ties are unusually graceful and becoming to girls as well as to the mature faces of elderly women and are an expensive item when purchased in the shops.

At home they may be made for a few cents. The collars or the ties would make delightful remembrances for holiday time.

NEEDLEWORK NOTES.

A pretty way to give a needed touch of color to an evening frock is to introduce under a lace bertha a ruffle of white net edged with a narrow ribbon. The ribbon should just glimmer below the lace over it.

Quite the newest thing in pillows is the oblong shape. The new pillows are not nearly so large and fat as formerly and consequently are more usable. Cluny lace makes one of the prettiest possible finishes for the edge of both square and oblong pillows.

A clever woman has put her knowledge of basketry to good account in the fashioning of a whisk broom holder. This consists of two disks of basket work similar to those used for the bottom of a fancy basket and caught together at the sides by large fluffy bows of three inch satin ribbon, the color being a delicate pink in harmony with her room furnishings. A band of ribbon of narrow width, but matching in tone, is used to suspend the holder.

Discipline Hint.

Instead of punishing children learn to talk quietly with the little one about its disobedience or misbehavior.

Make it plain to the small boy and girl why they are in the wrong and encourage them to give a reason for their misconduct.

Tell them kindly how to avoid a similar difficulty in the future. In other words, make love the basis of discipline and obedience will be prompted by the thought that mother or father will be displeased with an unkind act.

A One Handed Locksmith.

In a little shop over on Prospect avenue, not far from the Colonial arcade, is an old locksmith whose facility at turning out keys of difficult design and doing the other work that comes to a locksmith is a marvel to those who have seen him. The old man has only one arm. The other is off at the shoulder. By the use of a vise which he operates with his knee he is able to hold the rough pattern of the key while he works on it with his file. It is said that no task that can be performed by any locksmith with both of his hands is too much for him.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

What's an Eel?

Summoned the other day for taking fish from the Thames during illegal hours, Stephen Thomas Bidmead said he was ceiling and that an eel was not a fish, but a "fresh water serpent." After a long consultation the bench held that an eel was a fish and ordered Bidmead to pay costs.—Lloyd's Weekly

A PIECE OF STRING.

It Plays a Prominent Part In the Life of Japan.

Writing from Japan, an American says: "You must come here to appreciate some of the quaint customs and usages which contact with other peoples has not yet driven out. To read about them gives you only a poor idea. For instance, did you ever know what an important thing a piece of string is here? The children, workmen, idlers, servants, all carry pieces of string for use in case of emergency. With us the emergency would arise only when a parcel had to be done up, but the Jap uses his piece of string as a first aid to the injured, to repair a rent in his clothing, to fix a broken down jinrikisha, to mend tools, to take measurement, and, in fact, the string is his universal tool chest. The queerest use to which it is put, according to my way of thinking, is when a police officer arrests a man, ties a bit of string about the arrested man's wrist and then leads him by the loose end of the thin hempen fetter to the lockup. You ask, 'Why doesn't the Jap crook break the string and find a gateway?' He could, but he would not. That's where his respect for the law comes in, and the bit of string holds the man as securely as though he were manacled by our own humane chilled steel, nickel plated and snap locked method."

DIRTY WATCHES.

The Reason Is Often to Be Found In the Watch Pocket.

"Why do watches get dirty?" said the jeweler. "You'll find the answer in your watch pocket. Turn it out."

The patron turned out his watch pocket, sheepishly bringing forth a pinch of mud colored dust, some lint and a small ball of black fluff.

"There's the reason," said the jeweler. "Watches get dirty because the pockets they are carried in are never clean. A watch pocket, my dear sir, should be cleaned out regularly once a week. Observe that rule and your watch's works will not get clogged up again.

"Another and a seasonable rule is never to lay your watch down on stone or marble. The cold deranges the delicate works.

"Never lay your watch down, in fact, anywhere. Hang it up on a book vertically in the same position it occupies when in your pocket. Watches are made to lie, or, rather, stand, in that position only.

"Wind your watch in the morning, never at night."

Cigarettes as Wedding Fee.

As one of Manila's leading young men was donning his evening suit preparatory to keeping a social engagement he ran his hand into his pocket and was surprised to find an envelope there. On opening it he discovered 25 pesos in bills. "Now, where in thunder did I take on all this money?" he said. "It isn't mine, for I never carry my bills around in an envelope." Then he sat down to think where he had worn the suit and how he had come by the 25 pesos. "The last place I wore it," he mused finally, "was when I was best man at a wedding a month ago. But I gave Dr. Rossiter his money. I remember distinctly giving him something, and it must have been his fee. If I didn't give him the money, what in the world did I give him?" He called up Dr. Rossiter by phone. "Do you mind telling me," he asked, "what I gave you for a fee at Blank's wedding?" The answer came back very distinctly and cuttingly: "Young man, you gave me a box of vile smelling cigarettes."—Philippine Gossip.

Arbiter and Arbitrary.

If an arbitrator is chosen to end a dispute, says the London Chronicle, there is no reason to dread that his decision would be arbitrary, though the two words are very near relatives. An arbiter, the Latin word which used to be more common as English than it is now, meant by derivation simply "one who went to" something to examine it, and so at first a spectator or witness. Then in Roman law it assumed the technical sense of an umpire. But a "judicum," the legal decision in a case with regard to a definite sum of money, for instance, was distinguished from an arbitrium, a legal decision as to an uncertain sum which had to be determined; hence arbitrary acquired the sense of uncertain, capricious.

It Was Plain Enough.

A college professor who recently returned with his wife from their honeymoon greatly amused a company of people in his home town, according to the Lewiston Journal, by assuring them, on being questioned concerning their trip, that nobody where they spent their honeymoon suspected that they were bride and groom.

"What kind of a place was it you were in?" the president of the college asked. "An institution for the blind?"

Economical Woman.

Of small economies the following will be difficult to beat for smallness: A laboring man who hands over his weekly wages to his wife is allowed by her an ounce of tobacco a week. She buys it herself in two separate half ounces in order, she declares, to get the advantage of the two turns of the scale.—London Chronicle.

ARSENIC EATERS.

Effects of the Drug on the Styrians, Who Make It.

"Eating of arsenic is common in Styria," said Alois B. Steinsteri of Vienna, a manufacturer of chemicals and drugs. "The Styrians say that arsenic makes one plump and comely and gives one strength for great exertions, such as running or mountain climbing. Styria, which is in Austria, gives the world vast quantities of arsenic. The manufacture of this drug is indeed the main Styrian industry. They who make arsenic eat it, as a rule, for they say that only the arsenic eater can withstand the arsenic fumes. These makers and eaters of the drug are comely. They have a clear color and look much younger than they are.

"The foreman in a certain factory told me that in his boyhood, when he first came to that plant, he was advised to begin to eat arsenic lest his health suffer from the fumes. He did begin, and his first two or three small doses gave him a sharp pain, like a burn, in the stomach, and this pain was followed by tremendous hunger and a violent disagreeable excitement. But as his doses increased in frequency and size their effect became pleasant. There was no longer pain or excitement. On the contrary, there were a ravenous appetite and a mood of joyous activity wherein the youth could do three men's work.

"This chap by the time he got to be thirty was taking four grains of arsenic a day. He looked at thirty, with his clear pink and white color, no more than twenty-three. He was as robust as a blacksmith. But he said he would die at forty-five or so, that being the age at which all the Styrian arsenic eaters die."

Discreet Silence.

An excellent piece of advice was that once given to George Gray, a young Methodist preacher, who was a mere boy when he began his work. Within a few days of the time he was fifteen and a half years old his name was on the records of an annual conference as a traveling preacher—the youngest candidate ever received in the Methodist Episcopal church. He was sent to the Barre circuit in Vermont. As he mounted his horse to set out for his appointed field of labor, a jaunt of more than 200 miles, his uncle, a Methodist of much shrewdness and humor, gave him a parting address which he never forgot and to which he often referred in later years.

"Never pretend that you know much, George," said he, looking up at the youthful rider from under his shaggy eyebrows, "for if you do so pretend the people will soon find out that you are sadly mistaken, but neither," he added after a moment's pause, "need you tell them how little you know, for this they will find out soon enough."

Strainers Made of Men's Hair.

The barber as his patron rose shook from the apron to the floor the short locks that he had clipped from the man's head, and at the same time a boy appeared, swept up the hair and placed it carefully in a large bag.

"Has it got any use?" asked the patron, with an interested and pleased smile.

"Of course it has," said the barber. "Would I save it otherwise?"

"But it is so short."

"No matter. It has its uses."

"What is it used for?" said the man. "What will become of that short hair which I have been carrying about so long under my hat?"

"Well," said the barber, "some of it will go into mortar, some of it will stuff furniture, but most of it will be made into those fine strainers which are used to clarify the best sirups. There are no strainers equal to those woven of short human hair, and for all the hair that we barbers can supply the strainer makers keep up a steady demand."

The Venus de Milo.

It is questionable whether the real Greek woman of that immortal epoch when sculpture meant something more than a decorative end to an architectural means possessed the chaste loveliness accredited to her in the chiseled remnants left to us. It has ever been the whim of artists to work away from the physical facts of their models toward the ideals of their fancy. The sculptor is usually a proudly careless historian and but a poor reporter. All Greek sculpture doubtless is a highly glorified record of true Greek ethnology; but, granting such a woman as, say, the Venus de Milo did exist in all her bodily and facial perfection, she would meet with but cold reception at the hands of our critics of femininity today. Her modern women associates would, I am certain, adjudge the classic lady a frump. Ideals change with the centuries if nature does not.—Perriton Maxwell in Bohemian.

British Manners.

A man shoves past a woman on a staircase or he leaves her standing while he sits. He comes into a crowded public room with his hat on and talks loudly as if all the place belonged to him. His womankind do the same. At present the workingman has the best manners, the middle class the worst.—Lady Violet Greville in London Graphic.

Qualified.

"And is Willie Vanfeller really studying medicine?"

"Yes, and he's getting on famously. He told me yesterday I was looking well, and, by Jove, I was!"

Faded spots in hard wood from heat, light or the touch of too strong alkalis can be brought back to their original color by repeated gentle rubbings with boiled linseed oil mixed with one-eighth of alcohol. Rub two or three times each day, using a clean silk or linen swab each time. Make swabs by rolling fine cotton batting into tight small balls and tying a ball in a square of cloth. The loose cloth ends form a handle. Throw away swabs as soon as they get hard or dirty.

That Nothing Shall Be Lost.

The country grocer was issuing instructions to his new assistant. "It's only by looking closely after trifles," said the proprietor, "that a profit can be made in these days of close competition."

"Yessir," came from the boy.

"For example," continued the grocer, "when you pick the flies out of the sugar don't throw them away. Put 'em among the currants."

THE AGE OF HAPPINESS.

A Youthful Spirit the Fad of the Day. The Scheme's Faults.

"What is the age of happiness?" asks a writer in the London Daily Telegram. "A great man of science," she goes on to say, "has lately declared his belief that pessimism, like measles, is a complaint of youth and a calm joy the characteristic of age. The Women Workers have just been told by Mrs. Creighton that middle age is happier than the springtime of life. And yet there are those who believe that the proper meaning of the adage, 'Those whom the gods love die young' is 'Those whom the gods love never grow old.' Probably this is the common faith. An eternal youthfulness most of us envy and covet. But we should not conceal from ourselves that it can be irritating. Lady Mary Wortley Montagu, troubled by a matron who not merely dressed, but talked, like a girl in her teens, said snappishly, as usual, 'It's well enough to be always fifteen, my dear, but need you be five?' We are accustomed to think childishness pretty and becoming, and enthusiastic persons tell you of this or that sweet woman who still has 'the heart of a child.' But the trouble is that such a creature generally has the brain of a child too. The cultivation of a spirit of youth is one of the most obvious fashions of the day. We have all to be light hearted, careless creatures of impulse, ready to try everything and be friends with every one. If you will not have ten new interests a day you are old fashioned. No wonder nervous diseases are on the increase, for the fact is that most of us are not constructed for this perennial youthfulness. Most of us are intended to acquire a certain sedateness of body and a certain sobriety of mind with advancing years. The effort to avoid these qualities ends in disaster."

LINGERIE CONCEITS.

The Favorite Designs Are the Butterfly and Daisy Patterns.

The new embroidered underwear is made to fit quite closely to the figure, as this season every woman is striving to be as slim as possible. Some of the newest designs for sets of underwear show the hand embroidery alone, no laces being combined with it. However, a narrow frill of lace used under the scallops is more becoming than otherwise. The favorite designs are the butterfly and the daisy patterns. The work is done in the eyelet and French embroidery upon fine batiste or handkerchief linen, with the edges finished with buttonhole scallop. The corset cover is perhaps the most important article of the set, as the popular lingerie waists require very attractive corset covers. The corset cover may be made full enough to slip over the head and be drawn up with ribbons run through embroidered oval openings, or it may open in the front or on one side. The corset cover which goes over the head is made in two pieces, with seams under the arms and on the shoulders, while the fullness of the waist line is held in by a ribbon drawn through either a casing of the material or a beading. The corset cover which opens in front can have the fullness at the waist line laid in a cluster of fine hand run tucks and finished with beading and ribbon. The scalloping should be very carefully done. It will be best to fill in the edges of the scallops with an outline stitch. This will help also to keep the material from fraying out when the cover is laundered.

ABOUT THE HOUSE.

A few economical housewives have tried grinding their tea leaves like coffee, and they declare that the result is excellent, only about half the usual quantity being used. Of course the tea strainer must be as fine as can be bought.

In order to be sure that the cocoanut for pies and candy is perfectly fresh it is well to buy the whole fruit and shred it in the meat chopper.

Just before a meal is served if the dining room atmosphere too plainly foretells what has been prepared open the windows a few seconds and pour a couple of drops of lavender essence into a cup of boiling water. The cooking odor will entirely disappear.

Try mixing mustard with milk instead of with water or vinegar. The flavor is said to be good, the paste is very smooth, and the mustard will not dry so quickly.

In making new pillows have the feathers first inclosed in a bag of cheesecloth or thin muslin. Then at any time the ticking may be removed for washing, and even the feathers may be washed in the inner bag without flying all over the house.

Masons Celebrate Festival Of St. John, The Evangelist

Impressive Installation Ceremonies---Newly Elected Officers Of Corinthian and Peterboro' Lodges Officially Presented With Badges of Office---Presentation To D. D. G. M. Walker

ABOUT THE BANQUET, TOASTS, SPEECHES AND SONGS

THE annual Festival of St. John the Evangelist, was celebrated yesterday by the Masonic fraternity, in their beautifully appointed Masonic Temple, corner of George and Simcoe streets.

The calendar event also marked the impressive ceremonies connected with the official installation of the newly-elected officers of Corinthian and Peterborough Lodges, which is afterwards followed by a banquet in the refreshment hall, and an hour's unalloyed social and fraternal greetings, toasts, speeches, music and song.

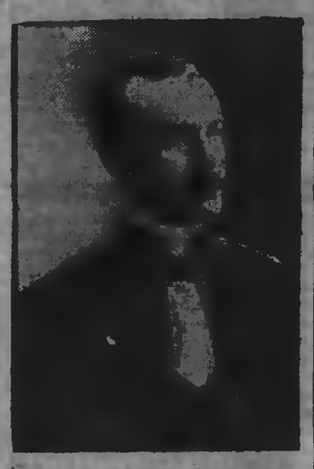
An Historic Gathering

Never before in the history of Masonic festivals in Peterborough, has the attendance of members of the craft been so large, so representative and so enthusiastic. The presence in the gathering of the great galaxy of Past Masters, enhanced the dignity of the occasion—these "silver grays,"—

"Who, when retired from the East,
On memoried power will fondly feast;
Nor realize his reign has ceased,
The old Past Master."

And, to further add to the impressiveness of the occasion was the presence of the distinguished guest of the evening, Right Wor. Bro. Duncan Walker, District Deputy Grand Master of Otonabee District,

THE INSTALLATION OF OFFICERS AND BANQUET OF THE FREE MASONS



Rt. Wor. Bro. Duncan Walker, District Deputy Grand Master of Otonabee District No. 10

No. 20, who was to officiate in his robes of office as the installing Master of the evening.

Festival of St. John

Throughout the British Empire, the large majority of the lodges of the Fraternity of Ancient FFree and Accepted Masons, held their annual function yesterday.

The Fraternity of FFreemasons is the oldest of known fraternal associations, and can trace its history for about 500 years. Previous to that no definite record is in existence, and the history is therefore traditional. Some have endeavoured to trace its origin beyond that date, but the present day historian throws out everything not proven and claims only that which can show evidence.

The difficulty of arriving at the precise time, place or circumstance in which Masonry or its true prototype began, has been encountered by every writer upon the subject. Some over anxious for the dignity of the Fraternity have represented it as coeval with the world. Others, more moderate, find its origin in the religious mysteries of the ancient world, and particularly in a supposed branch of those religious associations formed by the architects of Tyre, who constituted an association of builders, exclusively engaged in the construction of temples and other prominent edifices in Asia Minor, and who were distinguished by the use of secret signs and other modes of mutual recognition.

Stability of Masonic Landmarks

The foundation principles of the order have remained the same through all the ages of the past, and it is a canon of Masonry that it lieth not in the power of any man, or body of men, or Masons, to make changes or innovations in the Ancient Landmarks of the institution. We may reasonably believe, and with full confidence, predict, that Masonry will remain for all coming time, in all its essentials the same and unchanged. Based upon truth as its eternal corner stone, it has stood all the ravages of time, and if its power, and influences, benefits and teachings, as a moral and benevolent institution are ever lost to the world, it will only be through the infidelity of the Craft to the tenets and principles of the Order. An eminent writer has beautifully said of Masonry: "Its laws are reason and equity; its intention is peace on earth; and its disposition good will to all men."

Installation of Officers

The members of the fraternity were convened at an unusually early hour on this occasion, the Wor. Masters of both lodges directing their attendance at 5.30 p.m., instead of the regular hour, 7.30. This innovation proved to be a wise one for various reasons, and the members responded with promptness in even greater numbers than ever before.

With the usual regularity the lodges were opened and the regular routine business was disposed of. The Installing Master, Rt. Wor. Bro. Duncan Walker, assumed the gavel and proceeded to discharge the functions of his office. He was assisted by the following Board of Installing Masters. Wor. Bro. J G M Wilson, Wor. Bro. M A Morrison, V. Wor. Bro. H C Winch, Wor. Bro Tovey and Wor. Bro. W H Bradburn.

At the conclusion of the official business of the evening the members proceeded to their spacious refreshment hall, where the Junior Wardens had provided bountiful tables of refreshments. The spread was laid by Bro. Thomas Hooper, and it is not too much to say that no caterer was the recipient of more flattering bouquets for the excellent variety, and satisfactory character of the appetising courses provided for this occasion. Over one hundred and sixty Masons sat down. The scene will long be remembered as one of the most delightful and generally enjoyable functions in the history of Masonry in Peterborough.

The Toast List

The toast list was reached in good time, and then came the feast of reason and the flow of soul.

Wor. Bro. J G M Wilson occupied the chair at the festive tables and proved himself a creditable toastmaster.

"The King, the Proctor of the Craft," was the first toast from the chair, which was greeted in a right royal and fraternal manner by all present, all joining in singing "The National Anthem."

"The Grand Master and the Grand Lodge of Canada" was proposed by Rt. Wor. Bro. R E Wood, who retold the early history of the formation of Masonry in Canada, and gave an interesting review of some of the crucial events connected with its growth. The personnel of the Grand Lodge had always held high rank, as among its members were many of the leading men of Canada from all professions.

Rt. Wor. Bro. Walker, in responding to the toast, made a very impressive and forceful address. He took high ideals for the basis of his remarks, and pointed out the duties encumbent upon true Masons. Grand Lodge was a noble institution; it was doing noble work,—its benevolent aims being far-reaching. There were 397 lodges in Canada under Grand Lodge jurisdiction, with over 8,000 representatives. The Peterborough lodges were the banner lodges of the District, and he was pleased to tell them that their beautiful and spacious rooms and furnishings were considered among the handsomest in Canada. The various lodges in Otonabee District No. 2 were all in good financial standing. He made reference to the Semi-Centennial Fund, and enjoined all to do their duty in this respect.

Bro. F. H. Dobbin gave a humourous address on the results of averages in various walks of life, which evoked general merriment.

"The Newly Installed Officers" was proposed by W. Bro. J. Crane. He remarked that whatever measure of success attended the lodges was due in large measure to the painstaking zeal to the men elected to the East.

Wor. Bro. T. F. Matthews, of Corinthian Lodge, and Wor. Bro. E. E. Lord, of Peterborough Lodge, both returned thanks for the hearty manner in which the toast was drunk.

"The Day and those who Honour it," was proposed in an instructive address by Wor. Bro. M. A. Morrison, the Vice-Chairman. He claimed that Masons should all know the history of their festivals, and dwelt at considerable length on the festival events recorded in the Bible. His references to the origin of the festival of St. John, the Evangelist, was interesting and instructive.

The toast of "The Visiting Brethren" was proposed by Rt. Wor. Bro. A. Gibson, who toasted the names of a number of visitors with the toast.

Rt. Wor. Bro. W J Dropey of Grimsby, in responding, did not consider that he was a visitor, as, although a non-resident, he was a member of Peterborough Lodge, and had always kept himself in good standing with his mother lodge. But he loved to come here every St. John's Day and renew old associations and join them in their Masonic festivities.

Bro. E O Dench, of Lakefield and Bro. H B Collier, of Prince of Wales Lodge, Newburg, also responded in a happy vein to the toast.

Bro Moore, formerly of Hamilton, gave two excellent recitations, "The Tenderfoot's Ride" and "When the Corn Comes Hot."

"The Absent Brethren" was proposed by Rt. Wor. Bro. Walkey, in an appropriate and fitting manner, during which he gave a list of the names of the absentees of both lodges.

"The Retiring Officers" was proposed by Dr. T. McCullough. He complimented the two lodges on their officers, and believed that their newly-installed successors for 1908 would be equally as efficient.

Bro. J. D. Craig, the retiring W. M., of Corinthian Lodge, gave unstinted credit to his officers for their assistance during the past year, by their regular attendance, and for the good work done. He had enjoyed a pleasant year with his lodge, and would continue to manifest the same interest for Masonry out of office, as in office.

W. Bro. Tovey responded on behalf of Wor. Bro. Jeffries of Toronto, who, having been called away at the early part of the year, was unable to fill this office.

"The Installing Master" was proposed by the chairman in an effective speech, in which he referred to the high appreciation in which Wor. Bro. Walker was held by the brethren of the whole district. He then called upon Wor. Bro. T. F. Matthews to present the Rt. Wor. Bro with a Grand Lodge Regalia, in testimony of the esteem in which he is held by the brethren of both lodges.

Wor. Bro. Matthews then made the presentation to Bro. Walker in a fitting manner, alluding to the many services that had been rendered Masonry by him, and the debt of gratitude they each owed to his assistance and advice.

Rt. Wor. Bro. Walker, who was taken wholly by surprise, seemed overwhelmed by the gift of his brethren. eH thanked them sincerely for their kindness, after which he added some valuable words of advice, regarding their conduct and life as Masons.

"The Junior Warden's Toast" followed — "Happy to meet, sorry to part, happy to meet again."

During the evening the following brethren contributed to the pleasure of the evening by their music, song and otherwise: Wor. Bro. J. Crane, Bro. W. McIlroy, Bro. G. M. Bennett, Wor. Bro. Walter Stocker, Rt. Wor. Bro. Drope.

Toronto B.A.C. Aggregation Getting Ready For The Fray

Despatch Says They Practise With The Toronto Pros.—But They Will Remain Amateurs

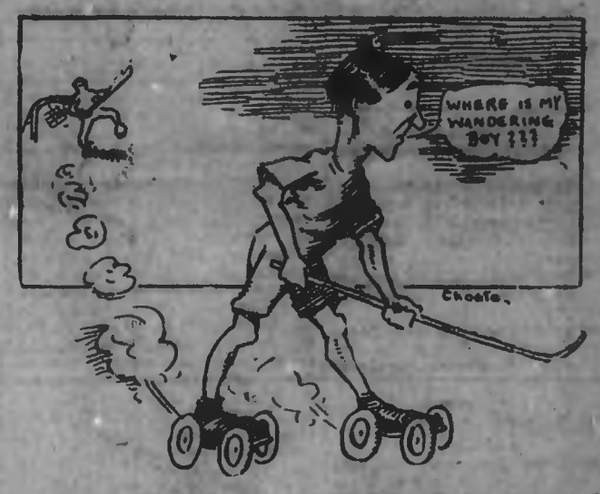
A FORMIDABLE LINE-UP

Examiner Special

Toronto, Dec. 28.—The Toronto B.A.C. hockey team is losing no opportunity of getting into shape for the game with the home seven on New Year's Day. Recently, according to apparently well-authenticated reports, the team had a workout with the Toronto "pros.," with the result that several of the latter have had to go into hospital for repairs. The same reports say that some flattering offers have been made a few of the B.A.C. team to join the ranks of the professionals. It is understood, however, that while one of those to whom the offer was made some time ago graduated from the ranks of the amateur musicians, he will retain his amateur athletic standing. A member of a branch of the medical profession is also reported to have been approached by the Toronto "pro." team's manager. Every member of the team, though, will remain true to his amateur principles until after the game on Wednesday, leaving the future after that to take care of itself.

The game will bring to the arena of Peterborough hockey again some stars of the olden days, Sam Moore of bygone Review-Examiner fame, will in all probability be seen at point, with his smile and his "big stick" of yore. The team on the ice will line up something after this manner:

Goal—Dr. Bazshaw.
Point—Samuel Stewart Moore.
Cover—Melville Jiggers Hutchinson.
Rover—R. Norman Jolliffe (Janitor).



Albert McKay, Captain of the Toronto Section of the B.A.C. Which Will Be Here on New Years Day

Centre—Albert McKay (Capt.)
R. Wing—Bert Boomer.
L. Wing—Ross Dobbin.

The Toronto team will bring several spare men, among them being Harry Bishop, who will administer Shredded Wheat nourishment at half-time; Walter Jackson, who regulates the weather at the observatory, and who promises hard ice, and George James, a brother of Jesse.

Will Johnston, who never saw a hockey game, will be the Toronto team's nominee for referee.

Percy Sellen, the Irish-Canadian a great little Englishmen, who took part in the Y.M.C.A. Harriers' meet here, is in the hospital and will not be able to start in the Martin Electric Road Race at St. Catharines on New Year's Day. Claude Pearce, another of the Irishmen's long distance men is under the ban of the C.A.A.U. for having participated in an unsanctioned race at Burlington and will also be out. Tom Coley is entered, however, and should prove an easy winner.

The Strathconas will have their their fast practice before the New Year's game in Port Hope, on Monday night, weather permitting. Only those who have $5 hockey tickets, which may be secured from the Strathconas Secretary at the Examiner office, will be permitted to practise on Monday night, and players are asked to bear this fact in mind.

A REGIMENT OF CANDIDATES FOR THE MUNICIPAL HONOURS; OVER HALF A HUNDRED ARE NOMINATED

Three Named For The Mayoralty—Mr. Hill and Mr. Best for Water Commission Vacancy

SCHOOL BOARD ELECTION

Forty-three Nominated as Aldermanic Candidates—The Council Chamber Well Filled

Interest in the municipal nominations never ran higher than it did this morning when the City Council Chambers was filled to the doors by an enthusiastic audience to listen to the nominations and hear the addresses by the various candidates. The fact that the Mayoralty would be contested this year probably brought out a larger number of citizens than otherwise. The present Mayor, and Messrs. Harry Rush and William Yelland were the nominees all of whom gave addresses. Mr. Yelland has, however, withdrawn so the fight will be between Mr. Henry Rush and Mr. R. F. McWilliams.

The nominations for the Water Commissioners resulted in the names of Mr. Wm. Hill, who has just completed a term with that body, and Ex-Mayor Best, whose cause was advanced this morning by Mr. Geo. Hatton in Mr. Best's absence, being put in nomination.

The vacancy will therefore be contested.

The five retiring members of the Board of Education are Messrs. W H Hill, Dr. Geo. Burnham, Jno. Crane, Wm. Pringle and D. W. Dumble. These men were all again nominated, but in addition Mr. W F Nelson was proposed so that in all probability there will be an election for the School Board vacancy.

Asked whether he would contest the election, Mr. Nelson replied to the Examiner: "I don't know but that I will."

The nomination for Aldermen has broken all records there being 43 names on the list. However, it is not expected that all of these will remain in the field. The nominations were as follows:—

The Speeches

Between 11 and 12 o'clock, the candidates for the Mayoralty, and Water Commissioners, were given an opportunity to speak, and by agreement the time was divided into 12 minute periods. City Clerk Armstrong, on motion of Mayor McWilliams, seconded by Mr. Rush, took the chair, and called upon Mr. Rush, the first man nominated for the Mayoralty, to address the gathering. All the candidates were given a good hearing, and Mr. Yelland's effort was received with tumultuous applause and laughter.

Mr. Rush was received with loud applause when he arose to speak.

Mr. Rush

In beginning, he remarked that he had lived in Peterborough for forty-five years, and this was the second nomination that he had attended. Speaking of his candidature, he said, that for the last three months he had been asked to allow his name to go before the people as a candidate for mayor. At first he had considered the matter a formality but when two weeks ago, a requisition had been presented to him signed by hundreds of ratepayers, he had felt that it was a call to duty, and, after several days consideration, he had accepted. He had no axes to grind, was a large property owner and had made a success of his own business, and felt that he could make a similar success, if given an opportunity, in managing the business of Peterborough.

Mr. Rush went on to speak about the purchase of the Hilliard property, remarking that for the benefit of a number of the ratepayers and voters who had come to the city in the last few years, and did not know him as well as the older citizens, he wished to correct a report that had been circulated.

During the first year that he had been a member of the council, a great problem was to get gravel, and he had made the proposal to purchase a part of the Hilliard farm. It was found that the owner did not wish to sell a part of it but wished to

NEWS OF ABDUCTED CHILD

Word Has Been Received by Mr. Marion —She May Be Recovered

Lindsay, Dec. 30.—(Special.) — The Marion abduction case has again been active the last few days. A few days ago word was received by Mr. Marion, that the woman abductor and the child, were in Ogdensburg, N.Y., and her address was also secured. Mr. Marion communicated with the Attorney-General's department, asking their assistance in securing the child, but he received word that the department had no jurisdiction in the matter, and therefore could not assist him.

Mr. Marion, however, has not given up hope of securing the return of the child, and it is understood that he is now in Ogdensburg to see what can be done.

COFFIN HELD A BODY NOT LEAD

Another Link in Evidence of The Great London Druce Case

Examiner Special.

London, Eng., Dec. 30.—The body of Thomas Charles Druce in Highgate Cemetery, was exhumed this morning, just forty-three years to a day after its burial. The coffin was found to contain the remains of a human body, thus exploding the romantic tales told by Robert C. Caldwell and others, who swore during the recent hearing that it contained a roll of lead. The official statement given out by representatives of the Home Office seems effectively to confirm that the body buried in 1864 was actually that of T. C. Druce. The authorized statement follows:—"The coffin was opened and found to contain the body of an aged, bearded man. The plate on the coffin bore the name "Thomas Charles Druce."

This is the first appearance in Canada of the Portello Stock Co. It is away ahead of the Canadian Stock Companies that have played in Peterboro' heretofore.

Mr. Frank Whibbs Suffers From An Early Morning Accident in Douro Township

SLIPPED ON ROAD SIDE

Examiner Special

Douro, Dec. 30.—A peculiar accident occurred here this morning at 5 o'clock, the result of which is a broken arm for Mr. Frank Whibbs. The unlucky man was injured by falling on the roadside when a sleigh was passing, in such a manner that his arm was run over by the rear bob.

The sleigh was driven by Mr. Edward Condon. Mr. Whibbs turned off at the side to allow him to pass, when he slipped and fell with the above-mentioned result.

He was taken to the home of Mr. Edward Allen, his brother-in-law, where Dr. Carmichael of Peterborough came and set the fracture. He is suffering considerable pain as the result of the accident.

THE REAL QUESTION

The Examiner has received an unique document—a detailed and summarized statement of the meetings of the Council and committee meetings for the year 1907, accompanied by a statement of meetings attended by the members of the Council. There is, it seems, no complaint that the Council and committees have not attended a sufficient number of meetings. The feeling among the public interested is, rather, that if, perhaps, so many meetings had not been held, the interests of the city would not have suffered as they have done in a great many respects. What the public is concerned in is the quality of work done at the meetings held. If, as is stated, many meetings were held where talk, talk, talk and squabble prevailed so that adjournment had practically to be made to another meeting to do business, it would seem that the greater the number of the meetings of this character held, the less were the interests of the city served. No one, it seems, questions the fidelity of the members of the Council to their duty so far as attendance at meetings is concerned. The very worst member of a council may have been most assiduous in his attendance at all kinds of meetings, and the best members of a council may have omitted a few meetings. One can not estimate the value of the services rendered by the regularity of answers to the roll call. The quality of work done is the real test. The question for the ratepayers to consider is the manner in which the City Council has done its work; whether at ten or twenty-four meetings, the business of the city has been transacted in an economical, business-like and satisfactory way. Has value been received for the immense expenditure made? Is an overdraft of $110,000 on top of a tax bill paid of $128,000 good business? Has the public received value in the shape of good streets for the big bill run up by the Board of Works? Has the assessment been satisfactory, has it been just, has it been equal as among the several wards of the city? Have those members of the Council who stood for good business methods and economical administration been properly supported? These and similar questions are what the electors are called to pronounce upon. The count of noses is a minor matter.

THAT HALF-MILLION FUND

Concerning the fund of half a million dollars raised for the Conservative party in 1904, Hon. Mr. Pugsley, in an interview at St. John, N. B., says he will pay no attention to such "political mosquitoes" as Mr. Kemp or Mr. Bennett, but he adds that "whenever Mr. Borden is ready to discuss the matter with him, either in Parliament or elsewhere, he is ready to meet him in debate."

Mr. Borden has so far declined to take up the challenge issued by Mr. Pugsley at a public meeting in Ottawa. The Minister of Public Works offered to give the name of a person who received $25,000 to be spent in one New Brunswick riding, if Mr. Borden demanded it on the floor of the House. So long as Mr. Borden remains silent the fumings of his lieutenants mean nothing.

Another sidelight on the Conservative campaing of 1904 is furnished by Mr. David Russell, the eastern capitalist, who mustered strong influences against the Laurier Government. He has accused the general manager of a leading bank of a breach of faith in divulging the fact he (Russell) endorsed Mr. Hugh Graham's note for $100,000. There was no violation of trust by the bank manager, as he was compelled to produce his books by an order of a high court. This $100,000 was for use in the Maritime Provinces. Mr Graham has already testified that he sent election funds into each of the ridings of the Quebec district. His benefactions must have been enormous in the aggregate. And he was not the only special providence of the Conservative party. Mr. Russell was another with a long purse. The other member of the plutocracy are not yet known to the public, but their names will probably leak out.

Was all the money they subscribed merely a pledge of their affection for the Conservative party? Did they expect no return, if that party got the reins of power?—London Advertiser.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The end of the year is the time for making good resolutions; the beginning of the year, too often, the time for breaking them. But this is what might be expected. Spasmodic, emotional exhibitions of virtue cannot be hoped to be lasting. The reformation founded upon principle is that which gives promise of permanence.

Begin the new year with a clean slate. Settle all your accounts. If you owe money, pay it. If you are in debt to another's kindness, discharge it. If you owe another feelings of hatred on all will, wipe off the account. Begin the new year with a clear balance sheet, with a clear conscience, with a resolve to do the right and honourable thing in all your relations, and it will be worth while wishing you a happy new year.

THE STRINGENCY IN THE U. S.

Henry Clews & Company of New York, generally unemotional and temperate commentators on financial questions, in their weekly circular, have the following to say of the situation in the United States. In view of the close commercial and allied relations existing between this country and our neighbours, the comment following will be read with interest:—

The close of the year finds us energetically struggling to emerge from one of the most disastrous financial panics in history. Security values have shrunken at least one-third, and in many cases more than one-half of the figures quoted a year ago.

While the causes of the panic are now generally understood, it may be well in taking account of the past twelve months to briefly cite the chief reasons. Among these causes were general over-doing; over-extension of credit; over-speculation; over-issue of securities; general industrial expansion; excessive underwriting schemes; excessive mining and real estate speculation; earthquakes at home and abroad; Japanese and South African wars; general public extravagance; exhaustion of floating capital; distrust induced by corporate mismanagement, and finally the hostile attitude of political leaders and legislative bodies at home, stimulating erroneous prejudice against wealth. These conditions, however are now a matter of history, and of little interest except for the lessons they convey. It is of first importance to recognize that a complete change of base has taken place; and that the business world, whether it likes it or not, must now be actively concerned in adjusting itself to new conditions. We have been suddenly precipitated from a high level to a lower, and the sooner this vital change is admitted and conformed to, the prompter and sounder will be the resumption of business activity. Fortunately, the panic fell with greatest severity upon those best able to bear it; wealthy institutions and the rich men being the chief sufferers. Upon the industrial, mercantile and labouring classes the shock has been much less severe; a distinction that it is important to bear in mind. It would be folly, however, to indulge in delusions as to the final effects of the panic. In greater or less degree, the consequences will be distributed over all parts of the country, and it is not unreasonable to be prepared for at least a year of comparative depression, certainly in the East, where commerce and industry are most concentrated.

MORGUE OFFICIALS BUSY.

Year's Record of Tragic Deaths In the City of Montreal.

Montreal, Dec. 30.—The year now drawing to a close has been a busy one with the morgue officials, and the records kept by Deputy Coroner Biron show that 785 deaths have been reported to the coroner since the beginning of 1907, or 25 more than were reported last year. There were twelve cases of homicide reported. The juries were unable to fix the blame on any particular person.

Fire was responsible for 44 deaths, including the 16 children and principal, who were suffocated in the Hochelaga school fire, and Mrs. Joseph Lalonie, an insane woman, who burned herself at a stake near her home at St. Lazare.

No less than 83 were killed by railways. Of these steam railways were responsible for 60, and the street railway for 20. There were 27 suicides during the twelve months, and 53 met death by drowning.

Alcoholism was responsible for four deaths, while 15 persons died from accidental poisoning.

There were 217 sudden deaths, due to natural causes.

OPENING BRUCE COFFIN.

Large Crowd Throng Cemetery In Which Vault Stands.

London, Dec. 30.—Scores of policemen and detectives are tramping to and fro about the hastily-constructed shack over a grave in Highgate cemetery, on the outskirts of London, last night. Outside the cemetery are still others keeping a silent vigil—representatives respectively of the Sixth Duke of Portland and Lord Howard de Walden on one hand and George Hollamby Druce on the other, who in turn are watching the policemen and the detectives.

The grave itself now holds the centre of the stage in the drama played before the public for more than a dozen years. Asserting that the Fifth Duke of Portland led a double life and was one and the same with Thomas Charles Druce, the claimant, son of Druce's eldest son, demands the title and estates. He asserts that the funeral of Druce was a mockery, planned by the duke when he tired of his double life.

If when the coffin reveals its secret to-day the assertions of the claimant to title, vast wealth and estates of the Duke of Portland be justified, those empowered by law to open it will find within nothing but 170 pounds of lead; otherwise, it will reveal the remains of Thomas Charles Druce, thus proving that such an individual really lived, separate and apart from any dual personality assumed by the eccentric Fifth Duke of Portland. In the latter contingency the complete fabric of the claimant's case will of course fall to the ground, and with it the curtain on the last scene of a remarkable drama.

The first step in the work of opening the grave was taken yesterday, when the great three-ton monument which marks the resting place of the Druce family was removed. All in attendance at the grave have been sworn to secrecy, so that the result of the investigation will not be known until the experts give evidence in the Police Court.

POLICE ON TRIAL.

Two Young Men Suspected In Connection With Pond Mystery.

New York, Dec. 30.—The veil of mystery enveloping the tragic death of the young woman whose nude body was found half submerged in the water and mud of a lonely pond near Harrison, N. J., Thursday, is being rapidly lifted, and detectives working on the case believe that the slayer of the woman, who was identified yesterday as "Annie O'Keefe" or Annie Nevins, will soon be run down and taken into custody.

The identification of the dead woman was first made by Mrs. Margaret Wright, who conducts an employment bureau in Montclair, N. J. She said the woman had called on her earlier in the month and asked for employment. She gave the name of Annie Nevins, but did not state where she lived. Late yesterday afternoon her identity was partly corroborated by Detective Draybell of Orange, N. J., who said the woman's name was Annie O'Keefe, and that he knew her well two years ago, when she was employed in the home of Thomas Nevins, a contractor in Orange. Since that time Sergt. Draybell states the woman was employed in the capacity of a maid in several places in and about Orange.

While Mrs. Wright could give little further information concerning the woman, she recalled that Miss O'Keefe had told her that she had been acting as a housekeeper for two young men in Brooklyn. The Harrison police have learned much of Miss O'Keefe's movements just before the murder.

DRIVE OUT ASIATICS.

Must Leave Transvaal If They Refuse to Register.

Pretoria, Dec. 30.—The Transvaal Government has lost no time in enforcing the provisions of the immigration restriction act, which requires all Asiatics in this country to register. Several British Indian leaders, including an eminent lawyer, who refused to comply with the conditions of the act, have been ordered to leave the country within 48 hours, and many others have been arrested. A number of Chinese have been similarly treated.

Since the passage of the act 50,000 residents of British India have left the colony, and there are 7,000 still here who refuse to register. Those who have taken their departure have expressed a determination to start an agitation to bring enough power on the Imperial Government, so that it will intervene in the matter.

Buried Under Woodpile.

Ailsa Craig, Dec. 30.—After being buried 36 hours in a woodpile in the woodshed of his home, Robert Gray, an elderly retired farmer, was discovered at 6 o'clock Christmas night by neighbors, and is now in a critical condition from exhaustion.

The loud mooing of a cow on the premises attracted attention and an investigation followed, resulting in the finding of the unfortunate man.

Mrs. Gray was spending Christmas away from home.

Local Option Has Hurt Owen Sound

the Matthew Kennedy, Mayor of Owen Sound and one of its chief business men, publicly asserted on Nov. 27 last that "Local Option has injured local trade, has not lessened drunkenness, and has lowered the moral well-being of very many."

Yet the believers in Local Option hold up Owen Sound as an example of their belief's operation. If Local Option has hurt Owen Sound, why is it likely to benefit YOUR town.

Messrs. Tucker & Patterson, Barristers, of Owen Sound—that "model temperance town"—certify to the fact that its citizens "have been less prosperous because of hampered trade under Local Option, and less able to pay their debts."

In 1905, before Local Option began there, 584 debt suits were entered for trial in the Division Court. In eleven months of this year, under Local Option, 778 suits have been entered there arising from debt.

No business man would vote for Local Option if he fernew how it really works.

MIDDLE LIFE

A Time When Women Are Susceptible to Many Dread Diseases—Intelligent Women Prepare for It. Two Relate Their Experiences.

The "change of life" is the most critical period of a woman's existence, and the anxiety felt by women as it draws near is not without reason.

Every woman who neglects the care of her health at this time invites disease and pain.

When her system is in a deranged condition, or she is predisposed to apoplexy, or congestion of any organ, the tendency is at this period likely to become active—and with a host of nervous irritations, make life a burden. At this time, also, cancers and tumors are more liable to form and begin their destructive work.

Such warning symptoms as sense of suffocation, hot flashes, headaches, backaches, dread of impending evil, timidity, sounds in the ears, palpitation of the heart, sparks before the eyes, irregularities, constipation, variable appetite, weakness, inquietude, and dizziness are promptly heeded by intelligent women who are approaching the period in life when woman's great change may be expected.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was prepared to meet the needs of woman's system at this trying period of her life. It invigorates and strengthens the female organism and builds up the weakened nervous system.

For special advice regarding this important period women are invited to write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., and it will be furnished absolutely free of charge. The present Mrs. Pinkham is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, her assistant before her decease, and for twenty-five years since her advice has been freely given to sick women.

Read what Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound did for Mrs. Powless and Mrs. Mann:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"In my opinion there is no medicine made for women which can compare with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and you have no firmer friend in the Dominion than I am. At the time of change of life I suffered until I was nearly crazy, and was not fit to live with. I was so irritable, irrational and nervous that I was a torment to myself and others. I surely thought that I would lose my reason before I got through, when fortunately an old friend recommended your Vegetable Compound. I took it for five months and then off and on until the critical period had passed, and it restored me to perfect health. My advice to suffering women is to try your Vegetable Compound, and they will not be disappointed."—Mrs. E. Powless, Desesoto, Ont.

Another Woman's Case.

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"As I owe my splendid health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I am very pleased to write and tell you my experience with it. I am the mother of three children grown to womanhood, and have safely passed the change of life, and feel as young and as strong as I did twenty years ago, and I know that this is all due to your woman's friend, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I used it before my children were born, and it greatly assisted nature and saved me much pain during the change of life. I took it, off and on, for four years, and had but little trouble and sickness that most women have to endure."—Mrs. James K. Mann, 309 Bathurst St., Toronto, Canada.

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for Mrs. Powless and Mrs. Mann, it will do for other women at this time of life.

It has conquered pain, restored health, and prolonged life in cases that utterly baffled physicians.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Succeeds Where Others Fail.

SPLENDID CONCERT AT SPRINGVILLE

Three Presentations During The Evening —Affair Was a Success

The annual closing entertainment in connection with the Springville Presbyterian church, was held on Friday night, and in spite of the rainy weather, the church was filled, including the aisles. The children took their parts excellently, and were assisted by the young men and women of the church, as well as the choir. Miss Margaret Berry, of South Monaghan, and Mr. Laycock, of Walter's Falls, Ont., also assisted. Part of the surplus goes to the Sick Children's Hospital funds, and the remainder to the library fund.

During the evening Dr. Marsh, the pastor, was presented with an otter cap, and Mrs. Marsh with a purse of gold, the presentations being made by Messrs. Albert Sanderson and Charles Johnston. Mr. Vernie Trew, who rings the bell of the church, was presented with a handsome chain as an appreciation of his services durvices during the past year.

One of the features of the evening was the mechanical man, who provided gifts.

For Diseases Of The Skin

THERE IS NO TREATMENT SO CERTAIN TO RELIEVE THE ITCHING AND HEAL THE SORES AS

Dr. Chase's Cintment

The one common feature of nearly all skin diseases is itching, annoying and oftentimes almost unendurable itching.

The strong point about Dr. Chase's Ointment is that by reason of its remarkable soothing qualities it relieves itching the moment it is applied.

But Dr. Chase's Ointment does more than this. It is composed of the greatest healing ingredients known to science, and its healing powers an often described as magical.

Allaying the inflammation, relieving the itching and gradually and naturally healing the raw, flaming flesh, Dr. Chase's Ointment is the most effective treatment for eczema and salt rheum that was ever discovered.

There are many kinds of eczema, and nearly all itching skin diseases come under this head. In children it is known as teething eczema, and many a fond mother will tell you heartfelt gratitude of how her little one was rescued from torturing, itching eczema by the use of this great ointment.

Wherever there is itching skin or a sore that refuses to heal Dr. Chase's Ointment will positively prove effective as a relief and cure.

Miss C. Stanley-Jones, professional masseuse and nurse, 293 Simcoe street, Toronto, Ont., writes:—"In my occupation as a nurse I have come across many cases in which Dr. Chase's Ointment has been used with extraordinary results. One case I recall was that of a child of sixteen months who was in a bad way with scaley head. It was a real nasty case causing the child to suffer very much and to be very troublesome. I persuaded the mother to use Dr. Chase's Ointment and in ten days the child was entirely cured.

"Another case was that of a lady who was greatly troubled with eczema on the face. The doctor was doing her with medicine which was doing no good. In this case cure was effected in seven days with only one box of Dr. Chase's Ointment. Both of these cures were lasting."

Dr. Chase's Ointment has an unparalleled record of cures; 60c a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. 13

LOST HIS SUIT CASE IN PORT HOPE

Claims It Was Stolen From the Station— It Turns Up Saturday

A prominent citizen of this place told the Examiner on Saturday of an incident that occurred while he was on his Christmas vacation.

He was returning from his home in Napanee, and had to wait an hour in Port Hope, for the train to Peterborough. He left his suit case, which was full of presents, in the waiting room and went out for a walk. A stranger walked into the station, and picked up the suit case, just after he left, and asked a little girl in the station if it was hers. She said "No," and the stranger walked away with it. Just before the Peterborough train came in the local gentleman came back to the station, and the little girl told him the story of the suit case. His train had just come into the station, and he telephoned the police about the supposed robbery.

Later the suit case came up on the G. T. R., expressed to his address, but he does not know who sent it.

SKATING SPOILED AT RINK

Mild Weather is Not Being Received With Favour by Young People

The mild spell is not meeting with the same favour as it would be if it were March instead of December. The management of the skating and curling rinks, and of the toboggan slide at Jackson Park, are in despair and the young people are despondent over the conditions. There was of course no skating at the Brock street rink on Saturday, even the hockey practice being called off, and to-day the conditions are even worse. However colder weather is looked for soon, and no difficulty will be experienced in getting ice quickly, if the frigid snap comes.

CITIZENS THANKED FOR THEIR KINDNESS

Writer Believes Work of Churches and Societies is to be Commended

To the Editor of the Examiner,—

Dear Sir, — I beg you will find space in your valuable paper to enable us to reach those of our friends who have so promptly rendered assistance to their less fortunate neighbours.

Most of the warm-hearted inhabitants of this city are entirely unknown to the recipient of good cheer, and it is only through the press, (which is the voice of the people,) that we may hope to reach them.

On behalf of my family, and others who have benefited, I here wish to express our appreciation of the many acts of kindness received at the hands of our more fortunate neighbours.

Also, the successful effort made collectively by the Churches of this generous city. Notably the good cheer, and entertainment given by them at the market hall, irrespectively of creed.

It was a happy and successful event the effect of which was plainly depicted on the sea of happy faces, on which I gazed from my position at the front.

I can honestly say, from results gained by conversing with other recipeints that their appreciation and esteem are such that they will live long in their memory.

Yours truly,
R. H. M.

SERMON BY PETERBORO' PASTOR

By Rev. A. E. Steuernagel in Saturday's Issue of Montreal Star

In Saturday's issue of the Montreal Star appears a sermon by Rev. Albert E. Steuernagel, pastor of Bethany Tabernacle, Peterborough. The sermon is accompanied by a cut of Mr. Steuernagel whose subject was the following verse:—

"Now on the last day, the great day of the feast, Jesus stood and cried, saying: If any man thirst, let him come unto Me and drink. He that believeth on me, as the Scripture hath said, from within him shall flow rivers of living water. But this spake He of the Spirit, which they that believed on Him were to receive, for the Spirit was not yet given; because Jesus was not yet glorified."—John 7; 37-39.

SOME MILD WEATHER IN ABLERTA

So States Letter Received From Mr. Jas. Sanderson Formerly of Smith

A letter has been received at the Examiner from Mr. Jas. Sanderson, Davidson, Alta., stating that the weather in that vicinity has been beautiful all autumn with very little cold weather, a decided change from that of a year ago. The people in that district have as yet had no sleighing but the wheeling has been excellent. Contrary to reports that have been spread around here there has been no cyclone at Davidson recently and Mr. Sanderson states such an occurrence is totally foreign to that section of the prairies.

EXPRESS CAR BREAKS DOWN

Tire Comes Off—Box Car Secured To Carry the Baggage

The C.P.R. express which is due here at 4.48 a.m. was delayed for a considerable time at Havelock on Friday evening, owing to a breakdown on the baggage car.

The train had pulled out of Havelock and was going at a good rate when the mishap occurred. After the train was brought to a stop it was found that a tire had come off one of the wheels of the baggage car. The officials tried to repair the damage, and failing, it was backed into Havelock where the baggage car was taken off for repairs.

The baggageman came on to Peterborough where a box car was secured to carry the baggage the rest of the journey.

The Devil Strives Most For The Destruction of Boys

Rev. M. L. Pearson Urges United Efforts in Behalf of The Boys—An Interesting Discourse

FATHER AND SON FOR GOD

To commemorate anniversary day at the George street Methodist church yesterday, Rev. M. L. Pearson, of Strathroy, preached at the morning and evening services. He was a former pastor of the church, and is the father of Rev. E. A. Pearson, the present pastor. His addresses were both practical and helpful, and large congregations were present at the two services.

The church was crowded in the evening and it certainly was a singular and happy event to see both father and son assisting in the same church, in advancing the teaching of Christ. It had probably never before been witnessed by the congregation of the George street church.

Rev. M. L. Pearson, in beginning his evening sermon, stated that he was much pleased to have had the portunity of assisting in the worship on the occasion of the aniversary. He was very grateful for the cordiality with which teh congregation had greeted him. He said there was a melancholy feeling affecting him on his return to his former flock he noticed that many hands had vanished, and many voices had been stilled. He complimented the people on the increase that they had made in strength of numbers, and as a power for good in the city.

The Sermon

Rev. Mr. Pearson spoke from the Book of Revelations, xv, 3. "And they sing the song of Moses, the servant of God, and the song of the Lamb, saying, Great and marvellous are thy works, Lord, God, Almighty; just and true are thy ways, thou King of Saints."

Rev. Mr. Pearson stated that through the course of the ages there were no two names so illustrious as those mentioned in the text. His object in his discourse was to study the relations of these two lives. Both had come into the world when the people were in bondage. Moses was to deliver Egypt from the tyranny of the Pharoahs, and Jesus to deliver the world from the bondage of sin, from which no other power could extricate the people. Both were expected to come and yet they were rejected when they announced themselves. In many other ways Mr. Pearson pointed out the connection between Jesus, the Lamb of God, and Moses.

He referred to the temptations with which Satan tried to ensnare these two persons, when they were young in experience. Satan's policy is still unchanged, he said, and by every means he tries to allure the boys. They are subjected to many temptations, and if he were so determined on their destruction, how much more so ought the church to endeavour to save them. Mr. Pearson urged the parents to do their duty at home, the teachers to cooperate and the church in every branch to do everything possible to save the youth.

WEDDING BELLS.

ATKINSON-CARTER

Hastings, Dec. 30th — (Special.)—A pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mrs. Jos. Carter, on Christmas Day at 4 p.m., when her youngest daughter, Nellie, was united in marriage to Mr. William Atkinson of this village, Rev. Mr. Elliott officiating.

At the appointed hour the bride entered the church, leaning on the arm of her brother, John, who gave her away, and she then took her place beneath an arch of evergreens and holly.

The wedding march was played by Miss Myrtle Buchanan of Havelock. Little Eva Payne, niece of the bride, who was gowned in white silk, carried the ring, which was embedded in a beautiful basket of white roses and carnations.

The bride looked pretty in a creation of cream silk crepe de chine trimmed with silk applique, and duchess satin ribbon, and a spray of white forget-me-nots in her hair. Her bouquet was white carnations.

The bride's going away dress was navy blue ladies' cloth coat and skirt, with touches of Dresden, and a beautiful white hat.

A sumptuous repast was served, after which the happy couple took the evening train for Toronto for a short honeymoon trip, after which they will reside in the village.

The wedding presents were numerous and costly among them being a handsome oak rocking chair, a present from the choir of the Methodist church, of which Mr. and Mrs. Atkinson are members.

The groom's present to the bride was a twenty dollar gold piece, and to the flower girl a gold necklace.

The bride was born and brought up in this district and has always been known for her kind disposition, so that Mr Atkinson and his wife carry with them the best wishes of their many friends for their future happiness.

DISCOVERIES MADE BY LOCAL MEN

Gold and Silver That Has Been Located in Northern Ontario

It will be news to many to know that there have been many discoveries of mineral in the north during the year, and it speaks well for Peterborough's industrial inhabitants that Peterborough has her fair share of such discoveries. Several samples are at this office and the opinion of all who have seen them is that they are first class samples in every way. The one belonging to Mr. F. Reutsch and Company being of high order, it having passed through a series of assays at the hands of Mr. Latimer, of Toronto. A pleasing part of the Reutsch find is that it is in the hands of a company of working men, they having borne all the expense up to the present, and it is gratifying to learn that they have had assurances that Mr. Warren B. Thomas, Johnstown, Pa., capitalist, is interested in the find and that he will be over in the early spring to see if the certificate of Mr. Latimer compares with the mine itself. He will visit the property in company with Mr. Tutterman, mining engineer, and after securing samples will have them assayed at his own expense. Should they prove to be as stated by Mr. Latimer, he will take steps to have the mine worked at once.

The certificate of assay given by Mr. Latimer reads:—

Surface, silver $10.67 per ton.

Three feet depth, silver $11.41; gold, $11.25.

Nine feet depth, silver none; gold, $11.50.

The nine foot shaft was sunk a short distance from the three foot shaft.

Any further information wanted will be given on application to 106 Stewart street.—Com.

BAILEY WILL NOT PAY TOLL

Venders in Future Will be Allowed To Sell Their Wares at Back Doors Of These Merchants

THE CASE WAS DISMISSED

The case of Robert Bailey, who was charged with non-payment of toll on the market square, came up for judgmnet to-day. Mr. G. Gordon, of O'Connell and Gordon, appeared for Mr. Bailey, and Mr. E. H. D. Hall, City Solicitor, for the city. His Worship thought Mr. Bailey had a right to bring goods to that place to sell, whether he went to the back door or the front door made no difference. In bringing these goods he did not stand on the market and await the arrival of some customer to make a purchase, but he drove straight to the back entrance of Mr. Denne's store.

The law on this question is taken from page 383, chapter 19, sub-sections 12 and 13 of the Revised Ontario Statues, which read as follows:—

"The bylaw may also provide for the imposition upon and the collection of the market fees from any person who shall remain or cause his vehicle to remain upon that part of any street immediately adjoining or surrounding or being within one hundred yards of the market place for the purpose of selling upon such street or streets such articles, so as to obtain the advantages of the said market place, but driving through or across such portions of streets shall not in itself be deemed sufficient ground for the imposition of any fee, but this sub-section shall not apply to grain, seeds, wool nor dressed hogs.

"The bylaw shall not prevent the sale of any such articles to any person carrying on business and having an actual and bona fide store, shop or other similar place of business, on those portions of the streets in the next preceding sub-section mentioned; nor shall the bylaw authorize the imposing or levying of any fee in respect to an article so sold, or of any vehicle in which the same is contained."

His Worship decided to dismiss the case, Mr. McIlmoyle to pay the costs.

St. Peter's T.A.S. Will Receive Communion Next Sunday

New Year's Day is a holy day in the Catholic church, and at St. Peter's Cathedral there will be four masses. They will be at 6, 8, 9 and 10 o'clock. At the evening service on Sunday Rev. Dr. O'Brien preached a very forcible sermon to a large congregation. He spoke on the commandment, 'Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain." Rev. Dr. O'Brien pointed out the evil effects of the habit of cursing and swearing, and stated that men dishonour God's name without thinking or caring what they say, and all they are doing is dmaning their souls by the foolish and sinful practice.

SPOKE ON YOUNG MEN OF INDIA

An Excellent Service at Y.M.C.A. Yesterday Afternoon

The Rev. H. J. Keith, pastor of the Knox Presbyterian church, and at one time one of the International Y.M.C.A. Secretaries in India, gave a most interesting address at the Y.M.C.A. yesterday afternoon. One great difficulty in doing Christian work in India, has always been the caste, and social distinctions are so strong that it is almost impossible to get the different classes to mix in any way.

The Y.M.C.A. have been able to reach each class of young men and and are doing a wonderful work in that country. Mr. Keith spoke more especially in regard to the natives of India, the difficulties the secretaries had in reaching these men and yet the great success which had attended their efforts.

He also spoke of the enormous growth and great good of the student work in India, and especially in Calcutta, where there are 10,000 studets and where they have an Association that would compare with almost any in the European countries, or in America. This is where the secretary whom the members of the Y.M.C.A. of Peterborough help support, works. Mr. Faruhar, a former professor in a university there, but who is now engaged as a Y.M.C.A. secretary in Calcutta and is being supported by some of the Ontario Associations, one of which is Peterborough.

An offering wast aken up for the work at the close of the address.

The Misses Chasty rendered a duet and Mr. J. Browns, a solo, which were much appreciated.

New Year's day Reception

Mr. Rowland Common's orchestra of six or seven pieces will provide music for the afternoon. A musical treat is in store for those who can attend. The committees are all at work and everything points to a most successful reception. Invitations can be secured at the Association or the stores.

NO MOTHER TO GUIDE HER

One of the best melodramas of the season was seen at the Grand on Saturday afternoon and evening when the well known actress, Miss Alma Heran appeared in "No Mother to Guide Her" at two well attended performances. The play was seen here for the first time and made an instantaneous hit with the audience. The action is full of startling climaxes and heart interest and the capable company made the most of them. Miss Hearn is an especially clever star and was given splendid support. Some splendid specialties were introduced, Miss Hearn's song "No Wedding Bells For Me," bringing down the house. "No Mother to Guide Her" is well worth seeing and would be given a hearty welcome back to Peterborough.

Lakefield Man Charged With Criminal Assault

Accused of Acting in Indecent Manner Towards a Customer Buying Whiskey

TWO CHARGES AGAINST HIM

Following the tale told by Thos. Weston and his wife of Lakefield to the county police authorities, Frederick Holling of the same village has been arrested on a charge of indecent assault, and now reclines in the county jail awaiting his trial.

Weston came to the city on Saturday to consult the county officials in connection with the charge he has laid against the accused. He claims that on Christmas Day he sent his wife over to the home of Frederick Holling to purchase a bottle of whisky. She did not return until late in the evening, and when she did she had a doleful tale to relate of the treatment accorded her by the prisoner, which has caused to be confined to her room ever since.

She told her husband that when she asked Holling for the whisky he entered into an indecent conversation. She tried to get out, but he locked both the rear and front doors and held her a prisoner. She was oblivious of what subsequently occurred until she awoke and found herself in a private room in the Holling residence. He finally allowed her to go, giving her the whisky as she went. He told her as she passed through the yard that if she mentioned one word of what had happened he would shoot both her and her husband.

Mrs. Weston is an Englishwoman only 23 years of age. She has three children, and has been in Canada for eight months. Both Holling and Weston work in the Portland Cement works.

On Saturday morning Weston came to Peterborough and laid a charge against Holling. High County Constable Cochrane left the city about 4.30 o'clock in the afternoon and at 7 o'clock he had returned to Peterborough with Holling a captive.

The prisoner is doubly in the toils of the law. He is also charged with selling whisky without a license.

This morning Holling appeared before Magistrate Edmison, and was let go on his own recognizance to appear again on January 2.

MANY, MANY THANKS

Did I wish to return to my customers and friends who have aided me in passing a successful year in business. My health permitting, I mean to continue, and cordially ask a continuance of your kind patronage. To those who have not as yet made me a call, or may not know of what business I am in, I would say that it is agrocery at the corner of Aylmer and MacDonel streets, where almost everything of the best that money can buy is kept, and the prices right, considering quality. I kindly solicit a share of your trade also. I wish all good luck and many returns for the year, 1908.

Yours respectfully,
J. M. DONOVAN.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound, or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube resored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

REFUSED TO GO HOME.

Bride Does Not Like Leaving After Being Courted by Mail.

Pittsburg, Dec. 30.—For a year Samuel Wallace of Latchford, Ont., courted by letter 18-year-old Pearl Richards, soloist in the choir of the First Christian Church of Braddock. Last July he came to Braddock and married the little miss, returning home alone, and for six months the entire Richards family has coaxed the young bride in vain to join her husband in Ontario. Finally on Christmas eve, the groom came on to Pittsburg, announcing that he would not return until he took his bride with him. Saturday night the wedding, which had been kept secret, was announced, and the bride began preparations for her trip.

The young people's courtship started through the correspondence department of a magazine. The young man came on from his home in Ontario, where his father is chief timber inspector for the province, 48 hours before the wedding. After the ceremony, the bride cried that she could not leave the home of her childhood. Young Wallace returned to Canada and his parents joined in his entreaties. The girl steadfastly refused, until the husband appeared last week accompanied by his mother.

Shot Sweetheart, Then Self.

Abingdon, Mass., Dec. 30.—Edith Ashley, the 18-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Ashley, died yesterday at the Brockton Hospital, from a bullet wound inflicted Saturday night by her lover, Samuel H. Stetson, 24 years old, of Rockland, who killed himself after shooting her. She made no statement at the hospital, but after the shooting Saturday night she said she had told her lover that he must give her up, and that "Sam" had then shot her.

Had Eyes Shot Out.

Kingston, Dec. 30.—A pitiful case has just been brought to the Hotel Dieu in this city. It is that of a young man from Hastings County who a month ago had both eyes shot out. The unfortunate fellow was in the act of unloading a charge in a rifle that failed to explode. He struck the end of the ramrod against the charge and it exploded, not only driving the contents into his face, but forcing the rod into his head at the same time. He was brought here to ascertain whether he could get any help from a specialist, but his case was pronounced hopeless after an examination. He is friendless and penniless.

CURRY LAID TO REST.

Funeral of Murdered Farmer Attended By Large Crowd.

Brampton, Dec. 30.—The remains of William Curry, the aged farmer who was shot on Christmas day, were reverently laid to rest Saturday afternoon in the little cemetery surrounding the Presbyterian Church at Dixie. There was a large concourse of sorrowing relatives and friends.

The pall-bearers were old friends of the deceased, and the services were conducted by Rev. Thomas Campbell, assisted by Rev. E. R. Young.

The statement made by Terrace to the effect that the shooting was the result of an accident and would not have occurred had not James Curry, the murdered man's son, taken hold of the gun while in his hands, caused a good deal of concern to those interested in the case. To make his statement more convincing it was added that the course taken by the shot was upwards. To remove any doubt Dr. J. A. Lawson of Brampton was called upon to examine the wound. His report did not agree with the other physician. Dr. D. Heggie, who made the first examination.

Yesterday the chief coroner of Toronto, in company with Drs. Lawson and Heggie, made an examination. He, too, held that the wound indicated that the shot was fired direct at the spot where it took effect, the gun evidently having been fired from the hip of the man who held it and not from the shoulder.

Had the prisoner's story been substantiated it would no doubt have been used in the trial with some effect. The prisoner has recovered considerably from the shock and seems to be terribly affected by the deed. He protests his innocence of any desire to do injury to Mr. Curry. The inquest will take place to-day at Elmbank.

The solution of the hole in the ceiling of the room to the right of the murdered man has not yet been found.

This hole would bear out the Reid boy's story that after the shot which killed Mr. Curry had been fired, the son grappled with Terrace and the gun was discharged a second time in the struggle. The hole is drilled cleanly through the plaster and the lath above is forced up. Above this ceiling is a cockloft and, as yet, no examination of this has been made to find the charge of shot which made the hole, if it was so made. The story is borne out by the fact that two discharged shells were found. Mr. Curry, Jr., is unable to confirm this. He says that after he grappled with Terrace, the fight was so hot that whether a second discharge occurred he cannot say.

QUEBEC MAN ARRESTED.

Held by Chicago Police to Answer Charge of Poisoning.

Chicago, Dec. 30.—Omer Rochette and his wife, Albana Rochette, were arrested here Saturday on request of the Montreal police. They are wanted in Montreal to answer a charge brought in connection with the death of Rochette's first wife, who died in Quebec on Nov. 17.

Rochette is accused of having poisoned his wife. He married again within a few days and left for the United States.

New York's Homeless.

New York, Dec. 30.—With every charity bed in the city occupied, lodging houses overcrowded, Bowery saloons turned into barracks, and an array of wanderers on the streets, the charity organizations in New York are helplessly facing a situation, which will reach the climax with the first cold wave.

Although the managers of the relief organizations were long taxed with the problem, it was not until after the informal conference of the various charity organizations Saturday that it became known that more than 50,000 strangers were homeless in this city, and that at least half that number spent nights on benches and floors, wherever shelter afforded.

Mission Not a Failure.

London, Dec. 30.—(C. A. P.)—The Tokio correspondent of The Times says there is no foundation for the rumors which have been in circulation that Lemieux's mission has been a failure. Both Lemieux and Sir Claude MacDonald declared themselves entirely satisfied with the action of Japan, who determined vigorously to restrict the number of emigrants into Canada.

WHAT THE CLERGYMAN SAID.

Hanover, Ont.—No other class of men have the opportunity to do as much good, and be such helpful influences, as the clergy. Not only in their sermons, but in their daily life, they can teach us the better way of living. The example of the Rev. Mr. Brand, of Hanover, is one to be followed in every home in Canada. Owing to the arduous duties, incidently to his parish, the reverend gentleman suffered severely with liver trouble accompanied with constipation and indigestion. But he quickly found relief, and in a letter, tells how. "I can say I like Fruit-a-tives very much, as I am troubled with Liver Trouble—and shall continue to use them."

"Fruit-a-tives" are made of fruit juices and valuable tonics—and form the ideal combination for the treatment of Biliousness, Constipation, Headache and all Stomach, Bowel, Kidney and Skin Troubles. 50c a box.

BOMBS READY FOR THE COUNCIL

Terrorist Plot to Blow Up Russian Building.

DISGUISED AS REPORTERS

Police Round Up Two Newspaper Offices—Arrest One Hundred Members of the Staffs—Seize Large Quantity of Explosives, Plans, and Documents — Journalists Prove to Be Innocent.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 30.—In unearthing another revolutionary conspiracy the police Saturday rounded up the newspaper offices of the Sovremnoye Slavos and Segodyna and arrested one hundred members of the respective staffs.

The police had previously seized a quantity of explosives and plans and documents belonging to an extensive terrorist organization showing that a plot was afoot to bomb the building of the Council of the Emperor.

The idea of the conspirators was to obtain entry to the building as newspaper reporters and editors. A majority of the members of the staffs of the two newspapers convinced the authorities of their innocence of the whole affair and were released.

$7,500,000 FOR RELIEF WORK.

Russian Douma Makes Appropriation to Help Famine Victims.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 30.—The last session of the Russian Parliament before the beginning of the Christmas holidays was held Saturday, and a famine appropriation of $7,500,000 was passed.

This appropriation with a few local bills comprises the entire legislative product of the first six weeks' work of the third Douma. Committee work, however, is well advanced and the Douma will be in a position to begin consideration of the budget and several other important measures soon after the recess, which terminates on Jan. 23.

The famine appropriation which is double the amount originally proposed in the budget, will be immediately available for the relief of about 12 provinces. An additional appropriation will be necessary later.

A large part of the money voted Saturday is to be distributed through the Zemstvos and other local organizations. This course is adopted because the centralization of relief work, such as obtained in 1906, showed the danger of abuses, as, for instance, the Gurko-Lidval case.

SITUATION IN MOROCCO.

French General Recalled — More Aggressive Methods Adopted.

Paris, Dec. 30.—It is already apparent that the replacing of Gen. Drude by Gen. D'Armade, marks the beginning of a more energetic policy in Morocco. There is reason to believe that Gen. Drude's recall is due as much to dissatisfaction with hesitating course as to his illness.

France has reached a complete understanding with the foreign board of Morocco, the rebellion under the leadership of Mulai Hafid is no longer formidable, and the French Government has decided that the time has come to take a bolder position. Gen. D'Armade will be given reinforcements and will be expected to put an end to the anarchy which prevails in the vicinity of Casablanca.

The Temps last night declared that 1908 will witness an important change in France's Moroccan policy.

"While the Government intends to keep within the limits of prudence and fulfil its international obligations," the paper declares, "it purposes also to repair the errors committed in the past and regain the time lost."

Weird Scene in Court.

Buffalo, N. Y., Dec. 30.—Charles Schroff, the 17-year-old boy who shot and killed his father in the living rooms of his saloon on Genesee street on Thursday last, pleaded not guilty Saturday to a charge of manslaughter in the Police Court.

Afterwards he was taken to the County Court, where bail was fixed at $10,000 and was furnished.

Young Schroff was accompanied by his mother, in defence of whom he fired the fatal shot. Soon after entering the court, Mrs. Schroff gave way under the terrible strain and fell fainting from her chair. Her son, thinking she was dying, cried out: Oh, mother, mother," and fell senseless beside her.

Restoratives were administered and soon after they left the court.

CUP OF COAL OIL WAS EXPLODED

Tragic Death of Young Married Woman at Napinka.

FATAL FIRE ALSO AT OTTAWA

Father and Son Burned to Death—Flames Work Havoc in Town Near the "Soo"—The Business Section Was Wiped Out—Had No Fire Protection—Benzine Causes a Blaze at Silver Heights.

Napinka, Man., Dec. 30.—Mrs. John Yeomans, wife of John Yeomans, one of Medora's most promising young farmers, died yesterday morning from the result of injuries received from the explosion of a cup of coal oil. Mr. Yeomans, before going out to do the chores, lighted a fire in the kitchen range, leaving a cup of coal oil, part of which he had used to light the fire, upon the top of the range.

Mrs. Yeomans was in the act of dressing beside the range, when; without any warning, there was an explosion. In an instant, she was covered with a mass of flames, and before help could be secured was so badly burned that very little hope could be held out for her recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Yeomans had been married about a year, and the tragedy has cast a gloom over the whole district. Mr. John Yeomans, the bereaved husband, is a son of S. Yeomans, one of the oldest farmers in the district.

The late Mrs. Yeomans was Miss Lizzie McKay, formerly of Seaforth.

Two Lives Lost in a Fire.

Ottawa, Dec. 30.—A sad tragedy occurred on Saturday night at 11 o'clock on Nelson street, whereby a father and son lost their lives. Mrs. Desloges was sitting in her kitchen, while her husband and two children were sleeping upstairs. She had been sewing and in replacing the sewing machine cover, slipped upon an orange peeling and fell. The oil lamp was overturned and the curtains were soon ablaze. The woman caught up one child and screamed to awaken the sleepers, but was unsuccessful. Some little delay occurred in ringing a fire alarm. On the arrival of the fire brigade a small fire was well started and the firemen brought out F. X. Desloges, his 7-year-old son and a smaller daughter. The father could not be revived and succumbed to suffocation; the boy Alexandre died of burns yesterday morning and the girl, Rosetta, though hurt, will recover. The man was employed as a printer in the Government Bureau. The fire itself was insignificant.

Fire at Silver Heights.

Hespeler, Dec. 30.—Hespeler was startled near noon yesterday by the cry of fire on Silver Heights at the house of Robert Hartrick. The fire was caused by a bottle of benzine standing on a shelf in the kitchen, which in some way fell on the stove and it immediately set the place on fire, seriously burning Mrs. Hartrick about the face and down the body.

In some way the infant son of Mrs. Hartrick was forgotten for a minute, when one of the ladies ran into the house, which was filled with smoke, and brought the little one out. The child was nearly smothered by smoke.

Mrs. Hatrick's burns are very serious and very little hope is held out for her recovery.

Fire at Richard's Landing.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Dec. 30.—Fire Saturday night wiped out almost the entire business section of Richard's Landing, a town about twenty-three miles below the "Soo." A high wind was blowing and in the absence of any fire protection the flames swept up both sides of the main street unchecked, until it was finally got under control at Moore's hardware store.

The fire started in the Tweedy Block from some unknown cause. The block was totally destroyed as also were the following business places: Armstrong's drug store and the furniture store adjoining, the Richard's residence, the Methodist parsonage, Smedley's butcher shop, the post-office and a large block adjoining the postoffice.

The amount of the loss is not yet known as the wires are down and the news comes from Port Findlay, just across on the mainland.

North Battleford Fireswept.

London, Dec. 30.—A private despatch states that a serious fire has occurred at North Battleford, Sask., and that the Bank of Commerce is among the buildings destroyed. Local bank officials have had no word of the fire.

All Quiet at Henrietta.

Oklahoma City, Dec. 30.—A special from Henrietta, Okla., says all is quiet in that town, but the people are in a state of alarm. A few negroes living there have left. No armed negroes near the town have been reported.

No troops have been called and it is not believed they will be needed.

ANOTHER BIG BUILDING BURNED

Fire Destroys $75,000 Worth of Property at Toronto.

SKYCRAPER PARTLY GUTTED

Flames Had Broken Through Roof Before Discovered—Firemen Badly Injured by Water Tower — Fire Engines at Work — Started on the Top Flat—Loss is Mostly Covered by Insurance.

Toronto, Dec. 30.—Fire destroyed the top flat of the fine five storey building owned by George Hees, Son & Co., at 52 Bay street, on Saturday afternoon. The loss totals about $75,000. Two firemen were injured while working with the water tower.

Although in the heart of the city, the flames had broken through the roof before they were observed, and then it was James Pritchard, from the sixth floor of the I. O. F. Temple, several blocks away, who first sent in the alarm by telephone. That was just about 5 o'clock, and some of the apparatus were delayed a little in getting through the crowded thoroughfares.

The situation called for the sterner kind of fire-fighting. The whole flat, with lots of inflammable material, was entirely in flames. A partition separated the stairway from the rest of the flat and the firemen had to lift the nozzles of their hose branches over the partition. At times the heat and smoke was so terrific that the men had to retreat downstairs.

The Hees building is built on fireproof lines of mill construction. The ceilings are of three-inch hardwood, and there was a space between the upper ceiling and the roof of about 20 inches. The fire got in here and burned tenaciously and the deputy and his men had hours of work chopping through and extinguishing the last vestige of fire.

While lowering the water tower, the clutch in the reel slipped and the large handle got beyond control. Lieut. Davidson had his right arm broken in two places and the blood vessels of his left hand were ruptured, causing the hand to be terribly swollen. Lieut. Gordon of the water tower had his arms severely bruised.

Fireman Guinane had his nose broken and Fireman Hurd also went off duty yesterday as a result of injuries.

The losses are:

George Hees, Son & Co., window blinds, etc. Damage to building $5,000; damage to stock, $25,000.

Turner & Hamilton, manufacturers' agents; loss between $7,000 and $8,000.

Clarke & Clarke, leather goods, stock valued at $20,000, estimated damage by water $10,000.

Pocock Bros. & Co., stove manufacturers, stock valued at $80,000, damage, $20,000.

Wrench, McLaren & Co., smallwares, etc., stock worth $20,000; loss about $8,000.

The loss by water could largely have been eliminated had the building been provided with so-called "scrubbing" floors, which are slightly curved to allow water to run into drainways on either side, and so led direct from the building. As it was, the water rushed down the stairs in torrents and the entire building was drenched.

The greater part of the losses are covered by insurance.

It is only a month ago that the Hees Co.'s factory was damaged to the extent of several thousand dollars by the collapse of a huge water tank.

Identified as Lephron.

Montreal, Dec. 30.—An investigation concluded last evening presumes that Martial De Beaufort, in jail at Chicago, is no other than Marshal Lephron, who started a get-rich project here called Le Credit Canadien, which having been liquidated, the promoter disappeared and had not been heard from.

Winnipeg Mayor Coming East.

Winnipeg, Dec. 30.—Mayor Ashdown left for the east last night very hurriedly, and until he had gone only half a dosen people in the city knew of his departure. It is rumored that business connected with the city's finances is the reason for Mr. Ashdown's trip.

Hair Hardie Injured.

Wellington, New Zealand, Dec. 30.—Keir Hardie, M. P., was injured in a motor car accident. It is believed some of his ribs are broken.

SLIGHT CHANCES FOR GAME

Port Hope Has no Ice For Strathcona Contest

It looks as if the weatherman was going to do the Strathconas out of a game with Port Hope on Wednesday as the outlook for ice for the holiday does not look very bright. In a 'phone conversation with Secretary McMillan of the Port Hope team yesterday it was learned that there was no ice at Port Hope and unless the weather changed at once there would be no possible chance of playing a game there on New Years day. The soft spell last week came just when the ice at Port Hope was getting into shape and it will take some very cold weather to get enough to play on this week. The Strathconas will hear from Port Hope to-night definitely as to whether or not the game will be postponed. It will have to be played this week if at all possible as with five teams in this district the games are crowded in pretty close for the entire month. The ice here is in good shape again.

STRATHS HAVE MANY PLAYERS

Have Registered a Big List With The O.H.A. Secretary

The Strathconas, intermediate O.H.A. team have registered the following men for O. H. A. certificates and a number of other names have yet to be sent in:—W Shaw, L Dobson, Ben Dusty, Herb M McMillan, P A Weatherston, Clarence Wilson, R M Glover, Leo Derocher, Chas. A Barber, C J Gilman, P J Donnigan, R Hillier, W E Meagher, R M Moore, Wally F Parnell, S W Rose, Gerald McFadden, Fred McGrath, A O Meyers, Herb J Long, Bert Lang.

There will be an important practice of the Strathconas at 7 o'clock to-night at the rink and all the O.H.A. team are expected to be on hand as the team for Port Hope will be picked to-night. Only those having $5 hockey tickets will be allowed on the ice so that there will be a better chance of getting a line on the team than there has been in the previous practices.

SPORTING NEWS AND VIEWS.....

The Edmonton senior hockey team practised last night at Schaeffer's rink. Hard, fast work was indulged in, with the result that each man came off the ice all in, but satisfied with the practice. Whitcroft, the playing manager, hit a hard pace all the time that made it difficult work for the other forwards to keep up with him. At times he would let up in order to drop a hint or bit of advice, and then go ahead as hard as ever. Whitcroft is a star and eligible for any team in Canada.—Edmonton Bulletin.

William Crowley, who will play cover point, is a bigger man than Bamford, coming here with a record which perhaps no other athlete in Canada has, having played on fifteen championship teams in his career to date. He will be of great value to the local team. He and Bamford will make the biggest defence in Canada and one of the best, and will make all the big league teams go the limit.—Edmonton Bulletin.

The Cressman Hockey seven wish to accept the challenge given by the Pill Pounders at as early a date as possible, on condition that all city league players are barred. Owing to stock taking coming on, it will necessitate a delay of a few weeks before they can face the puck again.

There will be no records broken in the Martin Electric Road Race at St. Catharines on Wednesday if the weather continues as it is at present. Tom Coley of the Irish-Canadians was to endeavour to get a new mark for the distance, but it would be impossible to get near the record with the conditions as they are to-day. Great interest is being taken in the race locally although none of the Peterborough runners are entered.

Fred Simpson the Y.M.C.A. Harries Indian distance man, may start in the Hamilton to Brantford Marathon to be held next year.

The colt has never done any trotting before and Roy is going to try and have her in trim for the January meet.

REGIMENT OF CANDIDATES FOR MUNICIPAL HONOURS

sell the whole farm for $10,000. This was considered an impossibility, as far as the council was concerned, but he had advised leaving the matter to him. It had cost him a lot of anxiety and time before the matter was settled. One man to whom he had spoken, a property owner, had said, "Rush, buy it yourself; there's money in it," and had offered to put up $5,000, and take a half interest. Mr. Rush however refused. "The ratepayers of Peterborough had elected me to do my best for them," he remarked; "and I would not have taken any money and bought the property for myself." The speaker considered the Hilliard property worth $50,000 to the city to-day.

"I am not going to find fault with what has been done," continued Mr. Rush; "I am not here for that. I have no axes to grind, and I pledge myself to do the best I can do for the city, without fear and favour. I am under no compliment to anyone, ad what I have I have made myself."

"Economy must be the watchword," were his concluding words, before thanking the ratepayers for the honour of the requisition.

Ex-mayor Yelland

If Mr. Rush had no fault to find with the ways things were going, the next speaker, ex-Mayor William Yelland, had, and his twelve minutes were taken up in a series of hard knocks for the council and mayor, that kept the gathering in a continuous state of enthusiasm.

MR. W. H. HILL
Candidate For The Water Commission

"I'm like Mr. Rush," he announced, as he appeared before the crowd; "I have no axes to grind."

"Perhaps you have them ground," said a voice from the crowd amid laughter.

"I am not satisfied with the way things are going on," continued the ex-mayor. "Mr Rush was speaking about the gravel pit. I want to say a few words about that, and if he gets in I hope he will see that there is not so much paid for taking out the gravel. Some of the teamsters take out four loads a day, and I often see them going into the Commercial House for a quiet dose. Then they are looking for higher wages! This is pretty slippery ground if I were looking for votes," he remarked, amid much laughter; "but I'm not. If I had had the say they wouldn't have taken out a foot of gravel for three months, unless they had come to my terms. Then they have these unions among them. They are the curse of the country" he exclaimed, but was stopped by a sudden storm of hisses from the crowd, so that his remarks were drowned, and chairman Armstrong had to call the meeting to order. "If you don't like what Mr. Yelland is saying, don't pay any attention to it," he advised.

Mr. Yelland passed on to pay his respects to the way in which Hunter street had been extended to the lift lock. He had understood that the cost would be $500, and it had proved to be $3,600. "The man that did it must have had a lot of brains," remarked the speaker, who thought the work could have been done for $300 if the dirt removed had been used to build up the grade.

The overdraft was next touched upon by the speaker, who said an overdraft of $150,000 was far too much. The taxes amounted to $7,000 or $8,000 more than last year. "I guess that's all gone somewhere," he remarked. "Mr. Rush says that he is going to use economy, and if he gets in he'll need to. I guess he won't have much money to spend."

Someone in the crowd asked about David Hartley, and the speaker was quite willing to deal with that topic. "There was a great display when Mr. Hartley came home," he said. "just because he had walked a few miles. I have walked a good many miles myself, and all I got for it was sore legs. They had no business to throw that money away, and ought to be made to pay it back into the treasury. When our Mayor was displaying in the park and promising what great things they would do for Mr. Hartley next year, I felt like looking up at him and saying, 'I dare say you won't be there yourself next year.'" (Great laughter.) "If it had been the Governor-General they could not have done more. Then he tells us in the papers that he doesn't want the money, and they force it on him, they have so much of it."

"I have another fault to find with our Mayor," he continued, and went on to explain that the Charity Board had asked that Relief Officer Miller's salary should be raised, and the Council had at last given him a bonus for the year.

"What about the assessment?" asked someone in the crowd.

Mr. Yelland thereupon devoted the last few minutes of his time to complaining about the way the assessment had been taken, and gave some figures to show the increases.

MR. HENRY BEST
Candidate For The Water Commission

As he finished his speech amid great applause, someone remarked, "Allow him a few minutes more to say something about the Romaine street sewer." (Great laughter.)

"Will you stand for the mayoralty?" came from the audience, and the reply was "I don't think I'll stand this year." Mr. Yelland climbed into the Mayor's chair amid cheers and laughter that shook the building.

The Mayor's Speech

Mayor McWilliams said the only criticism of the past year's work came from the candidate who did not intend to run. He thought he was entitled to know on what ground he was being attacked by those who had come out against him.

With regard to the teamsters' strike, he stated that he was being attacked on both sides, but the Board of Works had attempted to deal fairly with the teamsters, and had given them an increase of forty cents. Speaking of Mr. Yelland's reference to the lift lock road, the Mayor explained that it was thought necessary to put through a road to the lift lock because of the thousands of visitors who would otherwise have to go a great distance out of the way. As to the cost of the work, the Mayor said the Board had put a capable man in charge of the work, and he could not understand the increased cost, if it had cost too much.

The speaker passed on to discuss the overdraft and the financial condition of the city, giving many figures in his explanation of the way in which the overdraft was caused, stating that a considerable amount of this was due to the school debentures, and there was $23,000 of debentures from the preceding year. When the debentures for schools were sold the city would be ahead of time, instead of behind, in this matter.

Speaking of the assessment, the Mayor said he did not propose to defend the assessment, which he thought exaggerated. As for himself and the Council, no instructions had been given to the assessors, and they had nothing to do with the assessment.

With regard to Relief Officer Miller, the Mayor said he was one of the best officers the city had, and explained that the Council had decided not to give him an increase in salary until they saw whether the increased work would continue, giving Mr. Miller, however, a bonus for the year.

Speaking of Mr. Rush's candidature, the speaker asked why he had come out and who had brought him out.

Mr. W.H. Hill

Mr. W H Hill, candidate for Water Commissioner, thanked the gentlemen who had nominated him. He had been a member of the Water Commissioners since the Water Works had been taken over by the city in 1902, and also of the old board before that time. Mr. Hill went on to show the work of the Water Commissioners since the system had been taken over and the benefits that the citizens and water consumers had received. He explained in 1902 there had been 18 miles of mains, now there were 29; there were 129 hydrants as compared with 213 now; 1,007 customers as against 2,237 at the present time. Then, again, the rates to the consumer had been reduced by one-third, and of the $237,000 cost of the plant, $82,000 had been paid and there would be a surplus this year of $20,000. Mr. Hill went on to urge the passing of the bylaw to be voted on Monday next, which he predicted would result in a further reduction in the rate.

Opposed the Bylaw

Mr. Henry Best, the other candidate for Water Commissioner, was not present and Mr. G W Hatton asked permission to speak on his behalf. He announced that he intended to support Mr. Rust, not because he had any personal feelings against Mr. Hill, but because he thought it was in the best interests of the city. He made a strong objection to the Water Commissioners' bylaw, which he characterised as "unheard of, unconstitutional and unjust," and remarked if it wasn't Socialism, he did not know what it was. He said that when the matter came up before the Private Bills Committee, the Water Commissioners had tried to have it passed without consulting the wishes of the people, and would have done so had it not been opposed by several public-spirited citizens who went to Toronto at their own expense for that purpose.

The candidates mentioned above have until to-morrow night at 9 o'clock to qualify for the respective municipal honours.

W. G. MORROW, Esq.,
Agent Imperial Life Assurance Co.,
Peterborough.

Dear Sir:—I have received notification of the option available in respect to my ten-year Endowment Policy of $5000 which matured to-day and it affords me pleasure to say that I view with much satisfaction the results of my investment with your Company.

The substantial surplus which the Policy has earned in the comparatively short period of ten years makes the returns which would be made to me, under any of the options now open to my selection, most liberal and attractive.

It is greatly to the credit of the Company that after having granted me an Insurance of $5000 from the issue of the Policy in 1907 to the present time, it can now offer me under the cash-value option a sum so greatly in excess of the total premium that I have paid into it, or under the paid up Insurance option, a paid up life Policy considerable more than double the amount of my original Policy.

Perm t me to wish the Company a long continuance of its prosperity

Yours very truly,

CHRISTMAS SERVICES AT ST. JOHN'S

The Music Was of Excellent Quality—46 Voices in The Choir

The Christmas services at St. John's were attended by large congregations yesterday, each service being distinguished by the general excellence of its musical setting. The seating capacity of the chancel is inadequate for the large choir which numberes 46 voices, giving a good account of themselves in leading the festival music at this sacred season. Dyke's Te Deum in F., and Fermer's Carol "In the Fields" with verses by the choir boys and refrain by all the choir were the principal features of Matins. At a hearty service for children in the afternoon the girls from the Dr. Barnardo Home sang a carol number during the offertory very well indeed. The Evensong was fully choral. Responses to Allis Proper psalms sung to Cathedral Psalter, Chants and well known Christmas hymns, heartily joined in by the congregation. Rev. Canon Davidson at the conclusion of the office announced that as the nativity of the Saviour of mankind was heralded with singing by the angels choir, it would not be unfitting instead of the sermon to have carols and choruses sung by the choir and Sunday School children. Steiner's Carol "Ring Out Ye Bells," by the choir was followed by two carols sung finely by the Sunday School children, who sat in the front seats, emphasizing by their presence, the children's side of the Christmas festival. "Comfort Ye" tenor solo from the "Messiah," sung by Mr. Geo Chandler, with beautiful clarity of voice and devotional spirit, was followed by a chorus from the same work, "And the Glory of the Lord," bringing out the full strength of the well balanced choir. The final number was the "Alleluia, Amen," chorus and trio, one of Stainer's most intricate choruses, but the choristers rose to the occasion and gave it a splendid rendering. To put on five numbers from the "Messiah" is a remarkable achievement for a parish church choir with no paid singers in its ranks, and in the vestry Rev. Canon Davidson warmly thanked the members for their services, on that and other occasions, and congratulated Mr. R J. Davey on the result of his arduous work with both choir and Sunday School children.

Of all superstitions probably the most foolish is the idea that when a rash or a sore is healed and cured by means of external applications, it will strike in, and do further harm. WRIT ISSUED AGAINST SQUATTER

as Been On The Land For Nearly Ten Years

A writ has been issued by Messrs. Roger, Bennet & Goodwill for the Lakefield Portland Cement Company against Edward Fitzgerald, claiming that he is in wrongful possession of five acres of land in the township of Douro, near Young's Point. The land is said to partly belong to the Cement Company and the remainder to a private gentleman. It is what is called a "squatter's claim," and Mr. Fitzgerald has been living on it nearly ten years. If there was no claim made he could then claim possession of the land, hence the reason for the writ.

The firm of Donaldson, Peck & Kerr is acting for defendant.

CRUELTY TO ANIMALS REPORTED

Albert Crouter Charged With Having Allowed Horse to Die in Filth

High County Constables Cochrane and Moore had another jaunt this morning on business. To-day they were called to North Monaghan to the residence of Mr. Albert Crouter, who lives west of Crawford's Grove. As a result of their investigations, Crouter has been charged with cruelty to animals, having, it is alleged, allowed a horse to die in its stable uncared for and ill-treated.

The stable is about five feet high at one end and measures approximately 7x8 feet. The horse was found outside the excuse for a stable. The latter was without a floor and to the men was a vile-smelling place, beyond description. It is stated it appeared to have never been cleaned out, and the poor brute had wasted away there. It had also to be backed into the stable, as it could not turn around when taken in. Dr. Johnston and Mr. Cochrane visited the place again this afternoon, and a county police court case will probably result.

SNOW AFFORDS BREAKFAST FOR MAN WITHOUT FOOD ON SUNDAY

Sunday, three days after Christmas and yet a man fifty years of age, fairly well dressed, walked the streets all day yesterday without a bite to eat. During the night, however, snow fell and William Austin managed to get the work of shovelling snow from the walk in front of a residence for which he was given his breakfast.

Afterwards he was speaking with Mr. Chas. Noyes at the Charlotte street crossing, and was directed to see Mr. R. Sheehy about work near Burleigh. Mr. Austin fairly ran down Bethune street and around on King street, so eager was he to get work. He is a native of Lancashire, Eng., and has worked in mines and quarries. Mr. Sheehy gave him another meal and told him to call at 6 o'clock to-night.

GEORGE CHAMBERS, THE MAN WHO SHOT FARMER PORTEOUS HAS BEEN APPREHENDED

One of The Most Desperate Characters That Toronto Detectives Have Run Up Against

COMMITTED 14 ROBBERIES

At last has the desperate character who held up farmer Charles Porteous, at his home between Millbrook and Cavanville, on the evening of December 12th, been apprehended. His name is George Chambers, and he was captured on Saturday evening in Toronto by detectives, and police, who have been on his trail for some days. He was accompanied by a pal, and the pair formed one of the most desperate gangs of robbers who have ever tramped the highways in these modern times.

The description of Chambers agrees with that given by Porteous, who had the misfortune to have the desperado his guest at dinner on the eventful day when he was shot four times about the head. He has two front teeth missing, and this is one of the chief marks by which he is identified. Since Monday, December 9th, these two men have been known to have been connected with fourteen hold-ups. They are free with the guns and Chambers may yet be charged with murder, if Charles Porteous should die.

Morgan Loosens

It was only after a desperate struggle with the detectives that Chambers and Morgan were overpowered, ad placed behind the prison bars. Morgan is the more timid of the two and has loosened up to the detectives. The other, however, is of a sterner type of criminal, and has stated to his pal that he would never be captured alive. His threat has not been made good, but he is closely guarded in his cell to prevent suicide.

May be a Life Sentence

The charges which may be made against the prisoners are three of attempted murder and highway robbery. They may get a life sentence on any of them if convicted.

They came up in the police court, at Toronto yesterday morning, and both said not guilty. T. C. Robinette, K. C., is acting for them. They were remanded for a week. Reuben Crooker, a young mulatto, living at 621 Wellington street, was in the dock with them. He was implicated by Morgan, and arrested at his house last night.

The first of the present series of hold-ups was reported on December 12th, from Cavanville, near Millbrook, when George Porteous, a farmer, was shot four times in the head. The story is that the robber called at Porteous' house and begged a dinner. He returned about 5.30 in the afternoon and demanded money, and when it was refused him he began to shoot.

One ball went through the farmer's left cheek, another went through his face from left to right, a third tore a hole in his scalp, and a fourth went through his ear. His assailant fled and is thought to have boarded a freight train near Myrtle. The wounded man is in a critical condition and in the event of his death a charge of murder will be laid.

On Dec. 21 Fred W. Dundy, a farmer at Ely was held up on Yonge street by a man to whom he had given a ride, and who at a secluded part of the road held a revolver to his head. He got $25 from Dundy, and then ordered him to get out of the sleigh. The robber then made away with the team and sleigh, which were however recovered the next day.

Hold-ups in Toronto

Then the police began to receive reports of hold-ups from the city of Toronto. On the 23rd no less than four men were relieved of their cash in a little over an hour. William C. Schunk was the first. He was robbed of $7 at the corner of Wellington and Draper streets at 9.30 in the evening. Then Charles Bottomly's turn came. He narrowly escaped death as he took to his heels, as the robbers stopped him. A bullet just grazed his head. Charles Harper of 527 Shaw street, came next. With a revolver at his head he parted with six or seven dollars, and then was kicked over the embankment at the Arthur street bridge. Then came Albert Fielding, 578 Shaw street, who was made poorer to the extent of $9. Harper, the previous victim, had watched Fielding being robbed, and the two victims chased the robbers for some distance, but without success.

In addition a number of other daring robberies were committed on the highways, one being the theft of a watch belonging to Frank Garner, Wandell street.

On Chambers' person, a watch was found, which is identified by Garner, as belonging to him. The revolvers belonging to the young desperadoes are heavy .38 calibre weapons of English make.

Trades and Labour Consider Expenditures Were Lavish

Mayoralty and Aldermanic Candidates Considered—Desire Resignation of Gazette Correspondent

NO CANDIDATE ENDORSED

A meeting of the Trades and Labour Council was held last evening in the Labour Hall, with President Alexander in the chair. The meeting was one of the most important of the year, as several important matters were considered during the evening.

The committee having in charge the arrangements for the labour mass meeting to be held during January, presented its report, and it was decided to invite Mr. Jas. Simpson to deliver an address to the workingmen of the city on the evening of the second Friday in January. The meeting will likely be held in the City Council Chamber, and further particulars will be announced later.

Resignation Called For

A number of protests were received from several unions in the city against the reports regarding the conditions in the different trades as forwarded to the Labour Gazette by the local correspondent. The matter was carefully considered and a committee was appointed to secure evidence to substantiate the different charges made, and to draft a resolution to be forwarded to the Department of Labour at Ottawa, urging upon that body the necessity of demanding the resignation of the local correspondent.

The record of the city council for the past year, and the mayoralty, and aldermanic candidates for 1908, furnished food for a lively discussion.

One delegate characterised the council as an aggregation of fossils, while another claimed that they were the poorest body of civic representatives Peterborough has had in years. It seemed to be the general opinion that with one or two exceptions a new council should be elected.

Credit was given Aldermen McIntyre and Morgan for the stand taken on several matters during the year. The aldermen were severely scored for the Romaine street sewer muddle and the exhorbitant cost of cutting down Aylmer's hill. The delegates argued that poor judgment and a lack of system had characterized the work of this year's Council.

The lavish expenditure on the streets and the poor results obtained resented, the delegates argued, from the fact that the city had not a practical man to look after this work. Reference was made to the disgraceful condition of many of our thoroughfares, and one delegate remarked that things had reached a crisis in the city's affairs. Many of the aldermen, it is understood, were handled without gloves during the discussion.

The aldermanic candidates were also considered. Some of the delegates were of the opinion that a new chief magistrate was needed as well as a new Council.

"I don't think either one of the candidates is a proper man for the position," ventured another, while another delegate gave it as his opinion that the aldermen were endeavouring to hoist their shortcomings on the shoulders of the Mayor.

"Until they can make out a strong case against the Mayor," said one of the members, "I intend to support him. No charges have been laid at his door, and I consider it shabby treatment not to give him a second term unopposed, when the precedent had been established."

Other delegates had different opinions and thought the Mayor was as much to blame as the Council. However, none of the aspirants for municipal honours were endorsed by the delegates.

A Strong Resolution

The remarks of Mr. Wm. Yelland at the nominations proceedings, in which he characterized the labour unions as a curse to the community, were warmly resented by the delegates present. "We don't want to let that charge go by unanswered," said a delegate. "I move that a warm resolution be drafted by this Trades and Labour Council representing as it does the labour sentiment of this city, desires to publicly condemn the statements made by a citizen of this city at the nominations proceedings, in which he characterized the labour unions as a curse to the community.

We feel that such a statement is the result of a deep-rooted ignorance of facts and we desire to inform this citizen that we are living in an enlightened age, when the rights of labour are generally recognized, and not in the misty past, when long hours prevailed, and men could be secured for their board and clothes. We strongly condemn such language and such wild-eyed misrepresentations, and feel that he has, in the language of the small boys, 'slopped over.' It doesn't take much water to overflow a small tub.

Furthermore we recognize the fact that in every community there are individuals who delight to torture municipal gatherings by displays of "oratorical wind-jamming," and who speak "an infinite deal of nothing." We regret exceedingly that said citizen is not in the contest as he would then receive striking evidence of the power and influence of the unions."

The next regular meeting will take place the second Wednesday in January when the election of officers will take place.

THE WEATHER.

After a period of mild and generally unseasonable weather more wintry conditions have again set in, although there is no sign of any decidedly cold weather near at hand. Last night the thermometer was down to within five degrees of zero, but has since risen some. A year ago to-day was quite mild, with the thermometer at 42 degrees. There was good sleighing.

A REQUEST COMPLIED WITH

Mr. G. A. Gillespie's Candidature For Alderman

The friends of Mr. George A. Gillespie, one of the new aspirants for aldermanic honours—as will be seen by his card in another column—have asked that his personality might be referred to through the medium of the Examiner. Mr. Gillespie has the good fortune to be highly respected by his nearest friends, but there may be many electors to whom he is not well known. As a business man he is best identified in the city as an active member of the grocery firm of Messrs. White and Gillespie, 335 George street. As a member of the Board of Trade he has evinced such an interest in local and municipal matters that he was unanimously elected vice-president for the year. Mr. Gillespie has also taken a live interest in agricultural and country matters, and is a valued member of the Board of Directors of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition. He is a resident of East City.

Ill Temper From a bad Liver

Carlyle justly attributes the ill-temper which made him a monster in the eyes of the world, to a bad liver. Nothing makes one feel more miserable, or more gloomy and discouraged, than liver complaint, and consequent biliousness and dyspepsia, and nothing so promptly and thoroughly sets the liver right, and overcomes these ailments as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, the great family medicine.

PROUD OF OUR FRIENDS

We extend to our Friends and Customers the heartiest greetings of this festive season, and the warmest of good wishes for the coming year.

Yours sincerely,

TORONTO MAYORALTY

Toronto is having the most vigorous and exciting mayoralty contest in the life of the city. There are five candidates in the field. The chances look good for Oliver, the Liberal candidate, or rather, the only Liberal among the quintette. The chances of Nesbitt, Geary and Vokes for securing first place are lessened by the fact that they all appeal to the same constituency—the same political party. Toronto is strongly Conservative, but with that vote divided among three candidates, the chances for the only Liberal look good. The Socialist candidate may poll a good vote, but he will probably detach votes equally from both parties. Dr. Nesbitt's chances seem to be growing less as time advances. In addition to the handicap implied in the splitting of the Conservative vote into three, he is the victim of personal attack which will probably seriously affect his candidature. All may be fair in love and war, but personal strictures, to some, seem striking below the belt. While, on general principles, a man's capacity for the mayoralty is to be chiefly guaged by his administrative ability, yet personal qualities cannot altogether be ignored. The voting in Toronto takes place to-morrow, and the result will be awaited with considerable interest. Toronto is the capital of the Province, one of uro most important cities, and her selection of a chief magistrate is a matter of more than local interest.

CONSISTENCY

"Would you find Jesus Christ at the ring, where crowds assemble to see two men hammer each other till the blood flows? Would you find Jesus Christ editing a paper that would give a full account of such a performance? Would Christ attend the card table, the whist tournament? Would he attend the opening ball at the armouries?" These and many other questions were asked, says the Woodstock Sentinel-Review, by a local minister in the course of a sermon on Sunday on the "Devil of Sport." They suggest other questions. Would Christ be found editing a modern church paper? Would he attend a modern church prayer meeting, or tea meeting? What would be His attitude towards modern church institutions, and modern systems of government? Towards the Lord's Day Alliance? Would He lead a modern army to battle? Would He be a modern patriot? Would He favour Japanese exclusion? Would He be a modern politician? Our contemporary asks the conter questions. While two wrongs do not make a right, the questions asked open the core of the matter. The sensational Woodstock pastor could ask many questions which would answer themselves. Would the Saviour of Mankind, if He were to enter some of our modern churches, recognize the oratorical stop that represents many a sermon as the preaching of His gospel? The things the preacher denounced are condemnable. But if we are to live up to the Messianic ideal, if we would do as Christ would have us do, should not the return to moral and religious sanity, begin in the church? When the sensational preacher has driven out the money changers from the temple; when he has shut out the worldliness and frivolity from the church, he will be in a position to appeal, with consistency, for condemnation and forsaking of such things as cannot meet divine approval. He that is consistent is a great man.

Goldwin Smith Condemns Local Option

WRITING to the Toronto Globe, Professor Goldwin Smith thus expresses his views on Local Option

"I do not think it possible to enforce total abstinence. The taste for fermented liquors is common to all races of mankind, and it antedates the beginning of history. This taste the extreme prohibitionist hopes to eradicate by a single stroke of prohibitive legislation. Unless he can eradicate the taste, experience shows he cannot put down the habit. In the attempt radically and suddenly to change the habits of mankind by law, I have no faith whatever, and I appeal to multiplied and decisive experience as a warrant for my unbelief."

MR. HAULTAINS POSITION

The impression prevails in some quarters, and in others the idea is sedulously fostered, that ex-Premier Haultain was unfairly treated in connection with the selection of a premier for one of the new provinces. The fact exists that he was overlooked, but the fact also exists that this action was justified on the part of a Liberal Government. Mr. Haultain's long services as premier of the territorial government were entitled to recognition. But Mr Haultain himself forfeited all claims he may have derived from the services mentioned by the attitude he assumed. Up to 1903 Mr. Haultain was supported, and, in fact, kept in office, by the favour of Liberals. This condition obtained till March, 1903, when Mr. Haultain threw in his lot with the Conservatives and entered actively into a crusade to fill all Northwest seats with Conservatives. He attended the Moose Jaw Conservative convention in the spring of 1903, and accepted office in it. This convention was called by Mr. Borden, leader of the Conservative party, and its object was to wipe out all Liberal candidates. When the Autonomy Bills were under consideration, Mr. Haultain, at Mr. Borden's invitation, invaded Ontario and spoke against the Government and its legislation. He even threatened the Government that if he became premier of one of the new provinces he would continue to fight against the Government. When Mr. Haultain had thus cut himself loose from the Liberal party, assumed a hostile attitude and threw himself into the arms of the Conservatives, it does not lie with him to claim that the Liberal Government at Ottawa treated him unfairly in passing him over and selecting another as first premier?

Mr. Haultain is in the position of all who play fast and loose with party obligations and affiliations who prove ungrateful for party support. Mr. Haultain was reared as a Liberal; his father was a Liberal. He became and remained premier by virtue of the support of Liberals. When it suited his purpose he allied himself with the Conservatives, and now complains because the Liberal Government did not bow down to him and recognize claims which he himself had forfeited, that he was treated unfairly. There are others like Mr Haultain who have played fast and loose with their party affiliation, supported or knifed thier party as suited their convenience or ambition, and who complain if the friends they have betrayed do not fall down and worship them, do not promote the attainment of their petty ambitions. A man in public life must show himself to be a man, a man of consistency and principle. He cannot expect to make a football of his party allegiance, of his principles, and then expect the confidence and support of those who hold the principles he has betrayed, or the confidence and support of anybody who demands consistency, straightforwardness and honourable dealing as necessary conditions of support.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Halifax, where Mr. Borden used to live, is now, remarks the Montreal Herald, solidly Liberal. Ottawa, where he lives now goes Liberal by over three thousand. He seems to be quite influential by opposites, as further witness the fall of the Quebec bridge the day he arrived there, and the unexpected defeat of the Conservative candidate in Centre York after he had spoken in the riding.

Opening Of Druce Case

Grave Gives Up Its Secret in London Cemetery.

HUMAN REMAINS IN COFFIN

Many Police at Exhumation—Claimant Refused Admission—Romantic Tales of Witnesses at Recent Hearing Now Disposed Of—Claim to Portland Estates Falls Through—Story Was False.

London, Dec. 31.—The body of Thomas Charles Druce, in Highgate cemetery, was exhumed yesterday, just 43 years since its burial. The coffin was found to contain the remains of a human body, thus exploding the romantic tales told by Robert C. Caldwell and others, who swore during the recent hearing of the Druce perjury case that it contained a roll of lead.

The official statement given out by representatives of the Home Office and others who were officially present at the exhumation, not only definitely disposes of the lead myth, but seems effectively to confirm that the body buried in 1864 was actually that of T. C. Druce. The authorized statement follows:

"The coffin was opened and found to contain the body of an aged, bearded man; the plate on the coffin bore the name, Thomas Charles Druce."

The scene at Highgate cemetery when the vault was opened was remarkable. Constables seemed to spring from everywhere; every bush and every tree apparently hid an officer of the law. All the entrances to the cemetery were surrounded by the cordons of police. Only those who had passes from the Home Office were admitted to the grounds. George Hollamby, who claims he is the rightful heir to the Portland dukedom and to its vast estate, tried twice to get into the cemetery, but was met with a stern refusal.

The operations began at daybreak with the removal of the topmost coffins in the vault, containing the bodies of the wife and a son of T. C. Druce. It was nearly half-past eleven before the coffin, the contents of which have aroused the curiosity of the whole world, was brought up ready for opening and inspection.

The top was quickly unscrewed and the inner casing of lead cut open; there was no need for the dictum of the eminent surgeon, Augustus J. J. Pepper, who was appointed by the Home Office to carry out the exhumation, to assure all present that human remains lay in the coffin.

The Druce vault has given up its secret after ten years of legal proceedings, which have cost, all told, a considerable fortune. A large part of this money was obtained from servant girls and other women who were induced to buy shares in a company formed to prosecute the claims of George Hollaway Druce against the estate of the Duke of Portland.

The charge of perjury against Herbert Druce is effectively disposed of.

Those persons who have sworn to the placing of lead in the coffin instead of a human body, have deposed to facts which now have been disproved and they probably will have to take the consequences of their acts.

So far as the general public is concerned, the entire long drawn out Druce-Duke of Portland controversy is at an end and the case of the claimant, Geo. Hollamby Druce, has fallen to the ground.

Caldwell Under $5,000 Bonds.

New York, Dec. 31.—Robert C. Caldwell, whose remarkable testimony as a witness in the so-called Druce case led to the reopening of the grave of T. C. Druce, is now at the home of his daughter at New Brighton, Staten Island, under $5,000 bonds to answer to a charge of perjury preferred by the British authorities in connection with the story he told in the London court.

Caldwell's story of the alleged dual personality of the Duke of Portland was the real sensation of one of the most remarkable legal cases which ever engaged the attention of the British courts. The reopening of the Druce grave was undertaken as a final effort of the Government to prove their charge that Caldwell's testimony was wilful and corrupt perjury. In substance Caldwell's story, upon which the claim of the Druce heirs for the great fortune and the title of the Duke of Portland was based was to the effect that the Duke of Portland and T. C. Druce, a London storekeeper, were one and the same.

He had known the Duke of Portland under both names, he said, and at the request of the duke had arranged a pretended death and mock funeral of Druce so that his dual personality could be buried. He swore that a coffin buried in Highgate cemetery and which was supposed to hold the body of T. C. Druce, in reality contained only two hundred pounds of lead. It was this coffin which was exhumed yesterday.

STREET CAR RAN OFF AT PARK

Jumped Off The Rails Just at The Slide

About six o'clock on Saturday evening one of the Jackson Park cars ran off the tracks at the loop just near the slide. After a little work it was replaced and continued its route.

It is reported that the car wanted to go down the slide without paying the money and thus ran amuck.

DISCOVERIES MADE BY LOCAL MEN

Gold and Silver That Has Been Located in Northern Ontario

It will be news to many to know that there have been many discoveries of mineral in the north during the year, and it speaks well for Peterborough's industrial inhabitants that Peterborough has her fair share of such discoveries. Several samples are at this office and the opinion of all who have seen them is that they are first class samples in every way. The one belonging to Mr. F Reutsch and Company being of high order ,it having passed through a series of assays at the hands of Mr. Latimer, of Toronto. A pleasing part of the Reutsch find is that it is in the hands of a company of working men, they having borne all the expense up to the present, and it is gratifying to learn that they have had assurance that Mr. Warren B. Thomas, Johnstown, Pa., capitalist, is interested in the find and that he will be over in the early spring to see if the certificate of Mr. Latimer compares with the mine itself. He will visit the property in company with Mr. Totterman, mining engineer, and after seeing samples will have them assayed at his own expense. Should they prove to be as stated by Mr. Latimer, he will take steps to have the mine worked at once.

The certificate of assay given by Mr. Latimer reads:—

Surface, silver $0.67 per ton.
Three feet deth, silver, $1.41; gold, $1.25.
Nine feet depth, silver none; gold, $1.50.
The nine foot shaft was sunk a short distance from the three foot shaft.

Any further information wanted will be given on application to 108 Stewart street.—Com.

A PETERBOROUGH BOY PASSES AWAY

Was Chief Clerk in General Passenger Office G.T.R., Montreal

Mr. Edward Morency, engineer at the Peterborough Lock Works, who lives at 475 Elm street, received the sad intelligence last night of the death of his son, George.

The deceased was 30 years of age, and had been suffering from lung trouble for three years. He was born in Fenelon Falls and came to Peterborough at the age of ten. He attended the Separate school here, and upon graduation left for Quebec where he entered the service of the G T R as a telegraph messenger. His ability was soon recognized by the authorities and the next year he received a position as assistant operator at Point Levis After remaining there for a few years he was sent to the General Passenger Office at Montreal, and he soon became chief clerk in the office, which position he held until he took ill. During his lengthy illness he was well-looked after by the railway company, who held him as one of their most trustworthy employees, and one of the brightest servants that they had in their employ. The deceased was very prominent in social circles in Montreal and was well up in the Free Masons.

Pale, Anaemic, Sickly Girls

REGAIN COLOR, HEALTH, AND VIGOR WHEN THE BLOOD IS ENRICHED BY

Your mirror will tell you if you are anaemic, for the unnatural pallor of your gums, lips and eyelids will indicate the thinness and weakness of the blood.

Anaemia is most common among young women and is marked by pallor weakness, indigestion, irritability, spells of dizziness and fainting, heart palpitation, severe headaches and feelings of extreme exhaustion.

The blood is lacking in the elements which go to form energy, vigour and strength and demands such assistance as is best supplied by Dr Chase's Nerve Food.

This great food cure sharpens the appetite, invigorates the nerves which control the digestive fluids, strengthens the heart's action and naturally and gradually restores the sufferer from weak blood to health, strength and vigour.

The headaches and eyeaches of pale nervous school girls, of office girls, and of factory employees, are largely the result of thin, watery blood, and will disappear when the blood is enriched and the system built up by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Mrs. D. Hobbins, 420 Charlotte street, Peterborough, Ont., writes:—"My daughter was troubled with a weak fluttering, heart The least excitement seemed to aggravate her trouble, and at times she had severe racking headaches. She became so bad that it affected her nervous system and she felt miserable most of the time. Through the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food her condition is entirely changed. Her nerves are steady, the headaches are gone and the action of the heart is strong and regular. We have every reason to give the credit to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food."

Put this great restorative to the test by noting your increase in weight while using it.

Dr Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

CITIZEN ASKS ABOUT SNOW BY-LAW

Thinks Tool & Shovel Company Should Be Given Order For Some Shovels

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Without adding the usual chestnut apology, let me ask, on behalf of a score or more of "injured pedestrians" when and through whom did this now very much discussed and passed "sidewalk snow-sweeping" bylaw come into effect? Does it apply equally everywhere within city limits? In front of the vacant lot and over the driveways? The usually snow-bound street crossing—is that not a part of the sidewalk? If not too long I would, like, verbatim, the clause specifying where, when and how the walk is to be kept clear, and free from ice and snow? Has it power to enable the lost or wandering pedestrian to "call forth" the street's name from its "stencilled grave" on the sidewalk, beneath its shroud of trampled snow and ice of winter? As a help to the carrying out of this bylaw would it not be well for its authors to give the "Tool and Shovel Company" an order for a sufficient number of "shovels" or rather for a "special tool" a combination "shovel-pick-axe-post-hole auger," placing one or more at every street crossing with a card affixed to each, giving directions for its use, so that the lost traveller might hie him to the street corner and dig for the name?

Yours very respectfully,
"CITIZEN."

Peterborough, Dec. 31, 1907.

WHEN OFFICIALS HAVE TO HUSTLE

The City Treasurer Had To Go To The Penetentiary

City Treasurer Coady, of Toronto, tells an amusing story of his experience while travelling in the United States looking into the financial methods of cities across the line. He called on the treasurer of a city in Kansas, where the officials are all elected, and presenting his card, stated that he wished to get some information regarding the management of civic finances, sinking funds, etc.

The Kansas official was quite frank with him

"You see, I've been here only three months or so, and to tell the truth, I don't know anything about the business."

"Then perhaps I might be able to find out something from the former treasurer. Where can I find him?" asked the Toronto man.

"Well," drawled the official, "I think you'll have some difficulty in seeing him. He's in the pen."

Then the truth dawned on the mind of the unsophisticated Canadian that the former treasurer was serving a term for embezzlement of civic funds.

"You see," went on the Kansas man, "we only get about four years in this job, and we have to make the most of our time."

The elective system for officials has its faults, it seems.

WINNIPEG VISITOR IN THE CITY

Mr. R. G. McCuish Speaks of Labour Conditions There

Mr. R G McCuish, of Winnipeg, arrived in the city on Saturday evening and intends to spend a couple of months here visiting friends. Mr. McCuish stated that everything is lively in the Western Metropolis. Work is scarce at times but the advancement of the railway lines, including the G.T.P., C.N.R., and C.P.R., provide an immense amount of work for the labourers.

Real estate is not extra brisk but it is beginning to move again after the slight depression that has been experienced.

MISCALLED HAIR TONICS

Most Hair Preparations Are Merely Scalp Irritants, of no Value

Most hair preparations are merely scalp irritants, miscalled hair tonics. When hair is brittle, lustreless and begins to fall out, the dandruff germ is getting in its deadly work at the root, sapping the vitality. Since science discovered that dandruff is a germ disease there has been only one preparation put on the market that will actually destroy the dandruff germs, and that is Newbro's Herpicide. It quickly reduces scalp fever, destroys the germ, and the falling hair stops, and hair grows luxuriantly. Ask your druggist for Herpicide. It allays itching instantly, and permits the hair to grow. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Two sizes — 50 cents, and $1. The Market Drug Store, Special Agents.

YOU CAN EASILY OPERATE THIS TYPEWRITER YOURSELF

Don't wear your correspondent.

Don't write him anything by hand that takes him time to make out that may leave him in doubt, that he can't easily read.

And don't fill out legal pap or card memos—or make out accounts or hotel menus in your own hand writing.

It looks bad, reflects on your standing, makes people think you can't afford a stenographer, and sometimes ambiguous.

You can write out your letters—make out an abstract—fill in an insurance policy—enter your card memos—make out your accounts, or hotel menus—or do any kind of writing you need, on any kind, size or thickness of paper, and space any way you want on

The OLIVER Typewriter
The Standard Visible Writer

You can write any of these things yourself if you do not happen to have a stenographer.

For you can easily learn with a little practice to write just as rapidly, and as perfectly as an expert operator on the Oliver. Because the Oliver is the simplified typewriter. And you can see every word you write. About 50% more durable than any other typewriter, because it has about 50% less wearing points than most other typewriters.

50% easier to write with than those other complicated, intricate machines that require "humming"—technical knowledge—long practice and special skill to operate.

Than machines which cannot be adjusted to any special space—with which it is impossible to write abstracts, insurance policies, or odd-size documents except you buy expensive special attachments requiring experts to operate.

You can adjust the Oliver to any reasonable space—you can write on any reasonable size and thickness of paper, right out to the very edge, without the aid of any expensive attachment or special skill, and your work will be neat appearing, legible and clear.

For the Oliver is the typewriter for the doctor the lawyer, the insurance agent, the merchant the hotel proprietor—or any man that does his own writing.

Write us now for our booklet on the simplified features of the Oliver. The Oliver Typewriter Building, Chicago, Illinois.

TENDERS FOR STONE OPENED

Matter of Awarding Contract Was Left To The Street Commissioner

STONE IS VERY PLENTY

The Board of Works held a meeting yesterday afternoon for the purpose of opening tenders for the $100 worth of stone, called for by the Board in order to give work to needy citizens this winter. It was seen that there was no lack of stone in Peterborough and no less than 18 tenders offering in all 605 cords were presented, the prevailing price being $3 per cord, although four went above that figure. It was decided to leave the matter of awarding the contract to the Street Commissioner who has authority to purchase the necessary amount of stone from any of the fourteen whose tenders are at $3 per cord.

The question of where the stone was to be put was discussed and on motion of Ald. Wilson and Johnston the Street Commissioner was instructed to select a place along Charlotte street between Park street and the boundary.

It was thought that Relief Officer Miller would be best qualified to know those who were actually in need of work and on motion of Ald. Wilson and Johnston, the matter of making arrangements for the employment and payment of the men was left to Mr. Miller and the Street Commissioner.

There were present, Ald. Duncan, Chairman, the Mayor, Ald. Wilson and Johnston.

Nurse Tells of Eczema Cure

Miss C. Stanley-Jones, professional nurse, 283 Simcoe street, Toronto, writes: "In my occupation as nurse, I have come across many cases in which Dr. Chase's Ointment has been used with extraordinary results. One case is that of a sixteen months old child who was cured of scald head and another of a woman cured of eczema on the face after the doctor had given her up."

ADDRESS TO THE ELECTORS

To the Electors of Peterborough:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—Having been duly nominated a candidate to contest the mayoralty of Peterborough for the year 1908, I accept this nomination and respectfully solicit your votes and influence to secure my return.

I had no aspirations for the position and no thought of entering the contest for the Mayor's Chair 'till a few days ago. I was waited upon by some of the most substantial of our citizens and presented with a requisition signed by several hundred taxpayers urging me to enter the field as a candidate. I could do no other than regard a requisition signed by a large and representative number of citizens as a call of duty. Consequently, as I have, during my 45 years' residence in Peterborough, tried to do my duty faithfully to the place in which all my material interests are centred, I have decided to place myself in the hands of the electors.

If I am chosen as Mayor I shall use all my ability to practically apply the motto of my life—"The interests of Peterboro' first, last and always." I am known to you all by virtue of a residence of 45 years in the city and through a corresponding experience in business, which, through the kind co-operation of the public, I have been favored in making a success.

Though I have not sought public office any more than I am seeking the present offered position, I may say that, for four terms in succession, I was returned as alderman without soliciting or attending a nomination or soliciting a vote. I felt that both as an honour and a flattering mark of confidence, which I endeavoured to justify to the fullest of my ability. And if elected as Mayor I shall discharge the duties of the office to the full extent of my powers and with a single eye to the promotion of the best interests of the city.

This is the platform upon which I can and do appeal to your support; that is the platform upon which I will justify your choice, if you do me the honour to elect me. It is not practicable for me, even if it were in line with my inclination, to personally call upon the electors. I hold that the office should seek the man rather than the man the office. I have no personal interests to serve; my only object in accepting the nomination for Mayor is to serve the best interests of the city of Peterborough. With cordial wishes for a Happy New Year to all, I remain,

Your obedient servant,

H. RUSH

Messrs. Wm. Richards and Henry Furbur of this city are working in Otonabee pruning apple trees. They state that there is plenty of work in this line and that they are kept busy. Twenty trees in one day is a record for some of them, and the general report is that they are careful in their work.

APPLY FOR WORK IN PANAMA

Young Men Desire to Work on The Panama Canal

Yesterday a number of the young men of the city went to Toronto to make application for positions on the Panama Canal. One of them stated that there are many opportunities for mechanics of all kinds and the very highest wages are paid. The conditions are reported to be greatly improved, and at this time of the year the work is very pleasant. The trip in itself, all the expenses being prepaid, is a great experience for a young man, and this is probably one of the reasons why some of the local men should desire to go.

Railway system, extending from the junction point, a couple of miles north of Kinmount, to the end of the line near Bancroft, about 50 miles east.—Lindsay Post.

CREDITABLE SHOWING OF THE 24TH

Congratulations From Col. McNachtan To Major Young

Major Young, commander of the 24th Field Battery, received a letter of congratulations this morning from Col. McNachtan of Port Hope, commander of the 10th Brigade, upon the success of the 24th in the Petawawa competition, mentioned in yesterday's Examiner. The 24th Field Battery has only been in existence two years. It was only beaten by the city batteries which have been instituted for years, so that its success at Petawawa speaks well for the officers commanding, as well as the men who constitute it.

PRO BONO PUBLICO ON LOCAL OPTION

Editor Examiner,

Dear Sir,—I do not know who is fathering and paying for the advts. so strongly against local option appearing these days in your paper, but I am sure that while it may be conceded that prohibition, in the form of local option, appears to be the least effective of anything yet tried in lessening and doing away with the use of intoxicating liquors for drinking purposes, the facts, so called as quoted from different parties, no doubt correctly, are not fairly taken as showing that drinking on the sly is properly chargeable to local option. The enormous profit from the sale by the glass and in changing good food cereals into the cup that inebriates, is sufficient to induce unscrupulous men to run the risk of discovery and enable them to pay fines, so we have the "blind pig." Then again, it is the business of the liquor dealers to discredit local option by every means in their power. They do their best to make it appear that there is more drinking, and of a more demoralizing character, under prohibition than under license. The inland revenue returns prove differently. The man that, in the licensed hotel or saloon would be put to bed or tucked away until sober, under local option is turned out to be a spectacle to demonstrate the futility of trying by prohibitory enactment to do away with intemperance. Legislation should be in the direction of making it easier for men to lead decent, honest lives, instead of thrusting temptation in their faces. So the prohibitionist labours to do away with these open doors of temptation, that so far as legislative enactment and public and corporate responsibility are concerned it shall not be lawful for any man to make a trade of human souls or carry on any business, the natural and legitimate outcome and result of which is to ruin men both for this world and the next. Local option does not cause or lead to more drinking and drunkenness, but the base cupidity of unscrupulous men who, for the sake of money, will sell their souls, and their brothers, too. The liquor traffic is a hydra-headed monster that, when wounded in one place, springs up in another. It is backed and defended and supported by invested millions, organized, managed and generalled to hinder and defeat any effort that threatens in any sensible measure to lessen its gain. Small wonder that in the early days or years of the operation of a prohibitory law, with all the habitual drinkers to work with them, they can make it appear, or, indeed, make it an actual fact that there is more drinking than before. Goldwin Smith says the taste for fermented liquors is as old as the race, and it appears to be true, but so is the disposition to put out of the way by brute force, to kill, to take human life. The effort of civilization, and especially Christian civilization, has been to lessen and do away with those evils. Local option is one of those efforts, aiming to limit, so far as it may operate within the bounds of a municipality, an abounding evil, striking it off a piece at a time, even if a small piece.

I hope wherever the local option bylaw is submitted it will be carried and, so far as possible, remove the temptation.

Yours,
PRO BONO PUBLICO.

Why Beauty Fades

Real beauty is rare. It belongs to perfect health. Just as soon as the blood gets thin and watery and the nerves become exhausted, beauty fades, wrinkles show themselves, and the glow of health disappears and beauty curves give place to hollows and angles. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the great blood builder and nerve restorative, is woman's greatest blessing from youth to old age. A few weeks' use of this treatment will do wonders for any woman who is pale, thin, weak and nervous.

RATEPAYERS THINK IT IS TIME FOR A CHANGE

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Dear Sir,—As a large ratepayer, I take a good deal of interest in municipal matters, for, as they are well or badly managed, the results are felt in our pockets. One would think that among the great array of candidates offered, there could be found twelve good men to look after our interests as they should be looked after and as they have not been looked after, especially during the past year. I have lived a long time in Peterborough, and I never remember a time when there was such great need for a change in our Council management.

We are plunged into debt in a most disgraceful way, and the worst is we have little to show for an overdraft of $110,000, which is the biggest overdraft in our history, and after we have paid the biggest tax bill in our history.

The Council, in the face of a tight money market, plunged into big expenditures for sidewalks and sewers. Sound business sense should have led the Mayor and aldermen to go slowly. Private business drew in its sails, but our city authorities clapped on all sail. We needed walks, etc., but we could have waited, or gone a little slower till money loosened up. The debentures were not sold, and there is an overdraft at the bank of $110,000.

Where has the money gone to? If we add $110,000 to $130,000, about the amount of taxes we have paid this year, we have a total of $240,000, nearly a quarter of a million dollars spent during the past year. The unsold debentures may be taken into account, but the situation is positively disgraceful.

Every ratepayer who thinks, says that it is time for a change in the management or mismanagement of our civic affairs.

During the year, Mr. Editor, you have spoken often and strong on the disgraceful condition of our streets. But not one word too strong. I pay taxes to have good streets to drive on. The streets are utterly neglected and a disgrace to any community. We spend money enough on them, but it seems to have been sunk in the mud which covers our streets in wet season. The waste of money and bad work on our streets are enough in themselves to make the ratepayers demand a change.

We seem to be under the reign of Russian tyranny. We had the Chief Magistrate putting the public, the businessmen who make out city, to all sorts of inconvenience by the enforcement of an absurd sign bylaw which was not being broken in any harmful or dangerous way. It was a way of showing authority, and a very offensive way, too.

We have had a high assessment—sky high—and in spite of that our finances have been so muddled that even with a high assessment we need not look for any lower tax rate unless a change is made. It is time for a change.

Is it worth while to ask who is to blame for this? The Council as a body, you may say. But one of the aldermen told me yesterday that with a high-handed head of the Council, who with all the rashness of inexperience and lack of knowledge of business methods, carries things with a high hand, who overrides the Council, it makes the transaction of business as it should be done difficult and practically impossible.

We must have a change if some good is to be done. Mr. Rush is a man of sound judgment, business experience and business training. He has a solid interest in Peterborough, and it will make a great difference to him whether we have high or low taxation. If the people elect him as mayor they will be making a change which nearly everybody thinks should be made. We have a good city and we want it well governed. We want things done in a business way, as they haven't been done for the past year.

Every ratepayer who has the interests of the city at heart should do as I intend doing, vote for a change.

I may ask you for more space another day. I do hope that we will get a Mayor and Council who will do the business of the city like business men—not like school children.

Yours, Etc.,
RATEPAYER.

PRICES WERE HIGH FOR NEW YEARS' FOWL

Small Market But Prices Made Up The Deficiency

A number of citizens who went to market this morning to buy a New Year's turkey, found a great change in the prices. In the first place there was not a large attendance of farmers and in consequence there was not a great quantity of produce. However, turkeys held the boards and for high prices had all past records outdistanced. One woman had a row of six in front of her. The largest would not have sold for more than $2.00 a week ago, but to-day the woman said with some hesitation "I'm asking three dollars," but the reporter did not wait to see whether she got the three "williams." The smallest birds were at $1.75, and one dollar of $1.25 would have bought them last Saturday. Geese were at $1.50 and $1.75, the farmers taking advantage of the small offering of fowl.

On the outside several butchers were retailing their beef at 4 and 5 cents. One of them was speaking of the cheapness(?) of the turkeys and said that at the latest prices he could with advantage trade a whole carcass of beef for two turkeys.

There were a few baskets of butter but that was all.

DOES THIS INTEREST YOU?

A prominent physician, famous for his success in the treatment of kidney and bladder diseases, attributes a great deal of his success to the following simple vegetable prescription:—

One ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion;

One ounce Compound Salacetone;

Four ounces Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla;

Mix, shake well, and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and again at bedtime.

Your druggist can supply the ingredients, and the mixture can be prepared at home at very little expense.

This, the doctor says, acts directly on the kidneys, assisting them to filter the poisons from the blood and expel same in the urine, at the same time restoring the kidneys to healthy, normal action.

We feel that a great many readers will be pleased to learn of this simple prescription, and knowing the ability of the physician whose formula it is, we do not hesitate to recommend it to any sufferer.

Jury Brings Verdict Of Murder

Finding of Coroner's Jury In Brampton Shooting Case.

AFTER MUCH HESITATION

Result of Post-Mortem Examination —James Curry Tells Story of the Tragedy on Christmas Night—Did Not Want to Give Evidence Against Prisoner — Desperate Struggle In the House.

Brampton, Dec. 31.—A verdict of murder was returned by Coroner Heggie's jury at Elmbank Hall, yesterday after pressure had been brought on the coroner's jury by the crown officials. The text of the verdict was:

"We find that William Curry came to his death by a gunshot wound caused by a shot from a gun fired by one John Terrace, and that the said John Terrace did directly kill and murder William Curry."

The evidence of James Curry concerning his father, which charges John Terrace, for three weeks an employe on the farm near Elmbank, with the murder, was taken, as was the result of post-mortem examination, as made by Drs. Arthur Jukes Johnson, Lawson and Heggie. Crown Attorney McFadden then announced that sufficient evidence had been brought forward to send the case to the jury. He did not see any necessity to put little "Jimmy" Reid, the only other witness of the tragedy, before the jury.

A. R. Hassard, who appeared for Terrace, said that the evidence was enough to establish the cause of death, but he objected to the charge being laid against his client. In this he was upheld by several members of the jury, who, speaking from the jury bench, expressed themselves as not fully satisfied with their knowledge of the jurisdiction in the matter.

Attorney Drafted Verdict.

Crown Attorney McFadden then wrote out a verdict, which he handed to the foreman, and to which several members of the jury agreed. Others demurred and wanted the boy called. Coroner Heggie then went into the case as he thought fully, to show, according to the evidence, that there was no one else who could have fired the gun.

One juryman got up and said that he knew that Curry died from gun wounds, but the crown had not proved who pulled the trigger. Curry, Jr., had sworn that he did not see Terrace cook the gun, a point which was neglected by the crown, but one asked by a juryman.

The crown attorney then said he would call the other witness. Before this was done, however, after many questions were directed at the coroner, the jury seemed satisfied to accept the advice of the crown, and the crowd of 300, which packed the hall, surged out.

A new feature of the case was brought out in the evidence of Detective Greer, who produced shot found in the sheeting of the ceiling of the dining-room at the Curry house, showing that two shots had been fired. This point, it is said, Terrace had denied.

Son Tells of Shooting.

James Curry, the first witness, told the details of the shooting Christmas Day. Several times during the day he had asked Terrace to put away a hammer which he was carrying around.

"After the evening meal," he said, "I was sitting at the table reading. Terrace went over to the corner and stood for a while. Suddenly Terrace said, 'It is my turn to laugh now.' I said, 'In the name of common sense, Jack, what does this mean?' He said, 'You laughed at me at the pump. It's my turn to laugh now, put your hands behind your back. Both barrels are loaded.' I said, 'Where did you get the cartridges? Have you been searching the house?' He said, 'They were in my room.'

"Then father came out of the room. That's all I can remember now."

"Were you carrying on this conversation with Terrace with the gun pointing at you?" asked the coroner.

"Yes."

"Curry continued: "My father said 'What does all this mean?' Terrace said, 'You keep back or I'll shoot you.' Then I heard a report."

At this point Mr. Hassard objected to Detective Greer prompting the witness. The coroner said that he was there to find out everything, and he did not care how he found out. Witness said he had a faint idea that the gun went off a second time. At any rate, he heard the gun drop. He sprung at Terrace, who tried to get away from him around the table. Then Terrace struck him on the left side of the head with something hard. Witness took him by the throat and hit him in the face. The elder Curry said, "I'm done."

"I got Terrace on the floor. I got a hold of the stove-shaker which he had in his hand. He said, 'Tie me, there is twine in my pocket.' I said, 'Not until I get this iron.' I got it. Then I asked him which pocket the twine was in. He told me and I found some string and another cartridge. I said to him 'This twine won't hold you,' and I hit him with the stove-shaker and knocked him unconscious. Then I tied him. During this time my father did not speak. I had said to Terrace 'You've killed my father.' Then I hit him. Terrace said, 'The poor old man.' Before I knocked Terrace out I told Jimmy to go for Mackay. Terrace said, 'Don't you do it.' Father had gone back into bed and was covered up."

Witness had engaged Terrace in the immigration office at Toronto. He engaged him for a month on trial with a promise of $110 a year if he suited. He did not suit, and the witness had told him so on Monday night. Terrace got angry and said he had been hired for a year.

Witness In Tears.

To Mr. Hassard, in the course of cross-examination, the witness said that he did not want to swear to anything exactly and he broke into tears.

"I don't want to give evidence against him at all," he said.

Witness swore that on Christmas night there was no talk about wages or Terrace's leaving at all.

Dr. M. H. Aikens had arrived at the Curry house at midnight and found the aged man dying. He died 32 minutes later.

Dr. W. L. Heggie of Brampton, who assisted in the post-mortem, said death was due to shock and hemorrhage. The general line of the wound was upward.

Detective Greer examined the hole in the ceiling at the Curry house. There was a gun shot hole in the ceiling where he found some shot in the sheeting of the roof.

WEALTHY FARMER STEALS.

Man Gets Six Months In Jail For Robbing Neighbors.

Galt, Dec. 31.—A remarkable case came before Magistrate Blake yesterday, when a Beverley farmer, John Riddell, by name, who is reported to be worth $10,000, was charged with theft. He admitted his guilt, offered no explanation of his extraordinary conduct and was sent to the Central for six months.

Farmers about Galt have lately been missing a lot of stuff from their wagons such as blankets, shoes, groceries, meats, in fact anything that an able bodied man could carry away.

An Alleged Confession.

New York, Dec. 31.—Eugene Dippotti swore on the witness stand in the court of general sessions yesterday that Guiseppi Capuzzo, also known as Charles Davis, confessed to him that he strangled Sophie Kehrer of Buffalo, and that he had killed other women in the same way. Mrs. Kehrer was found murdered in a furnished rooming house in West 22nd street last July. Capuzzo was arrested a few days later, charged with having caused her death.

Russia's Position In Manchuria.

Pekin, Dec. 31.—Ivan Shipoff, agent of the Russian Finance Minister, has just concluded a three months' investigation of the serious problems which confront the Chinese Eastern Railway, and as a result had recommended that expenditures be reduced in every direction possible. This action is construed here as a reflection of the hopelessness of Russia's position in Manchuria.

Gotham's Unemployed.

New York, Dec. 31.—Declaring that over 125,000 persons were out of work, the Central Federated Union voted to have its executive committee undertake immediately a plan for Governmental relief and submit it at a meeting next Sunday.

The Socialist delegates at the meeting declared that the city's army of unemployed was three or four times as great as it is usually at this season.

Witness Could Not Travel.

Georgetown, Ky., Dec. 31.—At the trial of Caleb Powers for complicity in the Goebal assassination yesterday, Attorney Wilson, speaking for the defence, declared that Charley Finley, who was indicted with Powers, and is now a fugitive in Canada, would have to come back to Kentucky to testify at the trial, but is dying of consumption and unable to travel.

Three Workmen Killed.

Field, B. C., Dec. 31.—Three muckers named Maretti, Paulo and J. Duffy, were blown up and killed in an accidental explosion of dynamite in the Macdonnell and Gzowski's grading contract here. The explosion was due to stray pieces of dynamite that had not mixed with dirt.

Husband Poisoned His Wife

Quebec Man Tells Officer How He Gave Strychnine.

MAKES FULL CONFESSION

Put Poison In Her Food—Says He Was Crazy With Many Years of Strife—Children Knew of the Deed —Speedily Married a Young French-Canadian Girl — The Evidence Is Complete.

Chicago, Dec. 31.—Omer Rochette, a chef of Quebec, who was arrested in Chicago Saturday, on a charge of murdering his first wife, last night made a full confession.

The man, who was arrested with the second wife, Filon Marceau Rochette, admitted to Chief McCaskill of Montreal that he put strychnine in food that he gave his wife. Rochette and the pretty French-Canadian girl were taken back to Montreal last night.

"I killed her because we were always fighting," Rochette said. "For eleven years we were always in a row, and I was driven half crazy by it all, then after she was dead I loved Filon and married her.

Chief McCaskill went to the cell where Rochette was locked up: "I am going to take you back to Montreal for murdering your wife," the Canadian official said; "are you ready to go or do you want to make a fight?"

"I don't see why I should be persecuted like this," complained Rochette. "I didn't kill her."

"But you did," the chief insisted. "You used enough strychnine to kill 20 persons. Your children saw you put it in the food, and you warned them not to eat any of the meat in which you put it. We have the complete evidence against you." Rochette hesitated a moment and then broke down.

"Yes, I killed her," he said, "I had to do it. We had fought so long that I just couldn't stand any more of it. But Filon Marceau didn't know anything about this. She married me secretly and we came on to Chicago, where I bought a restaurant on Wentworth avenue. I am willing to go back without a fight and stand trial."

Prisoners Return to Canada.

Chicago, Dec. 31.—Omer Rochette and his wife, who were arrested here last week on information furnished by the Canadian secret service, were yesterday returned to Quebec, the scene of the supposed murder of Rochette's former wife.

Photographs by Wireless.

Paris, Dec. 31.—Pascal Bjonneau, an inventor, yesterday exhibited before the Postmaster-General and a number of persons interested in scientific inventions, a new telephotography apparatus, which can be adapted to the wireless system or to the ordinary telegraph wire system. He transmitted the picture of the Postmaster-General without the aid of wires, from one end of the hall to the other. The inventor claims that distance does not interfere with the effectiveness of his methods. Photography, he said, can be sent between New York and Paris.

Canon Attacks Archbishop.

Montreal, Dec. 31.—A great deal of interest has been aroused in Roman Catholic circles over a sermon preached by Canon O'Meara, parish priest of St. Gabriel, who severely criticized Mgr. Bruchesi's appointment of Rev. Gerald McShane to the chief pastorate of St. Patrick's.

The canon says it is a slap in the face to 25 Irish priests, and that the archbishop was badly advised by a clique of men who must be called English-speaking Catholics, for they do not deserve the name of Irish.

W. G. MORROW, Esq.,
Agent Imperial Life Assurance Co.,
Peterborough.

Dear Sir:—I have received notification of the option available in respect to my ten-year Endowment Policy of $2000 which matured to-day and it affords me pleasure to say that I view with much satisfaction the results of my investment with your Company.

The substantial surplus which the Policy has earned in the comparatively short period of ten years makes the returns which would be made to me, under any of the options now open to my selection, most liberal and attractive.

It is greatly to the credit of the Company that after having granted me an Insurance of $2000 from the issue of the Policy in 1897 to the present time, it can now offer me under the cash-value option a sum six greatly in excess of the total premium that I have paid into it, or under the paid up Insurance option, a paid up life Policy considerably more than double the amount of my original Policy.

Permit me to wish the Company a long continuance of its prosperity

Yours very truly,

J. H. STRATTON.

Strathconas Claim That O.H.A. Men Are Not Barred

THE CITY LEAGUE RULING

The following letter received by the manager, has thrown consternation into the Strathcona camp, and the players and management are loudly complaining against the ruling:

Mr. W. J. Metheral,
Manager Strathconas.

Dear Sir, — I have been authorized by Mr. F. A. Clarke, president of the City Hockey League, to inform you that no player who participates in an intermediate O. H. A. game this season, will be allowed to play with the City Hockey League, and that positively no certificates will be issued to any one who infringes this rule. The certificate of any City League player, who participates in any Intermediate O. H. A. game will be immediately cancelled.

Yours very truly,
B. T. HUSTON,
Secretary.

The Strathconas complain that this action on the part of the City League is not borne out by the constitution of that body, and quote as their authority, section 21, of the revised constitution as follows:

"Players who have participated in any league games for the PETERBOROUGH HOCKEY CLUB, in the O. H. A. Series, other than the junior, since and including the season of 1905-06, are not eligible."

The contention of the Strathconas is that 'their club is not the 'Peterborough Hockey Club," that in fact the Peterborough Hockey Club has ceased to exist. The Strathconas are an entirely different organization, with new officers and players, and claim that there is nothing in the constitution, as it now stands, to bar the Strathconas from playing members of the O.H.A. team in the City League, if they see fit, to do so.

Of course the Strathconas do not wish to take any unfair advantage of any of the League teams, but they feel that they are justified in making use of the technicality in view of the peculiar circumstances in which they find themselves. The Strathconas, as the public knows, has a team in the O.H.A., as well as a City League team, both under the same management, and they have a big bunch of players of about uniform calibre, so that it will not be an easy matter to select an O. H. A. seven. This is where the difficulty comes in in connection with the ruling of the city league. A seven will have to be selected for the first O.H.A game, and a number of men may be picked whom it will be found necessary to drop afterwards. These players will be out of the game for the winter, and out of hockey for ever, as far as the city league is concerned. The players realize this, and are dubious about playing O. H. A. Hockey for this reason—that if they don't make good they will find themselves out of the game. Meanwhile the City League, for some unaccountable reason, allows the outside teams the privilege of playing old O. H. A. men, some of whom have played for several years in intermediate and senior company. Why should they allow this and then attempt to bar a number of young Peterborough players who have never played O.H.A. hockey until this season?

The Strathconas have asked for a meeting of the City League to consider the question, and claim that under the League constitution their O. H. A. men are not barred from the City League.

PORT HOPE TEAM MAY PLAY HERE

Strathconas are Endeavouring to Bring Lake Shore Bunch to Peterboro

The Strathconas O. H. A. team will have no game in Port Hope to-morrow. A letter from Secretary McMillan this morning stated that there was no prospect of getting the there this week, and the game would have to be postponed. There is a possibility of the dates being changed, and Port Hope may be seen here in the first game on Friday night next. President Graham called up the lakeshore bunch this morning and asked them to come here. They are considering the matter and will inform the locals this afternoon as to whether they can come. The game would attract a large crowd here.

Reserve your seats to-night for New Years Matinee or night. Box Office open until 9 p. m. Open every day this week from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Only those who have five dollar hockey tickets will be allowed on the ice to-morrow and players who have not procured tickets should do so at once or they will be barred from the ice. This warning is expected to be sufficient.

ELOPING PARSON FOUND.

Rector Who Fled With Young Girl In California.

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 31.—The Call yesterday published an interview with Rev. Jere Knode Cooke, formerly pastor of St. George's Church at Hempstead, L. I., who it is alleged left his wife some eight months ago, eloping with a 17-year-old heiress named Floretta Whaley. The couple have been located, it is said, at a flat at 1,199 Green street in this city, while a search has been going on for them all over the country.

A child has been born to them during the interval. The rector has been working partly as a painter and decorator and partly at hard manual labor for the support of himself, his companion and the child. He had, it is said, lived quietly in Los Angeles before coming here after he left the east.

Enquiry at the flat occupied by Cooke and Miss Whaley revealed the fact that the couple fled with their child.

The couple seem to have been identified beyond all question as Cooke and Floretta Whaley. They were living under the name of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Balcom.

HORRIBLE CRIME IN OHIO.

Station Agent Bound by Robbers and Burned to Death.

Clarington, Ohio, Dec. 31.—Edward Hutchinson, the Baltimore & Ohio railroad station agent here, was robbed and murdered at an early hour yesterday and the station burned over his head.

The burglars bound and gagged Hutchinson and after taking his watch and money ransacked the station. Hutchinson had worked for the Baltimore & Ohio for a number of years.

The burglars evidently decided to burn Hutchinson as he lay bound in order to conceal their identity.

Fisherman Not Seaman.

St. Thomas, Dec. 31.—An interesting decision was rendered by His Honor Judge Ermatinger on Saturday, in the Port Stanley case of Going vs. Fritzley. The plaintiff secured judgment for $22.60 and costs against Fritzley and garnisheed the wages owing the latter from Capt. A. C. Brown. It was proved at the trial that Fritzley was employed as fisherman by Mr. Brown, on the tug Gordon Brown, and there was about $40 coming to him.

W. K. Cameron, acting for Fritzley, contended that the wages of a fisherman cannot be garnisheed, as under the Shipping Act of Canada all seamen's wages are exempt. The plaintiff's solicitor contended that the act does not apply to this province, and even if it did, the defendant was not a seaman. The judge decided that the act is not applicable and that a fisherman cannot claim the exemption as a seaman, and gave judgment for the plaintiff with costs.

Arrested For Murdtr.

Gretna, Man. Dec. 31.—As a climax of a week's investigation in a brutal murder at Neche, N. D., on the international boundary, of Fred Leclaire, a young railroader, James O'Brien, son of Deputy Collector of U. S. Customs, has been arrested, charged with the crime.

It is said the most damaging evidence was suddenly revealed against young O'Brien in the form of bloody clothes which he wore the night Leclaire was beaten to death and his body shoved under the ice of the Pembina River.

Business Man's Suicide.

Buffalo, Dec. 31.—George Werner, aged 67 years, of the George Werner & Sons Carriage Depository, committed suicide by inhaling illuminating gas.

Mr. Werner was found in his office at his factory, sitting in a chair with a piece of hose attached to a gas pipe running up inside of his coat which was closely buttoned and the collar turned up, to his mouth.

Murderers Fight.

Kingston, Dec. 31.—John Troy, the slayer of Angus McLeod at Napanee 10 years ago, attempted to kill Valentine Shortiss, the Valleyfield murderer, on Saturday afternoon by stabbing him in the face and neck with a thick piece of wire. Both murderers are prisoners in the insane ward of the penitentiary. Shortiss is not seriously hurt.

Killed Over Pan of Chops.

New Orleans, Dec. 31.—Edward Prades was shot and killed by his brother Milton over a pan of chops which the mother of the young men was frying for Milton. Edward threw the chops through the window. Later Milton shot him, claiming self-defence. A knife was found in the hand of the dead man.

London, Dec. 31.—(C. A. P.)—The Canadian Government have taken 121,500 square feet of space at the Franco-British exhibition, and 44,000 square feet at the Edinburgh exhibition. The G. T. R. and C. P. R. have also space at both exhibitions.

Indictments Quashed.

Denver, Col., Dec. 31.—Judge R. E. Lewis of the Federal Court yesterday quashed all indictments and sustained all the demurrers in coal land fraud cases, thereby releasing about fifty prominent defendants from prosecution.

Madison, Wis., Dec. 31.—Chief Justice J. B. Cassidy of the State Supreme Court, died here early yesterday.

ESTIMATES AND RESULTS

The evidence before the Royal Commission showed that over 700 SUN LIFE policies had already matured and that in thirty-four per cent. of the cases the amounts originally estimated as likely to be received at the end of the terms, had been realized or exceeded. On all the cases combined the average amount paid had been about ninety-seven per cent. of the estimate. The management may be pardoned for being proud of this record. The estimates now in use since 1900 are lower than former ones, and premiums are higher, so that present estimates should certainly be realized. Statements were also filed showing that $108 is on hand for every $100 required to pay the amounts called for by the present estimates for every deferred profit policy on the books and this without taking into account the Company's great and inestimably valuable contingent fund. Our policyholders are therefore justified in being particularly optimistic in regard to the Company's probable future profits.

Some one has said "the true value of a life assurance policy must be gauged by the security of the protection given; if it proves to be a good investment, all the better: when both are shown, there is nothing on earth to equal it."

The security of the protection afforded by the Sun Life of Canada needs no comment and the profits paid—let our results tell their own forceful story.

In deference to numerous requests I have consented to place myself at your disposal for the position of Aldarman for 1908.

While I cannot claim to be familiar with the various qualifications which an Alderman should possess, such business capacity as I have is placed at your service. I therefore ask your support in the effort to assist in maintaining for the city of Peterborough the position and standing which it is its right to possess.

The management of the city's affairs on business lines is my platform, and if the electors do me the honour of electing me, I will make the general welfare and progress of the municipality my aim.

As I will not have time to make a personal canvass, the electors are asked to show their approval of my candidature by marking their votes for me without personal solicitation.

4d153. Respectfully yours,

GEO. A. GILLESPIE

ALDERMAN DUNCAN FOR 1908

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE CITY OF PETERBOROUGH:

Ladies and Gentlemen, — Having served you as Alderman for three years I once again at the request of a large number of ratepayers, offer myself as a candidate for re-election. During last year I held the important position of chairman of the Board of Works, thereby acquiring a knowledge of municipal affairs that should enhance my value as a member of the Aldermanic Board for 1908. If elected for another term I shall use my best endeavours to advance the interests of the community as a whole, without fear or favour, and will only support such measures as are calculated to assure to my fellow citizens a maximum of benefits at a minimum of expenditure.

Trusting that you will once more honour me with your confidence, believe me, to remain,

Your obedient Servant,

GEO. H. DUNCAN

TO THE RATEPAYERS

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

Having received the nomination, for the third term, as Alderman of the city of Peterborough, I desire your vote and influence to re-elect me to the position. If favoured by election, I shall devote my best efforts to the city's business.

Wishing all a Happy and Bright New Year, and many of them.

GEO. E. ELLIOTT

FOR ALDERMAN

TO THE ELECTORS OF PETERBOROUGH,—

Your vote and influence are respectfully solicited for

W. H. BRADBURN

As Alderman for 1908.

Wishing you all the compliments of the season.

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE CITY OF PETERBOROUGH!

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN,—

As I am seeking re-election as Alderman for the city of Peterborough, for the coming year, I respectfully solicit your vote and influence.

Wishing you all a Happy and Prosperous New Year,

I remain,

4d153 Your obedient servant,

HARRY PHELAN

FOR ALDERMAN

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

I have been nominated for the Council of 1908.

If you want me to serve the city, see that I am elected.

4d153 Yours sincerely,

J. J. TURNER, Jr.

FOR ALDERMAN

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

Your vote and influence respectfully solicited for

ROBERT H. LEARY

For Alderman for 1908.

Electors are requested to take this public card, instead of a personal canvass.

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE CITY OF PETERBOROUGH

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

While I am grateful for the honour implied in my nomination, as a candidate for alderman for this city, I find it impossible for me to accept the candidature, and I hereby beg leave to announce my retirement.

ROLAND DENNE

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE CITY OF PETERBOROUGH!

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

Having without solicitation, or knowledge, been nominated for the honourable position of member of the School Board, I feel it my duty to accede to the wishes of a large number of my fellow citizens, particularly in "Ashburnham," and submit myself to your suffrages. The Fifth Ward, in which I reside, is without a representative on the School Board, and it is naturally felt that this part of the city, isolated as it is, and having a large and important school, should have a voice in the management of educational affairs, and I am asked to be that medium. I do not place myself in opposition to any of the gentlemen, who have well and faithfully served, during the term for which they were elected, nor do I in any way depreciate their ability and fairness; there is, however, a growing impression that not only should the honour of public service be from time to time passed on, but also that better results are obtained by the partial changes contemplated by the law governing School Board Elections. If, then, taking these matters into consideration, the necessary majority should favour me with their choice, I shall be happy to render you my best offices.

Believe me, Ladies and Gentlemen, 4d153. Very faithfully yours,

W. F. NELSON

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE CITY OF PETERBOROUGH!

For A Fourth Term

Ladies and Gentlemen, — I respectfully solicit your vote and influence for Alderman for 1908.

Having discharged the duties of Alderman during the past four years with an honest endeavour to serve the best interests of our city, I can fairly claim to be entitled to a renewal of your confidence for another term.

Yours respectfully,

W. J. JOHNSTON

'Fashion-Crafts' Thanks

WAS EDWARD BEAMAN MURDERED ? HIS DISAPPEARANCE CONNECTED WITH THE ASSAULT OF CHARLES PORTEOUS

Manvers and Cavanville Residents Inclined to Believe He Was Thrown From The C.P.R. Bridge Into The Otonabee

WHO IS GEORGE CHAMBERS?

Examiner Special.

Manvers, January 2nd. — Since the disappearance of Edward Beaman, in Peterborough, on the evening of December 12th, the opinion of many of the residents of this neighbourhood has changed, and it is the belief of many that he did not meet with an accident, but that he was murdered. Not only that, but the disappearance of Mr. Beaman is linked with the brutal assault, and almost fatal shooting of Charles Porteous, at his home not far from here. The arrest of George Chambers in Toronto, whom the authorities believe to be the perpetrator of the latter crime, has revived interest in the affair, and the people here have linked the two crimes with Chambers, whom, it is alleged, is none other than the man whose home is in the vicinity.

Links In the Chain

Circumstances have strengthened rumours, and a chain of theory has been slowly evolved which is quite possible, and probable. It will be remembered that Beaman disappeared on the evening of Tuesday, December 10. On Thursday, December 12th the shooting of Charles Porteous occurred. Persons at Cavanville recollect the appearance of a stranger talking with Porteous' description of his assailant. They say that at that time he was carrying a pail, which Beaman is also said to have owned. The opinion that now prevails is that the stranger was on the freight near the west end of the bridge in Peterborough, and that in holding up Beaman, probably for his money, he was responsible for his disappearance in the Otonabee.

The Next Link

The freight went west, and the stranger got off at Cavanville. No one can explain where he spent Wednesday, the 11th, but on Thursday he went to Porteous' house. After shooting the farmer between five and six o'clock he came towards Manvers, and a suspicious looking character was seen at the station after ten o'clock, apparently waiting for the next train. When he passed the operator's window his face was always turned away, so that those inside could not see it. He was missed after a freight went west and is believed to have gone to Toronto.

Was he a City Man?

It was suggested here that the shooting of Porteous was not the deed of a city hold up man. Would a professional crook seek a lonely farm house situated, as in this case, work during the day, and hold up his man, as this stranger did? People here do not fancy this idea, but they consider the local man is implicated. He is said to be now missing. Likewise, he is said to have been a strange character being generally feared by the neighbours. A gentleman who has seen him says that two of his front teeth are missing, and he is of about the height mentioned by Porteous.

Just as to how near the truth these beliefs may be, cannot be here stated, but the farmers in the vicinity have discussed the affair in every light, and while many opinions prevail a general idea of what the people think, is given.

PRESENTATION TO THE FIREMEN

Rev. Canon Davidson Gives Them Interesting Link With Past

Rev. Canon Davidson has presented the members of the Peterborough fire brigade with an interesting link between ancient and modern firehalls in the shape of a fragment of serpentine, which formed part of the mensle cohort "Vigiles," which were organized by the Emperor Augustus who died A. D. 14, and acted as the firemen of ancient Rome, keeping watch over the city from the towers. The interesting souvenir was brought from Rome and presented to the brigade by Canon Davidson. The firemen wish to express their gratitude to that gentleman for his kind gift, which, set in a frame with a short history of its origin, will adorn the wall of the chief's office.

HE SPOILED HIS HANDSOME CLOTHES AND MISSED THE ENJOYMENT OF THE DIZZYING DANCE

There was no silver lining to the cloud which enshrouded a city youth the other evening, who, on pleasure bent, was wending his way to the south end of the city to participate in a happy event. It was a dance he was bound for, but it was a dance he didn't have on that particular evening. The youth possibly had never looked more handsome, having paid particular attention to his toilet at the barber shop. His collar was high and immaculate, and his clothing was perfect, for he was expecting to meet a feminine friend particularly pleasing to him.

The dance was held in a house near, and to the west of the Exhibition grounds, and the young fellow had to cross a creek. The night was dark, and he was none too familiar with the road, so that the consequences were that he walked over a thin coating of ice on the creek and went through. The suit and collar were not in it with the water. They presented the appearance of being some some remnants of the dark ages of the past, and by no means suitable for the interior of a ball-room or the centre of the whirling quadrille. He did not attend the dance on that night.

Curling Rink Totally Destroyed By Flames

The Historic Old Building is a Pile of Debris—Loss Will be Between $11000 and $12000—Insurance Of $4500

THE ORIGIN IS UNKNOWN

The Charlotte street curling rink was totally destroyed this morning by a blaze which broke out shortly before 3 o'clock. Nothing remains of the historic old building to-day save the side walls and a pile of smouldering debris in which may be detected the fragments of the curling stones which yesterday were in active use. The building and contents are a total loss and the prospects of one of the most successful seasons in the history of the curling club are wiped out by the conflagration.

The origin of the fire cannot be ascertained and several theories are advanced, the one which has the most supporters being the blaze was caused by defective electric wiring. It is said that the fire started on the west side of the building in which case the fire was either due to bad wiring or else was of incendiary origin.

At any rate the flames spread with almost incredible rapidity. The fire was discovered by Mr. F. O'Brien, who passed the rink about 2.45 o'clock and who ran at once to the fire hall. The majority of the firemen had not had time to go home from the ball held there earlier in the evening and the apparatus was on the scene before the general alarm was sent in from Box 23. The fire had gained great headway before being discovered and it was seen at once that the building was doomed. The structure was mostly all pine and burned fiercely. When the firemen arrived flames were bursting out everywhere through the roof and the interior was a roaring furnace. Five strong streams were directed on the building from the front and sides, but it was soon seen that there was no chance to check the blaze and the firemen turned their attention to the property on both sides, which were in great danger, but which were saved after heroic efforts on the part of the brigade. Gammell's corset factory and dry goods establishment on the east end F L Robinson's livery on the west were not damaged, although at times the situation looked serious for them.

Five of the brigade had a very narrow escape from death during the progress of the fire and neither they nor the spectators will soon forget the accident. Firemen W Mathews, W. Tremaine, A Ranger and W Mitchell were holding a branch on the building from Carlotte street, when without the least warning the brick wall to the south fell outwards across the street. Some one in the crowd saw the wall begin to go and shouted a warning to the firemen, who dropped the hose and ran for their lives, escaping by a hair's breadth from being crushed under the falling masonry. Several were hit by flying bricks but were uninjured. Chief Rutherford, who had been standing near the four directing them, had the most narrow escape and for a moment the crowd thought that he was gone.

The fire was a most spectacular one lighting up the city for blocks and a very large crowd gathered to watch the fight between firemen and flames.

The building was purchased about a year ago by the Peterborough Curling Company, Limited, from the Peterborough Curling and Skating Rink Company which had owned the rink for a large number of years. Mr. T. Brightman, the president of the company estimated the total damage to the Examiner this morning at from $10,000 to $12,000. This of course includes the stones, the loss of which will fall on the individual members. There was an insurance of $4,500 on the building divided equally between the Phoenix, Northern and Western fire insurance companies.

It is estimated that there were about 125 pairs of curling stones in the building and of these only four pairs were saved, the property of Messrs. Dr. Wightman, R. Neill, S A Oke and J A Aylmer. Nothing remains of the others except a pile of fragments of granite. Eight pairs of stones were the property of Lakefield curlers and were totally destroyed. One member of the company estimated the loss on the curling stones and curlers' equipment at $2,000.

The building has had a long and eventful career. It was erected originally on the river bank where the Quaker Oats Company's factories are now, and twenty-two years ago was moved to its present location. It has been the scene of many a hard fought hockey game and hotly contested curling match during the past years. The Quits came into their fame there, winning junior and intermediate championships, while Crowley, Whitcroft, Harold Armstrong and all the others who have made Peterborough famous as a hockey centre, learned the game on the "soup-plate" as outside teams were wont to designate the Charlotte street rink. It was in use as a hockey rink, until the Brock street rink was built and even after that time the T.A.S. played a sudden death game with Keene there to decide the Trent Valley Championship.

While the curlers are depressed over the wreck of their comfortable quarters and the loss of their stones, they are not going to drop out of the game. Arrangements are being made for an open air rink and an order has already been sent in for stones to take the place of those destroyed.

CANDIDATES AFTER THE HONOURS

Seventeen in The Field For The Council —Two of Last Year's Retire

The contest for municipal honours, the closing of which will be seen next Monday night, is now on. There will be elections in every department, including the Mayoralty, the Council, the Board of Education and the Water Commissioners. In Tuesday's issue the first three the two mayoralty candidates, the six Board of Education, the two for the Water Commission vacancy had qualified, was mentioned.

At the time of going to press the same day 13 had qualified and since that time four more have also added their names to the list. Out of the 17 candidates 13 only can be elected, ten,

ACTION AGAINST GLOBE EDITOR

By Dr. Beattie Nesbitt—Mr. MacDonald To Appear In Court

Examiner Special

Toronto, Dec. 31.—An action for criminal libel has been taken by Dr. Beattie Nesbitt against Mr. J. A. McDonald, managing editor of the Toronto Globe. The information was sworn out before the police magistrate on Tuesday, and Mr. McDonald will appear to answer at 10 o'clock on Monday morning. The action arises out of articles published in the Globe which Dr. Beattie Nesbitt alleges reflect upon his character.

HOW CITIZENS SPENT NEW YEARS

Some Special Attractions But The Day Was a Quiet One

The holiday was spent quietly in Peterborough, and if there is any real truth in the old belief that one's luck and happiness for the ensuing year are foreshadowed in the happenings on the first day of the year, the citizens of Peterborough for the next twelve months should be happy indeed.

There were numerous attractions for those who remained in town, the more prominent of those being the formal opening of the new fire hall, the reception at the Y.M.C.A., the two presentations by the Partello Stock Co., the Brock street skating rink, and the slide at Jackson Park.

The morning broke with a bright sunshine but later a gentle downfall of the beautiful made the day an ideal Canadian winter one, which was enjoyed to the fullest extent.

GOOD CIVIC GOVERNMENT

Do the electors take municipal matters seriously enough? Do they recognize that in a municipal contest, it is both their duty and their interest to sink all personal considerations and every other consideration which does not bear directly upon the problem of wise, prudent and economical administration of our city affairs? It is the duty of the electors to themselves and to the city, to make such choice of a mayor and council as will secure good government. Many naturally desire to see a personal friend succeed. But in the selection of a mayor or aldermen there is no room for personal preference. The fitness of the candidate, assuming that he is, as are all the candidates offering, of good character, is to be judged by his ability to do good work for the city such as all admit needs to be done. The Examiner during the past year has, in pursuance of its duty to the public, repeatedly and strongly called attention to the unsatisfactory management of our city affairs and the necessity of improvement. In so doing we feel that we have reflected the opinion of all citizens who have an interest in seeing the money contributed by way of taxes economically and satisfactorily expended. What is needed to this end is good business ability strengthened by a sufficient property stake in the city to make waste of city money—another name for high taxation—a matter of personal concern. Such a candidate seems to have been selected by a large body of ratepayers, who in the form of a requisition have asked and urged Mr. Harry Rush to take the field as he has done. These requisitionists represent the best of all classes and conditions of citizens, all with a most vital and material interest in the welfare of the city. Under these circumstances it would seem that the electors can make no mistake in actively supporting Mr. Rush for the mayoralty. With him in the mayor's chair, we shall have a good prospect of having the city business done in a business-like way. That is what the city needs; that is the chief consideration. If the citizens mark their ballots with this object in view, we can enter the new year with the hope that the machinery of city government will be placed in smooth-running order — waste eliminated, mistakes corrected and city money spent to good advantage.

RESPONSIBILITY OF A PUBLIC JOURNAL

(From the Presbyterian.)

Speaking of the above case reminds us of the writ for libel which was issued last Saturday against The Globe by one of the Mayoralty candidates in Toronto. The action of The Globe in publishing an episode in the life of Dr. Beattie Nesbitt, which came by the ordinary news channels, but which was not made public at the time, has occasioned a good deal of comment, and has raised the whole question of the attitude of a great organ of public opinion to the personal lives of public men. There are those who would settle the whole question by the glittering generality that all personalities must be avoided in the discussion of public issues and public men. This is based upon the heresy that we have no business with the private life of public men. That heresy has been answered again and again within recent years. In the Parliaments of Great Britain and Canada men standing high in the councils of the nation have been dethroned and relegated to private life, not because of lack of ability, but because the searchlight has been turned upon their violations of the laws of morality and decency. Personality does count, and the personal life of the man who seeks the suffrages of his fellow-men is an important factor in the judgment. Decent, self-respecting and law-abiding people have the indisputable right to demand that the private life of the man who represents them in any public capacity shall be at least free from open scandal. The great mass of the people have not the means of acquiring first-hand information regarding the men who seek their suffrages, especially in a large city, and they must depend upon reputable public journals for the information they need, and to which they have a right. The Globe is a journal of long and well-established reputation as moulder of public opinion, and believes that it has a duty to perform to the public. We believe that in its action it was actuated by a stern sense of duty. It was not a pleasant task, nor one that a paper with the traditions of The Globe would lightly enter upon. It could bring no grist to its circulation mill. It could only intensify the bitterness of those who were opposed to it. But the people had a right to know the quality of the man who was appealing for their support. And the action of The Globe was rendered all the more necessary by that of a minister of the Gospel who patted this aspirant for municipal honours on the head and sent him forth bearing the halo of ecclesiastical benediction upon his brow. The Globe did its duty as it saw it, and for the remote issues it is not responsible. If we believed that The Globe was actuated by personal malice, by politics, or by any lower motive than that of the public interest, it would have nothing but condemnation from this journal. It will be a good day for Canada when the ethical standard is such that no man can hope to hold the very humblest office in the gift of the people who cannot stand four-square to all the winds that blow and not fear, the turning on of the searchlight from any quarter.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The result of the mayoralty contest in Toronto is not "what the Doctor ordered."

The libel suit against the Globe will probably be a mere echo of the late mayoralty contest.

The Brantford Courier says: "Here's slow going. China adopting national 'phones, and the Dominion Government has not made one step in the same direction." Well, here's the 1874th anniversary of the death of Ananias, and, politically, the Mail and Empire has not learned the lesson yet.

Russia has become an "also ran" in the race of constitutional nations development. Japan is several laps ahead, and Persia now has responsible government, while Russia is still governed by the knout and wallowing in blood and revolution, fertilizing its soil with the blood of its children.

Ten years ago the bank clearings of Toronto were 371 1-2 millions. Last year they were nearly 1,229 millions. The past year the bank clearings of Winnipeg were nearly 600 millions, eighteen per cent. greater than the previous year. Only blue ruinists can see anything seriously disconcerting in the outlook, viewed from the standpoint of an opening year.

Another milestone in Canadian progress is the official opening of the Dominion branch of the Royal Mint at Ottawa, which took place yesterday, January 1, 1908, with elaborate ceremony. The first coins minted were of silver and copper, Cobalt silver and British Columbia copper being used. Later on, five-dollar gold pieces will be minted. They will be of the same weight and fineness as British coins, and will pass current in England and elsewhere in the British Isles as if coined there.

His Excellency Lord Grey is to invite the co-operation of the Canadian Clubs of the country in favour of his proposition to convert the Plains of Abraham at Quebec into a national park, to contain a monument to commemorate the triumphs, the heroism and reconciliation of the French and English races in Canada. The co-operation of all the Canadian Clubs, from Halifax to Dawson in the Yukon will be enlisted. In that event, the Canadian Club will be converted, in a new sense, into an olive branch.

Considering the disastrous extent to which the financial stringency has affected the commercial and industrial interests of the United States, it is surprising that Canada has been affected so little by a similar condition, as shown by the Customs returns. While in some places the stringency has not affected the imports of merchants, the general Customs returns of Canada for the last month of the year show a falling off of only $91,000. This is a comparatively trifling proportion of the December revenue, which is over four millions. For the first nine months of the present year the total Customs revenue has been $45,393,858, an increase over the corresponding period of last year of $6,983,303.

When Hon. Mr. Fielding introduced his first tariff bill, Sir Charles Tupper (then the political oracle of the Conservative party) foretold complete disaster, the ruin of all manufacturing industries, and a general commercial collapse. Fortunately, he was not a true prophet. Toronto is a good Tory city, but it has failed to justify Sir Charles' prophecy. The Customs collections for the year 1907, while more than a million and a half in excess of last year, are $7,849,939 in excess, or three times greater than they were ten years ago—last year $11,671,267 as against $3,821,328 in 1907. The growth of Toronto, thus indicated, is but a type of the prosperity and expansion which have affected the whole Dominion.

State of Crouter's Stable Not in Best of Condition

Dr. Johnston, V.S., visited the stable of Albert Crouter on Tuesday and according to him, it is in a very unsanitary condition. He found that the horse had died from a fatty heart which disease may be caused by such conditions as existed. Dr. Greer, Health Officer for North Monaghan, visited the premises and ordered them to be cleaned. Crouter will probably appear before Magistrate Edmison on Jan. 7th.

IS STILL WITHOUT MEANS OF SUSTENANCE

Wm. Austin in Close Straits and a Stranger to This Country

Mr. Wm. Austin the man from Lancashire, Eng., is still without a job. Willing and eager to work he has had a hard time of it during the three months since he first landed in Canada. He is an unobtrusive sort of man and does not try to forward himself upon the people who might have work especially being a stranger. His friends, however, are doing their best for him. To-day he heard of a job but someone else had been there before him. Mr. Thos. Barrie has an overcoat for him and other are becoming interested in him.

GEO. A. GILLESPIE'S CANDIDATURE ENDORSED

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I do not often ask space in your paper, but now, I think that among the municipal candidates is a man, not only a good citizen, but whose election would convey a deep significance and result to the city. The gentleman I refer to is Mr. Geo. A. Gillespie of the grocery firm of White & Gillespie. Mr. Gillespie is one of the leading men in the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association. His election as an alderman would have, in all probability a wide-spread effect in getting the association to hold their next or following meeting in this city. This would mean several hundred good citizens gathering here, and the expenditure of a large sum of money in the city, and in a general free advertisement for Peterborough throughout the press of Canada.

Yours truly,
RATEPAYER.

Local Option Creates Dives

Ex-Alderman W. H. McClarty, a substantial merchant of Owen Sound, says: "Local Option has not lessened drunkenness in Owen Sound,—but it has created dives and it has been the cause of lessening trade." Last year, with seven months of Local Option and five of license, Owen Sound had 262 police court cases. In eleven months this year, under Local Option, it has had 510 police court cases. "I saw 75 drunken men the other evening on a walk through two of our streets."

Your streets will not be pleasant for women after dark if Local Option carries your town.

Banker J. P. Raven, of Owen Sound, says: "There have been more failures here in 19 months of Local Option than there were in the seven years previous. Property has decreased in value from 20 to 25 per cent."

Naturally. For under license Owen Sound had but eleven liquor sellers, closely restricted. Under Local Option there are to-day SIXTY places selling liquor there,—with no restrictions.

Local Option takes the traffic from the grip of the law and delivers it over to private greed. Will that suit YOUR town?

Saved Her Friend.

Ottawa, Ont.—Acquaintances of Mrs. M. R. Dewar, of this city, are showering her with congratulations on being rescued from what promised to be hopeless invalidism. Mrs. Dewar had not been herself for years. Physicians treated her for various complaints, but none of them did any permanent good. Finally, a friend determined that something must be done and that quickly. So she insisted on Mrs. Dewar trying 'Fruit-a-tives'—those wonderful Fruit Liver Tablets that are curing so many people. Here is what Mrs. Dewar says about "Fruit-a-tives." "I have much pleasure in stating that I have found 'Fruit-a-tives' the best medicine I ever used for Constipation and Biliousness. I suffered from headaches of a severe kind for a long time, but, after taking 'Fruit-a-tives,' I have become entirely well. I can, with every confidence, recommend 'Fruit-a-tives' to anyone suffering from Constipation, Biliousness or Headaches."

Calomel, salts, oil and other violent cathartics act simply on the bowels. "Fruit-a-tives" are a liver tonic and stimulant. They act directly on the liver — reducing inflammation and increasing the flow of bile. Besides insuring complete digestion, bile makes the bowels move. That is why "Fruit-a-tives" also cure Constipation. They are made of fruit and tonics. 50c a box; 6 for $2.50. At all druggists, or sent on receipt of price. Fruit-a-tives, Limited, Ottawa, Ont.

NEWSBOYS' SUPPER A SUCCESS

Supper Was Given by The Members of The Gospel Hall

OVER 150 IN ATTENDANCE

The Newsboys' Supper which was held last night in the Gospel Hall, was a great success, and the members of that religious body deserve credit for the manner in which every detail was carried out.

The banquet was announced to begin at 6.30 o'clock, but long before that hour the stairs leading to the Gospel Hall were jammed with hungry newsboys, who have been looking forward to the event with great pleasure. At 6.30 the doors were opened, and as each boy passed into the hall his overcoat and hat were taken from him, and checked, each boy having a number for his clothing.

Over one hundred and fifty boys sat down to the three long tables, and by the happy smiles on the faces they seemed to be perfectly at home, and did full justice to the sumptuous dinner so kindly given by the members of the Gospel Hall.

The room was gaily decorated with flags and bunting, and an illuminated Union Jack, surrounded by a large sign of "Newsboys, Welcome" hung over the front door.

Over twenty-five men and women had volunteered to wait upon, and look after the boys, and after grace had been said, the supper was served, each boy being provided with a menu card, which read as follows:

MENU.

Roast Turkey. Ham.
Vegetables.
Mashed Potatoes.
Celery.
Relishes.
Pickles. Jellies.
Bread.
White and Brown.
Cakes.
Apple Pie. Mince Pie. Lemon Pie.
Nuts. Candies Raisins.
Apples. Oranges.
Tea. Ice Cream. Coffee.

After the supper was over, Mr. Mulligan entertained the boys with a sacred solo, which was very much appreciated by them. This was followed by an eloquent address by Mr. Maplesden of Buffalo. Magistrate Dumble also spoke to the boys, and urged them to be always honourable and upright in all their dealings. "I was a boy once," said Mr. Dumble, "and what kind of a boy do you think I was—good, bad or indifferent?" 'Bad!" was the unanimous response of the little boys present. His Worship admitted that the boys were right, and closed his address by wishing the lads a happy and prosperous New Year.

At the conclusion of this address, the boys arose from their chairs and in an orderly manner, made their way down stairs, expressing their appreciation of the hospitality received.

Pains and Aches Of The Aged

LARGELY DUE TO DERANGEMENTS OF THE LIVER, KIDNEYS AND BOWELS, WHICH ARE OVERCOME BY

You do not feel so young as you used to. The joints are a bit stiff. And you have dull, heavy pains in the back and limbs, with attacks of rheumatism, it may be.

It is possible you have found out that the cause of trouble rests with the sluggish action of the kidneys, liver and bowels, but if you have not used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills you have not tested the effective treatment for these conditions.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are a comfort to the aged largely because of their unique combined action on the whole excretory system.

Constipation and biliousness can no longer exist when the liver is enlivened to action by the use of this great medicine.

Kidney derangements and backache likewise disappear when the kidneys are invigourated, and an occasional dose of these pills ensures the elimination of uric acid from the system.

Almost daily we hear of aged people whose pains and aches have been overcome and whose lives have been made more comfortable and more happy by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Mr. James Simpson, Newcomb Mills, Northumberland County, Ont., writes: "This is to certify that I was sick in bed the most of the time for three years with kidney disease. I took several boxes of pills—different kinds—and a great many other kinds of patent medicines; besides that I was under treatment by four different doctors during the time, and not able to work. I began to take Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and since that time have been working every day, although a man nearly 70 years of age. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have cured me."

In every family there is need of just such a medicine as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to cure constipation, backache, biliousness, indigestion, and prevent dangerous and fatal diseases of the kidneys and bowels. One pill a dose; 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.—3.

OUTSIDE PEOPLE BUY LOCAL PROPERTY

One Man From B. C. Buys a Fifty Acre Farm by Wire

The spring of 1908 will bring with it an influx of new residents to Peterborough, according to the statements made by several prominent Real Estate firms to-day. There is not very much doing locally in the sales of property but large numbers of inquiries are being received from outside quarters, asking for prices on property in Peterborough. Many of these communications have terminated favourably.

One real estate man told the Examiner he had sold property to parties in Ottawa, Montreal, Cobourg and several other well known points and in their letters the purchasers say that they will take possession of the property in the spring.

One well known firm who advertises in the Montreal Star have received communications from different points all over America and have even had letters from people in England who intend coming to Canada in the spring and will settle in Peterborough.

One reply to their Advertisement was received from Wardner, B. C. The writer stated that he wished to buy a fifty acre farm near the city. They sent him an apparently favourable reply and this is the telegram they received to-day:—

"Wardner, B.C., Dec. 30th, — Hold farm in your letter. Reply by wire. Will forward deposit. 'Norris'."

The firm have replied to the telegram and are now watching for the cheque. Here is a man buying a farm at a big price and has never seen his property. This is the way of the West.

KIRKFIELD LIFT LOCK TAKEN OVER

The Kirkfield Lift Lock was taken off the hands of the contractors on Tuesday, and will in future be under the management and control of Mr. J. H. McClellan, the superintendent of the canal.

The Lock was formally declared open for public use on July 6th last, but it has been in the hands of the contractors, the Dominion Bridge Co., and operated and managed by them up to Tuesday.

Mr. J. H. McClellan, superintendent of the canal, and Mr. L. Sherwood, of the canal engineering staff, were in Kirkfield for the purpose of formally taking over the Lift Lock for the Government.

DISCUSSED TERMS WITH FIRM

Joint Meeting Met Representatives of the A. R. McWilliams Company

A joint meeting of the Manufacturers' Committee of the Board of Trade and the corresponding committee of the City Council was held Monday evening in the council committee room to discuss with Mr. R. A. Hollenlake, vice-president of the A. R. Williams, Manufacturing Company of Toronto, the terms and conditions of concessions asked from the city upon which the company is willing to take over and operate the plant of the Wm. Hamilton Manufacturing Company.

No definite conclusion was arrived at but Mr. Hollinlake is to submit a proposition in writing for the consideration of the new council.

This firm is interested in large machinery houses in Toronto, Montreal, Winnipeg and Vancouver and dispose of upwards of $1,500,000 every year, being an amount equivalent to six times the out put of the Hamilton Works. If satisfactory arrangements that the ratepayers will approve could be made, the firm is a substantial one with wide business interests.

BOARD IS TO PAY MR. STABLER

Part of His Bill For Sewer Connections To Be Paid

At the Board of Works meeting Monday afternoon a letter was received from Mr. H. C. Stabler, asking the city to pay a bill of $22.10 for sewer connection on Pearl avenue, on the account of the fact that he claimed that the city's contractor had not built the sewer deep enough to drain the cellar. Mr. Stabler was present and pointed out that he was asking what he had had to pay out in cash, making no charge for loss of time whatever.

After considerable discussion it was decided to pay Mr. Stabler $12 of the amount asked for.

BY-LAW No.....

A BY-LAW TO FIX AND PROVIDE FOR LEVYING A SPECIAL FRONTAGE RATE UPON LANDS IN THE CITY OF PETERBOROUGH FRONTING ON STREETS, LANES AND ALLEYS UPON WHICH WATER MAINS ARE LAID.

Passed the day of , 1908.

WHEREAS by Chapter 32, of the Statutes of the Province of Ontario, passed in the seventh year of the reign of His Majesty King Edward the Seventh, it is enacted, that subject to the approval of the majority voting thereon of the electors entitled to vote at municipal elections, the Peterborough Water Commissioners shall have power by By-law to levy and charge a special rate upon the several lands, lots or parts of lots, whether occupied or vacant, fronting or abutting upon all streets, lanes and alleys in the municipality upon which water mains, from which the Commissioners are willing to supply water, are laid; such special rate to be an annual rate according to the frontage of the said lands, lots or part of lots and not to exceed five cents per foot for such frontage and to be subject to the same discount for prompt payment as shall be allowed in respect of ordinary water rates for domestic use and to be payable at the time or times, during each year, fixed by the Water Commissioners for payment thereof.

AND WHEREAS the said Water Commissioners have decided to fix the said special rate at four and one-half cents per foot for each foot of frontage in said streets, lanes and alleys and to make the same payable on the same days and times as ordinary water rates are payable under the By-laws of the said Commissioners from time to time in force and effect.

THE PETERBOROUGH WATER COMMISSIONERS THEREFORE ENACT AS FOLLOWS:—

1. This By-law shall come into force and effect on the final passing thereof.

2. An annual special rate of four and one-half cents per foot for each foot of frontage of all lands, lots or parts of lots, whether occupied or vacant, fronting or abutting upon all streets, lanes and alleys in the City of Peterborough, upon which water mains, from which the Commissioners are willing to supply water are laid, is hereby fixed, levied and charged, subject to the provisions hereinafter contained.

3. The said annual special rate shall be due and payable to the said Commissioners in equal portions, on the days and times specified and appointed for payment of ordinary water rates under the By-laws of the said Commissioners, from time to time in force, and shall be subject to the same discount, on each of such payments, as is allowed by the said Water Commissioners, for prompt payment in respect of ordinary water rates for domestic use, provided, however, that upon the production by the owner or occupant of any land, lot or part of lot against which said special rate is charged and who is also the user of water from the said waterworks on the same land, lot or part of lot, of a receipt for the payment of any sum, rate or rent, chargeable for the use of such water for the same period, the Commissioners shall remit or allow to such owner or occupant, the amount so paid, as a payment on account of the said special rate, and if the sum, rate or rent paid by the said owner or occupant, as shown by the receipt therefor, shall for the same period, be greater than or equal to the said special rate, the Commissioners shall remit to such owner or occupant, the amount of the said special rate.

4. The votes of the electors of the City of Peterborough entitled to vote at municipal elections shall be taken on this By-law on the same day as the annual election for the municipal council for the year 1908 and the polls will be held during the same hours, at the same places, and by the same Deputy Returning Officers and Poll Clerks, as are fixed and appointed for the said annual municipal election.

5. The seventh day of January, 1908, at the hour of 12 o'clock noon, and the City Clerk's Office, are hereby fixed as the time when and the place where the clerk shall sum up the number of votes given for and against the By-law.

6. The fourth day of January, 1908, at the hour of 12 o'clock noon, and the office of the City Clerk, are hereby fixed as the time and place for the appointment of persons to attend at the various polling places, and at the final summing up of the votes by the clerk respectively, on behalf of the persons interested in and promoting or opposing the passing of the by-law.

NOTICE.

Take notice that the foregoing is a true copy of a proposed By-law which has been taken into consideration and which will be finally passed by the Water Commissioners of the City of Peterborough (in the event of the assent of the electors being obtained thereto) after one month from the first publication hereof in the Evening Examiner newspaper, the date of which first publication is the twenty-first day of December, 1907, and that at the hour, day and place therein fixed for taking the votes of the electors the polls will be held.

S. R. ARMSTRONG,
City Clerk.

YOU CAN EASILY OPERATE THIS TYPEWRITER YOURSELF

Don't worry your correspondent.

Don't write him anything by hand that takes him time to make out that may leave him in doubt, that he can't easily read.

And don't fill out legal papers or card memos—or make out accounts or hotel menus in your own hand writing.

It looks bad, reflects on your standing, makes people think you can't afford a stenographer, and sometimes ambiguous.

You can write onlyover letters—make out an abstract—fill in an insurance policy—enter your card memos—makeout your accounts, do legal memos—or do any kind of writing you need, on any kind, size or thickness of paper, and place any way you want on

The OLIVER Typewriter

The Standard Visible Writer

You can write any of these things yourself if you do not happen to have a stenographer.

For you can easily learn with a little practice to write just as rapidly, and as perfectly as an expert operator on the Oliver. Because the Oliver is the simplified typewriter. And you can see every word you write. About 25% more durable than any other typewriter, because it has about 50% less wearing points than most other typewriters.

25% easier to write with than these other complicated, intricate machines that require "hammering"—technical knowledge—long practice and special skill to operate.

Then machines which cannot be adjusted to any special space—with which it is impossible to write a abstracts, insurance policies, or add-ing documents except you buy expensive special attachments requiring experts to operate.

You can adjust the Oliver to any reasonable space—you can write on any reasonable size and thickness of paper, right out to the very edge, without the aid of any expensive attachment or special skill, and your work will be neat appearing, legible and clear.

For the Oliver is the typewriter for the doctor the lawyer, the insurance agent, the merchant the hotel proprietor—or any man that does his own writing.

Formal Opening of New Fire Hall a Great Success

Many Hundred Citizens Enjoyed the Hospitality of The Fire Laddies Yesterday---Hall Was Open All Day---An Enjoyable Dance in The Evening

The members of the Peterborough fire brigade have in the past achieved a two-fold reputation; first, for its prowess in fighting the fire fiend, and secondly, its success in promoting social events. The latter was sustained yesterday, on the occasion of the formal opening of the new fireball, as a large proportion of the population of the city will testify, and the affair was a gigantic success and most creditable to the members of the brigade, all of whom have worked faithfully to make the event one to be remembered.

The invitation to the citizens of Peterborough to be present during the day was accepted in a manner that delighted the firemen, who rightly considered it an indication of the interest taken in the brigade in this city. From early in the morning until 6 o'clock in the evening there was a constant throng of visitors to the commodious and modern building in which the fire brigade is now housed on Aylmer street. Chief Rutherford, Foreman Pakenham and the members of the brigade, all neatly attired in gold and braid caps, were on hand to cordially welcome the people and to act as guides through the building. Their services were constantly required throughout the day, but they proved hospitable entertainers, and indefatigable hosts, and the different places of interest in the hall were pointed out to every visitor.

There is something about the business of fighting flames that appeals to everyone, and the citizens showed this yesterday by the interest which they displayed in everything to be seen at the firehall. The new engine, combination chemical and hose wagon and the ladder truck were carefully examined, the stables and horses were of interest to everyone, especially to the ladies, one of whom was heard to say as she gazed at one of the greys, "Isn't he a dear!" The firemen's sleeping apartments were visited, and their neatness and comfort commented upon, while curious visitors even penetrated down into the basement.

Hundreds of people visited the hall during the morning and afternoon and they were heartily received by the brigade. A buffet had been established at the head of the stairs, from which refreshments were served throughout the day. The visitors were provided with cake, wine and cigars, and the children were made happy with gifts of candies and apples. There was apparently an inexhaustible supply of these dainties and they were needed, as there was a never-slackening procession of children into the building. It was a great occasion for the small boy, and he certainly made the most of the opportunity.

Many were the flattering remarks made on the modern equipment and the spick and span appearance of the hall, which reflected most creditably upon the men in charge of the building. The hall was elaborately decorated for the occasion, the work being done by Mr. A. Kingscote in a manner that brought forth much praise, not only from the firemen, but from the visitors. A large Canadian flag flew from the roof, while the front of the building was in gala attire of flags and bunting, while several Christmas trees added to the effect. The exterior was made gay with many flags, and the whole presented a most attractive appearance.

The Speeches

In the afternoon a short programme of speeches was listened to by a large crowd. Chief Rutherford acted as chairman, and in a few words welcomed the citizens of Peterborough to the new hall. The fire brigade was proud to have such a fine building in which to receive its friends. Some good strides had been made in the past, he said, and hoped the new Council would see that the work went ahead.

The Mayor, the next speaker, complimented the brigade upon its excellent record, saying that the city should be proud of the volunteers, whose work was as good as that of any paid city brigade. He congratulated Ald. Johnston and the others connected with the erection of the building, and also Mr. H. Carveth, the contractor, who built the hall.

Ald. Johnston referred to the difficulty experienced in getting the hall built, and said the allotment had finally come to him. He had visited the halls in Toronto, Ottawa and other places, and had yet to see a better equipped or more modern firehall than the new station. He defended the purchase of the new engine, illustrating his statement with a reference to the tie-up in the waterworks system on Tuesday.

Ald. Elliott said there was no body of men in Peterborough more entitled to credit than the members of the brigade, than which none had a better record. He spoke of Chief Rutherford's 27 years' service in that capacity, and said that a number of the brigade had been members for 25 years. The new firehall was a credit to the brigade and to the city.

Ald. Phelan spoke briefly, congratulating the brigade upon its excellent record, and upon the grand success of the opening reception and ceremony.

Ald. Morgan, the last speaker, was of the opinion that while the hall was a good one, it was not quite good enough yet for the brigade, and the expenditure of a few hundred dollars would make it a most modern building. The firemen were all right, he said, but the people of Peterborough did not think enough of them. They were too cheap in that respect.

CHIEF RUTHERFORD
Of The Peterborough Fire Brigade

The ceremony was brought to a close with three hearty cheers for Chief Rutherford and the members of the brigade.

For the benefit of the visitors the chief arranged a number of harness drills which were most interesting. It was shown how the doors fly open at the sound of the gong and how quickly the horses may be harnessed.

The brigade was photographed in the morning by Mr. R. M. Roy, all the equipment being taken out and manned. Afterwards another photograph was taken at the studio.

At Home in the Evening

The firemen and some of their friends held a most enjoyable "at-home" in the evening, the affair proving a fitting climax to the festivities of the day. Dancing was held in the large hall upstairs which proved admirably suited for the purpose, and about forty couples tripped the light fantastic until about 1 o'clock this morning. The floor was in excellent condition, and splendid music was provided by Wilson's orchestra, the numbers being much appreciated. Mr. Archie Moore was director of ceremonies and upheld his reputation in that regard. Square and round dances were intermingled in the programme, so that everyone was able to take part, and the occasion was a most successful one. Refreshments were served from the buffet during the evening.

All the members of the brigade were on the committee which had in charge the arrangements and they are to be congratulated upon the grand success of the reception which surpassed all expectations. The fire laddies proved themselves, as in the past, ideal hosts, and the large number of citizens present through the day will not soon forget their hospitality.

WEDDING BELLS.

GRAY—THROOP

A very pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. John Throop of Otonabee on Christmas Day, at 3 o'clock, when his daughter, Lillian, was united in marriage to Mr. James Gray of Otonabee. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. D. Harrison, of Keene, in the presence of a number of friends and relatives.

The bride dressed in a pretty gown of white silk, and carrying a bouquet of carnations, entered the drawing room on the arm of her father, to the strains of the wedding march, played by Miss Violet Scriver, of Toronto.

The bride was the recipient of many handsome and useful presents, the groom's gift to the bride being a beautiful gold bracelet set with pearls, and to the pianist, a ring.

BROWN-MORRIS

On Tuesday, December 31st, a pretty wedding was celebrated in the Methodist church, Owen Sound, when Miss Annie K. Morris, daughter of the late Mr. W. D. Morris, of Whitby, was united in marriage to Mr. Thomas Brown of Springville. The bride is a graduate of Grace Hospital staff, Toronto, where she has been living for some time. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. T. Morris, brother of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Brown came to Peterborough on New Year's Day, and will reside in their new house to the south of the city.

PROMISING YOUNG LIFE ENDED

Frank Gibson Died Early New Year's Morning at His Home

Another of Peterborough's promising young men passed away New Year's morning in the person of Frank Gibson, son of Mr. John Gibson, 483 Parnell street. His death had been expected for several days as he had gradually declined and when all hopes were given up the family was called home.

The cause of his death was lung trouble. Last spring, about nine months ago, he contracted a cold which remained with him all summer and developed a firm hold on him. The efforts of his physicians were fruitless the dread disease refusing to be shaken off. However, Frank, as he was best known to his friends, was conscious almost to the last twenty minutes and died in peace with his Maker.

Frank was in his twentieth year. He was educated at the South Ward School and afterwards began his apprenticeship as a pressman with the Examiner Printing Company. He was of a quiet disposition but through his amiability and unfailing good spirits he had a host of friends who will learn with deep regret of his untimely demise. Frank was gifted with a talent for music and besides the piano he played a clarionet in the 57th Regimental Band. He was a member of the C.O.E. Lodge and a faithful adherent of the Baptist church.

His death is mourned by his parents, his brothers, John, Ernest and Lawrence, of Peterborough; William of Buffalo, N.Y., and Albert of New York City; and by his sisters, Jennie and May at home and Mrs. J. Mackness, of Halifax, N.S.

The funeral will be held on Friday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock from the family residence 483 Parnell street to the Little Lake Cemetery.

THE PRATELLO STOCK COMPANY

The Partello Stock Company, which opened its season of five nights in the Grand opera house, on Tuesday night, proved itself one of the best, if not the best, company, of its kind, that has ever visited the city. The initial play presented was the "College Girl," a thoroughly clean, bright and fetching little comedy drama. It is not necessary to suggest the details of the thread of sparkling plot to justify the hearty acceptance of it by the overflowing audience present. There was not one dull moment from start to finish and, what was most pleasing, was the uniform excellence of the cast as a whole. While Alice Kennedy, as "Gail Hudleigh," an undergraduate, and Jack Westerman, as "Billy Bullock, the football coach," were conspicuous for merit, they were very ably supported by a good all-round company, which showed by its work last night that the succeeding bills of the season of five nights, will be in very capable hands. The scenic effects were splendid, quite a striking departure, in superiority, and fitness, from the traditions of the average stock company. The specialties were excellent also, bright and clean, including some well sung illustrated songs, and some living pictures, which have never been surpassed in the opera house. Taken altogether, the bill on Tuesday night was a splendid one, and, if the same high standard is maintained, the Partello Stock Company can be very heartily commended to the patronage of theatre goers, who wish to witness clean bright plays, capably presented, and beautifully mounted, with diverting specialties.

The Partello Stock Company at the Matinee yesterday in "Lena Waters" and in the evening in "The Railroad King," were received with much favour again and confirmed the impression given on Tuesday night, that they were a first-class company, and their success is assured in Peterborough.

WHY RESPONSIBLE RATEPAYERS WANT A BUSINESS MAYOR ELECTED

Reasons Why The People Brought Mr. Rush Out as Mayoralty Candidate, and Why He Should Be Elected

WANT THEIR BUSINESS DONE

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—At the nominations, Mr. Mayor McWilliams, who is again a candidate, asked, with an air of having a personal right to the mayor's chair, and he as much as asked why anybody had the cheek to bring out Mr. Rush as a mayoralty candidate in opposition to him. I can answer that question in a few words.

Mr. Rush was brought out so that the people might have a chance to elect a mayor that would do the business as the business of the city should be done. Mr. Rush was brought out by about six hundred citizens who wanted something better in the way of city work than we had last year; who wanted to check the wasteful and unbusinesslike flow of city money. They did not want to pay another year about $130,000 in taxes and have to boot, an overdraft of $110,000, upon which the city, from January 1, is paying six per cent. interest, or paying to the bank over $500 a month in the waste called interest, enough, in the course of a year, to almost build an isolation hospital. They want the leaks stopped, whether in the Romaine street sewer or in the city cash box.

Why has money been so lavishly spent? Why has it been ladled out without consideration of the waste it meant, and without proper value being received?

Not because the aldermen, or even the Mayor himself, wanted to waste money, but because the conditions were such that business could not be done with full and fair consideration. The meetings of Council and committees were talking bees in which the Mayor did nearly all the talking. It is no part of a mayor's duty to talk eternally. It is his business to preside, to keep order, to keep discussion of city matters in the right line, to see that the proper consideration of matters is not choked out with talk.

The Mayor of last year is a nice young man, but he took a good deal on himself last year. He occupied a position in which his duty was to keep his mouth shut and his eyes open, and it is a safe bet that he did more talking than any member or two members of the Council. What was the result? The city business was not properly considered, rash expenditures were authorized. This was no way to do business, and the result has been a very costly muddle.

It was to put an end to this wind-jamming style of doing city business that six hundred ratepayers signed a requisition to Mr. Rush. He is a safe man, a man of business experience, of business habits, who knows how business should be done. He won't assume that he knows more than the whole Council put together and won't try to swing them his way, as if they were boys and he the man. Mayor McWilliams may think he has a right to a second term, but the people have rights, and they do not propose to sacrifice these rights for a custom which only holds good in case of good behaviour.

I do not want to be personally unkind, but I speak for myself as a large taxpayer, and I am sure that I speak the minds of hundreds with a solid desire to have our city business done properly, as it has not been done. I remember reading in an article in the Examiner something that was as true as gospel. It was the remark that if any private citizen conducted his business as carelessly and badly as the city business was done he would go to the wall. My aim, and hundreds of others who brought out Mr. Rush, is to get a mayor who will lead the Council in doing the city business as it should be done. That's why Mr. Rush was brought out.

Yours, etc.,
EX-ALDERMAN.

A CHINAMAN ASSAULTED LAST NIGHT

Two Men Refused to Pay For Meal—Overcoat of One Secured

Mr. C. Q. Woo, the proprietor of the Canadian restaurant, is going around to-day with a bandage over his eye. He says that two men, after having had a meal at his store last night, refused to pay. He locked the door to keep the men in, but one of them struck him in the eye, and broke the key in the door. Some men who were outside rushed in to help the men, but the Chinaman succeeded in pulling his opponent's overcoat off his back, as he was going out of the door. The celestial telephoned for the police, and from letters found inside the overcoat pocket the name of the culprit has been secured, and the Chinaman says he will lay an information against the man.

SLIT, BRITTLE, DULL HAIR

All Come From Dandruff Which is Caused by a Germ

Split hair, hard hair, lustreless hair, brittle hair, falling hair, all owe their origin to dandruff, which is caused by a measly little microbe that burrows into the scalp, throwing up the cuticle into dandruff scales and sapping the vitality of the hair at the root, causing the several diseased conditions of the hair that finally falls out. Modern science has discovered a remedy to destroy the dandruff microbe, which is combined in Newbro's Herpicide, the delightful hair dressing. Allays itching instantly, and makes hair soft as silk. Take no substitute; "nothing just as good." Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Two sizes — 50 cents and $1. The New Years' Reception Was a Successful Event

A Pleasant Day at The Y.M.C.A. Yesterday—Refreshments Were Served and an Excellent Programme

MANY WERE ENTERTAINED

The reception at the Young Men's Christian Association on New Year's Day was a complete success. Hundreds gathered there during the day and partook of the hospitality of the young men who so excellently arranged the reception. There were about forty boys present in the morning who were given free use of all the privileges, and they especially enjoyed the gym. A number of inquiries re membership were received, which will be followed up. About 150 or 200 came to the afternoon reception. Common's orchestra rendered an excellent programme during that time. Refreshments of coffee, cake and sandwiches were served by a committee of which Mr. P. Redgrave was chairman. The Ladies' Auxiliary provided abundance of food. The guests were received by the committee of which Mr. Norman Perry was chairman, and shown through the building, everything being explained in regard to the work. Among the outsiders who called were visitors from Detroit, Mich.; Oshawa, Toronto, Madoc Junction, Ont.; Walhalla, N.D., and Calgary, Alta. At 4 p.m. Mr. W McLaren presented three of the presents on the New Year's tree, which caused a great deal of amusement.

The Social Committee of the Association, Mr. Chas. Coleman, chairman, undertook the planning and the carrying out of the whole reception, and at night secured the fine entertainment which was such a complete success. Mr. D. Campbell was chairman of the committee appointed especially in regard to securing the programme, and Mr. C. E. Sisson, chairman of the Decorating Committee, who did such excellent work in decorating the building. Many favourable comments were heard in regard to that work. Mr. R. E. Harding, the president, presided. The programme was as follows:

Piano Solo—Mr. Common.
Reading—Mr. Wm. McLaren.
Exhibition of Mystery—Mr. R. M. Roy.
Reading—Mr. J. John.

The annual meeting of Balmy Council of Slushtown on the Slush was presented next by several members of the Y.M.C.A, Debating Club, with Mr. W. Shiner mayor, and Mr. Frank W. Simpson clerk. The minutes were read, and after quite a little disturbance, adopted. Ald. McLaren reported very extensively for the Fire and Water Committee, among other things recommending that fire horses should not be loaned to undertakers any more as such work was too hard on horses. Ald. Commona gave the financial statement, showing a startling account of graft practiced by the council, which was, of course, hushed up. Accounts were passed and referred to General Purposes Committee, and caused much comic discussion.

The meeting concluded when a box addressed to the chief of police was opened by the mayor and found to contain a bomb, which exploded and caused great consternation. Ald. Cox fainting and having to be removed and restored to consciousness by two fellow aldermen.

Comic Solo—Mr. C. E. Coleman.
Comic exhibition of tumbling—Mr. Edwin C. Daly.
'Cello Solo—Mr. Elliott of Toronto.
Comic Sketch—Mr. Greenlagh.

The reception closed by the singing of "God Save the King," after a most enjoyable day. The success of the affair reflects great credit upon the secretary, Mr. H. C. Wright, and the various committees which had the preparations in hand.

Adopted Father of the Kidnapped Lindsay Girl Gives up Attempt

Lindsay, Ont., Dec. 20. — The curtain has probably fallen on the Marion child abduction case. Mr. Marion succeeded in tracing the child to Ogdensburg, N.Y., and after securing the assistance of the local police the child was brought to the police station and had an interview with her adopted parent.

It is reported that the child declared that she did not wish to return to Lindsay with him. In view of the complete change in the attitude of the child, Mr. Marion decided that he would not have anything further to do with her.

It has since transpired that the adoption papers are faulty and unfinished, not having been signed by the father.

BEAUTIFUL ENGLISH HOLLY FROM BRITISH COLUMBIA

The thanks of the Examiner are due Mr. Harry Long, who has left with it a beautiful spray of English holly, (Ilex aquifolium) grown in British Columbia. It is a splendid specimen of this British evergreen, which, with the English ivy, flourishes in the mild climate of British Columbia, which has about the same climate as the south of England. Mr Rudyard Kipling would be surprised to see such a splendid specimen of English holly, grown from English stock, in the northernmost province of "Our Lady of the Snows."

WATEROUS ENGINE FOR HASTINGS

On Saturday afternoon the long-expected fire engine arrived in town and Messrs. Cameron and Watt of the Waterous Company, who were already here, at once had it unloaded and placed in the fireball, and on Monday the brigade turned out and assisted in the test of the engine, which to all appearances was very satisfactory. The engine is a 400-gallon engine, weighing about 3500 pounds, and for its weight works well. The longest test was with 1000 feet of hose stretched from the race near the locks, and through a stream over the tower of the town hall.—Hastings Star.

WORTH TAKING

One ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion;
One ounce Compound Salatone;
Four ounces Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla;

Mixed and taken in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime, is pronounced by a prominent physician to be the best mixture for the cure of the kidney, bladder, and all urinary troubles.

This says the doctor, is the most simple though remarkable prescription ever written to cleanse the system of impurities and waste matter. It acts as a powerful tonic to the kidneys, forcing them to filter out the acids and poisons, overcoming rheumatism, lame back, sciatica and other afflictions arising from sour, impure blood.

The ingredients can be procured at any good drug store, and being purely vegetable and entirely harmless, can easily be mixed at home.

If you have a suffering friend show this to him, as he will undoubtedly be pleased to learn of so simple and highly recommended a remedy.

TRAIN TURNED THREE SOMERSAULTS

Jumped Track Near Colwell and Rolled Down Embankment.

PASSENGERS HAD CLOSE CALL

But Escaped With Slight Injuries—Cars Were Smashed and Subsequently Burned—Those Hurt Removed to Barrie Hospital — Contents of Safe Not Damaged—Climbed Out Through Windows.

Barrie, Jan. 2.—G. T. R. passenger train No. 34, from Penetang, due here at 8 a. m., jumped the track near Colwell. The passenger, baggage and express car rolled down the embankment, where they were subsequently burned.

The passengers escaped through the windows, none being seriously injured. They were brought to the local hospital in a special.

The injured are:

Herbert Greenwood, Elmvale, head cut, back strained.

William Hunter, Barrie, shoulder strained.

Charles A. Herron, Penetang, head cut.

H. Carhahan, Elmvale, face cut and back injured.

Mrs. J. J. Trace, Elmvale, head cut, badly shaken up.

C. Spearin, Penetang, face cut.

Dr. Leatherdale, Penetang, back hurt.

Fred J. Perring, Toronto, back injured, head cut.

James McVeigh, New Flos, head cut and back hurt.

John Honden, Elmvale, face cut.

Miss Allen, Allenwood, cut and bad shaking up.

Douglas Willoughby, Penetang, forearm cut.

None of the injured are supposed to be dangerously hurt as no bones were broken.

Mrs. Greenwood, who was accompanying her husband to Barrie to spend the day with relatives here, was uninjured. Miss Hart and J. R. Maw, who were passengers, escaped. Conductor Paton, in charge of the train, was severely shaken up and received an injury to his leg.

The contents of the safe in the express car were not damaged. Engineer Harry Hawker and J. Spearn remained on the engine, which did not leave the rails, the tender, however, rolling down the bank with the cars.

D. Willoughby was the first man out of the wreck, and gave his experiences as follows: "We were going at a slow rate of speed up a grade, when from spreading rails or some other cause the train suddenly left the rails, and before we had time to realize what happened the car was standing in the ditch after turning over three times, a drop of thirty-five feet. I broke my way out of the smoking-car window, and after helping out Mr. Perrin and another man went into the main section of the car, where grown-up people, boys, broken seats and cushions were piled in confusion. The position of the car permitted exit through the door, and in a few minutes the car was cleared. Fire starting from the stove in the baggage-car spread rapidly, and the coaches soon went up in smoke. It was a miracle that the passengers escaped death, or even serious injuries."

Assistant Superintendent Lynch states that the cause of the wreck is unknown, but a thorough investigation is being held.

When seen at his home, where he is confined with two broken ribs and legs badly bruised, Arthur Stone, the express messenger, told of his miraculous escape. "I don't see how I came through it alive," said he. "Conductor Paton, Baggageman Hamilton and I were riding in the baggage-car. When the car left the rails the lights went out, plunging us into darkness. As the car tumbled down the bank we heard the safe crash three times between the floor and the roof, while lamps, chairs and express matter were thrown everyway. Live coals scattered from the stove soon started a smoke, which impelled us to haste. Our car was nearly upside down, and standing on Paton's shoulders, I managed to reach the window of the door, and, smashing it, crawled out, the door being jammed so that it could not be opened. Helping the conductor out, he at once went to look after his passengers, while I climbed in again to assist the baggageman. By this time the flames were spreading, and Hamilton had become stupefied by the dense smoke. Luckily he was near the door, and, aided by the light of the approaching flames, I was able to render prompt aid. A moment later he was outside and rapidly revived in the cool air. He did not escape a minute to soon, for the whole car, bursting into a blaze, in five minutes was reduced to ashes. I never saw anything burn so swiftly. We had no time to get even our book.

our books. Baggage, express, mail and our clothes all were lost."

Ten of the injured are still in the hospital, but all are reported to be progressing favorably and no serious results are anticipated.

Convent Burned.

Rimouski, Que., Jan. 2.—The Convent of the Sisters of Charity was completely destroyed by fire on Tuesday night. It was while the sisters and pupils were at supper that the fire started. Fortunately there was no loss of life. Loss is estimated at about $150,000, covered by about $100,000 of insurance.

SHE DESPAIRED.

Because Doctors Couldn't Help Her—South American Nervine Cured Her.

Mrs. Geo. Sahler, wife of a well-known contractor, of Berlin, Ont., was for about eight years unable to attend her household duties—at times confined to her bed—suffered great weakness and nervousness. She was wasted to a skeleton. She despaired of ever being well again. She was induced to try South American Nervine; a few doses gave great relief. She took in all eight bottles and was completely cured, and every day she sings the praises of this wonderful remedy. (11)

THE MEN FOUGHT LIKE DEVILS

Murderous Attack by Japanese at Vancouver, B.C.

FIREMEN TERRIBLY MANGLED

Three Men Going Home in the Early Morning Break Window in Japanese Boarding-House — Inmates Poured Forth With Knives—Slashed Their Faces Into Ribbons—Has Nose Cut Off.

Vancouver, B. C., Jan. 2.—Three firemen, Frost, Anderson and McDonald, were set upon by a mob of armed Japanese yesterday and left for dead at the corner of Powell street and More avenue, two blocks from the police station. The men were clothed in uniforms with brass buttons and the attack of the Japanese is all the more serious for that reason.

By accident, Frost, a fireman, fell through the window of a Japanese store. In an instant the Japanese proprietor rushed out. Many of his countrymen came to join in the fight, for it was in the centre of the Japanese district.

The firemen were overpowered after a fight, when the flesh of their faces had been torn into ribbons by the razor-like knives which the Orientals carry.

Frost was mortally hurt, for his neck was cut, slashed and laid open for four inches and two inches deep alongside of the jugular vein. The men were frightfully mangled about the arms and breasts, but McDonald and Anderson, the other two firemen, were still fighting over the body of Frost when a squad of police arrived. Four Japanese were arrested and the three firemen were taken to the hospital. The Japanese fought like demons and the knives carried were a foot long.

DIVORCE THEN DEATH.

Sensational Suicide of British Officer After Running Amuck.

London, Jan. 2.—Major Coates Phillips, an officer, who distinguished himself in the South African war, committed suicide here Tuesday night under sensational circumstances.

The major had been divorced. Some time ago he made an attempt to kill himself in the residence of his former wife, but was restrained. Tuesday night he returned to the home of Mrs. Coates Phillips and forced an entrance. His former wife, her mother and a solicitor were in the house, but when they saw the excited man break in they fled. The major opened fire with his revolver, aiming at everyone he could see, and then blew out his brains. The solicitor and the mother of Mrs. Coates Phillips were wounded, but not seriously.

Must Fly the Flag.

Winnipeg, Jan. 2.—Trouble is brewing in the Mennonite district of the province on account of the Government's compulsory policy of flying the Union Jack over all the public schoolhouses of the province, on pain of losing the grant. These people have not been flying the flag as regularly as the new regulation demands, and the Government has decided to enforce the law and withhold the grants. Monday a large number of representatives from all the different Mennonite districts waited on the Government, and urged that they amend the school act, so that the Mennonite people might be exempt from the necessity of flying the flag on their schools. The Government made them no definite promise that the proposed amendment would be introduced.

Haywood Deposed by Miners.

Denver, Col., Jan. 2.—William D. Haywood is no longer secretary and treasurer of the Western Federation of Miners. Ernest Mills has been elected to that position by the executive board and now fills that office. It is rumored that Haywood is out for good, and that he will not in the future be associated with the organization in which he has been recognized as the leading spirit, but this is denied by his successor. The change took place some time ago, but the announcement of it was held back.

Parrot Shouted "Burglars."

Winsted, Conn., Jan. 2.—A belated Christmas present, a parrot, received on Saturday by George Strait of 230 Willow street, from an unknown giver, caused a burglar scare in that home Tuesday night. When a boarder came in quietly late the bird shrieked "Burglars! Where's Nellie and Charlie?"

The household was aroused and everybody ran out looking for the burglars. Then the bird began to use profane language and the police were not called.

Chinese Sailors Mutinied.

New York, Jan. 2.—The steamer Queen Eleanor arrived yesterday from Havana with three of the Chinese crew in irons, charged with mutiny. While at Havana the Chinese members of the crew, numbering 20, were refused shore liberty. They showed their disappointment in such a manner that the three who were looked upon as ringleaders were put in irons. No further trouble was experienced.

DAMAGE BY A POT OF METAL

Two Men Killed and Thirteen Injured in Bad Explosion.

BODIES TERRIBLY MANGLED

Bottom of Converter Dropped Out—Fifteen Tons of Molten Metal Thrown Into Pit Where Men Were Working — Flames of Burning Gas Also Scorched Them—Leakage Cause Accident.

Pittsburg, Jan. 2.—Two men were killed and thirteen others seriously injured by an explosion in converted No. 3 of the Edgar Thompson plant of the United States Steel Corporation, at North Braddock, about seven miles east of here, yesterday.

The two men killed were foreigners. Six of the injured were Americans and the others Slavs.

No official statement of the cause of the explosion has been issued, but old converter mill men say the cause could hardly be other than that some of the molten metal sifted through the soapstone lining of the converter and come in contact with the steel sheathing which perhaps, was damp.

When the explosion occurred the bottom of the converter dropped out, throwing 15 tons of molten metal into the pit where 15 men were working at the ladles. There was no explosion when the hot mass of steel struck the bottom of the pit, but instead flames of burning gas were sent up which burned the men in the pit. The two men who were killed had been working under the converter, and their bodies were terribly mangled.

The force of the explosion blew the sheet iron off the converting mill and caused two of the walls to collapse, besides breaking all the windows, in the buildings in the vicinity. It partially destroyed the warehouse near the converting mill.

FOR PUBLIC OWNERSHIP.

Manitoba Takes Over Whole Bell Telephone System.

Winnipeg, Jan. 2.—Greetings for the new year to the people of Manitoba from the Provincial Government were conveyed in the announcement that the Bell Telephone system had been purchased in its entirety. The price paid, according to the announcement of Premier Roblin, was $3,300,000, and besides this the province has also purchased a share of the equipment to the extent of a hundred thousand more. Payment will be made in 40-year 4 per cent. bonds, payable at par, which at the present market price of the province's bonds makes the price paid in round figures about $3,600,000. The Government will assume control on Jan. 15, and Mr. Roblin announced last night that the system would be operated by a commission. The present officials of the company will likely be retained, as they are very competent. This gives Manitoba the first complete Government-owned telephone system on the continent.

Priest Makes Apology.

Montreal, Jan. 2.—There is still another sensation in connection with St. Patrick's pastorate, following Canon O'Meara's alleged criticism of the new appointment.

Rev. Father Kiernan, parish priest of St. Michael's, gave an interview to an evening paper, in which he called in question Father McShane's advent to St. Patrick's in a very severe manner. This public interview of the archbishop caused general surprise and no astonishment was expressed when it was learned that his grace brought the critical priest to time.

As a matter of fact Father Kiernan read at all the masses yesterday morning an apology which he had written to his grace. He admits that he was not speaking within his competence and agrees to have the apology published in the same paper that produced the interview.

Empress' Condition Serious.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 2.—It is learned that the present condition of Empress Alexandra, who had been ill for some time from the grip and in a weakened condition as the result of a severe regime to reduce her weight, is complicated by the expectations of childbirth. Under these circumstances her general weakness is beginning to arouse concern.

Messrs. DAVIS-THOMPSON COMPANY, Limited, Agents Guardian Assurance Co., Peterborough

Dear Sirs:—

I beg to acknowledge the receipt of cheque for $500.00 in full settlement of my loss by fire to Dwelling House at Garden Hill.

I appreciate the fair and liberal treatment which I have received from the Guardian Assurance Company, as well as from yourselves as Agents. It is a pleasure to do business with Agents who take a personal interest in your Insurance when a loss occurs.

Yours respectfully,

(Signed) M. E. FAIR

The Following Letter Speaks For Itself

Peterborough, Nov. 1st, 1907.

W. G. Morrow, Esq.,
Agent Imperial Life Assurance Co.,
Peterborough.

Dear Sir:—I have received notification of the options available in respect to my ten-year Endowment Policy of $2000 which matured to-day and it affords me pleasure to say that I view with much satisfaction the results of my investment with your Company.

The substantial surplus which the Policy has earned in the comparatively short period of ten years makes the returns which would be made to me, under any of the options now open to my selection, most liberal and attractive.

It is greatly to the credit of the Company that after having granted me an Insurance of $2000 from the issue of the Policy in 1897 to the present time, it can now offer me under the cash-value option a sum so greatly in excess of the total premium that I have paid into it, or under the paid up Insurance option, a paid up life Policy considerable more than double the amount of my original Policy.

Permit me to wish the Company a long continuance of its prosperity

Yours very truly,

J. R. STRATTON.

ENJOYABLE AT HOME WAS HELD

Deep Sea Mission Dance Last Night Was a Great Success in Every Way

The third annual "at-home" in aid of the Deep Sea Mission, held last night in the Conservatory of Music Hall was a most successful affair, both socially and financially. About 180 persons were present and the result was one of the most enjoyable dances held in Peterborough in some time. It was a "bal poudre," and the scene was a charming one, the ladies presenting a striking picture, with powdered hair and the quaint costumes of long ago. Mr. Musgrave of Toronto supplied the music in his usual excellent manner, this feature of the programme leaving nothing to be desired. Supper was provided by the ladies, and was a most dainty repast.

Great credit is due the members of the Reception Committee, whose untiring efforts were responsible for the great success of the undertaking. The committee was composed of Mesdames J. R. Stratton, Peter Campbell, J. A. Aylmer, Cyril Currier, and D. Hughes Charlton. Mr. R H Marlow made a most capable secretary.

The following took part in the opening quadrilles: Hon. J R Stratton and Mrs. Montizambert, Mr. Montizambert and Mrs. Stratton, Mr. R R Hall and Mrs. H C Hill, Mr. E S Darry and Mrs. R R Hall, Mr. Milne Hamilton and Mrs. Aylmer, Mr. W S Davidson and Mrs. L M Hayes, Mr. L M Hayes and Mrs. Currier, Mr. D Davison and Mrs. P Campbell.

ARROWS WON FROM ORILLIA

Local Basketball Team Took The Northerners Into Camp

The Arrows got off to a great start in their first away from home game of the season played last night at Orillia, and though up against a heavier team, and on a strange floor, they trimmed Orillia's best team by a score of 62 to 25, half time score 30 to 10. After the first five minutes it was plainly the visitors' game, their combination and shooting stamping them as one of the fastest teams in Ontario. Every man of the team played stellar basketball with Cressman and Darling showing up to the best advantage. The line up was as follows:

Forwards, Cressman and Miller.
Centre, Gillespie.
Defence, Darling and Dobson.
Scorer, S. Tisdale.

WEDDING BELLS.

KIRK-SANDERSON

At the home of Mr. John Sanderson, 577 Harvey street, on Wednesday afternoon, at 3.30 o'clock, a pretty wedding took place when his daughter, Miss Jennie, was united in marriage to Mr. William J. Kirk, of this city. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. G. Potter, in the presence of many friends, some coming from a distance. Miss Emma Argue assisted the bride while the groom was attended by Mr. Fred Sanderson. The bride wore a cream crepe de chine dress and the bridesmaid was similarly attired.

The bride's going away costume was a suit of steel gray, with hat to match. At the conclusion of the ceremony the guests partook of the usual wedding dinner.

The groom's gift to the bride was a gold watch and chain. The gift of the bridesmaid and groomsman was a handsome marble mantel clock, among the other gifts was a polished oak rocker from the lady employees of the Quaker Oats Company. Mr. F. F. Mason, with whom the groom was employed, presented them with a handsome tea set. The gift of the groom to the bridesmaid was a beautiful set of combs, and to the groomsman was a gold stick pin.

Mr. and Mrs. Kirk left on Wednesday evening for points east, and on returning will reside in Peterborough.

HUGHES-FITZGERALD

At St. John's church on New Year's afternoon, Rev. Canon Davidson officiated in the nuptial ceremony of one of the prettiest weddings held in some time, when Miss Pearl Fitzgerald, second daughter of Mr. George Fitzgerald, 32 Sheridan street, became the wife of Mr. Frank J. Hughes, son of Mr. John Hughes, of East City. It was held at four o'clock, in the presence of a large number of the friends and relatives of both parties. The bride, who was unattended, was given away by her father. She looked beautiful in a travelling suit of navy blue broadcloth with hat to match.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Hughes left on the 5.10 C. P. R. express for Youngstown, O., where where they will reside.

Many presents were received, testifying to the esteem in which the young couple were held.

The employees of Messrs. R. Hall & Son's store, where Mrs. Hughes worked, sent a beautiful silver cabinet, and Mr. R. Hall a silver pudding dish.

MORPHET-MARTIN

At All Saints' Church yesterday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock a quiet but pretty wedding took place in which two of Peterborough's popular young people were the principals. The bride was Miss Ruby May Martin, youngest daughter of Mr. G. H. Martin, Aylmer street, and the groom Mr. E. Vernon Morphet, son of Mr. E. W. Morphet, also of Aylmer street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Wm. Major. The bride was attended by Miss Margaret Corbman, while Mr. Bruce Patterson assisted the groom. The wedding supper was partaken of at the home of the groom's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Morphet will reside at 350 Aylmer street.

Two large audiences witnessed the performances given at the Grand Opera House yesterday, and judging from the hearty applause every one was well satisfied.

CITY HOCKEY LEAGUE WILL MEET TO-NIGHT

An Important Meeting For Aspirants For The O. H. A. Team

A meeting of the Peterborough City Hockey League will be held this evening at the Examiner office at 7.30 o'clock. The meeting will be for the purpose of considering the clause in the constitution referring to the right of allowing players to participate in City League games after playing O. H. A. games. It is probable that the City League, which appears to have the balance of power in this regard, will consent to allow the intermediate O. H. A. club to draft players from other teams, and if these do not make good, that they may again drop into City League ranks. The meeting is an important one and will probably be well attended.

Go to the Crystal tomorrow, Friday, the receipts from 2 to 6 o'clock are in aid of the Children's Aid Society.

ESTIMATES AND RESULTS

The evidence before the Royal Commission showed that over 700 SUN LIFE policies had already matured and that in thirty-four per cent. of the cases the amounts originally estimated as likely to be received at the end of the terms, had been realized or exceeded. On all the cases combined the average amount paid had been about ninety-seven per cent. of the estimate. The management may be pardoned for being proud of this record. The estimates now in use since 1900 are lower than former ones, and premiums are higher, so that present estimates should certainly be realized. Statements were also filed showing that $108 is on hand for every $100 required to pay the amounts called for by the present estimates for every deferred profit policy on the books and this without taking into account the Company's great and increasingly valuable contingent fund. Our policyholders are therefore justified in being particularly optimistic in regard to the Company's probable future profits.

Some one has said "the true value of a life assurance policy must be gauged by the security of the protection given; if it proves to be a good investment, all the better: when both are shown, there is nothing on earth to equal it."

The security of the protection afforded by the Sun Life of Canada needs no comment and the profits paid—let our results tell their own forceful story.

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE CITY OF PETERBOROUGH!

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:
Having without solicitation, or knowledge, been nominated for the honourable position of member of the School Board, I feel it my duty to accede to the wishes of a large number of my fellow citizens, particularly in "Ashburnham," and submit myself to your suffrages. The Fifth Ward, in which I reside, is without a representative on the School Board, and it is naturally felt that this part of the city, isolated as it is, and having a large and important school, should have a voice in the management of educational affairs, and I am asked to be that medium. I do not place myself in opposition to any of the gentlemen, who have well and faithfully served, during the term for which they were elected, nor do I in any way depreciate their ability and fairness; there is, however, a growing impression that not only should the honour of public service be from time to time passed on, but also that better results are obtained by the partial changes contemplated by the law governing School Board Elections. If, then, taking these matters into consideration, the necessary majority should favour me with their choice, I shall be happy to render you my best offices.
Believe me, Ladies and Gentlemen,
4d153. Very faithfully yours,
W. F. NELSON

FOR ALDERMAN

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE CITY OF PETERBOROUGH:

My record in the council and in the school board is known to you, and if you do me the honour of electing me, I will continue to do what I can to promote the welfare of our city.

ADDRESS TO THE ELECTORS

To the Electors of Peterborough:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—Having been duly nominated a candidate to contest the mayoralty of Peterborough for the year 1908, I accept this nomination and respectfully solicit your votes and influence to secure my return.

I had no aspirations for the position and no thought o entering the contest for the Mayor's Chair 'till a few days ago. I was waited upon by some of the most substantial of our citizens and presented with a requisition signed by several hundred taxpayers urging me to enter the field as a candidate. I could do no other than regard a requisition signed by a large and representative number of citizens as a call of duty. Consequently, as I have, during my 45 years' residence in Peterborough, tried to do my duty faithfully to the place in which all my material interests are centred, I have decided to place myself in the hands of the electors.

If I am chosen as Mayor I shall use all my ability to practically apply the motto of my life—"The interests of Peterboro' first, last and always." I am known to you all by virtue of a residence of 45 years in the city and through a corresponding experience in business, which, through the kind co-operation of the public, I have been favored in making a success.

Though I have not sought public office any more than I am seeking the present offered position, I may say that, for four terms in succession, I was returned as alderman without soliciting or attending a nomination or soliciting a vote. I felt that both as an honour and a flattering mark of confidence, which I endeavoured to justify to the fullest of my ability. And if elected as Mayor I shall discharge the duties of the office to the full extent of my powers and with a single eye to the promotion of the best interests of the city.

This is the platform upon which I can and do appeal to your support; that is the platform upon which I will justify your choice, if you do me the honour to elect me. It is not practicable for me, even if it were in line with my inclination, to personally call upon the electors. I hold that the office should seek the man rather than the man the office. I have no personal interests to serve; my only object in accepting the nomination for Mayor is to serve the best interests of the city of Peterborough. With cordial wishes for a Happy New Year to all, I remain,

Your obedient servant,
H. RUSH

Peterborough, Dec. 31st, 1907.

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE CITY OF PETERBOROUGH!

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN,—
In deference to numerous requests I have consented to place myself at your disposal for the position of Alderman for 1908.
While I cannot claim to be familiar with the various qualifications which an Alderman should possess, and business capacity as I have is placed at your service. I therefore ask your support in the effort to assist in maintaining for the city of Peterborough the position and standing which it is its right to possess.
The management of the city's affairs on business lines is my platform, and if the electors do me the honour of electing me, I will make the general welfare and progress of the municipality my aim.
As I will not have time to make a personal canvass, the electors are asked to show their approval of my candidature by marking their vote for me without personal solicitation.
4d153. Respectfully yours,
GEO. A. GILLESP

ALDERMAN DUNCAN FOR 1908

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE CITY OF PETERBOROUGH:
Ladies and Gentlemen, — Having served you as Alderman for three years I once again at the request of a large number of ratepayers offer myself as a candidate for re-election. During last year I held the important position of chairman of the Board of Works, thereby securing a knowledge of municipal affairs that should enhance my value as a member of the Aldermanic Board for 1908. If elected for another term I shall use my best endeavours to advance the interests of the community as a whole, without fear or favour, and will only support such measures as are calculated to assure to my fellow citizens a maximum of benefits at a minimum of expenditure.
Trusting that you will once more honour me with your confidence, I remain, to remain,
Your obedient servant,
GEO. H. DUNCAN

LOCKER DESTROYED AND STONES BROKEN

Were Untouched by the Fire But Were Finished by Some Boys

After coming safely through the fire, Mr. Bellegham's curling stones were broken by some small boys. This gentleman went down to the rink yesterday morning and found his box untouched, and also his stones. He went home for dinner, returning to the rink in the afternoon. He found his box smashed open, his stones broken in pieces, and the handles and ribbons missing. A small boy who was standing near told Mr. Bellegham he had seen boys break the locker and stones.

These stones are very expensive, and it is likely the boys will find stone-breaking a costly sport.

PRESENTATION MADE TO D. CAMPBELL

At Knox Church Last Night by Members Of The Choir

The regular weekly practice of the Knox Church choir last night was also the occasion of remembering Mr. Duncan Campbell. He has accepted a position as commercial traveller for a leading oil and varnish manufacturing house in Toronto, and of necessity has been called away from Peterborough to begin his provincial work.

In connection with Knox Church Mr. Campbell's services have been always voluntary, and particularly in the choir work his choral ability and experience were of great assistance. Last night after practice Mr. Campbell was waited on by the choir and the pastor, Rev. H. J. Keith, addressed him. He referred to the good work Mr. Campbell had done, of his unfailing efforts to make the choir of the new church an efficient one, and of the good feeling that existed between him and the other members.

Mr. Keith called upon Mr. Robt. Mulligan, treasurer of the church, to make the presentation of a travelling bag. Mr. Campbell replied in a few words, expressing his gratitude for the kindness of the choir in remembering him. He hoped his efforts had been appreciated, and said it was a pleasure to be a member of the choir.

Miss Sisson, the new organist, was present for the first time as successor to Miss W. Anderson.

WATER COMMISSIONERS AND RIGHTS

Citizen Writes on The By-law To Be Voted on Monday

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—The proposed bylaw to be submitted to the people on Monday next is against all precedent. The principle at stake is: Shall vested rights be interfered with? Do not overlook this principle—once insert this wedge and property is no longer one's own. The law of the land is that bonuses and money by-laws shall be voted upon by property owners only.

The Peterborough Water Commissioners, now a body corporate, have succeeded in passing a sleepy legislative body, an act whereby the approval of the majority only of the electors entitled to vote at Municipal Elections is required.

If the majority of the property owners, the only persons directly interested, see fit to mortgage their lands for ever to 5 cents per running foot, then I should say the minority must put up with it no matter to what extent they may consider it unfair. But by what right people who have no stake in a city should say to those who have "We will mortgage your lands for ever to five cents per lineal foot, fifty dollars per thousand per annum" is inexcusable to a fair-minded person, whether the owner of property or otherwise. How the Act ever got past the watchful eye of Premier Whitney in its present state must remain a puzzle. It is unfair, unheard of and unconstitutional and being a private Act is subject to the laws of the land and ultra vires of the powers of the Legislative Assembly. I doubt if any City in the Province would ask for, let alone obtain, any such powers. True citizens would be ashamed to ask for it.

The vital point is not whether vacant property or the property of non-users of water shall be taxed, but who shall have the right to vote on principle, therefore record your vote against the bylaw and uphold the rights of town property owners.

VOTE FOR BEAT.

To go into the question as to whether or not the property of non-users of water should be taxed and to what extent is altogether another question, one entirely separate from the main one, do not confuse them.

Yours truly,

"CITIZEN."

Peterborough, Jan. 3rd, 1908.

AN OPEN LETTER

To The People of Peterborough

To Whom It May Concern:

Of late there has been a good deal of discussion in Peterborough in regard to advertised medicines and their value — the papers are full of them.

We want to say to every man, woman and child in Peterborough that we believe the most valuable preparation of cod liver oil—the best tonic reconstructor, health restorer and strength creator — ever sold in our store is Vinol.

Vinol is not a patent medicine, it contains no injurious drugs, but it actually does contain all of the medicinal, curative elements taken from fresh cods' livers, without a drop of the useless oil to upset the stomach and retard its work, and tonic iron added.

Vinol is recognized throughout the world as the greatest strength creator for old people, weak, sickly women and children, nursing mothers, and after a severe sickness.

Vinol cures hacking coughs, chronic colds, bronchitis, and all throat and lung troubles. We ask the people of Peterborough to try Vinol on our offer to return money if it fails. McDermid & Jury, Druggists. Also the Market Drug Store.

EXACT COST OF WORK GIVEN

Mr. Yelland is Corrected — In Connection With Road to Lifflock

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—at Monday's nominations Mr. Yelland made statements which are entirely untrue. Mr. Yelland made it appear that the estimated cost of the work was $500. Where Mr. Yelland got this estimate I don't know. The city engineer never put in any estimate. He only struck the grade. Then the owner of the property made it part of the agreement that the road should be made with a certain cut, otherwise he would not sell and the Council carried out the agreement.

Mr. Yelland made it appear the work cost $3,000, and he thought it could be done for $300.

Now as I was foreman on this work I know what it cost.

I here give the cost of the work $2,488.32; then there was sold to different parties $90.04 worth. Now deduct what was sold leaves $2,398.28 as the cost of the work.

Then as the bridge over the old raceway would soon have to be repaired at considerable cost, there was 1782 yards from the cut put into the raceway and the bridge done away with. This of course added greatly to the cost of the work. Now when I commenced the work every man I met told me the hill would be gravel. Even Mr. Cox who lives on the farm for a number of years told me the hill was gravel, and there is a good gravel pit just over the fence from the cut. But unfortunately instead of gravel we got hard pan and stone.

Mr. Yelland didn't think much of the job. Well of course, Mr. Yelland is not posted in that kind of work. Perhaps Mr. Yelland meant to make a kind of a half job of it.

Well, Mr. Editor, I think you will agree with me, it a job is worth doing at all it is worth doing right.

Now as I was foreman on this work I thought it only fair to the Mayor and Council to make this statement.

Thanking you Mr. Editor, and wishing you a happy New Year, I remain,

Yours truly,

JAS. O'BRIEN.

"FAIR PLAY" GETS AFTER TRADES & LABOUR COUNCIL

Wants Alderman Johnston To Get a Square Deal

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Sir,—I notice in your issue of Tuesday, Dec. 31, an article from that wonderful organization known as the Trades and Labour Council, which appeared to me something like what you would hear among a lot of school boys just emerging from one of the A, B, C classes.

They first start after the correspondent of industrial matters here from the city about wrong reports being sent to Ottawa. Well, it is no new thing to be after him. It seems to be an annual affair to touch him up just before election times. I think it is a good thing, because it seems to advertise him and do him a world of good. "The more you rub him the better he shines." Let the good work continue.

I believe that this man Johnston has forgot more about labour matters than the whole bunch of these wonderful knights of labour ever knew.

There was a time when this wonderful hippodrome did not some fig-ure when such men as Charlie Mitchell, Bill [illegible], Tom McKee, Bob McGregor, Billy Johnston belonged to it. The views of these were too far advanced so they had to go away back and sit down.

Then they get back after the City Council and Mayor. It seemed to be great food for their wonderful vocabularies. One fellow says—and he must have been a corker—that they were an aggregation of fossils. It is a good job the ground is frozen or she would swallow him boots and all.

But I forgot, they do give a couple of the city fathers a great boost, and I certainly think they could not have chosen two better ones to befriend the great and glorious cause of labour—"That is when they are spending the other fellows money." Two lightweights, "firey gents too," who are always studying the market for votes and cheap notoriety, and I tell you they struck it just about right when they have won the affections of such an influential body of knights of the day.

And so it reads "They handled the aldermanic Gentlemen without Gloves." "Oh, the knockers." Well, then they get right after the high-cock-a-lorum, the chief magistrate, I suppose they mean the Mayor. They seem to think that the inquisition of his subordinates as I should say colleagues, was weighing heavily upon him. Then they get after old man Yelland. "By jove I would not like to be him. There will be a hot time when that repetition of these stand-fire gets after him. It is a good thing my friend Yelland that you have had your day, for two would be out of the question. This oratorial wind-jamming of yours is too wild-eyed and could not be held in a small tub. You are an old man, but if you took a notion to get after some of these worthies they would be slightly in need of repairs after it.

Now, Mr. Editor, I am through my text, if time and space would permit, I might enlighten you further, but I refrain. If these men would take up some matter in connection with municipal affairs and deal with it intelligently, I am satisfied that the people and the City Council would appreciate it and give them credit for so doing, but the manner in which they go about it will never accomplish anything, never, never, never, and that is a long time.

Alderman Johnston has his faults like any of us, but I like to see him getting fair play. He is up and above board, and is not afraid to give his views on questions of any kind, and has the backbone to stay with what he thinks is right and that is the kind of man any municipality wants.

Thanking you Mr. Editor for space, I remain,

Yours truly,

"FAIR PLAY."

SUFFERING THE SURE PENALTY

Health Time Lost Is Restored by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

How many women do you know who are perfectly well and strong? We hear every day the same story over and over again. "I do not feel well; I am so tired all the time!"

More than likely you speak the same words yourself, and no doubt you feel far from well. The cause may be easily traced to some derangement of the female organs which manifests itself in depression of spirits, reluctance to go anywhere or do anything, backache, bearing-down pains, flatulency, nervousness, sleeplessness or other female weakness.

These symptoms are but warnings that there is danger ahead, and unless heeded a life of suffering or a serious operation is the inevitable result.

The never-failing remedy for all these symptoms is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Miss Clara Beaubien, of Beauport, Quebec, writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:

"For several years I have suffered with a female weakness which proved a serious drain on my vitality, sapping my strength and causing severe headaches, bearing-down pains and a general worn-out feeling, until I really had no desire to live. I tried many medicines, but did not get permanent relief until I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. In two months I was much better and stronger, and in four months I was well; no more disagreeable discharge, no more pain. So I have every reason to praise the Vegetable Compound, and I consider it without equal for the ills of women."

For twenty-five years Mrs. Pinkham, daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, has under her direction and since her decease, been advising sick women free of charge. Her advice is free and always helpful. Address, Lynn, Mass.

Successful Concert At Indian River

Examiner Special.

Indian River, Dec. 31.—The concert given by the pupils of S. S. No. 1 Douro on Friday evening, last, was a decided success. It was first intended to be held at 7 o'clock in the evening, but a number did not have their lives insured thought it safer to hold the concert in the afternoon.

Mr. A. Whibbs occupied the chair while Mr. Thomas Whibbs took the place of Santa Claus.

Mr. Rattick Cavanagh and Mr. Jas Foley were to be on the platform to favour the audience with a number of songs, but as it is against the rule of the bachelors to sing, they will have to change their state in life to sing again.

Miss Mahoney is engaged in S. S. No. 1 again, a third term. She has given every satisfaction during the past two years. She had no less than six pupils for mid-summer examination last term, all of whom were successful.

The pupils presented her with a beautiful pair of kid gloves as a slight token of the love and kindness she has shown.

A DUTCH NEW YEAR.

Old Time Hospitality In the Mohawk Valley.

CAKES BY BUSHEL BASKET.

Honest Graft For the Matutinal Milkman—Rum Toddy the Official Drink. Festive Day For the Faithful Farm Hand—Open House Everywhere.

There was no day of the year so generally, particularly and joyously celebrated in the Mohawk valley by the early Dutch settlers and by their descendants as New Year's, and when Jan and Barent met Bjbertje and Engletje early on a bright, frosty New Year's morning the religious and somewhat formal greeting was when put into English:

"I wish you a happy New Year. Long may you live. Much may you give and happy may yop die and inherit the kingdom of heaven by and by."

The preparations for the New Year's hospitalities were begun by the mothers and their daughters frequently as soon as the first frost and snow made their appearance, for there was much to be done to be ready on the joyous day. New Year's cakes, rich and delicious (some of the descendants of the early Dutch housekeepers make them now, using the same recipe and the same ancient dies and stamps that their great-grandmothers used) and about the size and shape of a man's hand and less than half as thick, were made by the bushel basketful—literally. It was not unusual for the hospitable Dutch housewife to give from five to six hundred cakes to the children who called before the noon hour. The early rising by the boys and girls, which a proper observance of the day demanded, is equaled in our day by the early rising on the Fourth of July.

There was one old mansion in the Mohawk valley that was particularly notable for its hospitality (not only on New Year's day, but upon all occasions) and good times. It stood and is still standing on the estate of Alexander Lindsey Glen and was named by him in 1659 Scotia in memory of the land of his birth. The children started on their rounds at sunrise and went from house to house lustily pounding with the great iron or brass knockers. The littlest ones shouted, "Happy New Year for a cake!" but the older ones refrained from so far giving themselves away by leaving off the last three words. It was not at all an unusual occurrence for three or four hundred cakes to be given to the boys and girls before breakfast from the Glen mansion.

Coming down to more recent days in the Mohawk valley, the custom of giving cakes was extended to the milkmen. Each milkman always purchased a new bushel basket to carry about on New Year's morning in his wagon for holding the supply of cakes and the other dainties which were sometimes added. Each house where milk was left helped fill the bushel basket.

At about 10 o'clock in the morning the men began to make their calls after making the most elaborate toilet of the year. A previous acquaintance was not necessary for one to make calls. It was the one day of the year when every home was open to everybody without regard to birth or position. The last day of the old year was spent by the women of the family in preparing dainty confections, solid, rich cake, and in the morning the choicest old wine was brought up from the cellar, and hot rum toddy was made, rum toddy being the official New Year's drink in the Mohawk valley.

The Dutch partook sparingly of the wine and toddy at each house, and, although nearly all the men were "mellow" by the time the festivities ended at midnight, no one was drunk. There was one exception to this rule. The farm hands were usually dead to the world by noon and so out of the way of their betters.

But all this charming hospitality and the delightful customs were made impossible a generation or more ago by the outskiers of other nationalities than Dutch, who flocked to the larger towns of the valley and turned the day of hospitality into a day of drunkenness.—New York Times.

THE OLD MAN'S CHRISTMAS PRESENTS.

The old man had six daughters (two wuz his hired hands.
An' we wuz six, an' all the year we plowed an' hoed his lands),
An' every single gal o' them wuz purty
as a peach.
(An', bein' six an' six, we said,
"Thar's one apiece fer each!")

But how could any folks like us that walked the cotton row
An' made an' marked the melons an'
coaxed the corn ter grow
Think that he'd let a gal o' his come steppin' down so fer
To hear a poor shap askin' fer the hand an' heart o' her?

An' so we jest said nuthin', but kep'
a-feelin' blue
An' thinkin' till it 'peared ter us the gals wuz thinkin' too!
An' sometimes when they'd walk our way, though nuthin' much wuz said,
They'd smile the sweetest kind o' smiles an' blush a rosy red.

AN' THAR THE GALS WUZ—IN A ROW.

But still we kep' our 'distance till in the fields and dells
The Christmas horns wuz blowin' an'
we heard the Christmas bells,
An' then the old man says ter us:
"Come in! It's Christmas day,
An' I've got some purty presents that
I'm going ter give away."

An' thar the gals wuz—in a row—
a-blushin' left an' right,
The old man in the center, an' six o' us in sight!
An' we knowed jest what wuz comin'— an' we knowed 'twuz comin' quick,
For the old man says: "It's Christmas, boys. Whirl in an' take yer pick!"

Well, I took sweet Miss Liza, an' John took Mandy Jane,
An' Jim said he'd take Laura fer this world's shine or rain,
An' so on till we'd been supplied, then said: "We're bleeged ter you.
But, with all yer daughters give away,
what air you goin' ter do?"

An' then the old man winked at me an'
whispered mighty low:
"As for the gals, 'twuz gittin' time fer
all o' them ter go!
I've jest been waitin' on you boys the weddin' word ter say.
I'm a-goin' ter marry a widder, an' I wants 'em out the way!"
—Atlanta Constitution.

"BIG TIM'S" BOUNTY.

Six Thousand Bowery Waifs Eat Sullivan's "Turkey and Fixin's."

More than 6,000 unfortunates of Bowery existence were fed last Christmas day out of the bounty of "Big Tim" Sullivan. The feast was spread at the rooms of the Timothy D. Sullican association at 207 Bowery, New York city.

Before sunrise the crowds began to gather. By 10 o'clock the throng reached from block to block, and then the feast began. The men were allowed in by relays of 300 each, and while these were feeding the others waited their turn.

While there were all sorts of men in the line—old, young, middle aged, the blind, the lame and the halt—the dominant note which all proclaimed was poverty in its most pinching form. The majority of them had no overcoat, and the biting cold made them shiver and stamp their feet to try to keep warm.

There were thirty policemen on hand to keep the line, but they had little to do. The cripples were given the preference with no word of protest from their more fortunate fellows.

The dinner was the personal gift of "Big Tim," and out of his purse there were provided 5,000 loaves of bread, 1,500 pounds of turkey, 1,000 pounds of chicken, 1,000 pounds of duck, 7,000 pies, eight barrels of potatoes for salad, 10,000 cups of coffee and thirty kegs of beer.

As each man filed out he was handed a pouch of tobacco, a pipe and a ticket for a pair of shoes.

"Little Tim" Sullivan was the master of ceremonies.

AIRSHIP AHOY! WHAT IS YOUR CARGO?

When first the New Year came to town
Appeared a baby boy
In nothing but a pair of wings
And smiles of dimpled joy.

But, growing fast, the next decade
He wore a wig with curls
And rode a fiery prancing steed
And courted all the girls.

He next arrived in coach and four,
A squire in coat of blue
And snowy stock and buckled shoes
And neatly ribboned cue.

BEHOLD HIS AEROPLANE IN FLIGHT.

Still making progress with the times,
A dandy with a cane,
Tall hat, tight waist and ruffled shirt,
He made his bow again.

'Twas only one short year ago
We heard a rush and jar.
In dust and smoke before us stopped
A scarlet motor car.

Forth stepped a chauffeur clad in furs
And, mid the mingled din
Of horns and bells, invited us
To take a twelvemonth's spin.

But now above the chimes, behold,
We listen in the night
To hear the whirling fans that bear
His aeroplane in flight!
—Minna Irving in New York Times.

Watching the Year Out.

Throughout the world the practice of watching the old year out and the new come in has been a common observance for many centuries. In the monasteries and convents of various religious orders it has always prevailed, and several Protestant denominations observe it as a beneficial institution, promoting, as it does, piety and the formation of good resolutions. Resolves for the future are not limited to our own time, for nearly 1,900 years ago Pliny, the scrapbook maker, noted in his quaint fashion the return of the Saturnalia; made a memorandum that during the coming year he must make sacrifices to certain gods whom he had neglected and that in other ways he must amend his life. There is no record that he did, so his New Year resolutions were probably forgotten as quickly as those made nowadays.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

"Ducking the Drunkard."

In Herzegovina "ducking the drunkard" is a New Year's practice by the common people, and if no drunken man can be found a prisoner from the nearest jail is borrowed, then ducked, soundly kicked and set at liberty. In Oman it was until lately the custom to celebrate all marriages on the first day; hence during the last month of the year business was good with the go-betweens. In Dalmatia any man whose conduct had not been what it should was expected to go before the priest of the neighborhood and put good resolutions in writing, a certified copy being given to his wife, or, if unmarried, to his mother.—Boston Herald.

Why We Call It January.

The Romans called the first month of the year January in honor of the god Janus. At dawn of the year the people, robed in white, sacrificed elaborate offerings to their gods, especially to Janus. Fraternal greetings, benevolent gifts and exchanges of costly presents marked the day. All evil speaking, quarrels or excesses were for one day laid aside, and the ideals of a nobler future were brought to mind by parables enacted in public places. The soldiers renewed their vows of loyalty to Caesar and put on new uniforms.

New Year's in the Alps.

Among the many time honored customs of the Alps none is more interesting than that of New Year. The village pastor delivers his sermon, which is listened to by people who have come a distance of many miles over snow frequently thirty feet deep. When midnight comes the bells ring out upon the frosty Alpine air, and as they re-echo far and wide over the hills and valleys there are mountain villages where the melody of other village church bells chords in harmony, producing a concert no city could afford.

Scotch Kisses.

A highly popular custom of the young Scots of past years was for young men to go about the streets ringing doorbells, and theirs was the right to kiss the girl who answered the ring. In case the girl proved elderly or unattractive there was no evading the expected salute, however much it might go against the grain of the bell ringer.

SCHOOLBOYS HAD PAILS.

Disgraceful Scenes in Oklahoma Resulting From Local Option.

Oklahoma City, Jan. 2.—When the work of emptying 2,300 barrels of beer from the New State Brewery was resumed yesterday morning a crowd of several hundred persons gathered with buckets, pitchers and barrels with which the carry the beer to their homes.

The scenes attending the work were disgraceful. Little children carrying buckets heavy enough for grown persons, were sent after beer by their parents. Dozens of men and boys became intoxicated to such a degree that it was necessary for their friends to take care of them. Boys just out of school went to the brewery yesterday afternoon with buckets and tin cans and had joined in the mad rush for the intoxicating beverage when the police interfered and prevented the officials emptying any more beer into the street.

The work was then directed to private sewers, but these soon became congested and the flow was shut off until to-day. It is estimated that fully 1,000 persons carried beer from the brewery during the day.

As an evidence of Governor Haskill's apparent determination to see prohibition sentiment carried out, he has refused to grant an amnesty to 5,000 or more persons under indictment or complaint in that part of the state which was formerly Indian Territory, for misdemeanor and excise charges.

MISSING STEAMER SIGHTED.

Vessel Believed to Be Mount Royal Seen Off Sable Island.

St. John, N. B., Jan. 2.—A steamer thought to be the overdue C. P. R. liner Mount Royal, Capt. Purcell, now 25 days out from Antwerp, for this port, with 304 immigrants aboard, was passed on Monday last off Sable Island, N. S., by the C. P. R. steamer Lake Champlain, which arrived here yesterday from Liverpool.

Capt. Webster of the Lake Champlain, when reporting to the local officials, was asked if he had seen the Mount Royal, and said that off Sable Island he passed a four-masted steamer, about fifteen miles away on the same course as he was steaming, but moving slowly. No signals were seen. As Capt. Webster did not know of the anxiety about the Mount Royal, he did not attempt to identify the steamer he passed. The Mount Royal has four masts, and this with the fact that the unknown vessel was steaming in the same course as the Lake Champlain makes the local officials believe it is the Mount Royal, and that she will be here before to-morrow.

Although the boat has been 25 days coming from Antwerp the local authorities are not worrying about her, and attribute her delay to a broken shaft or some other mishap to her machinery.

She carries 304 emigrants, mostly steerage, from the continent.

Brooklyn Police Busy.

New York, Jan. 2.—A long record of killings, assaults, accidents and minor crimes was written in Brooklyn police blotters yesterday. New Year's Day in the usually peaceable Brooklyn was as even more disturbed one than in larger Manhattan.

Gas escaping from a partly open burner asphyxiated Jacob Spriesterback and his wife in their home in Ocean Parkway, Brooklyn.

An unknown burglar was shot down and killed while trying to enter David Jaffe's store on Meserole street.

The police are hunting for Frank Fereso, who shot and killed Michael Schindello as an outcome of an altercation in Carrol street.

Hattie Shubert took offence at a remark made by her husband, Max Shubert, in their home on Ocean Parkway and stabbed him with a knife. He is in a serious condition.

After a quarrel with his wife as to the manner of celebrating New Year's, Archibald P. Mitchell, who several years ago married Augusta Herne, a daughter of a wealthy West Virginia politician, took his life by inhaling illuminating gas.

Bombs in Barcelona.

Barcelona, Jan. 2.—In consequence of the renewal of the campaign of bomb outrages by local anarchists, King Alfonso has signed a decree provisionally suspending a portion of the constitutional guarantees in this city.

In the last few days five infernal machines deposited in various parts of the city exploded without causing material damage. Tuesday night, however, a policeman found a large one on the doorstep of a mansion. In carrying it away the machine exploded, frightfully mutilating the officer, injuring several bystanders and partially wrecking surrounding buildings. The policeman died of the injuries he sustained.

Wrong Coffin Opened.

London, Jan. 2.—The attorneys of Geo. Hollamby Druce, the claimant for the vast estates of the Duke of Portland and for the duke's title, have given out a statement expressing dissatisfaction over the character of the exhumation of the body of Thomas Charles Druce, because the floor of the vault was not opened. They say that their representatives at the exhumation were instructed to demand that this be done, because they had received letters stating that a second coffin, containing lead would be found there.

Fed Through a Pipe.

New York, Jan. 2.—The Herald has received the following despatch from Ely, Nev.:—Rescue work is progressing slowly on the Alpha shaft of the Giroux Consolidated Mines Co., where three miners, A. D. Bailey, Peter McDonald and Fred Brown, have been entombed since Dec. 4. Through a six-inch pipe food, air and water have since been sent, and a few days after the accident enough canvas was sent down to enable the men, with the help of some timbers and iron which they found on the 1,060-foot level, to make three cots.

It will take at least three weeks more to reach the men. Communication can be had with them by telephone, and they are patiently waiting to be liberated.

International Outlook.

Berlin, Jan. 2.—The Vokal Anzeiger yesterday published a series of interviews with the ambassadors in Berlin of Great Britain, the United States, Russia, France, Spain, Austria-Hungary and Turkey and the Ministers representing most of the other nations of the world relative to the condition of international relations at the beginning of the year 1908.

The diplomats whose views are quoted all entertain the most satisfactory opinions concerning the outlook for the coming year.

TORONTO FOR CHEAP POWER.

Bylaw Carried in Queen City by Over 16,000 Majority.

Toronto, Jan. 2.—Joseph Oliver is mayor of Toronto for 1908, his majority of more than 6,000 being the largest that has ever been given a candidate for the office.

In more than one respect the civic elections of yesterday established a record. The total vote, exceeding 32,000, was the greatest ever polled in the history of the city, the previous high-water mark, made in 1906, when 29,000 ballots were marked in the Urquhart-Gooderham contest, being easily surpassed.

Toronto yesterday, by the magnificent majority of over 10,000 again approved the power policy of the Provincial Government. The verdict on this bylaw was even more decisive than that of last year, when the electors were only asked to authorize the City Council to proceed with the preliminary steps necessary for the preparation of the official scheme. Yesterday the citizens emphatically declared themselves ready to undertake the responsibility of a municipal competitive plant. Nothing could more completely evidence their determination to break the electric monopoly that was so nearly established over the light, power and transportation services of the city.

HIGHWAYMEN CAUGHT.

Sequel to Big Automobile Robbery Near Rochester.

Rochester, Jan. 2.—Two men, Frank Whitney and George Carlisle, are under arrest here as a sequel to the robbery by three men in a big black automobile of Sodus Bay car No. 112, on Tuesday, and their escape with a strong box containing $2,859 of the receipts of the Rochester Street Railway Co. Both men are locked up at police headquarters on charges of grand larceny, first degree, and accused of complicity in the highway robbery. A third man suspected is at large, but may be arrested any time.

The plunder was taken to No. 37 Clifton street, the home of the brother-in-law of one of the party. When the house was searched a suit case was found, in which was all the missing money, a lot of silverware and a set of burglar tools. When George Carlisle later entered the house and saw the detectives and sheriff's officers, he fired two shots at them, and in a hand-to-hand fight was badly beaten before he surrendered. The detectives were unhurt by the shots.

The silverware bears the marks of the Fifth avenue hotel in New York City. Carlisle is about 20 years old, and Whitney about 25.

CRASHED INTO LOCOMOTIVE.

Twelve Injured in Train Wreck on Pennsylvania Railroad.

Sunbury, Pa., Jan. 2.—The Pennsylvania Railroad express which left Buffalo at 9 o'clock Tuesday night, and which was due in Philadelphia at 7.23 a. m. yesterday, was wrecked at Montandon, 10 miles west of here, and more than a dozen passengers injured.

The express was running on time when a light locomotive crossed from a siding to the main track. The engine of the express was so close that the engineer was unable to bring his heavy train to a stop and it crashed into the shifting engine with considerable force. Both locomotives were disabled, and a combination car, a day coach and a Pullman sleeper were so badly damaged that the passengers had to be transferred to other coaches and the wrecked cars cut out.

Most of the passengers received medical treatment here. The train was delayed four hours.

Magistrate Half a Century.

Windsor, Jan. 2.—Scores of Windsor's citizens attended a public reception given Tuesday night by Col. Bartlet in honor of his father, Magistrate Alexander Bartlett, who upon the closing day of the year saw also the close of the 50th anniversary day of his birth. Tuesday the venerable magistrate occupied his seat on the bench of the Police Court, where he has officiated for nearly thirty years, and to-day shows apparently the same vigor that he did twenty years ago.

Early next month Mr. Bartlett will have completed the fiftieth year of his public service in this city, he having been appointed town clerk in 1858.

Found Dead on Commeas.

Fort Erie, Ont., Jan. 2.—The lifeless body of John Rieker was found at Fort Erie in a place known as the Commeas. He was apparently on his way home about 2 o'clock on New Year's eve, when he was possibly overtaken by heart failure.

Mr. Rieker was about 52 years of age and a respected citizen. He was well known throughout the village. The body was discovered by Mr. Barnhart, who notified Chief of Police Kee, who after viewing the body notified Coroner Brewster, who viewed the body yesterday. Deceased resided with his son at this village.

Detective Arrested For Perjury.

Stouffville, Jan. 2.—Christen Hansen, Government local option detective, appeared Tuesday before Justice Parker, charged with perjury, in swearing that Donald Christie of Samfield supplied him with liquor on Oct. 29 last. Hansen pleaded not guilty, and after hearing considerable evidence as to Christie not being at Samfield on the day in question, the magistrate adjourned the case to Jan. 8, at Goodwood.

PANIC IN ROME EXCHANGE.

Roof Blown Off by Terrific Gas Explosion.

Rome, Jan. 2.—The Temple of Neptune, built by Hadrian, and standing in the centre of the Forum of Agrippa, now occupied by the Stock Exchange, was the scene on Tuesday of a tremendous explosion, causing a sensation almost as great as the explosion of the bomb at St. Peter's on Nov. 18, 1906. The concussion was so great that many persons throughout the city were terrified, and great crowds rushed to the scene.

Within the building there were many people, but fortunately the great majority of the brokers had left. No one was killed, but twenty persons, chiefly clerks, were injured.

The explosion resulted in the collapse of the roof of the Exchange, and a number of those injured were caught in the wreckage, but later were released by the firemen who responded to the call.

The detonation was terrific, and when the roof fell clouds of dust were thrown high in the air. The police, firemen and troops hurried to the scene and had difficulty in calming the excitement of the thousands who rushed to the temple. Later when another explosion was feared the crowds again became panic-stricken and many persons received minor injuries in the resultant crush. Most of those who were taken from the ruins had received injuries about the head and upper part of the body, although none was known to have been fatally injured. Soon there was a procession of injured in open cabs and ambulances to the hospitals traversing the crowded thoroughfares amid pitiful scenes.

MAY ARREST RECTOR.

Police Will Take Action Against Eloping Parson If Wife Assents.

New York, Jan. 2.—"I will immediately ask for the extradition of Jere Knode Cooke, who eloped with Floretta Whaley of Hempsteady, Long Island, just as soon as I receive word from Mrs. Cooke that he is to be made defendant in abandonment proceedings," said District Attorney Franklin A. Coles of Nassau County last night. "Under present circumstances I do not see any way open to me," he added, "I shall be glad to have him brought back and tried for whatever crime a Nassau County grand jury indicted him, but I do not feel like sending those thousand miles for him, unless his wife takes the initiative. I am waiting to hear from her."

Mrs. Cooke has not expressed a desire to have Mr. Cooke brought back.

Opening of the Mint.

Ottawa, Jan. 2.—The official opening of the Canadian branch of the Royal Mint will take place this afternoon, in the presence of His Excellency the Governor-General, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and members of the Government and other high officials of state. The first coins minted will be of silver and copper, and Canadian metal will, of course, be used. The silver bullion will be the product of the Cobalt mines, and the copper coins will be made from the output of British Columbia mines. Later on gold coins will be minted. In addition to coins of denominations current in Canada, such as the one-cent copper, the five, ten, twenty-five and fifty-cent silver pieces, gold five-dollar pieces will be made. Besides these, gold coins of the same denominations, designs, weight and fineness, as the gold coins made in the Royal Mint in England are to be produced at the Ottawa branch, and, after separate inspection, these coins shall pass current in England as if coined there.

May Call Conference.

London, Jan. 2—(C.A.P.)—The Times is hoping that Consul-General Nosse, with his great knowledge of Canadian conditions and feeling, will be called in by the Japanese Government to assist in the final stage of the negotiations with Hon. Mr. Lemieux, and opines that at best the reported agreement can hardly be an exhaustive settlement of the whole difficult question of oriental immigration.

A number of papers agree on the desirability of summoning the imperial conference to discuss the question.

Shot by Burglar.

Newark, Jan. 3.—George A. Fisher, a city building inspector, was shot and mortally wounded at his home yesterday by a burglar who escaped.

Mrs. Fisher was awakened early in the morning by a noise in the adjoining yard, in the rear of a grocery store. She aroused her husband, who went to a window overlooking the back yard. His wife heard him call out, "What are you doing there?" The words were quickly followed by the report of a revolver.

Serious Stabbing Affray.

Quebec, Jan. 2.—Lying in a bed in Jeffery Hale Hospital, suffering from a number of knife wounds inflicted by an Italian, a young man named Henri Badard, a surveyor of Cap Rouge, is in a serious condition. An Italian, who gives his name as Stephano Spano, is now an inmate of a cell in the central police station, charged with the crime.

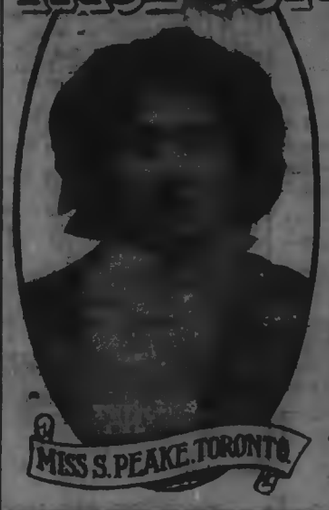
Pittsburg Firemen Hurt.

Pittsburg, Jan. 2.—Two firemen were seriously injured and damage estimated at $100,000 resulted yesterday from a fire which completely destroyed the Excelsior Building. Located on the southwest corner of Sixth avenue and Grant street, this city. Owing to the holiday there was no one in the various offices of the building.

Governor-General's Levee.

Ottawa, Jan. 2.—The Governor-General's New Year's Day levee was attended by about 600 gentlemen. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, R. L. Borden, Sir Louis Davies, Sir Frederick Borden and other distinguished residents of the capital were present.

FACE COVERED WITH ECZEMA



MISS S. PEAKE, TORONTO

YOUNG LADY GRATEFUL TO ZAM-BUK

This balm cleared her skin when everything else failed. The terrible effects of Eczema, so unsightly to everybody, so painful to the sufferer, cannot be fully appreciated except by persons who are victims of this disease. Zam-Buk by its wonderful healing virtue and its peculiar power of toning up the skin has won for itself the most wonderful reputation.

Miss Susan Peake, 49 Edward St., Toronto says: "A year ago last Spring my arms and face broke out with Eczema. Not only was it troublesome and painful, but very unsightly too. I used various kinds of salves and ointments, but received no benefit until I began with Zam-Buk. I first heard of this remedy through a friend who had been cured of a long standing case of Eczema by using Zam-Buk. The very first application seemed different from other ointments used; it relieved the terrible itching and also soothed the pain. In a very short time after commencing with the Zam-Buk treatment I was cured entirely of Eczema. My arms and face were so smooth and clear from any pimples or rash as they had ever been. I have since kept a box by me in case I should need it at any time. I find it very good for chapped hands or roughness of the skin after washing. I can recommend it to anyone afflicted as I have been. You have my permission to use this, also my photo in any publication."

DEATH BY GUILLOTINE

MARIE GOOLD CONDEMNED TO DIE FOR MURDER.

Husband to Suffer Life Imprisonment —Former Montreal Couple Convicted of Brutal Crime—Sentence Greeted With Applause — Has Attracted World-Wide Attention— Story of the Tragedy.

Marie Goold must be put to death by guillotine.

Vere St. Leger Goold must remain behind prison bars for the remainder of his life.

Such were the sentences imposed in the Superior Court of Monaco after the Goolds had been convicted on the charge of murdering Emma Levin last summer. It was held that Mrs.

VERE ST. LEGER GOOLD.

Goold was the chief instigator, and that her husband being under the influence of liquor, was less responsible. Hence the difference in the penalties.

Applause from the great crowds assembled in the court-room greeted the verdict.

The trial of the Goolds consumed less than three days. It attracted attention from all over the world, because of the enormity of the crime, the manner in which the murder was committed, and the dramatic arrest of the principals, who were taken by the police while seeking to escape with a trunk containing portions of the body in their possession.

Goold and his wife left Monte Carlo early last August, going to Marseilles. A hotel porter in that city noticed blood oozing from a trunk which the two had brought with them, and when they drove off with the trunk the porter notified the police and the arrest followed.

Blamed Her Lover.

When arrested the Goolds said they knew the victim but slightly. While she had been staying at their home Villa Menesimy, they said, her lover, had arrived and had blown out her brains. The Goolds then, fearing they would be compromised, had tried to get rid of the corpse. They had dismembered the body, placing the head and feet in Goold's valise, and the remainder of the body in the trunk. The autopsy showed, however, that the woman had not been shot, but had been seized from behind and held while she was stabbed to death.

MARIE GOOLD.

Husband Took the Blame.

Some time after the autopsy, when the pair had been sent back to Monaco for trial, Goold made a statement, confessing he had committed the murder, and that his wife had nothing to do with it. The police did not put much faith in his story, however, and as the case was presented to the court the wife was shown to be the real instigator.

The evidence went to show that Emma Levin, who was possessed of considerable jewelry and some money, had been invited to visit the Goolds, who were in needy circumstances. There she was killed and later a quantity of her jewelry was found in the possession of Goold and his wife. Her body was dismembered and packed away in a trunk and valise, which the murderers were trying to dispose of when the crime was discovered.

When the trunk mystery first came to the front in August it was stated that the Goolds had at one time lived in Montreal. An investigation by the police there showed that the couple had until about three years ago conducted a high-class dressmaking establishment in that city, and had lived on Drummond street. About 1904 Madame Goold closed up her shop, announcing that she and her husband were to go abroad. Since then nothing had been seen of them in Montreal.

Goold himself is a brother of Sir James Stephen Goold, an Irish baronet who emigrated to Australia many years ago, dropping his title and taking up sheep farming near Adelaide.

KEATS ON MARRIAGE.

Barrier Against Matrimony in Which the Poet Rejoiced.

Notwithstanding your happiness and your recommendation, I hope I shall never marry. Though the most beautiful creature were waiting for me at the end of a journey or a walk, though the carpet were of silk, the curtains of the morning clouds, the chairs and sofa stuffed with cygnets' down, the food manna, the wine beyond claret, the window opening on Winander mere, I should not feel, or, rather, my happiness would not be so fine, as my solitude is sublime. Then, instead of what I have described, there is a sublimity to welcome me home. The roaring of the wind is my wife, and the stars through the window pane are my children. The mighty abstract idea I have of beauty in all things stifles the more divided and minute domestic happiness—an amiable wife and sweet children I contemplate as a part of that beauty, but I must have a thousand of those beautiful particles to fill up my heart.

I feel more and more every day as my imagination strengthens that I do not live in this world alone, but in a thousand worlds. No sooner am I alone than shapes of epic greatness are stationed around me and serve my spirit the office which is equivalent to a king's bodyguard—then "tragedy with sceptered pall comes sweeping by." According to my state of mind I am with Achilles shouting in the trenches or with Theocritus in the vales of Sicily, or I throw my whole being into Troilus, and, repeating those lines, "I wander like a lost soul upon the Stygian banks, staying for waftage," I melt into the air with a voluptuousness so delicate that I am content to be alone. These things, combined with the opinion I have of the generality of women, who appear to me as children to whom I would rather give a sugar plum than my time, form a barrier against matrimony which I rejoice in. —"Poems of John Keats," by Walter Raleigh.

Reassuring.

"Have you heard about Miss Rockingham? She is to marry an English duke,"

"Are you sure about that?"

"Yes; it's all settled. He is here now, and preparations for the wedding are already under way."

"By George, I'm glad to hear it! You can't imagine how the news you bring clears away my doubts and relieves me of fears that have been keeping me awake at night."

"I don't understand why you should be so deeply interested. What is Miss Rockingham to you?"

"Nothing—nothing at all—but you see I have all my money in her father's bank, and for several months past I have had serious doubts concerning the soundness of the institution. If an English duke is to marry her, there can, of course, be no question concerning her father's financial standing."—Chicago Record-Herald.

HE'S COMING.

He hammers for an hour or so,
At what you cannot guess,
But one thing you are bound to know,
There is a dreadful mess;
Then after he has made the place
Appear an awful sight,
He says, with very conscious pride,
"I've done the job up right!"
But should there be a shower of rain
Or if it sleets or snows
The pipes are sure to leak again,
And in the water flows.
Once more, and yet once more, he comes
On just the same old plan,
That bugbear of the winter time,
The awful plumber man.
—La Touche Hancock in New York Press.

Didn't Work.

"Ah, Tommy, you've been fighting again; I can see! I told you to count a hundred when angry."

"Yes, I know. The other boy did this while I was counting."—Pick-Me-Up.

Goldwin Smith Condemns Local Option

WRITING to the Toronto Globe, Professor Goldwin Smith thus expresses his views on Local Option

"I do not think it possible to enforce total abstinence. The taste for fermented liquors is common to all races of mankind, and it antedates the beginning of history. This taste the extreme prohibitionist hopes to eradicate by a single stroke of prohibitive legislation. Unless he can eradicate the taste, experience shows he cannot put down the habit. In the attempt radically and suddenly to change the habits of mankind by law, I have no faith whatever, and I appeal to multiplied and decisive experience as a warrant for my unbelief."

POETESS AND SINGER.

Blind Bristol Girl Honored by King Edward.

King Edward brought a ray of sunshine into the life of a blind poetess, a young girl, 15 years of age, residing at Bristol, by graciously thanking her for a birthday ode and accepting her photograph. The authoress is Miss Eva Longbottom, of Longfield road, Bristol, who, in addition to her imaginative endowments, is gifted with a fine contralto voice. When only 12 years of age she won the silver medal for singing at the Bristol Eisteddfod, and last year she secured the coveted gold medal against twenty-five competitors. Acting on the advice of experts, however, Miss Longbottom has given up singing for the present, lest by overstraining her voice it should in any way suffer. In a year's time, however, she hopes to take up singing again, and if the promise she has already given is fulfilled, there is a brilliant future as a vocalist in store for her. Meantime, she is finding another outlet for the development of her artistic nature by perfecting her pianoforte playing, in which she is already very accomplished, while she also revels in the fields of literature opened to her through the Braille system. The poem accepted by the King is entitled, "The Message of the Birthday Bells," and reads as follows:

Ring with thy birthday bells, ring cheerily,
Ring with thy beauteous, divine melody;
Ring out all sadness, bid sorrows to cease,
Ring in the song of Christ's strong love and peace.

Ring thy glad notes, let them sound loud and clear,
Let thy sweet singing be heard far and near.
May thy voice echo o'er hill and o'er dale;
Bid it dispel every heart's mournful wail.

Bid thy song enter the homesteads where sin
Lodgeth, where discords and strife reign within.
Bid peace to reign with a magnetic sway,
Tenderly chastening the darkness away.

At the foot of the poem were the two lines:
May you and your loving consort unite
Nations together in pure love and light.

MONKEY IN PRISON.

Simian Confined For Attacking Women in London.

Refractory cats and toy dogs have a new terror before them, for an animals' prison, where they are kept behind iron bars and fed on the plainest of plain diets, has recently been opened.

The idea is a new departure of the Animals' Hospital, Hugh street, Westminster, where, under certain conditions, a refractory animal can be "imprisoned," provided that its board and lodging is paid.

A solitary Mandalay monkey is now undergoing sentence of three weeks' confinement in the hospital.

For some time the monkey had been an eyesore to society by its hatred of ladies. Then, one day, it tore a piece out of a lady's dress, and its owner sent it to the hospital for imprisonment.

Recently the convict monkey was scratching its head in gloomy contemplation.

"I am afraid that he hasn't improved very much," said the matron.

"Even if I offer him food he snarls at me. If a man speaks to him he is as friendly as possible. This monkey is an inveterate woman-hater.

"We have one or two healthy cats in jail for wandering abroad without visible means of sustenance. If anybody will give these cats a home we shall release them.

"A few days' imprisonment has a wonderfully softening effect on the tempers of sulky and over-pampered animals. They are very miserable in the hospital, and, when released, are overjoyed and full of humbleness."

WIT OF AN IRISH STORY.

Lost, as a Rule, When the Tale Is Reduced to Cold Type.

"Irish wit loses more in reduction to cold type than that of any other nation on earth." At least that is the opinion of a St. Louis Hibernian who himself furnishes many excellent examples of the article in question.

"When an Irishman perpetrates a witticism it is always tinged with a personality which in print or even in the retelling is often completely lost. There is always something—a wink, a smile, an arch expression, a shrug or gesture—that emphasizes the joke and must be seen to be appreciated. Sometimes an Irish witticism put into type is mistaken for mere dullness of superstition.

"I remember once hearing an Irishman tell a story about a wonderful old time king on the north coast who caught the devil at some trick and for a punishment made Old Harry carve his own head on one of the cliffs. The story was told as seriously as a sermon would be preached. No one could appreciate more sincere than the story teller. He seemed to believe the legend as devoutly as though it came directly from holy writ.

"After he had wound up the narrative, noticing a smile on my face, he stared in apparent surprise. 'Don't ye belave it? Sure, the old king's hammer and chisel is kept in the church beyant, and what better proof could ye ax?' And he gave a wink and a grin and spread out both hands in a gesture of expostulation just as a lawyer would when posing before a jury and putting his most convincing argument in the form of a question.

"It was the most exquisite bit of acting I ever saw. The tone of perfect conviction in which he told the story was inimitable; then the contrast from solemnity to comic dismay at the idea of any one being so grossly incredulous as not to believe the story and the wink, which indicated that he didn't believe it himself and was simply talking for amusement, were worthy of any actor that ever trod the boards. Yet in the type all this was lost. To appreciate properly the wit of an Irish story you must hear the Irishman tell it."

SOAP IS ANCIENT.

It Was Used by the Gauls as a Dressing For the Hair.

Who invented soap? That it is not a modern convenience is well known, but just when it came into general use is a mystery.

In Biblical times cleansing agents were used. The books of Job and Jeremiah contain the word "nesap." But this is merely a convenient use of the word in translation. The Hebrew word "borith," for which it was substituted, is a general term for cleansing substances. What those substances were is unknown, but they were probably little like the modern soap.

Pliny speaks of the invention of soap by the Gauls, who, however, used it only as a sort of pomade or hair dressing. He also refers to the use of both hard soap and soft soap by the Germans. The use of fuller's earth, which has saponaceous qualities, for cleansing purposes was known to the Romans.

The French word for soap, savon, comes from Savona, France, where it was manufactured. The first manufacture of soap in London is said to have been in 1524, and previously Bristol had supplied it for use in the English cities.

According to the historian Sismondi, a soapmaker was included in the retinue of Charlemagne, king of the Franks, at the end of the eighth century.

In the excavation of the ruins of Pompeii a soap boiler's shop was uncovered, with soap in it, showing that the making of it was known in the first Christian century.

Pliny, who wrote of the eruption of Vesuvius, which destroyed the two Roman cities in 79 A. D., stated that soap was made from tallow and ashes and that the German soap was the best. Galen also referred to the use of soap.

A NEW YEAR INJUSTICE.

The Barkeeper Complains of the Good Resolution Habit.

"John, I'll have to lay you off for the first two weeks of the new year. You, Harry, will have to lay off a week."

The speaker, a lean man, stood in a splendid and spacious beer saloon, a place of polished mahogany, onyx columns, great mirrors and large paintings of beautiful women. Ropes and wreaths of evergreen twined about the pillars and the electroliers, and on the massive bar stood a bowl of free punch, for it was New Year's day.

"Yes, boys," said the lean man, "you'll have to go."

"What for, boss?" asked the younger of the two bartenders. Mechanically with his woolen bar cloth he polished the bar till it shone again, and anxiously he gazed in his employer's face.

"Why, John, you ought to know what for."

The saloon keeper spoke impatiently. A fat man entered from the street, approached the bar with reluctant steps, then all of a sudden turned hurriedly and departed.

"Well, I'll be danged!" said Bartender John. "That's the fourth fellow has done that this mornin'. What's it mean anyway?"

"You ought to know what it means, John," repeated the saloon keeper. "It's meaning is the cause of your suspension."

"Yes, John," the man resumed; "your suspension is caused by the New Year's swear off of that fellow and thousands like him. All over the broad land, John, countless numbers of men swear off drinking for a year on New Year's day. Half of them stick to their swear off for a week, and the other half, with just a few exceptions, stick to it for two weeks. Those two weeks of January, John, are always the two poorest weeks on the publican's calendar. He can't pay expenses; hence he retrenches; hence he lays off prudent, industrious young chaps like you—chaps with a bit put by, so that they can stand a little idleness without privation."

"All right. But," said John sulkily—"but I ain't got nothing put by, and I think it's a shame that my poor wife and innocent babe have got to suffer at this joyous holiday season through the swear off of a lot of foolish, thoughtless men. It don't seem right nor just."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

The Painter Man.

Mark Twain at a dinner at New York once talked about the troubles of housekeepers at the painting season. He said, "If you are a housekeeper, I don't need to tell you that when a painter has taken up the parlor carpet, removed the furniture from the dining room, leaned two ladders against the hall mantel and stacked a keg of dozen variegated cans of paint on the sideboard it means he is now ready to paint the outside windows and the back fence."

LORD CHANCELLOR'S MARRIAGE.

First Wedding Ever Celebrated in Crypt of St. Stephen's.

Not the least interesting feature of the marriage of the Lord High Chancellor of England with Miss Violet Hicks-Beach on Dec. 3, was the selection of the ancient crypt chapel of St. Stephen's, adjoining Westminster Hall.

So far as living memory extends, the marriage ceremony has never before been performed in this beautiful building. There was a suggestion made that Miss Peel, the daughter of Viscount Peel, a former Speaker of the House of Commons, should be married within the precincts of St. Stephen's, but her wedding took place at St. Margaret's Church, and those who dip deep into the records of the King's Palace of Westminster, can find no trace of a wedding in the crypt, or, to give the chapel its ancient name, in the Church of St. Mary's Undercroft.

Other religious services have been held recently in the chapel. Within the past few years the grandchildren of a Speaker have been christened there, and one or two children of members sitting on both sides of the House have been baptised in the magnificent font beneath the street level of Old Palace Yard. There has also been a memorial service held within the edifice. But Lord Loreburn's nuptials in the chapel, so far as is known, constitute the precedent for future holders of the exalted office, and, indeed, for any Minister of the Crown, peer or commoner.

Many preparations were made for the ceremony. Candles, which used to furnish the artificial light within the darkened chamber, have at last been dispensed with, and electricity will in future illuminate the groined roof and marble sides, and will do away with the smoke and dirt inevitable with candlelight. The scheme devised by the Office of Works permits of a modern illuminant superseding the dip without interfering with the heavy hanging brass chandeliers which add considerably to the splendor of the chapel. Indeed, so careful have been the advisors of the First Commissioner to adhere strictly to the arrangements inside the sacred chamber as they found them, that they have chosen a number of incandescent lamps in the form of candles, and if one did not notice the absence of flicker and smoke, the new light could easily be mistaken for the old. The chapel as it now exists does not possess a vestry, but a room at the north-east corner, which during the sitting of Parliament is arranged for the accommodation of the staff, has been set apart as a vestry, and in this place the register was signed and witnessed. There are three entrances to the chapel. One of these is by the door leading from Westminster Hall at its south-eastern corner, and near to the spot where dynamite was once within an ace of wrecking one of the most noble and historical of London's buildings.

The Green-Eyed Monster.

A young married man of extremely jealous disposition recently visited one of the most famous mediums in London. Being far from home, he wanted to know what his wife was doing.

"She is looking out of the window, evidently expecting some one."

"That is strange," said the medium. "Whom can she expect?"

"Someone enters the door and caresses him fondly," went on the medium.

"It can't be!" cried the excited husband. "My wife is true to me."

"Now he lays his head on her lap and looks tenderly in her eyes."

"It's false! I'll make you pay dearly for this!" yelled the jealous husband.

"Now he wags his tail," said the medium.

The green-eyed monster subsided and the young husband cheerfully paid over the consulting fee.

Britain's Tiniest House.

The quaint old town of Conway, North Wales, boasts the possession of the smallest house in Great Britain. This quaint house consists of only two rooms, one above each other, each of which is just two yards square. The place is over three hundred years old, and is in every respect a very curious dwelling-place. The upper room, which is reached by means of a tiny ladder, has in it a four-poster bed and washstand, so that there is none too much room for the occupant to move about. Names of visitors ornament the walls. The present caretaker states that one tenant actually brought up a family of ten in this miniature house, though the explanation is forthcoming as to how the feat was performed. The present occupier, who has inhabited the cottage for seven years, pays a rental of seven-and-sixpence per week, and is very proud of the fact that she resides in the tiniest house in Great Britain.

BRITAIN AND HER ASIASTICS

The Transvaal Registration Law Raises Imperial Question.

NATIVES REFUSE TO SUBMIT

Prominent Indians in Britain Predict Weakening of Loyalty in the East —French Journal Sees Danger of War in the Situation With Japan—May Press for Explanation From United States.

London, Jan. 3.—Great Britain is experiencing what might well be called an almost startling awakening to the grave problems caused by the immigration of Asiatics to her white colonies. The principal political topic for a week past, has been the situation in the Transvaal, where several thousand Indians and Chinese were given the alternative of submitting to what they consider a degrading system of registration or of being imprisoned and expelled.

The reports of further racial rioting at Vancouver come at a particular inopportune time on account of the negotiations now under way between Canada and Japan, and they are very annoying to the British Government. Officials have hoped that Japan's willingness substantially to restrict her emigration would soften the anti-Japanese prejudices in the Pacific coast. The latest outbreak in Canada may excite popular feeling in Japan and impede the efforts of the Japanese Government to conclude friendly arrangements with America and Canada.

If anything was needed, however, to impress upon England the seriousness of the race question, it was another outbreak in Canada, following the Transvaal trouble. It is recognized that the question is more serious for Great Britain than for America, because the Indians are British subjects and the Japanese are Great Britain's allies.

The Transvaal has temporarily refrained from taking measures against those Indians who have refused to register, other than to decline to renew the traders' licenses, all of which expired on Dec. 31. It is proposed however, to execute the law in a few days. Two thousand Indians from all parts of the Transvaal met recently in Johannesburg and voted to refuse to submit to the law.

Prominent Indians in England are writing to the newspapers to complain that their compatriots in the white colonies are worse off than the Japanese, who have the diplomatic protection of their Governmnet. They predict a weakening of the loyalty of the Indian Empire.

Paris Paper Scents War.

Paris, Jan. 3.—Some of the Paris newspapers, notably The Matin, which have been giving considerable prominence to the American-Japanese "war scare," have taken the gabled reports of Japan's refusal to accept the American conditions in the matter of immigration together with the decision of the Navy Department to keep the torpedo boat flotilla and the battleships together for the remainder of the cruise to the Pacific, and made of them a subject for fresh alarm. The Matin regards the coincidence of these two facts as highly suggestive and expresses the opinion that Japan intends to press for a diplomatic explanation before the fleet reaches the Pacific. This paper asserts the situation is almost analogous to that which existed before the Russo-Japanese war.

French Take Citadel.

Paris, Jan. 3.—Official advices received here from Admiral Philibert, the French naval commander in Moroccan waters, reports that French troops captured Wednesday the citadel of the Mediounas tribe with the loss of one man killed and three wounded. The transport Nive, with reinforcements on board, went ashore during a storm at a point five miles south of Casablanca. The troops and horses on board were safely disembarked. The cruiser Desaix went to the relief of the transport.

Second Officer Blamed.

Halifax, N. S., Jan. 3.—All the responsibility for the loss of the C. P. R. liner Mount Temple is thrown on the second officer, Griffith Owen Lewis, in the finding of the Court of Inquiry. He was grossly culpable, and recommends the proper authorities to deal with him.

The same court investigated the loss of the steamer Kildona, and the captain, officers and crew of that ship were all exonerated.

Killed Child, Wife and Self.

Kingston, N. Y., Jan. 3.—Irving Baker, his wife and four-year-old son who live at Leibhardt, 20 miles south here, were found dead in bed with their throats cut late Wednesday night.

It is believed that Baker killed his wife and child with a butcher knife and then committed suicide.

Charges Against Fruit-Growers.

Port Colborne, Jan. 3.—Four fruit-growers of Ridgeway — Melvin Burnette, Burt Forman, Jack Helavin and Ellsworth Trope—appear before Magistrate Quinn here to-day upon a charge of illegally packing apples or falsifying the marks. It is understood that the charge was instituted by Montreal men.

Soo Elections.

Sault Ste. Marie, Jan. 3.—Municipal elections: For councillors, T. Bishop, C. Collins, T. E. Simpson, G. W. Goodwin, J. Dawson, W. O'Brien, nominated and elected by acclamation. W. H. Munro and W. J. Thompson candidates for mayor.

Socialists Indicted.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 3.—Indictments were returned in this city yesterday against all the members of the executive committee of the popular Socialist party, and their trial before the Court of Appeals will begin shortly. The accused men belong to the intellectual section of the Social Revolutionists.

MISSING SHIP IS STILL OUT

Grave Fears Now Felt For Safety of Mount Royal.

300 PASSENGERS ON BOARD

Missing Vessel Is Now Three Weeks Overdue—C. P. R. Liner Empress of Britain Has Seen Nothing of Her —Good Look Out Being Kept— Has Still Ten Days' Supply of Coal Left If Still Afloat.

Halifax, Jan. 3.—Hope that the C. P. R. liner Empress of Britain, which arrived from Liverpool last night with the British mails, would bring some news of the missing steamer Mount Royal, was dissipated when a wireless message was received from the Empress reporting that she had not sighted the Mount Royal, nor had she received any report in her wireless communication with other steamers of the overdue vessel. The Mount Royal is now 28 days out from Antwerp, and while hope for her safety has not been abandoned, many shipping men think that the chances of her ever turning up are very slim.

No effort is being spared to ascertain the whereabouts of the steamer. Instructions have been sent to all the wireless stations from here to Cape Race asking them to communicate with all passing liners, seeking news of the Mount Royal. In this way, it is hoped, if the vessel is still afloat, to get trace of her in the quickest possible way. There is no list on this side of the crew, but if the ship is posted as missing a list will be sent out from England, along with the names of the 300 passengers. Capt. Purcell is in command, and the chief engineer is Mr. Murray.

The Mount Royal, it is believed, carried about 2,200 tons of coal, or enough under ordinary steaming to last for 34 or 35 days, so if she is still afloat she has enough coal for another ten days at least, and for a longer period if steam has been reduced.

Human Batteries.

Chicago, Jan. 3.—Dr. J. C. Siebel, a physician of this city, announced yesterday before the American Association for the Advancement of Science that he has discovered a method of generating energy within the human body. He asserted that electricity stored in the human body can be released and made to do work. This work, he said, will mean the prolongation of life through the additional vitality supplied to the human body working as its own electrical generator.

Dr. Siebel announced that nutritive elements, such as alcohol, sugar and fats, during their consumption by the human body act as generators of electricity in the miniature batteries that comprise the muscular structure of the human frame. He declared that he has succeeded in the construction of batteries on a working scale, in which the nutritive element necessary to form the connection between the batteries and the system has been created.

Count Boni In a Fight.

Paris, Jan. 3.—There was a violent quarrel in the Rue de Chaillet yesterday between Count Boni de Castellane and Prince Helie de Sagan. The count is reported to have denounced the prince in unmeasured terms.

Count Boni, according to some accounts of the difficulty, spat in the prince's face. According to other reports Count Boni struck his cousin in the face, slightly cutting him. The men finally were separated by Count Jean de Castellane, a brother of Count Boni, who interposed himself between the combatants. When Count Jean got in between the two men they were both down, rolling in the gutter. The prince has entered an action for assault in the courts.

Dawson City's Morals.

Ottawa, Dec. 3.—Governor Alexander Henderson of Dawson City has sent a telegram to Hon. Frank Oliver, Minister of the Interior, declaring that the Yukon, including Dawson, is as moral as any part of Canada. The message sent by the governor follows:

"To the Hon. Frank Oliver, Minister of the Interior, at Ottawa: I unhesitatingly affirm that the Yukon, including Dawson, is as moral as any part of Canada."

WAS DELIBERATELY SHOT.

Murder of German Officer Stirs Whole Army—Wife Blamed.

Allenstein, East Prussia, Jan. 3.—The confession made by Capt. Von Coeben, that he killed Major Von Schoenbeck, a brother officer, on Christmas day, is a rather dramatic recital of murder.

According to it, Von Coeben dined with Major Von Schoenbeck and his wife in their house on Christmas night. Considerable wine was drunk and the party had a jolly time. After saying good-night the captain pretended to leave the house. He slammed the front door, but did not go out. He then stole upstairs to the major's room, where he put on a mask. The major entered shortly and hearing a suspicious rustling in the darkness, called "Who is there?" Von Coeben then sprang up and faced the major, saying, "I want to speak with you." Von Schoenbeck did not reply, but drew his revolver and endeavored to shoot. The cartridge missed fire. Von Coeben then drew his own revolver and shot the major down. He then left the house noiselessly by means of a key which had previously been given him by Mrs. Von Schoenbeck.

The confession is in no sense complete, for it is evident that Von Coeben is endeavoring to shield the wife of the major. Evidence gathered by the commissary of police, however, completes the story. Von Coeben, who was in uniform at the time of the shooting, seemingly returned to his barracks and changed his uniform for civilian clothes. He was observed by a sentry one hour later re-entering Major Von Schoenbeck's house, presumably to arrange some matters with the wife of the murdered man. The commissary has become possessed of certain correspondence exchanged between Von Coeben and Mrs. Schoenbeck before and after the crime, and from these letters he deducts that there was a complete understanding between them.

Von Coeben broke down when the commissary showed him this correspondence and confessed.

Motorist's Close Call.

London, Jan. 3.—After breaking the world's record for fifty miles, and attempting to lower the 100 miles record in a spectacular race against time in a six-cylinder car on the Brooklands track yesterday afternoon, H. C. Cyon, the well-known racer, escaped death in the most remarkable motor accident known. While the car was speeding at the rate of 84 miles an hour the tire on the rear wheel loosened and wrapped itself about the rim, giving the car the jumping power of a kangaroo, and in an instant the machine driven forward by the powerful engine was gyrating in the air and making a more dizzy plunge at each contact with the track, while the driver clung to his seat. Presently the machine gave three violent zigzag lunges, cleared the high parapet guarding the track, and breaking through the iron fence and snapping a telegraph pole, landed in a mass of scrap iron on the public motor road outside. Mr. Cyon was picked up unconscious, but was later found to be not seriously injured.

New York, Jan. 3.—Announcement is made that Anthony Comstock will be the most important new witness at the second trial of Harry Thaw. He will be called by Martin W. Littleton, counsel for the defence, and will be questioned about Thaw's mental condition just prior to the shooting of Stanford White in the Madison Square Roof Garden.

The Trethewey Co. has retained Mr. George Ross, barrister, to look after its interests.

TWO WOMEN WERE KILLED

Fatal Explosion of Fireworks in Rochester Factory.

BUILDING WAS WRECKED

May Callaghan Also Seriously Burned Three Others Had a Narrow Escape —One Was Blown Out of a Window—Force Caused the Roof to Fall In—Cause of the Explosion Is Not Yet Known.

Rochester, N. Y., Jan. 3.—In an explosion that wrecked a building of the Rochester Fireworks Co. yesterday, one young woman, Sadie Ernst, 20 years of age, was instantly killed; a second, Mrs. Lillian O'Connor, 28 years of age, recently married, was so badly injured that she died at the homeopathic hospital a short time after being taken there, and a third, May Callighan, was seriously burned, but is expected to recover. Six young women were working in the wrecked building, a much smaller number than are often employed. One of them that escaped was blown through a window, but was little injured.

The explosion occurred in the finishing room of a building of the company's plant on East Main street. The building was a low one-storey structure, and the force of the explosion blew out one side of it and caused the roof to fall in.

The cause of the explosion is yet unknown.

MANITOBA LEGISLATURE.

Session Just Opened Expected To Be Lively.

Winnipeg, Jan. 3.—The twelfth annual Legislature of Manitoba was opened yesterday, with 14 Opposition and 29 Government members.

The feature of the session promises to be an attack on the Government based upon the now famous Wood case. Wood was the president of a notorious bucket shop, with headquarters in Winnipeg and branches all over the west. Following numerous complaints of Wood's refusal to pay claims, he was repeatedly arrested, and finally left the province, and left a sum of money, estimated at from ten to twenty thousand dollars, with the Government to pay claims. It is for this alleged compromise and the mystery surrounding the deal that the Opposition is making a fight.

To Preserve the Fish.

Gananoque, Jan. 3.—Petitions are being circulated in Gananoque and now contain the signatures of one-half the voters on the list, asking the Government to discontinue issuing licenses for net fishing in the River St. Lawrence between Kingston and Brockville, its tributaries, bays and creeks, also asking that a launch be put on with sufficient men to enforce the law.

The merchants of Gananoque are dependent largely on the tourist trade, there being over 3,000 of a summer population on the islands and in the town. The waters are being largely depleted of fish by net fishing. Canadians derive no benefit from the fish caught, as they are exported to the United States. Some suggest an export duty on fish.

Curling Rink Burnt Out.

Peterboro, Jan. 3.—Yesterday morning, from some unknown cause, fire broke out in the large brick curling rink on Charlotte street. The fire had made great headway before discovered. The building was totally destroyed, with the books and records of the curling club. The south wall fell outward and very nearly caught five firemen. The loss is estimated at $12,000. The insurance totals $4,000, of which $1,000 each is carried by the Phoenix, Northern and Western companies. About 125 pairs of curling stones destroyed were not insured. The season's schedule will be carried out in an open rink. President T. Brightman placed an order yesterday for the necessary stones.

The Following Letter Speaks For Itself

Peterborough, Nov. 1st, 1907.

W. G. MORROW, ESQ.
Agent Imperial Life Assurance Co.,
Peterborough.

Dear Sir:—I have received notification of the option available in respect to my ten-year Endowment Policy of $5000 which matured to-day and it affords me pleasure to say that I view with much satisfaction the results of my investment with your Company.

The substantial surplus which the Policy has earned in the comparatively short period of ten years makes the returns which would be made to me, under any of the options now open to my selection, most liberal and attractive.

It is greatly to the credit of the Company that after having granted me an Insurance of $3000 from the issue of the Policy in 1907 to the present time, it can now offer me under the cash-value option a sum so greatly in excess of the total premium that I have paid into it, or under the paid up Insurance option, a paid up life Policy considerable more than double the amount of my original Policy.

Permit me to wish the Company a long continuance of its prosperity

Yours very truly,

J. R. STRATTON.

ADDRESS TO THE ELECTORS

To the Electors of Peterborough:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—Having been duly nominated a candidate to contest the mayoralty of Peterborough for the year 1908, I accept this nomination and respectfully solicit your votes and influence to secure my return.

I had no aspirations for the position and no thought o entering the contest for the Mayor's Chair 'till a few days ago. I was waited upon by some of the most substantial of our citizens and presented with a requisition signed by several hundred taxpayers urging me to enter the field as a candidate. I could do no other than regard a requisition signed by a large and representative number of citizens as a call of duty. Consequently, as I have, during my 45 years' residence in Peterborough, tried to do my duty faithfully to the place in which all my material interests are centred, I have decided to place myself in the hands of the electors.

If I am chosen as Mayor I shall use all my ability to practically apply the motto of my life—"The interests of Peterboro' first, last and always." I am known to you all by virtue of a residence of 45 years in the city and through a corresponding experience in business, which, through the kind co-operation of the public, I have been favored in making a success.

Though I have not sought public office any more than I am seeking the present offered position, I may say that, for four terms in succession, I was returned as alderman without soliciting or attending a nomination or soliciting a vote. I felt that both as an honour and a flattering mark of confidence, which I endeavoured to justify to the fullest of my ability And if elected as Mayor I shall discharge the duties of the office to the full extent of my powers and with a single eye to the promotion of the best interests of the city.

This is the platform upon which I can and do appeal to your support; that is the platform upon which I will justify your choice, if you do me the honour to elect me. It is not practicable for me, even if it were in line with my inclination, to personally call upon the electors. I hold that the office should seek the man rather than the man the office. I have no personal interests to serve; my only object in accepting the nomination for Mayor is to serve the best interests of the city of Peterborough. With cordial wishes for a Happy New Year to all, I remain,

Your obedient servant,

H. RUSH

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN,—

In deference to numerous requests I have consented to place myself at your disposal for the position of Alderman for 1908.

While I cannot claim to be familiar with the various qualifications which an Alderman should possess, such business capacity as I have is placed at your service. I therefore ask your support in the effort to assist in maintaining for the city of Peterborough the position and standing which it is its right to possess.

The management of the city affairs on business lines is my platform, and if the electors do me the honour of electing me, I will make the general welfare and progress of the municipality my aim.

As I will not have time to make a personal canvass, the electors are asked to show their approval of my candidature by marking their votes for me without personal solicitation.

If elected for another term I shall use my best endeavours to advance the interests of the community as a whole, without fear or favour, and will only support such measures as are calculated to assure to my fellow citizens a maximum of benefits at a minimum of expenditure.

LARGE COMMODIOUS BUILDING CHOSEN BY CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY FOR USE AS SHELTER

Situated at Northern Limit of The City on Height Of Land—Is a Suitable Location

WM. HENRY IN CHARGE

With the annual meeting of the Children's Aid Society not far distant, it may not be amiss to give to the public a description of the property which the Society acquired from the city to be used as a Shelter for the children.

About one hundred yards north of the Auburn terminus of the street railway, a road runs east and west, meeting Water street. What is known as the Hilliard property is situated on the south side of this road extending back from Water street a considerable distance. On the property is a large house and here is located the Children's Shelter. At present it is divided into two parts. The eastern half is occupied by Mr. Charles Stenton and family and the western portion by Mr. and Mrs. William Henry, who have been in charge of the shelter for some years.

A Suitable Place

The house is situated on the height of land which rises gradually from Water street. It is said to be a very healthy location and the general opinion is that the officers of the society made a good choice. The building is finished with clapboard and has a solid stone foundation. Mr. Henry states that it is very warm and he has experienced no difficulty in heating the part he occupies.

On the 25th of November the Society changed their location to the Hilliard property and since that time Mr. Henry has made many improvements. It was formerly occupied by a number of families and the caretaker spent considerable time cleaning up the rooms before he moved in. Now, the interior is bright and clean and in good order. All the rooms have been overhauled, ceilings whitewashed, walls papered and a generous application of paint has greatly improved the woodwork.

The Rooms

On the ground floor there is a very large dining room in addition to a kitchen and sewing room. Upstairs there are three bedrooms and a long, wide hall. Two of the rooms are set apart for wards of the society. They are clean and bright, as is the rest of the house. There are five white beds, four in one large room, and one in the other. To the visitor they appear very cosy and comfortable, and are quite suitable for the little ones who may use them.

At present there is just one child under the society's care, a little girl from the country, who is very pleased with her surroundings, and has no desire to leave the parental care of Mr. and Mrs. Henry.

The house is connected with the water works, and is fitted with electric lights. A telephone has also been installed. Next summer it is expected that sewer connection will also be made.

Further Improvements

Mr. Henry is at present employed in laying a cement floor in the cellar. When he went there it was muddy and soft, and, in his own words, "a regular mud hole." He first drained off the water, and now has the cement floor about completed. It is raised about six inches, and has a firm firmation. A smaller cellar adjoining this has not been touched yet, and is quite boggy and wet. It will however receive the same treatment.

Next spring, after the society receives the use of the whole building in April, many other improvements will be made. A wire fence around the property is proposed; the barns will be removed and the place beautified as much as possible.

On the whole the building is a spacious one, and, altogether, should meet any demands that may be made on the society. At present it promises to be a good substantial home for the children who will use it, and with the improvements that will come in the course of time, a fine building and lot may be expected.

MR. MITCHELL TO HIS PATRONS AND THE PUBLIC

I take this opportunity of conveying my hearty thanks for the generous patronage received from my customers during the year just closed. Permit me also, at the same time, to extend my best wishes to all for A Happy and Prosperous New Year.

N.B.—In compliance with the License Act, my store will be closed on Election Day, Monday next, January 6.

adv. W. J. R.-MITCHELL.

WOMAN'S FACE AND HANDS WERE VERY SEVERELY BURNED

In yesterday's police court, a case arose in which James Williamson, a north end resident, was accused of committing an assault upon his wife. The prisoner had apparently been intoxicated, and the magistrate remanded him for a week. But, according to a neighbour's story, Williamson, who is said to follow the life of a gypsy, made a most inhuman assault upon his wife, who now lies ill at the Nicholls Hospital, severely burned about the face and hands, and is also in a feverish condition.

The story of the young man who has informed the Examiner of the proceedings on New Year's eve, at the Williamson home, bespeaks of most uncalled for treatment on the part of the husband. According to him the prisoner deliberately threw a burning lamp in the face of his wife, causing the injuries mentioned above.

He says that on Tuesday Williamson went out to have a time with the money he secured from the sale of a horse. Upon returning home his wife remonstrated with him, as most wives would do, for becoming intoxicated. At this the woman was assaulted. She hurried to a neighbour's house and called up the police station by 'phone, but discovered that nothing could be done without a warrant for his arrest.

Seriously Burned

Mrs. Williamson, during the afternoon, went to the police station to demand the warrant, but she claims it was not executed at that time. Returning home, her husband, she says, was furious at her actions in informing the police, and again assaulted her. This time the lamp was thrown in her face, and she was seriously burned—so much so that it was at first thought she would die.

Eyes Were Swollen

Dr. McKinnon was called and saw that her features were badly disfigured; her eyes and hands were swollen and her pulse ran high. Although such is the case it is not considereed that the burns are so serious as to cause death.

WOMAN ASSAULTED IN AUBURN WHILE RETURNING FROM WORK

On a charge of having assaulted Maye Lowry, Mr. William Spencely appeared in the police court this morning, and pleaded not guilty.

Miss Lowry was the first witness. She said that she was employed in the Auburn Mills, and was going home on Tuesday night and had met Spencely in the middle of the bridge. He asked her if she were going to the show, and she told him in reply to go on his way, he was foolish. As soon as he got behind her he picked up a snowball and hit her on the back of the head. She turned around and saw two men following her; one was Mr. Brown, her foreman. She said that she was unmarried, and knew Spencely was a married man.

Samuel Brown, the foreman mentioned, testified that he was behind Miss Lowry and saw Spencely throw something at her. He was about 25 yards behind. He did not know whether it hit her or not.

The defendant then went into the box. He said that he was going home on Tuesday night, and met Miss Lowry. He wished her goodnight, and, in a joking way, asked her if she were going to the show. She replied that she did not want to have anything to do with him. It was customary for the mill hands who passed over the ridge to pelt each other with snow balls, and on this evening he picked some snow off the railing and threw it over his shoulder, but did not intend to hit Miss Lowry.

"Well, you should learn how to treat a woman right, and not submit a lady to any indignity or disrespect," was His Worship's remark as he placed a fine of $5 and costs upon Spencely, which amounted to $9.55. The defendant handed the money over and left the court.

PLENTY OF WORK

Many Requests From Peterboro' Before The Ontario Legislature

THE VARIOUS ITEMS

Work for the Ontario Legislature is piling up, says the Toronto Globe, and among the list of questions to be considered gives the following from Peterborough:—

It is desired by the city of Peterborough, that its Aldermen shall in future be elected for a term of two years, half the members of the board to retire each year. The city has given notice of its intention to promote a bill granting power for it to adopt this system, to issue debentures for the amount of the Waterworks consingent fund, to amend the method of appointing commissioners of the Peterborough City Trust and their tenure of office, and to authorize the purchase of land for a public park. The bill also asks for powers to aid the Colonial Weaving Company, Limited, the Auburn Woollen Company and the Peter Hamilton Company, Limited, to provide for the borrowing of $25,000 to build an addition to the Queen Alexandra Public School, and the borrowing of sufficient sums to pay the cost of sewers and granolithic sidewalks constructed in 1905, 1906 and 1907.

For truthful advertising, and that which shows big bargains in dry goods, a perusal of the advertisement of Richard Hall and Son in to-day's issue is of an unique character. It is al arge advertisement, taking up al iberal amount of space, in order to show what this firm has on hand to give to the public. It is one that brings results because it is backed up by the goods and the right values. Those contemplating purchases should read it carefully.

BAND AT THE RINK TO-NIGHT

Ice in Splendid Shape at Brock Street Rink

The 57th Band will be present to-night at the Brock street rink, and will render a choice programme of popular music. The ice is now in better condition than it has been this season and no doubt a very large crowd will be on hand to-night to enjoy the healthful winter pastime. Since Wednesday there has been an unusual amount of fun at the rink, owing to the fact that the girls are taking advantage of their leap year privileges and are asking the boys to skate with them, a practice that is causing much amusement. The combination of band and splendid ice should result in a record crowd to-night.

LIBEL SUIT ARISES

Transcontinental Railway Commissioner Against The London Free Press For $20,000

TROUBLE OVER AN ORDER

Examiner Special.

Ottawa, Jan. 3.—Mr. Robert Reid, of this city, commissioner of the Transcontinental Railway, has entered an action against the London Free Press, claiming $20,000 damages for alleged libel. The case arises out of an inquiry made by the public accounts committee on the purchase of a large quantity of envelopes by the Transcontinental Railway Commission from the Munro Commission of Toronto, of which Mr. John O'Gorman was a part and which turned the order over to the Barber Ellis Company, of Toronto with, it was claimed, a considerable profit. The London Free Press commented on buying through the commission instead of direct from the Barber Ellis Company, and pointed out that Mr. O'Gorman and a brother of Commissioner Reid were joint defendants in the London Election conspiracy case.

WHO AUTHORIZED THE HIGH ASSESSMENT IN WARDS ONE AND TWO AND WHO IS TO BLAME?

RETURNING FROM THE MUNICIPAL FIELD FOR THE YEAR OF 1908

MR. THOS J. WILSON

One of Last Year's Council Who Does Not Seek Re-election

A Citizen Asserts That The Assessor Says He Had Instructions To Raise Assessment

THE CITIZEN INTERVIEWED

There is considerable controversy as to whom is responsible for the high assessment of Number One and Two Wards of the city. It is stated that instructions were given to Mr. McKee to raise the assessment all the property would stand, in order that the Mayor and Council, or the authorities, would get the empty glory of imposing a low rate of taxation.

Mr. McWilliams' address to the electors says: "I find that some of my opponent's supporters blame me for the high assessment in Wards One and Two. I entirely agree with the opinion that the assessment is extravagant. But neither directly nor indirectly, did I have anything to do with that extravagance. Neither I nor the council ever made the slightest suggestion to Mr. McKee as to what course he should pursue."

Contrast this statement with one made to the Examiner this morning by a well known local gentleman, whose name is withheld at his request, but who is prepared to prove his statements if necessary. This citizen stated that when Mr. McKee was assessing his property he (Mr. McKee) had said that he had been authorized by the "authorities" to raise the property up every cent it was worth, at the same time explaining that the citizens would not have to pay any more next year, as the rate would not be more than 15 mills. When asked as to where he had got his instructions in this respect, Mr. McKee had answered "From the authorities," and further stated that if the rate were more than 15 mills next year he would never assess again.

The Examiner's informant is prepared to substantiate his statements, if it is found necessary to do so.

CANADIAN CLUBS WANTED IN A BIG UNION MEETING

Ottawa, Jan. 3.—(Special.)—An endeavour to gather representatives of all Canadian Clubs at a meeting in Ottawa on January 17 is being made by the local Canadian Club. The object is the consideration of Earl Grey's proposition to convert the Plains of Abraham at Quebec into a national park in which a monument or monuments could be erected to commemorate the history of French and English disputes and reconciliations in Canada.

The general meeting of the clubs has been called with the idea that ways and means of raising funds to supplement expected grants from the Dominion and Provincial Governments to carry out the project may be devised.

Rt. Hon. Sir John Broderick, Viscount Midleton, at present the guest of His Excellency Earl Grey, has chosen as the subject for his address to the Canadian Club on Saturday, "British Rule in India." Viscount Midleton, after acting as Secretary of State for War in the Imperial Cabinet from 1900 to 1903 served as Secretary of State for India until 1905.

FORTY MEN START TO WORK AT BREAKING STONE FOR THE CITY

Forty of Peterborough's unemployed were given work this afternoon at breaking stones, according to the arrangements made by the Council to meet the labour situation. They gathered on Water street after the noon hour until there were about forty men, when Mr. F. Miller, Relief Officer, and Mr. H. Evans, Street Commissioner, took them over to the little yard, which was made by tearing down the old firehall. There they were given stone hammers, and when all were fitted out they started across the market square, followed by the civic officers. The stone is in a vacant lot on Charlotte street west, where 33 cords of stone have been piled. They cost $3 per cord, in all $100.

The procession was one that is not seen in Peterborough every day, as it is very unusual to see a squad of stone breakers marching off to work. The success of the scheme will be watched with interest, and the citizens will follow the work of the men and the length of time they stay at it. The majority were noticed to be Englishmen, with a few locals thrown in.

ASHES SET FIRE TO A FENCE

Discovered Early This Morning by Young Man—Barn Saved

The fence at the back of Mr. N. Routley's store, on Park street, took fire early this morning. The fire was gradually creeping towards the barn, when Gerald McFadden, came along and aroused Mr. Routley. Both of these men set to work to throw snow against the blaze, which was soon extinguished.

Mr. Routley had thrown some hot ashes against the fence yesterday, and this is given as the cause for the blaze.

For the Council there are six aspirants, viz.—T Elliott, Jno McKenty, P Graham, Herbert Cuthduff, Hugh Allan and Wm Spafford. The first four mentioned were members of last year's council.

A CANADIAN MINT IS OPENED

Ottawa, Jan. 3.—The first Canadian coins ever turned out will be made at the Royal Mint this afternoon. The special invitations being mailed to-day include Sir Wilfrid Laurier, members of the Cabinet and other prominent parliamentarians. The metal to be used in the first coinage was mined from Canadian ores. The copper will probably be from British Columbia smelters and the silver likely from Cobalt.

The following valuable letter was received by Mr. H. P. Kennedy, president and managing director of the Diamond Calk Horseshoe Company, on New Year's Day. Such an endorsement, coming from such a source as the T. Eaton Company, Limited, of Toronto, must be both encouraging and flattering to Mr. Kennedy and his company:

MENTION MADE OF LOCAL MEN

Appeared in a Concert in The Town of Newcastle

This week's edition of the Newcastle Independent gives an account of a concert held there last week at which Mr. Wm. McLaren and Mr. W. J. Bennett, of Peterborough appeared. Rev. Father O'Leary was chairman. The two local artists receive warm praise for their work as the heaviest part of the programme fell to their lot.

Character in Medicine

In medicine, as in every sphere of human action, it is character that tells. Every prescription that Dr. A. W. Chase gave to his fellow men is full of character, full of the honest sterling character which made the grand old doctor respected, admired and loved by all who knew him. The integrity of Dr. Chase is shown in every one of his famous family medicines.

Local Option Ruins Young Men

Mr. J. R. Brown, a leading Owen Sound grocer, says: "Local Option has created more drinking among young men than there ever was under a good license system." Mr. Samuel Lloyd, a large wholesaler of farm produce, says: "Local Option has been detrimental to the interests of Owen Sound, commercially and morally." Mayor Keanedy says: "Property in Owen Sound has been lessened in value because of Local Option." Mark your ballot against the by-law and do your town more justice.

THE MAYORALTY OF PETERBOROUGH.

Do the electors take municipal matters seriously enough?

Do the electors take the matter of the Mayoralty seriously enough?

The filling of the mayor's chair, for a city of the importance of Peterborough, is a matter of the utmost moment.

Every other consideration, personal or otherwise, should give way to the object of getting the best available man for the place.

The mayoralty involves dealing with substantial interests, and demands the best administrative and executive ability we can get. Our mayor should be a man of substance, with a substantial stake in the city, who will be benefited by good government and injured by a bad and reckless administration.

The mayoralty should not be used as a stalking horse for personal ambition.

No candidate has a ghost of a right to occupy the mayor's chair on any other ground than his ability to give the best of service.

He may speak with the tongue of men and angels, if he has not good business abilities, it profiteth nothing.

The electors should think of things soberly, and seriously.

They should ask themselves if the finances of the city, the assessment of the city, and all the other interests of the city, have been managed the past year in the best interests of the ratepayers.

They should seriously ask themselves, if, in the interests of property owners, in the interests of wage-earners; in the interests of all, we should not have done with financial kite-flying, and all-round inefficiency of administration.

They should seriously ask themselves, if in the interests of their pockets, a sane, thoughtful, and capable administration of our finances, do not demand a capable, experienced and business-like head of the corporation?

They should seriously ask themselves, if Mr. Rush has not this capacity, experience and business ability.

In voting for Mr. Rush they are not voting against anybody, they are voting for good city government, they are voting for themselves, voting in the interests of their pockets in the light of the tax collector's demands.

Electors should think of the mayoralty matter as a simple business proposition. They should select a mayor on the same principle, and for the same reasons, that they would select a man to manage their own business.

CANADA TO SUPPLY TIMBER TO THE WORLD

The general increase in the price of wood for the past few years has had the effect of turning public attention to the timber supply in general. To many, the increase in prices is sufficiently explained by saying that there is a combine among lumber producers and manufacturers. But independently of the possible existence of any combine, a deeper cause underlies the increase in prices, and the cause lies in this, that timber is becoming harder and harder for the manufacturer to get. Greater and greater economy and use of materials formerly considered as waste is being introduced into the manufacture of wood, but in spite of it all the price of logs is going up, owing to higher wages that have to be paid, greater distances the logs have to be brought, and many other reasons.

Not in America alone is the scarcity of timber being felt; it has become a world-wide question. Only seven countries in the world are now in a position to export timber. In Europe there are five, namely, Austro-Hungary, Norway, Sweden, Finland and Russia; in America there are two, namely, Canada and the United States. But Russia, Austro-Hungary and the United States are increasing their population and developing their industries so fast that they cannot long continue to be exporting countries. The timber of Norway is threatened with excessive cutting. Germany, where the practice of forestry has been brought to the greatest perfection, has never been able to supply home demands, and is a heavy importer.

Canada, Sweden and Finland are left, and their supply is hopelessly deficient for the world. If Canada were to attempt to supply the United States alone, its entire timber area would be cut off and denuded in the course of a very few years—probably less than a decade.

Various estimates of Canada's forest land have been given. Eight hundred million acres was a few years ago accepted as pretty near the truth; but, considering the damage caused by fire and other destructive agencies, it is doubtful if the existing forests cover half that area. To keep this area in its most productive state, thus enabling it to meet the demand as far as possible and to produce the largest revenue, is the problem set those in control of these areas, and the protection of the forests against fire and other dangers, and their proper management under forestry methods, is the only way in which this can be effected.

FINANCIAL SERMON OF INTEREST

Canadian Banks The Back Bone of Business Prosperity—Should Be Appreciated

FRIENDS IN TIME OF NEED

The following contribution appears in a recent number of the Journal of the Canadian Banking Association, on the question of "The Cultivation of One's Banker," "Make unto yourselves friends of the mammon of unrighteousness."

This is what Fra Elbertus, the sage of East Aurora, would call "preachment." And as every sermon requires a text I have chosen the above. It is one which neither bishop or curate has ever explained to my satisfaction, although many times I have heard them struggle with it. How admirably it is adapted to my purpose, and how easy of comprehension it is to the most ordinary intellect is demonstratable in few words. The Mammon of Unrighteousness, and any western man, typifies the banks. That they represent mammon, in their lust for gold to glut their vaults and swell their reserves, is plain, and the unrighteousness of it, when the coin is so urgently required for land speculation, the carrying of stocks and grain, the accumulation of goods and the warehousing thereof, for promotion, exploitation and expansion, is plainer still. How do the boomster view with wrath the passing of the days, when the obsequious manager strove to be first amongst his fellows to offer the resources and facilities of the institution to further his customers' plans and projects, when credit was offered unsought, when an account was gobbled up if it had a few stale crums of profit sticking to it. Now, alas, a larded fillet attracts scarcely a sniff, and the knees of the pilgrims are wearing the threshold of the banker's office, who lately could scarcely keep solet on his business-hunting boots.

We have in this country been heading for a condition of things which, periodically, begets trouble and confusion. In the land to the south of us. The lesson there is never learned, for when ease once more succeeds stringency, the old abominations are resorted to, and men forget the preacher who hath a hearing only in the day of adversity. But the duty of the preacher is to preach though his preaching be vain.

First let me point out the error. It lies in the growing tendency to regard one's banker as an enemy rather than a friend. He is rapacious, inquisitorial, unreasonable. Rapacious in his greed for inordinate (?) profit, inquisitorial in his desire to probe his client's business secrets, unreasonable in his idea of adequate facilities and credit. Therefore he is offered an account squeezed dry of all but the last drop of profit, stripped of all collateral advantages and divested of the last vintage of desirability, acceptable only because the other fellow might take it. Even the bank which has for years nourished a customer, fertilized his bare plot of earth with gold and watered his seedlings with advice, taketh not of the increase thereof, for the late stranger who has borne neither the burden nor heat of the day is eager to tend the garden for the husks that are cast therefrom.

And thus it has come to pass that of all expert services rendered to business man, those of the banker, while the most important, are the least adequately remunerated. An architect employed to design a house receives his fair commission, a lawyer exacts his fees, the doctor estimates his patient's means and charges accordingly. But the banker builds the fabric of his client's credit and looks after his financial health, discounts for him at the lowest rates, gives him interest on his daily balances, cashes his cheques at par at all his branches, collects for him free where he has branches and at cost where he hasn't, and loses his foreign exchange business because any competitor will take it at a loss in the hope of attracting the rest of the account his way. Then, when the independent merchant has succeeded in throttling his banker to the above extent, he becomes seized with the idea that his paper is practically a circulating medium, and breaks the most important tie by offering it all over country, and the next, through brokers. Is it any wonder that by this procedure he unwittingly makes himself a commercial tramp, an outcast, without a reasonable claim to assistance in times of need, and has he no one but himself to blame, if, when days of stress come, as come they will, and come they have, his "Lord, Lord," is answered by "I know you not."

Several of the large manufacturing concerns in the United States have, in the last few weeks, failed for the reason just stated. I quote an American friend who has thus expounded the economic gospel:

"The strained situation in commercial circles is due to the fact that in years past a number of the strong houses here have done their financing through note brokers, who spread their paper all over the country. It being so easy to get money this way, they have, in many cases, neglected cultivating or arranging for banking facilities adequate to their needs in times of stress as we are in now. These houses now find themselves with their paper maturing, the present holders unwilling to renew and no bankking facilities at home to which to turn. To my certain knowledge two large houses have come down just this cause; both of them are apparently perfectly solvent and will pay their creditors one hundred cents on the dollar."

The tendency, now so manifest in the neighbouring republic, to regard all concentration and combination of capital as inimical to the public welfare, has lately been growing in Canada, and has shown itself in hostility to what is termed banking monopoly. No uncentralized, non-monopolistic banking system could ever meet the needs of a country such as ours. The possibilities of disaster contained in a disjointed, localized, an elastic system, current events in the United States fully illustrates. Elaborate legislative restrictions and perfunctory government examination, the outward show of solidarity in great Clearing House Associations and spectacular junketing conventions, fail to keep together public confidence in days of crisis. In view of what has happened south of us, are all amateur financiers, professional politicians and penny-a-liners to be let loose at our admirable system, which is the foundation, the safeguard and the pride of commercial Canada to-day? In times of financial unrest a strong banking situation is the breakwater which keeps the waves of panic from buffeting the rich and overwhelming the poor. Every dollar of added prosperity means one hundred cents in additional safety. It is not good policy to grind your banker down to the last living profit now to direct towards him the attack of every howling demagogue in the land. He may be to you the mammon of unrighteousness, but try him as a friend.

ANNUAL CONCERT AT ST. ANDREW'S

Several Presentations During The Evening—Enjoyable Time Was Spent—Refreshments Served

A most enjoyable time was spent in St. Andrew's Sunday School Hall night when the parents and children of the school met together for their annual New Years festivities. This year all the departments of the school combined making it an exceedingly brilliant affair. The hall was prettily decorated and the hundreds of happy children shed joy in every heart. Tea was served by the teachers from 6 till 7.30 and the programme was commenced at 8. The pastor occupied the chair and after a brief address the large children's choir sang very lustily "O Come All Ye Faithful." During the evening they sang two other choruses. A very pretty number was the instrumental duet by Edith Kerr and Lilian Hill. These two little ladies, who are the pupils of Miss Ethel Tully made their appearance on the platform, making a graceful bow, and proceeded to the piano. Their work was of a very high order and reflected credit on their teacher as well as themselves. The chorus "Beautiful Snow" sung by the girls of Miss Langford's class was splendid, as was also the musical dialogue by the girls of Miss Allan's class. A recitation by Nelson Conover was well received. The Gipsy Chorus was very realistic. All the girls under the leadership of Miss Bella King were attired as Gypsies and presented a most interesting sight. The vocal solo of Miss Rosalie Read was much appreciated and the piano work of Miss Lila Tully was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

Miss Maude Titterson, whose work is always well received in St. Andrew's, rendered most effectively "Willie and Annie's Prayer," and being urged to respond to an encore rendered "Christmas Gifts." Both pieces were appropriate and were much admired. "Courtship under Difficulties" was the fascinating title of a dialogue in which Messrs. H McCullough and T. Donaldson exhibited much experienced ability. Misses A Thornton and G Mowat assisted the young men through their trials. The dialogue was the cause of a good deal of merriment. "Uncle Nathan's Indian" proved a catch to the boys and girls who are always eager to see the "show." Robbie Langford took the part of Uncle Nathan in excellent fashion, while Norman Brand was Indian, and Elmo Langford and Vernon Henry visitors to the camp.

The prettiest thing of the evening's entertainment was the hoop drill. Ten girls daintily dressed and with hoops decorated went through various exercises with piano accompaniment. Miss Bella King who has had the training of these young ladies had every reason to feel proud of their excellent work which was justly encored.

Before the singing of the Chant National by the children's choir, presentations were made to Mr. Wm. Stevens, superintendent of the Sunday School, Mr. F C Freeland, and Mrs. Chas. S. McClelland.

Mr. F E Kerr, secretary of the Sunday school, read the address on behalf of the teachers and officers, complimenting Mr. Stevens on his energy and fidelity, and Miss Jessie Richardson presented a pair of gauntlets. Mr. Stevens replied in very appropriate terms.

Master R. Langford read the address to Mr. Freeland on behalf of the children's choir, acknowledging his kindness and help to them, and Master Willie Common presented a beautiful baton to their leader. Mr. Freeland acknowledged his appreciation and thanked the children.

Master Alex Forsyth on behalf of the children's choir read a complimentary address to Mrs. C. McClelland, thanking her for her sympathies and kindly help in the practices, and Miss May Henry presented a handsome jardinier. Mrs. McClelland expressed her appreciation.

The interesting event was brought to a close by singing the Doxology and the Benediction.

ONE OF GREATEST COLD WAVES OF WINTER COMING, SAYS HICKS

Some Milder Weather in Store About The Middle of The Month —More Cold Weather And Rain Later

PROSPECTS FOR A MONTH

Rev. Irl Hicks, in the January number of his official organ, "Word and Works," has the following to say about the weather for the first month of 1908:—

A reactionary storm period is central on the 1st, 2nd and 3rd. There are several reasons for apprehending general and severe terrestial and atmospheric perturbations, at and about this first storm period in 1908. On the 3rd the moon is new, or in conjunction with earth and sun, at a total solar eclipse node, at extreme south declination and in perigee. The earth itself is in perihelion or nearest the sun, on the 3rd, and Uranus is in conjunction and Neptune in opposition with earth and sun on the 4th. Added to all these, the centre of the Venus equinox is central on the 8th, having been in active force since the middle of December, 1907. In all reason there will be phenomena in earth and atmosphere answering to this unusual combination of astronomic causes. Within seventy hours of sunset on the 3rd, general and heavy winter storms, amounting to blizzards and blockades in many sections, with severe seismic disturbances in many parts of the earth may reasonably be counted on. Parts of the earth on and south of the equator subject to earthquake disturbances, will be especially exposed to seismic lines of force at this time. Heavy boreal storms and gales will prevail over both the Pacific and Atlantic Oceans during this and following January periods. No reader of these forecasts should be surprised if one of the greatest cold waves of the winter appears from about the 3rd to the 7th, progressively out of the Northwest. Watch indications and reports.

A regular storm period is central on the 8th which date is also the centre of the Venus period. The moon is on the celestial equator on the 9th and at first quarter on the 10th. By the 7th rising temperature, falling barometer and renewed storms of rain, sleet and snow, will appear in western sections. By the 9th the front of these storm areas will reach central parts of the Mississippi Valley with possible winter lightning and thunder southward on and touching that day. Meanwhile a phenomenally high barometer and a rushing cold wave will be advancing from the Northwest. By the 11th, the storms, amounting to blizzards in some places, will have passed over to the Atlantic seaboard, leaving the high barometer and severe cold to dominate the country generally, progressively, from about the 10th to the 13th.

A reactionary storm period will make itself felt on the 13th, 14th and 15th. The results, in a progressive way from west to east, will be a change to warmer, falling barometer, growing cloudiness, and rain turning into snow. Tendency to stormy, threatening weather will prevail continuously through more than half of January, but the decided, emphatic, storm areas will all appear periodically, as outlined in the storm diagram for the month. Behind the storms central on and touching the 13th to the 15th, naturally we are to expect a wave of high barometric pressure, westerly gales and much colder. This condition will pass eastward and touch most parts of the country in progressive order before the next storm period.

A regular storm period falls from the 18th to the 22nd, having its centre on the 20th. This period will feel the partial effect of both the Venus and the Mercury periods. The full moon in apogee, falls on the 18th, indicating that general storm conditions will begin to organize promptly at the beginning of this period. Change to warmer with falling barometer and rapidly forming storm areas will appear in western parts on and touching the 18th, thus giving from about the 19th to 22nd for these storm areas to pass eastward to the Atlantic seaboard. But while the first stage of the period, that is, low, barometer, warmer weather and rain and snow, is pushing from central to eastern extremes, blizzardous high barometer and cold wave will have appeared rushing down from northwest; and before the modifying influence of the next storm period sets in, this cold wave will sweep southward and eastward until almost the entire country will feel the icy breath of the north blast. If barometers in the gulf states are at low readings at the culmination of this period, there will be danger of destructive cold and frosts when the high barometer from the northwest reaches that region. At a sensational crisis like this, a low barometer in the south should always excite apprehensions of coming change to colder—the cold to be in proportion to the low barometer in the south, and the advancing high barometer from north. Seismic shakes will be reported within sixty hours of noon on the 18th.

A reactionary storm period falls on the 24th to 27th, with the Mercury period central on the 27th. Rain and snow and sleet followed by colder may be expected. The month ends in a regular storm period.

Property Holder Vigorously Criticises The Assessment

Holds The Mayor Responsible For Neglect of Duty—Wants a Property-Holding Mayor

AND CALLS FOR RUSH

To the Editor of the Examiner,—

Dear Sir, — In a circular issued to the electors, Mr. R. F. McWilliams says, "I find that some of my opponent's supporters blame me for the high assessment in Wards One and Two." That is quite right. I and hundreds of others, blame Mr. McWilliams for the high assessment in Wards One and Two, as he is the head of the council, and should guide, and direct, and see that the rolls are equitable and correct before they are accepted by the city. It is the inequality and unfairness of the assessment that we are complaining about and who should be held accountable for the blame, if not the mayor, especially, as he is said to have given instructions to an assessor to "boost up" the assessment.

The Romaine Street Sewer

Regarding the Romaine street sewer, Mr. McWilliams tries to place the responsibility of this upon the council of 1906. Mr. McWilliams was one of the council of that year, and cannot shirk the responsibility of his share of the blame. What the people complain of is that, when the second sewer was being built that it was not properly attended to, and that the mayor, being the chief magistrate of the city, should have seen that not the innocent men were discharged, but that the chief officers in charge of the work, were removed for inefficiency.

Extravagance

Mr. McWilliams does not think that the council for 1907 was extravagant. That depends. He himself owns no real estate in the city. His taxes were nominal, consequently he does not feel an increased assessment. One thing we do know is that there is about two million dollars of increased assessment, and we should place the receipts from this in the hands of a competent mayor, to see that value is obtained for the money expended. Mr. Rush is not a trimmer. Mr. Rush is a plain, honest citizen, who desires the welfare of the city, and he is not offering any policy, except the policy of thrift and economy, and will do what is right and proper. He is not looking for sympathy, and is not going to "kill" anybody. There are some people who will "kill" themselves, without any effort on the part of others. The ratepayers are becoming alarmed as to where the city is drifting and they want a mayor who will give his time and ability to the work of the position.

Mr. McWilliams sneers at the citizens who brought out Mr. Rush. They were driven to it by incompetence and extravagance. It is the business of citizens to show their earnestness and sincerity for the welfare of the city. I can tell Mr. McWilliams that the men behind Mr. Rush are the workingmen the business men and the manufacturers, and they quite appreciate what it would be to the city to have a responsible man at its head, not an irresponsible person, seeking his own personal advancement, who can pack his grip and sever his own interests in the city between trains. By the way, who brought Mr. McWilliams out?

Yours very truly,

Leaders of Mock Parliament Address The Electors

Preparations Being Made For The Big Fight Beginning on Jan. 2nd at Y.M.C.A.

RESPECTIVE PLATFORMS

The Mock Parliament to be presented by the Y. M. C. A. Debating Club in the near future is creating a great deal of interest in the "Y." circles. The leaders of both the government and opposition are out with their addresses to the electors and the contest has begun in earnest.

The addresses are as follows:

To the Electors of the Y. M. C. A.

Gentlemen,—On behalf of myself and my colleagues, who are seeking your support at the approaching election, I beg to submit the following policy for your very serious consideration.

The first great question that calls for the consideration of every intelligent elector is that of transportation.

This great country of ours can never realize the great industrial possibilities that await her, unless she has an adequate system of transportation. It will be the policy of myself and colleagues, if elected, to introduce as soon as possible a bill providing for the nationalizing of all railways and canals, thus eliminating distrustful and wasteful competition, and making possible many improvements, which, under the present system, are practically impossible.

We are glad to note during recent years many large industrial works have established themselves in our country. They employ thousands of men who often find themselves at a disadvantage in their endeavour to secure a fair return in wages for their labour.

This causes unrest and dissatisfaction, often resulting in strikes with disastrous results, both for capital and labour. I can assure the electors that if returned to power our utmost efforts will be used to prevent these disputes. A bill will be introduced providing for compulsory arbitration.

In conclusion, while we are in sympathy with all that tends to strengthen and build up our industries, yet we feel that the interests of the country will be best served by a gradual removal of the present protective tariff in favour of a Revenue Tariff.

I am,
Your obedient servant,
Wilfrid G. Shiner, Leader.

Wm. McLaren, Supporter.

To the Electors of the Constituency of the Y. M. C. A.

Gentlemen,—As it is an impossibility for us to interview you personally and solicit your vote and patronage, we take this opportunity of explaining to you the platform that we appeal to your suffrages on.

1st.—We feel that the future of our great country depends largely upon our facilities for transporting to the sea board, in the shortest possible time after harvesting the enormous crops of the Northwest Territories, and, in fact, the crops of the North West of the United States would be shipped through Canadian channels, if our railways and canals were adequate enough for the traffic. Therefore it will be our policy to assist financially the railways of Canada, and build a ship canal of 25-foot draught from Georgian Bay to the commencement of navigation at Montreal, for which we will appropriate the sum of $100,000,000.

2nd.—In the matter of immigration we propose to further restrict the incoming tide of undesirable immigrants from all parts of the world by placing a higher head tax upon Orientals and by raising the necessary qualifications to enter Canada.

3rd.—By placing a protective tariff upon all manufactured goods and by admitting free all raw materials not obtainable in Canada, we propose to protect the interests of all classes, especially the labouring.

4th.—We propose to introduce a scheme of conscription, whereby all young men, when they come to the age of 18 years, shall take up three years of military training of twelve days each year, and also to provide protection for our seaboard and for our southern boundary.

5th.—We also intend to oppose the nationalization of all public utilities, which, we believe, our opponents intend to press upon your attention, as we do not believe it to be for the best interests of this great country.

On this platform, gentlemen, we appeal to you and hope that you will give us your vote and influence.

Wishing you all a Happy New Year,
N. A. Howard Moore, Leader.
G. A. Hamon,
W. Geo. Armstrong, Supporters.

Stops Itching, Heals the Skin

AND FOR THIS REASON THERE IS NO CURE FOR ECZEMA SO SATISFACTORY AS

There is always a certain amount of mystery about all medicines that are taken internally, but not so when Dr. Chase's Ointment is applied to raw or inflamed skin, for the benefits are self-evident.

It is because Dr. Chase's Ointment possesses in a remarkable degree the ability to stop itching and heal raw skin that it has become known the world over as the most successful treatment for such diseases of the skin as eczema, salt rheum and psoriasis.

By all means tone up the system by the use of such treatment as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, but bear in mind that eczema by the local application of Dr. Chase's Ointment.

The wretched stinging, itching sensations will soon disappear under this treatment and gradually and naturally the raw sores will become smaller and smaller until they entirely disappear.

But these are means of ways in which Dr. Chase's Ointment is useful in every home, and especially so where there are children who suffer from teething eczema, chafing, insect bites, ivy poisoned skin or any form of skin irritation or eruption.

Mr. O Wiley, who is employed as sawyer by the Kennedy & Davis Milling Company, Lansdowne, Ont., states: "I used Dr. Chase's Ointment for eczema on my little girl some few years ago, and soon brought about a thorough and permanent cure. She has had no return of the trouble since for considerable time, and though we trust a return may not come, Dr. Chase's Ointment, as a prompt and

OFFICERS INSTALLED IN LAKEFIELD

Committee From Peterboro' Officiated In The Ceremony

The new officers of Lakefield Lodge No. 357, I. O. O. F., were installed last night by a committee from Peterborough Lodge. Bro. R J Mathcett, D.D.G.M., was the installing officer, and was assisted by Bros. W Hill, W S Robinson, W Freeburn, E G Poole and Jas. T C Lang.

The Lakefield lodge is in a flourishing condition in every respect, and the members are taking a deep interest in its affairs.

After the officers had been installed supper was provided and a pleasant time was spent. Short speeches were made by the local and visiting brethren, and the informal nature of the affair made it the more enjoyable.

SIXTH ANNIVERSARY OF WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Fowler at Home To Their Friends New Year's Night

A very enjoyable social event that was held on New Year's night was the celebration of the sixth anniversary of their wedding by Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Fowler of East City. About forty guests drove in 'buses to their home, 686 Concession street, after having supper at Long's palm parlours. The evening was spent in the usual social manner. Instrumental music and songs, besides games, helped to make the evening a very pleasant one. Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Cunningham of Orillia were among those present.

Mr. and Mrs. Fowler received the best wishes of the occasion from their friends, and the hope was expressed that they would be spared for many anniversaries of their wedding.

KIND WORDS FOR MR. ANDERSON

To the Editor of the Examiner,—

Sir, — As a ratepayer interested in the election of good practical men as aldermen for 1908, allow me to offer a few words of endorsation in favour of Mr. J. C. Anderson's candidature.

I have had an opportunity of knowing Mr. Anderson intimately during the past ten years, and have been impressed with the sound judgment he has used in municipal matters, whenever he has taken a special interest in them. His knowledge of business matters would also be of value in the consideration of public finance, and I know that nothing would tempt him to swerve from taking a straightforward, honest course in all matters. Mr. Anderson has been a property holder of East City for years, and was born in this ward. He has held the responsible position of head accountant in the Peter Hamilton Company's office for a considerable number of years, and I am satisfied that the city would possess an intelligent, faithful, youth and energetic representative, if he is elected to sit among the Board of Aldermen for 1908.

Yours, faithfully,
BUSINESS MAN.

PILES CURED IN 6 TO 14 DAYS

"SOUTH WARD" ON HIGH ASSESSMENT

Had a Just Cause For Grievance, He Says Against Council

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Sir,—I own considerable property in the south ward — on Romaine street, to be exact—on which the assessment was raised sixty per cent.

Now, I am not alone in this respect. Others also had valuations raised without rhyme or reason. I do not blame Mayor McWilliams for this altogether, but I think in some manner he was in sympathy with the uncalled for elevation of values—at any rate, he did not discountenance them. But he is responsible. If he did not know what was going on, but let the assessor go his own way and make the most iniquitous assessment ever made, he showed a neglect of duty, which disqualifies him for looking after the city's interests. I do not object to a fair increase, but the amounts put on were beyond all reason, as the overhauling given them by the Court of Revision shows. I think, sir, that we have just cause for grievance, and that the affairs of the Council have not been looked after in a business manner. We need a mayor who is a property holder himself, one like Mr. Rush, who can sympathize and work for us; one who understands our needs. Mr. Rush not only owns real estate, but he has bought and sold a great deal of it. I am strongly in favour of his candidature and intend to support him, and I am greatly mistaken if many others do not do the same.

Sincerely yours,
SOUTH WARD.

ENGINEER WAS KILLED.

Grand Trunk Freight Runs Into Two Wabash Engines.

St. Thomas, Jan. 3.—A wreck which resulted in the instant death of G.T.R. Engineer John A. Walker of St. Thomas and probably fatal injury to Brakeman J. McCray of Windsor occurred at Tillsonburg at 3.30 yesterday morning.

Wabash Engines No. 1125 and 1392 were forced to abandon the half of Conductor Lawton's westbound freight train on the siding at Tillsonburg. They proceeded to Corinth with the first half of the train and were on their way back to Tillsonburg for the remainder.

Just west of Tillsonburg the Wabash engines collided with Grand Trunk train No. 93, drawn by engine 355, in charge of Engineer J. J. Walker of St. Thomas.

The fact that the engines were running backwards prevented Engineer Walker from seeing their approach. When the crash came and his engine was thrown from the rail and overturned he was pinned down between the cab and the tender.

Brakeman McCray had his left leg amputated and right leg fractured. He had been on the line only a short time.

JOHN REDMOND EXPLAINS.

Reconciliations In Irish Party Have Not Yet Been Effected.

Dublin, Jan. 3.—John E. Redmond, chairman of the Irish Parliamentary party, yesterday issued a statement in explanation of the proceedings at the conference recently held for the purpose of bringing about the reconciliation of William O'Brien, Nationalist member of Parliament for Cork, and the Irish party.

A reconciliation has not yet been effected, as Mr. O'Brien demanded the immediate summoning of a national convention on a new basis of representation, to which Mr. Redmond declined to accede, and in his present statement the Irish leader contends that the acceptance of Mr. O'Brien's demands by the directory would be tantamount to censuring their own chairman and abdicating their authority. He declares further that the campaign for an immediate convention is not one for unity but for strife.

Bridegroom Shot Dead.

Dillon, Mont., Jan. 3.—F. A. Lawrence of Butte, Mont., was to have married the 16-year-old daughter of Fred Baker. A few minutes before the hour for the wedding, Baker and Lawrence had some trivial difference whereupon Lawrence said the wedding would not take place at the home of the bride, but at the home of her cousin. Lawrence was instantly shot dead by Baker.

An Unknown Suicide.

Montreal, Jan. 3.—A suicide by shooting occurred early yesterday on Nazareth street, when an unknown man deliberately pulled a revolver from his hip pocket and blew his brains out on the sidewalk. The victims is about 30 years of age, five feet three inches in height and well built. He has dark hair and a small moustache, and the letters "Z.C." are tattooed on his right arm. He had on a grey tweed suit and a red and white sweater. There was no money found in his pockets, and there was nothing in his clothing by which he could be identified. The police have secured the neighborhood, but no person seems to know anything about the man. It is thought that he was a foreigner, who was probably despondent and out of work. An inquest will be opened this morning.

A Touching Reunion.

Boston, Jan. 3.—Michael Hurley of Ottawa was reunited with his sister, Mrs. Ellen Griffin of Boston yesterday, after 68 years of separation. Mrs. Griffin believed her brother drowned over sixty years ago when logging in Canada, and could not believe him alive when he presented his claims.

When investigation proved the truth she nearly fainted, and the scene was most affecting. Mr. Hurley has been searching for his sister for a long time. He was once a woodchopper, but now is a prosperous farmer near Ottawa, and his sister is also in good circumstances.

Scurvy and Famine.

Solitude Cures Crying.

"The best way to cure yourself of crying is to live alone," said the woman. "I used to cry an awful lot when I was married, but I hardly ever do now. It's the saddest thing in the world to hear yourself crying all alone in your flat, and what's the use anyway if there is nobody around to say 'There, there!'"

The Change.

"You don't love me as you used to," declared the termagant wife. "Before we were married you considered me absolutely perfect"—

"Yes," interrupted the downtrodden husband, "but now you're perfectly absolute."

Another Ex-Alderman Speaks Regarding Mayoralty Matters

Criticises Mayor McWilliams Double Circular to The Electors and Charges Cowardly Attacks

MAYOR NOT HEREDITARY

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Mr. R F McWilliams, as candidate for the mayoralty has distributed a double circular to the electors. In one he charges the 500 or 600 electors who signed a requisition for Mr. Rush with doing this to "Kill McWilliams," and he calls Mr. Rush's candidature a "vicious personal attack."

When did Mr. McWilliams get a mortgage on the Mayoralty? Why should a young man, good enough in his way, good enough in his place, thus declare that a citizen of 45 years standing has no right to become a candidate? I never saw such impudence in my life. Mr. McWilliams might have had a second term as mayor if in his first term, he had shown any ability beyond a masterly capacity for making a disastrous muddle of our finances, appointment and street work; if he had not shown such an arbitrary desire to run things single handed.

Mr. Rush was not brought out "to kill McWilliams," but to prevent McWilliams from killing Peterborough—to prevent Peterborough getting the name of a city of high taxes, to prevent public interests from being injured, to prevent reckless and incompetent financial management; to prevent a serious injury to all the material interests of the city.

Mr. Rush comes into the field openly. He shows a great deal of courage to have the impudence to oppose a young man, who considers that he has a title in fee to the mayor's chair. He opposes a man in the open, a man who has a chance to fight back.

He does not make an attack on a city official who can't fight back. Mr. McWilliams in his circular declares that the engineering department is "inefficient" which may not be aside from the truth.

In doing this he condemns himself. He was in the council the year before last, was mayor last year. The engineering department was no better then than it was last year. If it was defective why didn't he remedy it? If he saw things going wrong why did he not apply a remedy? If he didn't see that "inefficient" services were being given, he is not fit for a mayor, the man who should keep his eyes open to prevent leaks and "inefficient" public service.

I regard it as a most cowardly thing for Mr. McWilliams to attack a man with his hands tied for whose good or bad work he himself is responsible to the people. If the mayor thinks the engineering department is "inefficient" why didn't he improve it? He had courage enough to discharge a Romaine street pipe layer who was condemned without hearing, a man whom the mayor didn't know was "inefficient." Then why could he not deal with the head of the department whom he knew, according to his circular to the electors, was "inefficient." Mr. McWilliams cannot shirk responsibility laying blame on an official who is responsible to the council. He, himself, is responsible to the people and will have to give an account. The mayoralty is not hereditary.

Yours truly,
ANOTHER EX-ALDERMAN.

LIVELY HUNTER STREET RUNAWAY

Several Cutters Have Narrow Escapes as The Horse Passes

A serious runaway accident was narrowly averted on Hunter street yesterday afternoon when a horse owned by Mr. Geo. Spilsbury took fright, turning off from Water street on to Hunter street, going east. It struck up a lively clip across the bridge, and was driven by a boy who certainly did some wonderful driving. Several cutters on the bridge had narrow escapes. The animal's wild run was stopped going up the hill to St. Joseph's Hospital.

IS OVERHEAD SIGN BY-LAW KEPT?

Creator of Anything Always Greater Than Thing Created

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Dear Sir,—Is it not breakin the law, and particularly the "bylaw made and provided therefore," that no overhead sign shall be put up, extending over the sidewalk further than eighteen inches from the wall, etc. Now several of these "big, cheap signs" have been put up within the last day or two, and extending right across the sidewalk, and has not this bold cotton-breech of the law been done by some who are aspiring to occupy the chair of the city's chief magistrate? Another candidate for aldermanic honours is a member of a firm whose business it is to manufacture and erect such signs as the above good samples just fresh from their factory testify. Anyway, this bylaw is ready proof that the "creator of anything is always greater than the thing created."

Yours truly,
INQUIRER.

Music and Drama

THE PARTELLO STOCK COMPANY

The Partello Stock Company added to its laurels last night when it presented the stirring drama, "The Way of the West," to the entire satisfaction of a very large audience. The company continues to demonstrate that it is the best stock organization that has ever visited Peterborough, and crowded houses will no doubt greet it until the end of its stay at the Grand.

Last night the play was a breezy, full of action story of life in the West, with cowboys and ranchers as its leading characters. It is full of dramatic climaxes, varied with some clever comedy, and the result is a thoroughly pleasing production, in which the different members of the cast achieved a triumph. Miss Alice Kennedy, the dainty little star, was seen as Letitia Watson, a lively little western girl, which thoroughly suited her, her acting being deliciously clever. Jack Westerman had a part that fitted him like a glove, that of "Kid" Connors, a lightweight pugilist, with a great line of slang, but with a good heart. He is making a big hit with the audiences at every appearance. Ernest G. Kast as Ford Maxell, the "hero" of the drama, showed that the role was in capable hands.

The specialties were up to the high standard of the rest of the production, Jack Westerman's song numbers being especially well received.

To-night the company will present David Belasco's dramatization of Ouida's celebrated novel, "Under Two Flags," in which Blanche Hayes gained so much fame by creating the role of "Cigarette." The play is one of the best in the company's repertoire and another big house may be expected to-night.

Two Serious Charges Urged Against a Lakefield Man

Is Said to Have Committed Criminal Assault on a Married Woman Also to Have Sold Liquor On Christmas day Without License

LIQUOR CHARGE LAID OVER

In the County Court yesterday afternoon Fred Holland of Lakefield, who was remanded some time ago on two charges, one of criminal assault on a married woman in Lakefield, and the second for selling liquor without a license, was brought up for trial before Magistrate Edmison on the second charge. His Worship at the conclusion of the evidence laid the case over until Wednesday next for judgment, and Holland will stand trial for the first charge also on that day. Mr. G. Gordon of O'Connell and Gordon, appeared for Holland.

Mrs. Weston was in a very weak condition to-day, but she appeared with her young husband to give her evidence. After she had told her story, she fainted away, and also fainted twice during the proceedings. She went into the box and did not appear at all nervous, telling her story in a straightforward manner.

Bought Whisky

She went to Holland's house about 12.30 o'clock on Christmas Day to get some whisky for her husband. She asked the defendant for a flask, paying him a dollar for it. She remained some time and they had two glasses of lager. When she had finished the lager a sick spell came over her and she fainted away. She was carried upstairs, and after she came to, Holland made indecent proposals and offered her money. She refused and came down stairs. Shortly afterwards she said Mrs. Roger, Mrs. Holland's mother, set out for home, and at the postoffice Mrs. Roger gave her a bottle of whisky, which she had with her. She then went straight home, arriving there after dark.

Mr. Weston, her husband, said he gave his wife a dollar to go down to Holland's to buy whisky. She returned at dark with the bottle.

Bribe Offered

Mr. Simmons, the next witness, stated that he heard the defendant offer Weston five bottles of whisky or $25 if he would not take the case to court, for it it was taken up he would be fined $100.

The defendant, Fred Holland, then told his story. He said he did not sell liquor to Mrs. Weston Christmas Day. He was working at the cement works and came home shortly after 12 o'clock. He met Mrs. Weston out walking with his wife. They went back to the house and sat down in the kitchen. Mrs. Weston asked for the loan of $10, but he said he could not lend it to her. They all had a glass of lager and then Mrs. Weston asked to buy a bottle of whisky as her husband had a cold. He said he would not sell it to her, but if her husband was sick he would give it away. She took the flask and placed a dollar on his arm. He threw it down on the table, saying he would not take it.

Mrs. Holland, wife of the defendant, was next to take the stand, and her story corroborated that of the husband.

Some Untruths

Mrs. Roger, the aged mother of Mrs. Holland, was called upon to testify, and in the middle of her evidence she was interrupted by His Worship, who said he was under the impression that some one of the witnesses was committing perjury. He had received information that certain witnesses were going to swear point blank against Weston's charge. He warned them that if this was so he would have them up for perjury. Mrs. Roger broke down when told this, and secured the court that she was telling the truth. She said she entered the back door of her son-in-law's residence at the same time that Mrs. Weston entered the front door. She heard Mrs. Weston ask for the ten dollars, and also said they had a glass of lager each. Mr. Holland gave Mrs. Weston a bottle of whisky and the latter placed a one dollar bill on the table. She did not know who took the money up. She also told the court that she never carried or delivered any whisky to Mrs. Weston.

High County Constable Cochrane, who arrested Holland, told of his talk with the defendant's wife. She said her husband came in Christmas Day and went into the pantry. Mrs. Weston followed him in. Mrs. Holland followed her, and when she got near the pantry she heard Mrs. Weston ask her husband for whisky. She said the dollar laid on the table, but did not know who picked it up. "She did not say a word about the $10," concluded Mr. Cochrane.

His Worship decided to lay the case over until Wednesday next for judgment, and allowed Holland to go on his own cognisance upon the renewal of $400 bonds.

TWO INVITATIONS TO THE CURLERS

Keene and Lindsay Offer Their Ice For Games Or Practise

Mr. R. M. Waddell, secretary of the curling club, received the following letter from the secretary of the Keene club this morning:

It was with deep regret that we of the Keene curling club, learned today of the great misfortune that befell your club in losing your rink by fire this morning, but we trust that you may be able to get it fixed up before the winter is over so that you will not be deprived of your sport for the whole winter. We will be very glad to have a rink come down at any time for a game with some of us and any time you set, our ice will be at your disposal. Trusting that before the season is over we may be able to have a game with you on your own ice.

Mr. Waddell also received a letter from the president of the Lindsay club offering Lindsay ice for games in practices.

Superstitions on Skin Diseases

Of all superstitious, the most foolish is the idea that when a rash or sore is healed and cured by means of an external remedy, it will "strike in" and do further harm. No reputable physician will give any countenance to such a notion. Skin diseases of every form, and especially eczema, salt rheum, scald head, etc., are promptly relieved and certainly cured by Dr. Chase's Ointment.

VICTORY FOR TORONTO B. A. C.

Capt. Albert McKay Drafted From Locals And Won The Game

The B.C.A. annual hockey game is past and gone for another year with the Toronto aggregation the victors by the score of 7—1. There is a good reason for this. Melville Hutchinson the manager of the Toronto bunch selected some of the best men from the Queen City O.H.A. teams including McKay a 250 pound point man, who has played goal on several occasions for the Argos, and Jackson, of same other team that has passed into history. This trio augumented by the services of "Hutch" and Ross Dobbin and again assisted by Ray Best and Turner of Peterborough, who were bribed to play with Toronto, the result was a victory for the visitors.

The most beautiful and artistic plays, however, were attributed to D. U. B. Macrae whose graceful appearance as he shot up and down the aisles was most pleasing to behold—those who missed this will be given another opportunity in the great Review-Examiner contest. He was the only player too who emerged with a more handsome visage than when he entered the contest. James the opposing goal tender handed him a lemon in the form of an egg on his right cheek, preventing him from attending the opera in the afternoon.

Dobbin, James and Ray Best were the lucky shots for Toronto, getting 7, principally by flukes. Ernest M. Best tallied the only goal the local seven secured and he is shaking hands with himself ever since. "Bill" Metheral, better known as "Big Chief" in ancient history, handled the ball. He watched the players with keen interest from beginning to end and it is reported is negotiating for some of them for his O.H.A. bunch. He is a great referee and in him Chaucer Elliott has certainly a rival.

The teams lined up as follows:—

Toronto—James, McKay, Hutchinson, Dobbin, R. Best, Jackson, Turner.

Peterborough—Bruce, Harmer, E. Best, Robertson, Richardson, MacRae, Hylton.

THE UPPER SEVEN AGAIN WINNERS

The upstairs departments of the A. W. Cressman store again demonstrated their ability to trim the main floor counter-hoppers, when they defeated them last night between 6 and 7 o'clock at Brock street rink by the score of 8-3. After their defeat of last week the main floor seven have been constantly practising in the basement and backyard, and have improved so wonderfully that they were quite confident of turning the tables, but the carpet clerks had kept quiet the fact that they had been practising on the roof, and so sprung a surprise on them. Keen in goal for the losers made some pretty circus stunts in trying to stop the puck, which greatly pleased the lady clerks who were out to see him perform. Waring also showed great agility in trying to keep his feet, but owing to his pleasant experiences on New Year's was often seen sitting on the ice nursing his stick. For the winners, Darling played a great game, and to-day Norm. is being called a "darling" by all his lady supporters. Tisdall also caught thier eye with his fancy stick-handling, while Titterson in goal was the hero of the hour. Owing to several of the clerks being out of the city the game was played with six men a side and they lined up as follows:

Third Floor. Main Floor

NO QUORUM AT HOCKEY MEETING

Question at Stake To Be Decided on Saturday Evening

A meeting of the Peterborough City Hockey League was held last night, but owing to the lack of a quorum no business was transacted. The situation with regard to the players eligible to play in the City League was discussed, and at the next meeting which will be held on Saturday, night it is probable that the Strathcona's O.H.A. team will be allowed to draft players from the various teams in the City League, and that they may be permitted to play at least two games in the O.H.A. without being disqualified by the City Hockey League.

The meeting will be held at 8.30 o'clock at the Examiner office.

A Crash of Price Reductions

We're working hard now to clear the book-shelves, cases and counters for stock-taking. Several influences combine to bring about a revision of prices on the most Useful Goods that people buy, as well as on the more Fancy and Ornamental Things.

A Host of January Reductions and Savings

No Regular Prices will prevail this month, as it is only by selling the goods at a loss that we can hope to reduce our stocks.

Expect 25 to 33⅓ per cent. Reductions

From now until stock-taking is over. Our Annex across the street will be closed this week.

Condition, Jan. 2. — The condition of Edward Hanlan, the famous oarsman, is slightly improved. The doctor stated this afternoon that he had a "fighting chance" for life, and it is possible that his wonderful constitution may enable him to pull through. His temperature yesterday reached 104.

The Strathconas will practice tonight at 7 o'clock at the rink and the members of both teams are expected to be out. Both the O.H.A. and City League teams have games next week, and it is important to make the best use of the practice hours that are left.

One Too Many.

A street car in charge of a newly appointed Irish conductor had just left the car barn for the downtown run. Before it had proceeded many blocks it was boarded by an inspector. This official, after a glance at the register and the occupants of the car, asked in surprise: "Why, O'Flaherty, how's this? You have seven passengers, and the register shows but six fares rung up!"

"Begorra, is that so?" puzzled the green conductor. Then instantly a happy solution of the difficulty struck him. "Git out o' here, wan o' yez!" he shouted. "There's wan too many o' yes on this car!"—Harper's Weekly.

The Great Trouble.

"Of course," said the persistent charity worker to the great man, "it's sometimes hard to say 'No.' Don't you find it so?"

"It isn't hard to say 'No,'" he replied, "but frequently it seems very hard to say it in such a way as to make people realize that you mean it."—Catholic Standard and Times.

THE WATER COMMISSIONERS MAKE STATEMENT REGARDING THE BY-LAW TO BE VOTED ON NEXT ELECTION DAY

They Believe That All Property Passed by Water Mains Should Be Taxed

MEANING OF THE BY-LAW

Too careful perusal cannot be given to the memorandum of the Water Commissioners published a week ago. It is in relation to a very important matter to the ratepayers, and it is felt that it may be repeated with advantage to all who have to pay water rates. It is as follows:

The Water Commissioners think it well to place before the ratepayers a short statement of the objects to be attained by the by-law that has been published and which is to be submitted to them to be voted upon, on election day.

The intention is, that property fronted by a water main shall contribute towards the cost of such main, an annual sum that bears a just rate to the value conferred on the property by the main. In the past much property (particularly vacant lots), thus benefitted, has paid nothing whatever towards the large expense of laying the main, but such expense has had to be borne by the general water users. The Commissioners consider this to be an injustice, which the by-law will greatly if not altogether remedy. By thus placing the burden where it should be, the Commissioners feel that they will be able to increase the present discount of twenty-five per cent. on the rates to thirty-three and one-third per cent., which will effect a considerable saving to water consumers; thus, a twelve dollar water rate with twenty-five per cent. discount is nine dollars net, and with thrity-three and one-third per cent. discount, is eight dollars net.

The special rate in the by-law, as will be observed, is four and one-half cents per running foot, which, reduced by thirty-three and one-third per cent. discount for prompt payment will be three cents per foot net, and a thirty foot lot will pay ninety cents per year, with this proviso, however, that if the owner or occupant pays for the use of water for the same property ninety cents or over, the front foot rate will be cancelled and only the water rate collected, but if no water rate is paid the front foot rate will be collected. If the front foot rate is greater than the water rate paid, the excess of the former over the latter will also be paid.

The Commissioners are not aware of a single case in the city where if a water rate is paid at all, it will not for the same property be in excess of the special rate, and then as pointed out there will only be the water rate less its discount to be paid.

In short the object of the Commissioners is to cause vacant land fronted by a water main and thus enhanced in value, to pay a fair share of its cost, and likewise to compel occupied property where the owner refuses to take water, to pay the frontage rate.

The Commissioners have given this mater much consideration and are of opinion that the by-law is in the interests of the city generally, and hope it may pass.

All ratepayers have the right to vote upon the by-law.

Signed.

T. F. MATTHEWS,
W. H. HILL,
W. H. MOORE,
Water Commissioners.

THE HISTORY, PAST AND PRESENT OF ONE OF PETERBOROUGH'S BRIGHT SUBURB, THE PRETTY VILLAGE OF BRIDGENORTH

Written By Resident Expressly For The Examiner—An Interesting And Humourous Account

THE BEAUTIES OF CHEMONG

Some people may know where Bridgenorth is, what it is and how it exists, but as others are not perfectly wise on this subject, an attempt is herewith made to explain some of the major and minor details of that interesting burg.

This prosperous village is located six miles northwest of the thriving city of Peterborough, on the east shore of Chemong Lake, which was formerly known as Mud Lake. The connecting link between city and village is the Communication road, which was later called the Chemong road when the park of that name became famous. This highway has a history of its own, as the row of ots on each side comprise a new survey overlying the original survey of Smith township, and was built for the express purpose of having communication with Mud Lake and the "Plains" (Chemong Park). At a later date a "given" road was constructed parallel to the shore of the lake and extending to Selwyn and Buckhorn. It is at the junction of the Communication road and the Mud Lake road that Bridgenorth holds forth. This, with the combination of three surveys, the streets run in all directions and the "blocks" are anything but rectangular or square, and the inhabitants nearly all have pointed noses, caused by continually turning such sharp corners. The surrounding country is of the A1 variety for farming, and our country neighbours are of the prosperous and up-to-date sort. Of course, this includes the people of Ennismore who cross the lake and pass this way to market.

Population

If the census man were to get busy, and if he survived after encountering cross roads, cross dogs and tea kettles, and had sufficient of his records intact, his report would read somewhat as follows:—

Bridgenorth — last call, 1907.

Total population, 214, in the proportion of 109 to 105.

Number of families, 61, who live in 57 houses.

Widows 10, widowers 6, old maids —no confession.

Dogs, cats, mice and chickens—No record.

Original log houses, 2.
Brisk houses, 8.
Roughcast houses, 8.
Some of these have been disguised by board or metal siding.
Board houses, 39.
Churches, 1.
Schools, 1.

Note—The inhabitants are all ordinary looking beings. There are no freaks of nature, no strong boys, no giants, no midgets, no road racers, no famous pedestrians, no prize cats nor white mice.

Business and Industry

The household needs of the residents are catered to in perfect style and what is not kept in stock is brought from the city at short notice. Although there is no bakery here, yet fresh bread and cakes are secured every day.

Besides a general store, Mr. J. A. Jobe conducts the postoffice, where mail from Ennismore and Peterborough is received and distributed daily. He also has charge of the public weigh scales for the accommodation of those dealing in live stock, grain or hay. And, by the way, if a chap has the lawful fire and contemplates matrimony, he can secure the license from Mr. Jobe, who is trusty and confidential in such affairs.

Just step along the street a few paces south and you are at the store under the management of Mr. P. T. Udy, who also has some "side lines." The telephone central is located there, as well as the agency of the Peterborough steam laundry.

In addition to these two well-conducted and well-fitted emporia, there will soon be another, as Mr. G. J. Jopling is at present remodelling the store lately vacated by Mr. Udy, and he will conduct a combined store and meat market. During the summer months all three have special delivery rigs for Chemong Park, and give the city folks the same quick service to which they are accustomed at home. The farmers of the surrounding districts are supplied with fresh meat from the two handsome outfits driven by Jopling Bros.

Almost every country village has at least some of these attractions, and a problem not easily solved is why farmers, who have made such a success of their calling, and on retiring from active work, hie away to the cities, where the environments are so entirely different, and their obituary notices soon appear.

Their Industries

The industry which employes the majority of the men here, is that of converting logs into building material. This business is entirely controlled and managed by Kelly Bros., who have their own timber limits and send a gang to the woods every winter to cut and put on the banks of the creeks and lakes, a supply of logs for the following season's work. When the spring arrives, the river drivers are dispatched with their tug the "Lady of the Lake" to collect and tow the timber to the mill. All summer long, the hum and buzz continues, as timber, ties, lumber, shingles and lath are manufactured for the local trade, for Lakefield, Peterborough and distant cities. In addition this firm operates a planing mill and a chopping mill which is well patronized by the farmers. As a business of this proportion always has much repair work to be done, a blacksmith shop is situated near the saw mill and a competent man employed.

Of course farmers and others are continually breaking things and their horses need shoeing so Mr. Wm. Nicholls, who is a successful farmer himself, plays the role of village blacksmith and sets his part to the satisfaction of those who require his services.

When harness or vehicle of any sort are required, Mr. R. C. Heard is the man with the goods. His other enterprise is that of a threshing outfit with straw cutter attached and he has had the longest season's work of any mill in this district. During the winter and early summer, Mr. Heard is in line for repairing and painting vehicles at his own shop.

About the only man in this hamlet who sticks hard and fast to one line of business is the cooper, by name George Gray, who makes barrels and tubs the year round and never goes on strike—except with a hammer.

No Milk Supply

As no one has taken up the supplying of the Park with garden truck as a business, a great many are dabbling at it with a view of collecting pin money. Chemong also lacks a milk supply and herein lies an opening for some live man to get there with the vegetables and dairy products.

Don't forget the carpenters, for this is where they grow. The soil, climate and other conditions are perfectly adapted for their production. Almost every man has a saw, a hammer and a square, and in short order a gang could be mustered to build anything from an ice house to a Cathedral or from a sidewalk to a modern floating bridge.

All these considerations have been about the doings of men, but there is a representative on the feminine side in the person of Miss Minnie Quinn who conducts a dress-making establishment and employs two or three helpers in the various stages of proficiency in that fine art. These in turn become graduates and start a new firm and thus the wheel goes roudn.

The Recreation

The sporting element is an ever-present quantity. For several years past, Association football has been the summer game and provided good outings for the youths. Since the Chemong Park regatta has been organized, more attention has been given to aquatics and there have been many entries in that event from the quarter and always with success. Some spend their spare time in search of game in the nearby woods or in an attempt to lure the wily fish from the lake. In the winter this big pond on the west provides skating, but as it is so unsheltered, an open-air rink has been constructed this fall and hockey may now be added to the list. As there are some hills in the vicinity, sleigh-riding and tobogganing are in order when conditions are favourable. At this particular season a shooting match is a weekly occurrence and there is keen competition among the local rifle experts.

Religion, Education etc.

The only religious denomination which is represented by a church building is the Methodist body who have a substantial structure, well adapted to the requirements of the congregation. Under the same patronage is a small Sunday school and Epworth League, and Ladies' Aid Society. The present minister is Dr. Meister, who also has on his circuit the Selwyn, Zion and Fairview churches.

Although there have been rumours as to the erection of a Roman Catholic church building here, nothing definite has been done and in the summer months services are conducted at the home of a family in the village by Rev. Father Fitzpatrick, of Ennismore parish. Also in the summer holidays Church of England services are held in the Chemong Park pavilion.

The nearest Baptist church is the Gilmour Memorial which is two and a half miles distant on the Communication Road. The new pastor, Rev. J. Bonner, of White Lake, will commence his duties at the beginning of the New Year.

Of course the education of the children is not neglected and a competent teacher is employed so that the rising generation may be equipped with the best that the Public School system can give. Every year a class is sent to the High School entrances and a large percentage are successful. The teacher for the past two years has been Mrs. Caddy, whose services are appreciated by the parents.

The only fraternal society which has a Court here is the Canadian Order of Foresters, which was organized about seventeen years ago. The membership has been steadily increasing till it is now over eighty and has the unique record of only two deaths claims.

The Cattle Banished

After a strong agitation two years ago a township bylaw was enforced and cattle were banished from the streets as an advance step in modern civilization.

For about forty years this was the "capital" of Smith Township inasmuch as the council held its sessions here, and nominations for township and county councils were lively events. But Bridgenorth has now lost its prestige, as for some inexplicable reasons the township business during this year was transacted in the County Council Chambers, Peterborough. On account of this change, the building formerly used as a town-hall has been fitted up as a dwelling and now there is no public hall for public meetings, entertainments, etc. The citizens regret this fact, hard as it is to endure.

As usual excursions leave this port every year and as there is considerable freight being handled, a wharf is a necessity. But there is not even an excuse for a public wharf and hence considerable trespassing is done on private property. The Chemong Park wharf is no accommodation to the village and moreover it is not adapted to the handling of heavy freight. It seems strange indeed that places of only one-tenth the importance can have large and expensive docks while all kinds of acrobatic stunts are done over timber and dunnage piles when an excursion is attended. There is something wrong somewhere.

The Chemong Park

This resort with its forty-four cottages is in reality our summer suburb and the line dividing the village and the park is a very indefinite one as the two simply merge into each other. The only hostelry in this district is the Chemong Park Hotel, under the able management of Mr. G. H. Brown. As Smith township is under local option rule the business of this hotel is largely confined to the summer tourist trade. Concerning the beauties and healthful influences of Chemong Park the booklet writers and the poets have about exhausted the available supply of descriptive language and so nothing further is added in this dissertation.

The swimming pool and fish pond in Chemong Lake with its serviceable floating bridge, its ten square miles of clear water surface and its pleasant shores. Being connected with the Kawartha Chain of Lake, there is an excellent daily steamboat service with Bobcaygeon, Beaverton and Burleigh. To make this service more effective the auto car or bus meets the steamer "Opemah" at the Chemong Park wharf morning and evening to convey passengers to and from Peterborough. However, it is reported and anticipated that this will be replaced some sweet day by a street car line.

The Finale

In this humble description of a common-place hamlet the exaggerations, the boastings and the poetry have all been omitted, but it is hoped it will be the more appreciated on that account.

The people are keeping apace with the times and are healthy and happy. What more can be desired on this mundane sphere?

K.B.

MARTIN-ORME PIANOS

A recognized authority, Mr. Puddicombe, director of the Ottawa Conservatory of Music, says in part:

June 30, 1905.
I was greatly surprised and delighted with the Martin-Orme Piano I played on last night. I found it to be one of the most grateful of all the upright pianos I have ever tried.

That was two years ago. Mr. Puddicombe writes now:

I have had ample opportunity of testing the Martin-Orme wearing quality in the Conservatory here, and it is perfectly satisfactory.

THE OLD FASHIONED DOCTOR

It is interesting to note how the medical profession is getting back to first principles. For some years we have been swamped with new synthetics, many of them heralded to cure the incurable, but now the leaders of the profession are returning to the well known herbs whose value has been proved by years of experience. These physicians do claim, however, and rightly so, that formerly there was not sufficient attention paid to the preparation of the herbs nor to the quality, and so it is a satisfaction to see the King Palmetto Company offer a combination of these old and esteemed remedies with a positive guarantee as to the purity of the ingredients and of scientific skill in the manufacture. They print the formula plainly on the wrapper and intelligent people can readily appreciate its value in all cases of stomach, liver and kidney trouble. King Palmetto Compound regulates the bowels and cleanses the system, and in thus purifying the blood will immediately relieve and eventually cure many of the diseases caused by impure blood, such as rheumatism, gout, eczema, etc. It is a specific for muddy and sallow complexion and pimples. Send for free sample to King Palmetto Co., Bridgeburg, Ont. King Palmetto Compound is sold at $1.00 per bottle and guaranteed by MacDermid & Jury, druggists.

SAYS THIS IS BEST

A leading health journal in answering the question, "What is the best prescription to clean and purify the blood?" prints in a recent issue the following:

Fluid Extract Dandelion one ounce;
Compound Sulphone, one ounce;
Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, four ounces.

Shake well and use in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime.

A well-known physician states that these are harmless vegetable ingredients, which can be obtained from any good prescription pharmacy.

This mixture will clean the blood of all impurities. In just a few days the skin begins to clear of sores, boils and pimples. It puts vigor and energy into run-down debilitated men and women. For many years Sarsaparilla alone has been considered a good blood medicine. But while it built up and made new blood, the impurities remained within and the good accomplished was only temporary. Sarsaparilla, however, when used in combination with Compound Sulphone and Extract Dandelion, works wonders. This combination puts the kidneys to work to filter and sift out the waste matter, uric acid, and other impurities that cause disease. It makes new blood and relieves rheumatism and lame back and bladder troubles.

A STORY OF LOVE AND ADVENTURE

BY BERTHA RUNKLE.

Copyright by The Century Co.

Her eyes traveled first to us in anxiety, then with relief to Mayenne, sitting over the jewels; last to Lucas with startlement. She advanced without hesitation to the duke.

"I am come, monsieur, to fetch you to supper."

"Pardieu, Lorance!" Mayenne exclaimed, "you show me a different face from that of dinner time." Indeed, so she did, for her eyes were shining with excitement, while the color that M. Etienne had kissed into them still flushed her cheeks.

"If I do," she made quick answer, "it is because the more I think on it the surer I grow that my loving cousin will not break my heart."

"I want a word with you, Lorance," Mayenne said quietly.

"As many as you like, monsieur," she replied promptly. "But will you not send these creatures from the room first?"

"Do you include your cousin Paul in that term?"

"I meant these jewellers. But since you suggest it, perhaps it would be as well for Paul to go."

"You hear your orders, Paul."

"Aye, I hear and I disobey," Lucas retorted, "Mademoiselle, I take too much joy in your presence to be willing to leave it."

"Monsieur," she said to the duke, ignoring her cousin Paul with a coolness that must have maddened him. "will you not dismiss your tradespeople? Then can we talk comfortably."

"Aye," answered Mayenne, "I will. I am more gallant than Paul. If you command it out they go, though I have not half had time to look their wares over. Here, master jeweller," he addressed M. Etienne, slipping easily into Italian, "pack up your wares and depart."

M. Etienne, bursting into rapid thanks to His Highness for his condescension in noticing the dirt of the way, set about his packing. Mayenne turned to his lovely cousin.

"Now for my word to you, mademoiselle. You wept so last night it was impossible to discuss the subject properly. But now I rejoice to see you more tranquil. Here is the beginning and the middle and the end of the matter; your marriage is my affair and I shall do as I like about it."

She searched his face; before his steady look her color slowly died. M. Etienne, whether by accident or design, knocked his tray of jewels off the table. Murmuring profuse apologies he dropped on his knees to grope for them. Neither of the men heeded him, but kept their eyes steadily on the lady.

"Mademoiselle," Mayenne deliberately went on, "I have been overfond with you. Had I followed my own interests instead of bowing to your whims you had been a wife these two years. I have indulged you, mademoiselle, because you were my ally Montluc's daughter, because you came to me a lonely orphan, because you were my little cousin whose baby mouth I kissed. I have let you cavil at this suitor and that, pout that one was too tall and one too short, and a third too bold and a fourth not bold enough. I have been pleased to let you cajole me. But now, mademoiselle, I am at the end of my patience."

"Monsieur," she cried, "I never meant to abuse your kindness. You let me cajole you, as you say, else I could not have done it. You treated my whims as a jest. You let me air them. But when you frowned I have put them by. I have always done your will."

"Then do it now, mademoiselle. Be faithful to me and to your birth. Cease sighing for the enemy of our house."

"Monsieur," she said, "when you first brought him to me he was not the enemy of our house. When he came here day after day, season after season, he was not our enemy. When I wrote that letter, at Paul's dictation, I did not know he was our enemy. You told me that night that I was not for him. I promised you obedience. Did he come here to me and implore me to wed with him I would send him away."

Mayenne little imagined how truly she spoke; but he could not look in her eyes and doubt her honesty.

"You are a good child, Lorance," he said. "I could wish your lover as docile."

"He will not come here again," she cried. "He knows I am not for him. He gives it up, monsieur—he takes himself out of Paris. I promise you it is over. He gives me up."

"I have not his promise for that," Mayenne said dryly; "but the next time he comes after you he may settle with your husband."

She uttered a little gasp, but scarce of surprise—almost of relief that the blow, so long expected, had at last been dealt.

"You will marry me, monsieur?" she murmured. "To M. de Brie?"

"You are shrewd, mademoiselle. You know that it will be a good three months before Francois de Brie can stand up to be wed. You say to yourself that much may happen in three months. So it may. Therefore will your bridegroom be at hand to-morrow morning."

She made no rejoinder, but her eyes, wide like a hunted animal's, moved fearsomely, loathingly to Lucas. Mayenne uttered an abrupt laugh.

"No; Paul is not the happy man. Besides bungling the St. Quentin affair he has seen fit to make free with my name in an enterprise of his own. Therefore, Paul, you will dance at Lorance's wedding a bachelor. Mademoiselle, you marry in the morning Senor el Conde del Rondelar y Saragossa of His Majesty King Philip's court. After dinner you will depart with your husband for Spain."

Lucas sprang forward, hand on sword, face ablaze with furious protest. Mayenne, heeding him no more than if he had not been there, rose and went to Mlle. de Montluc.

"Have I your obedience, cousin?"

"You know it, monsieur."

She was curtseying to him when he folded her in his arms, kissing both her cheeks.

"You are as good as you are lovely, and that says much, ma mie. We will talk a little more about this after supper. Permit me, mademoiselle."

He took her hand and led her in leisurely fashion out of the room.

It wondered me that Lucas had not killed him. He looked murder. Haply had the duke disclosed by so much as a quivering eyelid a consciousness of Lucas' rage, of danger to himself, Lucas had struck him down. But he walked straight past, clad in his composure as in armor, and Lucas made no move. I think to stab was the impulse of a moment, gone in a moment. Instantly he was glad he had not killed the Duke of Mayenne, to be cut himself into dice by the guard. After the duke was gone Lucas stood still a long time, no less furious, but cogitating deeply.

We had gathered up our jewels and locked our box and stood holding it between us, waiting our chance to depart. We might have gone a dozen times during the talking, for none marked us; but M. Etienne, despite my tuggings, refused to budge so long as mademoiselle was in the room. Now was he ready enough to go, but hesitated to see if Lucas would not leave first. That worthy, however, showed no intention of stirring, but remained in his pose, buried in thought, unaware of our presence. To get out we had to walk round one end or the other of the table, passing either before or behind him. M. le Comte was for marching carelessly before his face, but I pulled so violently in the other direction that he gave way to me. I think now that had we passed in front of him Lucas would have let us go by without a look. As it was, hearing steps at his back, he wheeled about to confront us. If the eye of love is quick so is the eye of hate. He cried out instantly:

"Mar!"

We dropped the box and sprang at him. But he was too quick for us. He leaped back, whipping out his sword.

"I have you now, Mar!" he cried.

M. Etienne grabbed up the heavy box in both hands to brain him. Lucas retreated. He might run through M. Etienne, but only at the risk of having his head split. After all it suited his book as well to take us alive. Shouting for the guards he retreated toward the door.

But I was there before him. As he ran at M. Etienne I had rushed by, slammed the door shut and bolted it. If we were caught we would make a fight for it. I snatched up a stool for weapon.

He halted. Then he darted over to the chimney and pulled violently the bell-rope hanging near. We heard through the closed door two loud peals somewhere in the corridor.

We both ran for him. Even as he pulled the rope M. Etienne struck the box over his sword, snapping it. I dropped my stool as he his box and we pinned Lucas in our arms.

"The oratory!" I gasped. With a strength born of our desperation we dragged him kicking and cursing across the room, heaved him with all our force into the oratory and bolted the door on him.

"Your wig!" cried M. Etienne, running to recover his box. While I picked it up and endeavored with clumsy fingers to put it on properly he set on its legs the stool I had flung down, threw the piece of Lucas's sword into the fireplace, seized his box, dashed to me and set my wig straight, dashed to the outer door and opened it just as Pierre came up the corridor.

"Well, what do you want?" the lackey demanded. "You ring as if it was a question of life and death."

"I want to be shown out if the messer will be so kind. His Highness the duke when he went to supper left me here to put up my wares, but I know not my way to the door."

It was after sunset, and the room back from the windows was dusky. The lackey seemed not to mark our flushed and rumpled looks, and to be quite satisfied with M. Etienne's explanation, when of a sudden Lucas, who had been stunned for the moment by the violent meeting of his head and the tiles, began to pound and kick on the oratory door.

He was shouting as well. But the door closed with absolute tightness; it had not even a keyhole. His cries came to us muffled and inarticulate.

"Corpo di Bacco!" M. Etienne exclaimed, with a face of childlike surprise. "Some one is in a fine hurry to enter! Do you not let him in, Sir Master of the Household?"

"I wonder whom he's got there now," Pierre muttered to himself in French, staring in puzzled wise at the door. Then he answered M. Etienne with a laugh:

"No, my innocent; I do not let him in. It might cost me my neck to open that door. Come along now. I must see you out and get back to my trenchers."

We met not a soul on the stairs, every one, served or servants, being in the supper room. We passed the sentry without question, and round the corner without hindrance. M. Etienne stopped to heave a sigh of thanksgiving.

"I thought we were done for that time!" he panted. "Mordieu! another scored off Lucas! Come, let us make good time home! 'Twere wise to be inside our gates when he gets out of that closet."

We made good time, ever listening for the hare after us. But we heard it not. We came unmolested up the street at the back of the Hotel St. Quentin, on our way to the postern. Monsieur took the key out of his doublet, saying as we walked around the corner tower:

"Well, it appears we are safe at home."

"Yes, M. Etienne."

Even as I uttered the words three men from the shadow of the wall sprang out and seized us.

"This is he!" one cried. "M. le Comte de Mar, I have the pleasure of taking you to the Bastille."

CHAPTER XXVII.

Instantly two more men came running from the postern arch. The five were upon us like an avalanche. One pinned my arms, while another gagged me. Two held M. Etienne, a third stopping his mouth.

"Prettily done," quoth the leader. "Not a squeal! Morbleu! I wasn't anxious to have old Vigo out disputing my rights."

M. Etienne's wrists were neatly trussed by this time. At a word from the leader our captors turned us about and marched us up the lane by Mirabeau's garden where Bernet's blood lay rusty on the stones. We offered no resistance whatever; we should only have been prodded with a sword point for our pains. I made out despite the thickening twilight the familiar uniform of the burgher guard, M. de Belin having bagged the wrong bird once had now caught the right one.

The captain bade one of the fellows go call the others off; I could guess that the job had been done thoroughly, every approach to the house guarded. I gnashed my teeth over the gag that I had not suspected the danger. The truth was both of us had our heads so full of mademoiselle, of Mayenne and of Lucas that we had forgotten the governor and his preposterous warrant.

They led us into the Rue de l'Eveque, where was waiting the same black coach that had stood before the Oie d'Or, the same Louis on the box. Its lamps were lighted; by their glimmer our captors for the first time saw us fairly.

"Why, captain," cried the man at M. Etienne's elbow, "this is not Comte de Mar! The Comte de Mar is fair-haired; I've seen him scores of times."

"The Comte de Mar answers to the name of Etienne, and so does this fellow," the captain answered. He took the candle from one of the lamps and held it in M. Etienne's face. Then he put out a sudden hand and pulled the wig off.

"Good for you, captain!" cried the men. We were indeed unfortunate to encounter an officer with brains.

"We'll take your gag off too, M. le Comte, in the coach," the captain told him.

"Will you bring the lass along, captain?"

"Not exactly," the leader laughed. "A fine prison it would be could a felon have his bonnibel at his side. No, I'll leave the maid; but she needn't give the alarm yet. Do you step aswine with her, L'Etrange; you'll not mind the job. Keep her a quarter of an hour, and then let her go her ways."

They bundled my lord into the coach, box and all, the captain and two men with him. The fourth clambered up beside Louis as he cracked his whip and rattled smartly down the street.

My guardian stole a loving arm around my waist and marched me down the quiet lane between the garden walls. He was clutching my right wrist, but my left hand was free, and I fumbled at my gag. In the middle of the deserted lane he halted:

"Now, my beauty, if you'll be good I'll take that stopper off. But if you make a scream, by heaven, it'll be your last!"

I shook my head and squeezed his hand imploringly, while he, holding me tight in one sinewy arm, plucked left-handedly at the knot. I waited, meek as Griselda, till the gag was off, and then I let him have it. Volleying curses, I hammered him square in the eye.

It was a mad course, for he was armed, I not. But instead of stabbing he dropped me like a hot coal, gasping in the blankest consternation:

"Thousand devils! It's a boy!"

A second later, when he recollected himself, I was tearing down the lane.

I am a good runner, and then any one can run well when he runs for his life. Despite the wretched kirtle tying up my legs I gained on him, and when I had reached the corner of our house he dropped the pursuit and made off in the darkness. I ran full tilt round to the great gate, bellowing for the sentry to open. He came at once, with a dripping torch, to burst into roars of laughter at the sight of me. My wig was somewhere in the lane behind me; he knew me perfectly in my silly toggery. He leaned against the wall, helpless with laughing, shouting feebly to his comrades to come share the jest. I, you may well imagine, saw nothing funny about it, but kicked and shook the grilles in my rage and impatience. He did open to me at length and in I dashed, clamoring for Vigo. He had appeared in the court by this, as also half a dozen of the guard, who surrounded me with shouts of astonished mockery; but I, little heeding, cried to the equerry:

"Vigo, M. le Comte is arrested! He's in the Bastille!"

Vigo grasped my arm and lifted rather than led me in at the guard-room door, slamming it in the soldiers' faces.

"Now, Felix."

"M. Etienne!" I gasped—"M. Etienne is arrested! They were lying in wait for him at the back of the house by the tower. They have taken him off in a coach to the Bastille."

"Who have?"

"The governor's guard. You'll saddle and pursue? You'll rescue him?"

"How long ago?"

"About ten minutes. The coach was standing in the Rue de l'Eveque. They left a man guarding me, but I broke away."

"It can't be done," Vigo said. "They'll be out of the quarter by now. If I could catch them at all it would be close by the Bastille. No good in that; no use fighting four regiments. What the devil are they arresting him for, Felix? I understand Mayenne wants his blood, but what has the city guard to do with it?"

"It's Lucas's game," I said. Then I remembered that we had not confided to him the tale of the first arrest. I went on to tell of the adventure of the Trois Lanternes, and, reflecting that he might better know just how the land lay with us, I made a clean breast of everything—the fight before Ferou's house, the rescue, the rencontre in the tunnel, to-day's excursion and all that befell in the council-room. I wound up with a second full account of our capture under the very walls of the house, our garroting before we could cry on the guards to save us. Vigo said nothing for some time; at length he delivered himself:

"Monsieur wouldn't have a patrol about the house. He wouldn't publish to the mob that he feared any danger whatever. Of course no one foresaw this. However, the arrest is the best thing could have happened."

"Vigo!" I gasped in horror. Was Vigo turned traitor? The solid earth reeled beneath my feet.

"He'd never rest till he got himself killed," Vigo went on. "Monsieur's hot enough, but M. Etienne's mad to blind. If they hadn't caught him to-night he'd been in some worse pickle to-morrow; while, as it is, he's safe from swords at least."

"But they can murder as well in the Bastille as elsewhere!" I cried.

Vigo shook his head.

"No; had they meant murder they'd have settled him here in the alley. Since they lugged him off unhurt they don't mean it. I know not what the devil they are up to, but it isn't that."

"It was Lucas's game in the first place," I repeated. "He's too prudent to come out in the open and fight M. Etienne. He never strikes with his own hand; his way is to make some one else strike for him. So he gets M. Etienne into the Bastille. That's the first step. I suppose he thinks Mayenne will attend to the second."

"Mayenne dares not take the boy's life," Vigo answered. "He could have killed him an he chose in the streets, and nobody the wiser. But now that monsieur's taken publicly to the Bastille, Mayenne dares not kill him there, by foul play or by law—the Duke of St. Quentin's son. No; all Mayenne can do is to confine him at his good pleasure. Whence presently we will pluck him out at King Henry's good pleasure."

"And meantime is he to rot behind bars?"

"Unless monsieur can get him out. But then," Vigo went on, "a month or two in a cell won't be a bad thing for him neither. His head will have a chance to cool. After a dose of Mayenne's purge he may recover of his fever for Mayenne's ward."

"Monsieur! You will send to monsieur?"

"Of course. You will go. And Gilles with you to keep you out of mischief."

"When? Now?"

"Now," said Vigo. "You will go clothe yourself in breeches first, else are you not likely to arrive anywhere but at the madhouse. And then eat your supper. It's a long road to St. Denis."

Will be continued next Saturday.

YOU CAN EASILY OPERATE THIS TYPEWRITER YOURSELF

Don't worry your correspondent.

Don't write him anything by hand that takes him time to make out that may leave him in doubt, that he can't easily read.

And don't fill out legal pap rec or card memos— or make out accounts or hotel menus in your own hand writing.

It looks bad, reflects on your standing, makes people think yo can't afford a stenographer, and sometimes ambiguous.

You can write outyour letters—make out an abstract—fill in an insurance policy—enter your card memos—makeout your accounts, or hotel menus—or do any kind of writing you need, on any kind, size or thickness of paper, and space any way you want on

The OLIVER Typewriter

The Standard Visible Writer

You can write any of these things yourself if you do not happen to have a stenographer.

For you can easily learn with a little practice to write just as rapidly, and as perfectly as an expert operator on the Oliver. Because the Oliver is the simplified typewriter. And you can see every word you write. About 50% more durable than any other typewriter, because it has about 50% less wearing points than most other typewriters.

50% easier to write with than these other complicated, technical machines that require "hurdling" technical knowledge—long practice and special skill to operate.

Than machines which cannot be adjusted to any special space—with which it is impossible to write abstracts, insurance policies, or cut stencil documents except you buy expensive special attachments requiring experts to operate.

You can adjust the Oliver to any spacing space—you can write on any reasonable thickness of paper, right out to the very edge without the aid of any expensive attachment or special skill, and your work will be neat appearing, legible and clear.

For the Oliver is the typewriter for the doctor the lawyer, the insurance agent, the merchant the hotel proprietor—or an, man that does his own writing.

GERTRUDE ATHERTON.

A Noted Novelist, Who Has Just Published a New Book.

Gertrude Atherton, whose latest portrait is here reproduced and whose latest book, "Ancestors" (Harper & Bros), is attracting much attention on both sides of the Atlantic, is one of the representative literary women of America.

Ancestors play their part in Mrs. Atherton's own heritage. Her mother was the daughter of Stephen Franklin, a descendant of Benjamin Franklin's youngest brother, John. By her marriage to George Henry Bowen Atherton she entered another of the most distinguished families of California.

Gertrude Franklin Horn's early experiences were of exactly the sort that many a girl has had. Her mother was educated at a school in New York and came home to California a most attractive young beauty, who soon married. Gertrude also spent her school days away from home; indeed, her home was more or less nomadic because of the fact that she early lost father and mother. At any rate, her girlhood career was full of variety. For a time she attended small private schools in California. Then she went to Lexington, Ky.—into the heart of the beautiful blue grass country—and attended boarding school.

GERTRUDE ATHERTON.

While she was still very young Mrs. Atherton was widowed. Since then she has spent her time almost equally between two continents—on the other side chiefly in Munich and London and over here in San Francisco and New York. She is bound with absolute devotion to San Francisco, her home city. It is quite the most wonderful city in the world to her, and she points with thrilling pride to its past and believes with inspiring ardor in its future.

Mrs. Atherton is gracious in manner, brilliant in conversation, possessed of the liveliest humor, immensely interested in people and overflowing with original judgments upon all sorts of subjects. The nature of her tastes is simple and healthy. She likes companionship in pleasure, solitude in work, has no fads, enjoys current pastimes with vigorous zest and is altogether a normal, modern woman.

Card Etiquette.

Visiting card etiquette is too rigid to allow of error and yet simple enough to be followed without difficulty.

In the styles of cards one rarely sees now the names of husband and wife together, as—

Mr. and Mrs. James Brown Smith.

The only time that such a form is used is when accompanying gifts.

For use when calling the man's card is separate.

His card bears merely his name, rarely an address, although it may be put on if desired. The woman's card reads:

Mrs. James Brown Smith.

The whole name is given and the address, the street or avenue and house number written in full. Abbreviation of any kind is not permissible on an engraved card or invitation.

The address is put in the lower left corner when there is no day given, but when a woman has a regular time for receiving this date is placed in the lower left corner and the address goes in the right.

When there is a debutante daughter the girl's name may be engraved on her mother's card. She may have her own separately, but in formal calls upon her mother's friends it is better that the double card be used.

The newest cards are almost square and quite thin. Those for young women are a bit smaller than the style preferred for matrons.

A married woman when paying a formal call always leaves her husband's card, even though he may not know the people whom his wife is visiting. Omission to send his card, however, is equivalent to saying that he does not wish to know them or that his wife does not wish that he should, so that even in a visit to an unmarried woman his card should be in evidence.

In calling upon a married woman the visitor always leaves one of her cards and two of her husband's, one of his being for the hostess and the other for the host. As a woman never calls upon a man, one card of hers is sufficient.

The custom of leaving one card for each person called upon is not so rigidly adhered to as formerly if there are more than two women in the family. It is not considered necessary to leave a pack at one house, and this is obviated by bending in the middle those few that are required. The fold means that all members in society have been asked for.

A call should be paid immediately upon the announcement of an engagement in a family, and congratulations may previously be written in a formal note. In case of a death cards may be left before the funeral, though the person leaving them does not ask to see any member of the family. A call should be paid soon afterward.

Following a wedding a call upon the bride's parents is obligatory within a month. One does not call later upon the bride unless asked specially to do so.

To Roast an Old Fowl.

"I have found a method of roasting an old fowl so that it will be tender and well flavored," says a writer in Good Housekeeping. "The fowl is prepared exactly as for roasting, even to the stuffing and trussing. But do not at this stage rub it with butter or do anything to the outside. Put it in a granite pan with sides not less than one inch in height. Place in a steamer over boiling water and steam from one to four hours, according to size and age. A three pound fowl that must have been several years old was ready to remove from the steamer in about an hour and a half. The fork should find little difficulty in penetrating. Remove to roasting pan, rub with butter, and if a very lean fowl fasten little pieces of fat salt pork over the parts which would dry and harden most easily. Salt and dredge lightly with flour. Baste frequently. If you are as careful in the cooking as if the occupant of the pan were a Thanksgiving turkey, you will be well repaid for your trouble. You will have in addition the basis of a fine soup in the juices that are left in the pan in which the fowl was steamed."

Easy Entertaining.

One woman who does her own work and yet likes to entertain a good deal has brought order out of chaos and made the work lighter for herself by limiting her dinner to three hot dishes. She serves first iced cantaloupe, grape fruit or oysters, according to the season; then meat, potatoes and one vegetable. Salad and dessert are prepared beforehand, and so is the coffee. She serves all but the three hot dishes—which, of course, must be brought from the kitchen—from a small serving table at her side, which has two shelves beneath it and an outstanding bracket shelf for the clean and used dishes. The coffee, in a French coffeepot, stands on one of the brackets of the serving table and boils merrily until required.

Curing a Rattler's Bite.

While crossing the arid deserts of Nevada some years ago before Milwaukee's fame had become great enough to keep him home a now permanent resident of the brewery city was bitten by a rattlesnake and gave up all hope. The guide threw him to the ground and, breaking open a cartridge, covered the wound with powder. The powder was touched off, cauterising the wound effectively. The next morning nothing more serious than a stiff leg resulted.—Popular Mechanics.

What's the Use?

What's the use of contradicting people rudely even if you are sure you are right?

What's the use of being inquisitive about the affairs of every your most intimate friend?

What's the use of underrating anything simply because you don't happen to possess it?

What's the use of believing that every one in the world is happier than you are?

Be's For Business Women.

Be patient with cranks.
Be polite with kickers.
Be pleasant to all.
Be partial to none.
Be positive for principle.
Be persuasive in argument.
Be peaceably inclined.
Be loyal.
Be personally interested in business.

One woman has an album which she calls her shadowgraph. In it are pasted the profiles in shadow of her friends. "My shadowgraph is a character book," said she. "There is a great deal to be learned in the study of profiles. You have no idea how much you can learn just from the study of the side face."

To poach eggs wholesomely have a skillet full of water boiling rapidly, then turn off the gas or remove the skillet from the stove, slip the eggs in and let stand until done. They will be perfectly shaped and not at all jellied.

For those who like to keep flowers, either potted or in beds, about the house there is a small delft watering pot covered with characteristic canal and windmill pictures.

Green vegetables should not be covered with the saucepan lid when they are boiling.

Could You Believe Him?

A young fellow was being tried for an offense in the criminal court the other day. He had for his attorney one of the younger members of the bar. One of the witnesses against him was not very prepossessing in his appearance, but his testimony was quite damaging. In his argument to the jury the young attorney was claiming that this witness was not worthy of belief. He then turned and pointed to the man as he thought and said: "Look at him. Could you believe him?"

He was pointing at another attorney registering in private entrance just from the side face."

MAORI CHIEF DEAD.

Native Who Was Prophet to His People.

The death is announced from Wellington, New Zealand, of Te Whiti, the famous Maori chief. Te Whiti was perhaps the most remarkable Maori that ever lived. Educated in the tenets of the Christian faith, he constructed a mystical religion adapted to the genius of his people, and by them was revered as a prophet, as the God-sent Messiah of the Maori. He had the gift of lofty eloquence, and his keen intelligence and upright character gave him a sway that was patriarchal. All his great gifts he used for peace. When the other chiefs had engaged in hostilities against the Government, Te Whiti remained quiescent. He declined to make war in 1865, and restrained his people from joining Titokowaru in 1868. When surveyors marched through his land mapping out plots for sale, Te Whiti opposed a strenuous passive resistence. His followers pulled up the pegs placed by the surveyors, and were sent to prison, and the surveyors went over the work again. Te Whiti then retaliated by sending his men to plough up the grass fields of the white settlers. "Go, put your hands to the plough," he said. "If any come with guns and swords be not afraid. If any smite, smite ye not again. If fear fills the white men and they flee, enter not their houses, touch not their goods, slay not their herds. My eye is over all; the thief shall not go scathless. I will not resist the soldiers if they come, I would gladly let them crucify me!" Te Whiti was right, in resisting the surveyors, but the Government determined on coercion. An army of 1,700 men was mobilised and sent in 1881 to invest Te Whiti's pah or lager. The invaders were met by 200 little children dancing a dance of welcome, and behind them their mothers with 500 loaves of bread for the soldiers. Notwithstanding this peaceful welcome, the Commissioner read the Riot Act. Tohu, Te Whiti's chief counsellor, addressed the people, saying, "Let the man who has raised this war do his work this day. Be patient, O my people, and even if the bayonet comes to your breast resist not!" Te Whiti and Tohu were arrested and handcuffed and afterwards sent to prison. After sixteen months they were released and restored to their people. Reserves were given to the natives and Parihaka, Te Whiti's country, is now a peaceful and prosperous settlement. It was Te Whiti's misfortune not to be understood by the white settlers. He was looked upon by them as fomenting trouble under the guise of peace.

Beyond Doubt.

When Ikey entered the shop with a limp, dejected air, carrying a pair of checked trousers over his arm, Mr. Solomon looked at him with displeasure.

"Ikey, why do you bring dose pants back?" he inquired severely.

"He would not to keep them," said Ikey sorrowfully. "He said they not of any wool pants."

"He did?" cried Mr. Solomon indignantly. "Here, Ikey, see dose mot' holes in dis right leg, my son? Take dose pants right away back and show him dose mot' holes!"—Youth's Companion.

Compensation.

A small boy, returning from school one day, inquired of his father what people meant when they spoke of the "law of compensation." The father, in the course of his explanation, cited the fact that if one of the senses is lost some one of the others receives a corresponding developments—as, for example, if a man's sight became impaired his sense of touch or of hearing would become more acute, and so on.

"Oh, now I see why it is," interrupted the little fellow, "that when one leg is shorter than it ought to be the other is always longer!"—Harper's Weekly.

King Disapproves Tipping.

King Edward does not approve of tipping, and does his level best to suppress the practice. In fact, he has induced several of his subjects to take steps in this direction. For instance, Lord Carysfort, who owns some of the best shooting in Ireland, has had a box put up in the hall at Glenart Castle. In this the guests are requested to drop their tips, and the key is kept by the owner of the mansion. And this plan is pursued in several other big houses, notably at Crewteth, the home of Lord and Lady Safton, and at Wynyard, the residence of Lord and Lady Londonderry. Indeed, at these last-mentioned houses a notice appears in each bedroom that no tips are to be given to the servants. This is, of course, an heroic remedy and means higher wages to the entire household. It is worthy of note that not only King Edward but other members of the royal family have shown their dislike to reckless present-giving.

LAWS AGAINST TOBACCO.

Early Legislation to Restrict the Use of the Weed.

One of the curiosities of early colonial legislation is the laws enacted against the planting and the use of tobacco. Evidently the magistrates and elders of those days regarded that "creature called tobacko" as one of the many emissaries of the devil, against whom it was their duty to wage constant warfare. The planting of it was forbidden except in small quantities to be used "for meere necessitie, for phisick, for perservaceon of the health, and that the same may be taken privately by ancient men."

All keepers of hotels and other public places were ordered not to "suffer any tobacco to be taken into their houses." If they disobeyed the order, they were required to pay a fine to the "victualler" and one also to "party that takes it." At little later the law was changed so that it was forbidden to "take tobacco in any wine or common victual house except in a private room there, so as the master of said house nor any guest there shall take offense thereat, which, if they do, the said person shall forbear upon pain of 2 shillings stxpence for every such offense."

No one was permitted to use tobacco "publicquely," not even in his own house, in the presence of strangers. It was against the law for two men to smoke together. In Windsor every user of tobacco was required to procure a physician's certificate before he was permitted to enjoy the obnoxious weed. All smoking was forbidden within two miles of a meeting house on the Sabbath day. Connecticut, as a great indulgence to travelers, allowed a man to smoke once during a journey of ten miles made not by trains, but afoot or by horse locomotion.

What Your Friend's Plants.

"If you have a friend going away for the summer," said the woman of experience, "don't keep a plant for her. The thing will probably die away, and you would consider yourself responsible. I worried through six weeks one summer tending a plant for a friend and then was invited to the country for a week end. I stayed two days in addition. Of course the plant was dead when I came back, and my outing was half spoiled by worrying over it. I bought a duplicate of it the day before my friend returned, and it cost me $2. Even then she said she thought it looked somewhat peaked."—Exchange.

Cheap Cheer.

A charitable man dropped a nickel in a blind beggar's hat and exclaimed in a benevolent voice, "There, my poor fellow, is a quarter for you."

"Why on earth," said the man's companion, "did you give him a nickel and say it was a quarter?"

"Oh, was the reply, "I wanted to cheer him up."—Argonaut.

NO HARD TIMES IN THE WEST.

J. C. Eaton Says Depression is Mere Pessimistic Talk.

In an interview given to The Winnipeg Tribune, Mr. J. C. Eaton, president of the T. Eaton Co., declares that so far hard times are a myth, rather than an actuality.

"The only danger to Canadian interests," says Mr. Eaton, "is that the papers keep talking about 'hard times,' 'money stringency,' and other such nonsense, and if they do not stop they may bring on a crisis like the man who, by imagining he was sick, after a while had his dreams come true, simply because he thought long enough about it. Toronto and Winnipeg, and all the rest of them have no cause to be anything but happy if they will only try to see how well off they are rather than how poorly off."

The Winnipeg Tribune supports Mr. Eaton's contention.

"There really ought to be no reason," says that paper, "for any financial stringency in this western country. To be sure the climatic conditions did not contribute to the production of as fine a crop as has been the average for the last twenty-five years, but the cereal product in the aggregate was immense, and with the prices so high every sane man must see that the amount of money coming into the country ought to be quite as large this year as prevailed the last few years, and with the outlook as satisfactory as this, there should be good times in the west.

"If, as Mr. Eaton says, citizens go round blathering about the financial stringency and hardupness of the country nothing can do more to contribute to the very conditions which are so undesirable."

ENGLAND

Mr. Justice Darling, in the King's Bench Division, has refused an application made on behalf of Tilonko, a Kaffir chief, for a rule quashing an order of the Earl of Elgin, Secretary of State for the Colonies, deporting Tilonko, to St. Helena, on the ground that it was made without jurisdiction. Tilonko was tried by court-martial last year for the part he took in the Natal disturbances, and he was sentenced to ten years' hard labour and fined 500 cattle. He was imprisoned in Pietermaritzburg, and in May last Lord Elgin, under the Colonial Prisoners' Removal Act, 1884, ordered his removal to St. Helena. Counsel argued that it was not necessary for the preservation of the peace of the Colony that Tilonko should be sent to St. Helena, because martial law had been abolished and peace was secured. Mr. Justice Darling, in giving judgment, said he did not think the court had jurisdiction to consider whether the reasons placed before the Secretary of State for the Colonies for making the order were sufficient or not. If there were reasons coming within the words of the statute the court had no shadow of jurisdiction to revise the decision of the Secretary of State.

The battleship Prince George, flagship of Rear-Admiral Farquhar, commanding the Portsmouth division of the Home Fleet, broke away from her moorings in Portsmouth Harbour the other night and did considerable damage before she could be got under control. She began by drifting up the harbour, her moorings having carried away. As the Prince George, which is of 14,900 tons, began to drift, those on board let go an anchor which had the effect of checking her progress, but it could not prevent her swinging round with the tide, and the vessel was carried on to the stem of the Shannon, a new armoured cruiser anchored near by. Assistance was signalled for, and the powerful tugs which are always kept available, alongside the dockyard put off. The battleship and cruiser cleared each other with the assistance of the tugs, and the Prince George was placed alongside the dockyard. She was making water, but not sufficiently to necessitate her being at once docked. An examination showed that the vessel had been badly damaged. The Shannon was also damaged about the upper works, but not extensively, nor were her injuries sufficient to necessitate her removal from the moorings in the stream.

IRELAND

The famous Curragh camp in Co. Kildare was the scene of an interesting ceremony the other night when the 50th anniversary of the acquisition of the famous "Black Watch" gong was celebrated by the soldiers. The men paraded at midnight, and fifty strokes were struck on the gong to signify the number of years it had been in the Highlanders' possession. The story of the finding of this gong forms a picturesque incident in the Indian Mutiny. After the relief of Lucknow, Sir Colin Campbell returned to find Cawnpore in a state of siege. On Sunday, December 6, the British under Sir Colin advanced and gave battle to the rebel army, the 42nd and 93rd being in line. The rebel army made a stubborn stand, but was finally routed by the Highlanders. The troops rested on the following day. Again on the 8th General Sir Hope Grant with his dashing Lancers, the Horse Artillery, the 42nd and 93rd, went in search of the scattered forces of the Nana. They marched for 25 miles, till on the morning of the 9th December the rebels were found preparing to cross the River Ganges at a ferry named Serin Ghat. The Sepoys became terror-stricken, and throwing away their muskets and accoutrements, ran for the river, where large numbers were shot. Several soldiers of the 42nd found at the bottom of a cart left by the natives the famous "gong." By the captain's orders the gong was taken to camp. A tripod was made to hang it on, and a wooden mallet procured, and the gong was then placed at the main guard, and it became the duty of the non-commissioned officer in charge to strike the hour. The gong is of a very large size, weighs about two cwt. and is made of the best bell metal. When struck in the stillness of the night the sound is heard a considerable distance from barracks. When the battalion was in the Punjab in 1864 a native chief offered one thousand rupees for the gong. For fifty years it has done duty with the regiment, and at least ten thousand men have seen the gong.

While the Irish International Association football team and officials were on their way by rail one night recently from Belfast to catch the boat for London, the carriage in which they were travelling was fired at close to the railway line at Lisburn. The shot crashed through the window, scattering the glass in all directions. Two players were injured by the glass, and one official was shot in the hand.

SCOTLAND

A rather strange incident happened in Glasgow a few days ago. A party of Russian emigrants, numbering about 250, arrived at that port with a view of taking passage to New York, by the Anchor liner, Astoria. As it happened however, they had been guided in forming their ideas of the ship by illustrated posters, distributed by Continental shipping agents, and these led them to expect that they would embark on a three funnelled steamer. The Astoria has only two funnels, and when the emigrants noticed this, and also observed the steamship Columbia, lying alongside, they insisted that that was the sort by which they had paid to travel. As a matter of fact the Columbia was not due to sail for a fortnight, but the emigrants absolutely refused to go by the Astoria, because she did not come up to their expectations in the matter of funnels. They insisted on three funnels or nothing. When the Astoria had dropped down the Clyde as far as Greenock, an attempt was made to get the Russian emigrants to join her there, but without avail. Possibly if they had gone to Greenock they could not have been persuaded to embark on a tug in order to reach the ship for foreign emigrants have before now been known to refuse to step on board of a tender believing that if they once did so they would be carried right across the Atlantic in one of thee small boats.

There are only three applicants this year for the Rothesay wedding dowry, for which the Marquis of Bute left a sum of 1,00 0pounds, the interest to be given annually to the desriving brides of the town by the magistrates. The applicants are Jessie Bell, 23; Elizabeth Mary Doheerty, 26; and Catharine Campbell, 24. Bell and Campbell are domestic servants, while Doherty is a nurse. One of the conditions of the gift is that the Magistrates on handing over the money shall read to the recipients the first eleven verses of the second chapter of St. John.

Fears are entertained by the Glasgow volunteers that under the reorganized military system there will be universality of dress and that the kilt may be abolished. There are five batallions of Highland Light Infantry Volunteers in Glasgow, and of the only two are permitted to wear the kilt. The probable adoption of the universal dress, was recently mentioned by General Acland, who said that the distinction between regulars and volunteers would be more in name than anything else.

AN EARLY PIONEER.

Remarkable Old Man Who Lived Fifty Years In Cariboo.

The other day a remarkable old man, one of the early pioneers of the interior of British Columbia, made his way from the Cariboo gold district to the town of Ashcroft, and boarded a train for the east. It was the first railway train he had ever seen, the electric lights, too, and all the other sights of modern civilization were entirely new to him.

In 1852 this man, James Sivenwright by name, then twenty-one years of age, left his home in Scotland and sailed for America. He landed in New York, where for several years he worked as a mechanic. He soon tired, however, of the tedious routine and decided to strike out for the west. In 1859 he crossed the Isthmus of Panama and up the coast to San Francisco, which was then a trading post. California did not appeal to him, and he embarked on a vessel for Victoria, arriving there in the month of September. He wintered there and that season engaged in hunting on the Mainland and the Island, some being done on the very ground where now stands Vancouver. In February, with a party of miners he followed the Fraser River up to Lytton, and for two years engaged in mining between that place and Lillooet. He then went to Cariboo, and for forty-five years followed mining in that section with varied success.

Such was the lure of the country of mines and big game, that Sivenwright lived for nearly fifty years there, without venturing into the world of men and changing life that is constantly pushing back the old frontiers. It was not from dullness of mind, but clearly from choice, that he kept to the interior, for to a newspaper reporter he said: "I had read and seen pictures of railway trains, and I knew what to expect when I came here. Although my sight was not educated to modern times, I kept my mind in training by reading mechanical publications."

Recently Sivenwright, who is now seventy-six years of age, resolved to return to Scotland to end his days, so he emerged from the gold district, and took a train for the east.

Canada's Climate.

The weatherman, R. F. Stupart, recently gave an address on the climate of Canada before the Ottawa Canadian Club. The perfection of our summer and autumn was the salient feature of our climate, not the cold of winter. After showing that climate does not depend altogether on distance from the equator, but on altitude, size of land area, and circulation of the earth's atmosphere, since Toronto is 550 miles south of London, Mr. Stupart described the climate of the various provinces.

He was dubious as to whether the country lying between Lakes Athabasca and Slave and Hudson Bay can ever be used for agricultural purposes. At Fort Churchill the mean temperature of June is no higher than that of MacLeod for April, and for July not as high as in Mackenzie River at the Arctic circle. With regard to Northern Ontario from the height of land to James Bay there is nothing in temperature conditions to prevent this being a good agricultural country almost to the shores of the bay.

Satisfactory Explanation.

Little Dot was drawing a picture with pen and ink on her paper. It turned out to be a cat without a tail.

"Where is the tail?" asked the mother.

She looked puzzled for a moment and then replied:

"Why, it's in the ink bottle yet."—Chicago Tribune.

NO DRESS SUIT, NO DINNER.

London Hotel Where Not Even an Earl Can Dine in Street Clothes.

Never was the question of propriety in matters of dress so sharply tested as the other evening when a well known English nobleman and his wife were refused admission to the Savoy restaurant in London at the dinner hour because neither was in evening attire. The nobleman is an earl, bearing one of the proudest titles in England. He protested, but the head waiter, polite but obdurate, said the rule could not be changed for all the wearers of coronets in the realm.

To dine at the Savoy restaurant or even to be served with coffee in the adjoining foyer it is absolutely essential that a lady wear a dinner gown. The escort naturally must wear a dress suit. This rule has been unbroken ever since the Savoy was opened. Those who don't care to dress eat the same viands and drink the same wine in the grill room.

The Savoy is the only remaining rampart of this peculiarly English fashion. At all other famous hotels in London known to traveling Americans the management is ever ready to make exceptions. At the Ritz, for example, the manager says the whole thing resolves itself into a matter of tact and discretion.

"We know our guests," he said. "Naturally an extremely rare one of them fails to dress for dinner, but when such a thing does happen the guest himself is the first person who desires to be inconspicuous. We prefer that every one should be dressed, and should a stranger come in in street attire he probably would be told that all the tables, to our great regret, already were taken, but the guest never would be forbidden to take dinner where he wishes."

The manager of Claridge's made a similar statement. "It rarely happens," he said, "that any of our guests appear at the dinner hour without being in evening dress and still rarer that they would care to dine in the restaurant under such conditions, but such cases do arise, especially at this season of the year. For instance, a man arrives from Paris, finds his family already in the restaurant and wants to dine and chat. It would not only be unkind, but unjust and bad taste, to insist that he first change his clothes. We have no fixed rule on the subject. The whole matter is one of tact and common sense."—Exchange.

Gold Stealing In Australia.

There have recently been unpleasant revelations as to the extent to which the stealing of gold by the miners is carried on in Australia. Some authorities estimate that as much as a million pounds' worth of gold is lost every year by the Australian mining companies in this way. Most of the mining centers are haunted by a shady class of nominal "gold buyers," who are really the accomplices of the dishonest miners, the "fences" in criminal slang. Representatives of the mining companies in Bendigo, where a record number of cases of gold stealing have recently occurred, have met in conference to consider the best means of dealing with the evil. As one way of checking the evil, it was decided to establish a register of all the miners employed in the Bendigo district, so that the movements and migrations of dismissed or reasonably suspected men might be traced and observed. In this way it is hoped to prevent the thieves getting employment in other mines.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Bondholders' Unclaimed Money.

The postoffice profits slightly by the destruction of stamps which have been paid for and the treasury gets the benefit of bills which are lost and never found. A large source of irregular profit lies in the failure of bondholders to present their bonds for redemption. Unclaimed money in the treasury due to bondholders amounted to nearly a million dollars in 1861, and the sum is much greater now. Of a loan which fell due in 1900 the sum of $32,000 remains unclaimed. Nearly $100,000 is still unpaid of the 5 per cent bonds which were due in 1904. This year over $100,000,000 thirty year 4 per cent bonds came due on July 1. Special inducements were offered to secure early redemption. Yet at the end of the month $13,000,000 still stood in the treasury on this account, although interest has ceased.—Youth's Companion.

For National Betterment.

The Governor-General, Lord Grey, speaking recently before the inaugural luncheon of the Women's Canadian Club, Montreal, at which Lady Drummond presided, highly recommended the work done by the men's Canadian Clubs throughout the Dominion. Co-operative union was necessary for the attainment of national betterment, and Canadian Clubs made for national, not party good.

He hoped the example would soon be taken up in other cities.

No two people, Lord Grey said, were more in need of each other than the French and English. The blending of the best qualities of each would make the best sort of man.

In reply to the question, "What can the women of Canada do to help their country" he said that they should shut the doors of their houses against men who corrupt domestic and national life, and close their drawing-rooms to men who, in sport, business or politics, hit below the belt.

Her Cap Set.

"Beg pardon," said Mr. Kadley, "but isn't your last name Ketcham?"

"That," replied Mrs. Ketcham, the charming young widow, "is my latest name. I—er—sincerely hope it is not to be my last."—Philadelphia Press.

"Local Option is a failure in Owen Sound"

In its issue of November 22, 1907, "The Pioneer," which is the leading Prohibition organ of Ontario, rests the whole case for Local Option upon these words: "Owen Sound is the largest town under Local Option in Ontario. If Local Option leads to business depression, to increased drinking, to increased law violation, as the liquor interests declare it will, those results would have been felt in Owen Sound." In other words—if Local Option is a success anywhere, if Local Option ever had a fair test, it is in Owen Sound. Here is the TRUTH about what Local Option has actually done for Owen Sound:

It Has Hurt Trade

Local Option has NOT lessened drunkenness, has NOT improved business nor the financial position of the people generally. Neither has it improved the moral tone of the citizens as a whole, but, on the contrary, Local Option HAS INJURED LOCAL TRADE and loweredthe moral well-being of very many.

Matthew Kennedy,
Mayor of Owen Sound.

It Has Multiplied Failures

In Owen Sound there have been more failures in the 19 months under Local Option than there were in seven years previous to Local Option. Property has depreciated in value from 20 to 25 per cent. Illegal selling of liquor is now carried on in over 100 places in town. Under the license system boys would not touch liquor, — under Local Option they are now carring bottles.

J. P. Raven,
Banker.

It Has Created Drunkards

Local Option has been detrimental to the interests of Owen Sound, commercially and morally. It has been the means of young men drinking whisky who used to be satisfied with a glass of lager beer. I am of the firm opinion that a strictly enforced license system is far better in controlling the liquor trade.

Samuel Lloyd
of Lloyd & Scully.
Wholesale Dealers in Farm Produce.

It Has Banished Prosperity

The Division Court returns show that the citizens of Owen Sound have been less prosperous under Local Option because of hampered trade, and consequently less able to pay their debts. In 1905, the year before Local Option went into force, 584 suits were entered for trial. In 1906, there were 661 suits entered, And in 1907, up to only November 26, there were 778 suits arising from debts. Certified by

Tucker & Patterson, Barristers.

"We, the undersigned, citizens of the town of Owen Sound, beg to state that Local Option has not resulted in the lessening of drunkenness or the use of intoxicating liquors since it came into force in this town. We believe that, as compared with the working of the Ontario Liquor License Act, Local Option is a failure. Despite the diligent efforts of a most capable Government License Liquor Inspector, drunkenness is unquestionably far more prevalent amongst young men and boys, and far more open, especially on Sundays, than under the Ontario Liquor License Act."

"Dated November 27th, 1907." (Signed)

It Creates Discord

"I consider Local Option detrimental to the best interests of the town from a business point of view, as it has created discord and set up one portion of the town against the other. From a moral or temperance standpoint, I consider it the worst blow the temperance cause ever had in the town. I believe it will take a great many years before the sympathy of the people as a whole can again be secured through temperance movements, such as we had before Local Option was carried.

It has created more drinking among young men than there ever was in the town under a good license system. The arguments advanced when Local Option was advocated that the working classes would have more money to spend in foodstuffs have been proves to be absolutely wrong, as it has not been the case at all."

J. R. BROWN, Secretary Board of Trade, Owen Sound.

Here are represented the important industries of Owen Sound—concerns employing nearly 1,500 men—the Mayor, a prominent banker, a leading firm of barristers, well-known men in the fruit and produce trades—the business backbone of the community. They KNOW that Local Option is a FAILURE. They KNOW it increases drunkenness, increases debt, demoralizes the young, promotes lawlessness, retards progress. In the face of their positive statements, can you believe Local Option would work any differently where YOU live?

If YOU vote for local option you help debauch YOUR town

Canadian Trade in 1907 Greater Than in Year 1906

Notwithstanding Great Curtailment of Production, The Dominion Has Had The Best Year in It's History, Says Bradstreets---Outlook For The Future is Encouraging

Bradstreet's annual trade review on Canadian trade and commerce says as follows:—

A review of Canadian trade and commerce for the past year should be divided into two parts; that recording events and conditions of the first seven or eight months, and that dealing with the latter third of the year.

The first period was, to all appearances, one of continued expansion and growth in all lines of activity, as was the entire year 1906. About July or August, however, the stringency in money began to make itself felt; fears were expressed regarding the approaching harvests, and the coming of hard times began to be discussed upon every hand. Following the trouble in the United States stock markets, Canadian securities fell to lower points than they had touched since 1903. This was less by reason of Canadian losses in New York than it was owing to the impossibility of obtaining money upon call loans.

Banks Exercise Caution

The banks took all possible means to strengthen their position. Loans on speculative real estate and stocks were sharply called in, and there was no money to be had even for legitimate industrial enterprises. Existing loans of that class were called, and manufacturers found it necessary to economize, with the result that in many cases they curtailed production and dismissed some of their employees.

General Trade Shows Gain

The immigration to this country was larger than ever, and this has added to the number of unemployed workmen. With these conditions in view, and considering also that crops promised none too well, retailers during the last two months of the year were cautious in the matter of buying, and wholesale trade in almost all branches was to some extent affected.

Actual conditions governing agricultural and other Canadian industries, however, do not, in the opinion of the best informed, warrant a prolonged continuance of even slight trade reaction, and it is felt that the likelihood of widespread depression has been overdiscounted. These two or three months have somewhat lessened trade activity have closed the eyes of most Canadians to the fact that a general summing up of the trade year 1907 shows a large net gain over that of 1906.

Western Grain High

In agriculture the net gain has not been enormous. The total yield of grain has been below that of last year, but, as was predicted in Bradstreet's, high prices have given the farmers a greater cash return than was the case twelve months ago. Between sixty-five million and seventy million bushels of wheat comprised the western yield. Of this, about thirty-five million bushels have been marketed at a price 24 to 28 cents a bushel higher than was received last year. Corn has sold 16 to 17 cents higher; peas, 13 to 14 cents higher; oats, 14 to 16 cents higher, and hay, $4 to $5 per ton. Bad weather affected the condition of the grain but it has so far graded surprisingly well. Fifty-two per cent. of the northwestern grain marketed was of contract grade—a very satisfactory showing in view of the late season.

Eastern Crops Light

Ontario crops were below 1906 as to total yield, but were well up to the average as to general quality, and higher prices assured substantial gains to the farmers over last year. Quebec crops were poor; those of the Maritime Provinces fair to good, and those of British Columbia good.

During November considerable trouble was experienced in the matter of moving grain to market, but easier money later greatly lessened the difficulties attending the movement.

Railroad Extension

The past year has perhaps been chiefly remarkable on account of the tremendous strides that have been made in railway extension. The building of the new Grand Trunk Pacific has gone on apace. During the present season grading and track laying have gone on from several points. Track laying has proceeded westerly from Portage la Prairie and easterly from Saskatchewan, a distance of about four hundred miles, and it is expected that the rails will be joined this winter. There is at present under contract about 1,844 miles of road, upon which much work has been done this year. It comprises the section between Winnipeg and Edmonton, a branch from the main line down to Fort William, on Lake Superior, and 850 miles of the eastern division. The grading between Winnipeg and Edmonton has been pretty well completed, and it is confidently expected that the line between these points will be finished by autumn of 1908. Other Canadian roads have been pushing work on new branches and on improvements to existing roads. The Canadian Northern is rapidly extending both east and west its intended transcontinental line.

Balance Against Canada

The balance of foreign trade was heavily against Canada. For the year ending June 30 (which are the latest figures obtainable) the excess of imports over exports amounted to $188,780,000—the largest in the history of the country. A heavy decline in the volume of butter and cheese exports and in those of lumber to Europe materially contributed to this decline in exports. The make of dairy produce was light owing to poor pasturage, but prices ruled high. The extraordinary rapid increase of the population also worked against an increase of exports, the domestic consumption of goods having grown to such an extent as to in some degree catch up with production.

Domestic Business Heavy

There was a considerable increase in the volume of wholesale dry goods business over 1906, although a lessening of activity made itself felt recently. Cotton manufacturers had a busy season, and much exceeded the output of 1906.

Hardware trade was heavy.

The building trade experienced a period of quietness late in the year, although total permits for almost every city in 1907 much exceeded those of 1906.

The volume of grocery trade showed an increase, particularly with the newer portions of the country.

The boot and shoe business was fair, although high prices of leather adversely affected the industry.

The scarcity of money affected the output of lumber, and wages are declining.

The United States' demand for pulp wood and the need of railway ties in Canada will offset diminished trade in other directions.

Shipping interests had a good year, passenger traffic having been large in all directions.

The general trend in commodity prices was upward, and in the large majority of instances they are still firm.

Generally speaking, wholesalers were satisfied with collections, and throughout these compared well with those of 1906.

Immigration

The number of immigrants arriving was larger than that of any previous year, totalling about 288,000. They were of a good class, mostly from the British Isles, and did much in opening up new country. The new districts which were settled in 1907, and those settled in 1906 and the year before, were huge factors in the growth of domestic trade. New Ontario is an example. The year's shipments of ore from that district amounted to 13,456 tons, valued at about $3,000,000, as against 5,129 tons, valued at $2,000,000 in 1906.

Conditions Improving

Although general trade at the close of the year inclined to be quiet, the outlook is, on the whole, cheerful. Money is rapidly working easier, vast sums are being spent on railway construction, and the roads are already in the market for large supplies of rolling stock.

As has been said, 1907 has shown continued national growth, although there was some reaction toward its close. Some such reaction was necessary after a long period of great prosperity and growth, and Canada will go ahead all the more rapidly after the breathing space afforded by a short period of retrenchment.

Simple Recipe for Bladder Trouble Should Be Valued by Elderly People

GIVES THIS VALUED RECIPE

The great majority of men and women at the age of 50 years begin to feel the first signs of advancing age in some form of kidney trouble and bladder weakness. Few are entirely free from that torturous disease, rheumatism, which is not a disease in itself, but a symptom of deranged function of the kidneys which have become sluggish, failing in their duty of sifting and straining the poisonous waste matter, uric acid, etc., from the blood, permitting it to remain and decompose, setting about the joints and muscles, causing intense pain and suffering.

The bladder, however, causes the old folks the most annoyance, especially at night and early morning.

A noted authority in a recent article stated that he has wonderful success with the old-time "vegetable treatment. He states: "Of sixteen cases of bladder troubles and rheumatism which have been treated with this treatment only one very complicated case failed to fully yield to its remarkable influence. It is the most harmless treatment I have ever found to clean the system of rheumatic poisons; remove irritation of the bladder, and remove urinary difficulties of the old people. It is a true vitalizing tonic to the entire kidney and urinary structure, reinvigorating the entire system."

What he terms "old vegetable treatment" consists of the following simple prescription, the ingredients which can be obtained from any good pharmacy at small cost: Compound Kargon, one ounce; Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Shake well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and upon going to bed, also drink plenty of water. This prescription, though simple, is always effective in the diseases and afflictions of the kidneys and bladder. 14

To the Electors of Peterborough:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—Having been duly nominated a candidate to contest the mayoralty of Peterborough for the year 1908, I accept this nomination and respectfully solicit your votes and influence to secure my return.

I had no aspirations for the position and no thought o entering the contest for the Mayor's Chair 'till a few days ago. I was waited upon by some of the most substantial of our citizens and presented with a requisition signed by several hundred taxpayers urging me to enter the field as a candidate. I could do no other than regard a requisition signed by a large and representative number of citizens as a call of duty. Consequently, as I have, during my 45 years' residence in Peterborough, tried to do my duty faithfully to the place in which all my material interests are centred, I have decided to place myself in the hands of the electors.

If I am chosen as Mayor I shall use all my ability to practically apply the motto of my life—"The interests of Peterboro' first, last and always." I am known to you all by virtue of a residence of 45 years in the city and through a corresponding experience in business, which, through the kind co-operation of the public, I have been favored in making a success.

Though I have not sought public office any more than I am seeking the present offered position, I may say that for four terms in succession, I was returned as alderman without soliciting or attending a nomination or soliciting a vote. I felt that both as an honour and a flattering mark of confidence, which I endeavoured to justify to the fullest of my ability. And if elected as Mayor I shall discharge the duties of the office to the full extent of my powers and with a single eye to the promotion of the best interests of the city.

This is the platform upon which I can and do appeal to your support; that is the platform upon which I will justify your choice, if you do me the honour to elect me. It is not practicable for me, even if it were in line with my inclination, to personally call upon the electors. I hold that the office should seek the man rather than the man the office. I have no personal interests to serve; my only object in accepting the nomination for Mayor is to serve the best interests of the city of Peterborough. With cordial wishes for a Happy New Year to all, I remain,

Your obedient servant,

H. RUSH

ARCHIBALD A. McINTYRE

Respectfully solicits your Vote and Influence for 4th Term

FOR ALDERMAN FOR 1908

Wishing you all a Happy and Prosperous New Year

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE CITY OF PETERBOROUGH!

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN,—

In deference to numerous requests I have consented to place myself at your disposal for the position of Aldermen for 1908.

While I cannot claim to be familiar with the various qualifications which an alderman should possess, such business capacity as I have is placed at your service. I therefore ask your support in the effort to assist in maintaining for the city of Peterborough the position and standing which it is its right to possess.

The management of the city's affairs on business lines is my platform, and if the electors do me the honour of electing me, I will make the general welfare and progress of the municipality my aim.

As I will not have time to make a personal canvass, the electors are asked to show their approval of my candidature by marking their votes for me without personal solicitation.

4d153 Respectfully yours,

GEO. A. GILLESPIE

ALDERMAN DUNCAN FOR 1908

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE CITY OF PETERBOROUGH:

Ladies and Gentlemen, — Having served you as Alderman for three years I once again at the request of a large number of ratepayers, offer myself as a candidate for re-election. During last year I held the important position of chairman of the Board of Works, thereby acquiring a knowledge of municipal affairs that should enable me to serve as a member of the Board for 1908. If elected for another term I shall use my best endeavours to advance the interests of the community as a whole without fear or favour, and will duly consider such measures as are calculated to assure to my fellow citizens a maximum of benefits at a minimum of expenditure.

Trusting that you will show more honour me with your confidence, I have, to remain,

Your obedient servant,

GEO. H. DUNCAN

ELECTIONS IN EARLY DAYS OF THE CITY'S HISTORY WERE GENERALLY VERY DISORDERLY

Mr. Edward Green, Sixty Years a Resident Tells of The Conditions Existing 50 Years Ago—Whisky Plentiful and Police Scarce

GIVES SOME REMINISCENCES

In view of the fact that Monday is election day, some information about the elections in the days when Peterborough was but a small town should be of interest. Believing this to be so, the Examiner yesterday interviewed Mr. Edward Green, Water street, one of the oldest residents of the city, who has been living here for nearly sixty years, and is therefore thoroughly conversant with the conditions which existed in the earlier days of Peterborough's existence.

Elections in those times were conducted in a widely different manner than they are at present. While in modern days some campaign meetings may be marked by hostile demonstrations, and candidates get a noisy reception from the forces of an opposing party, there is rarely any violence and the elections are carried out in an orderly manner. Fifty years ago, however, conditions were very different, and elections were marked by frequent fights. In fact, fighting was a feature of almost every public event at that period in the city's history. If the "scraps" did not occur at election time they would come afterwards, and often the members of the defeated party would seek revenge by attacking their opponents. Mr. Green remembers one occasion on which a brick house on Charlotte street, or Hell street, as it was called then, about where Dr. McCulloch's residence now is, was wrecked by a party of men seeking revenge upon its occupants.

A similar case occurred in a hotel situated where the National now stands. A Frenchman was the landlord, and he had boarding with him a number of men of his own nationality who had in some way incurred the enmity and dislike of a number of men. One night the hotel was stormed by the enemies of the Frenchman, and the occupants of the hotel were terribly assaulted by the mob. Some of the more fortunate managed to make their escape to the river and got to the other side by means of canoes. The remainder were badly bruised and battered up by the crowd on vengeance bent.

On election days in modern times all the bars must be closed, but it was different then, and there was any amount of whisky to be procured during the campaign. The hotels kept open house, the candidates issued orders to treat everybody, and the result was that there was plenty to drink for everybody, and some of them made good use of the opportunity.

There were only four polling places in the early days, one for each ward, and the polls were kept open for two or three days, so it was some time before the ratepayers could tell who had been elected. There were no newspaper specials gotten out then, nor bulletin services to keep people in close touch with the campaign, although there was the same interest in the result as exists at the present time.

A man who had not paid his taxes was not allowed to vote, and Mr. Green remembers many cases in which a man who came along to cast his vote was prevented by the authorities because, in answer to the question as to whether he had paid his taxes, he replied in the negative.

The police force then was confined to one man, and he must have had a busy time, especially at elections. There was a spirit of lawlessness in the city, and it was impossible for one policeman to keep them in order, although he did the best he could, and was often assisted by lawabiding citizens who helped him when called upon. With liquor so plentiful and no police protection, it was no wonder that conditions were bad election times, and the marvellous part is that there were not more bad fights than there were.

CHILDREN GIVEN A GOOD TIME

Little Tots of Charlotte St. Church Had Annual Treat

In the Charlotte street Methodist Sunday school room last night, the third annual children's treat was held with great success. The little ones were accompanied by their parents, and altogether about 350 were present. The supper was a feature of the affair, and was thoroughly enjoyed. Rev. H. M. Manning was present and helped to make the children feel at home. The special committee on arrangements deserve great credit for their untiring efforts in providing such an enjoyable event for the children.

The following programme was presented:

Chorus, At Christmas Time, by Sunday school children.
Prayer, with the Lord's prayer chanted.
Recitation, Annie Christie.
Recitation, Willie Parsons.
Recitation, Allan Harnelf.
Motion song, Three Little Kittens, by the members of the Primary Class.
Recitation, Hugh Austin.
Recitation, Daisy Stocker.
Recitation, Harold Parker.
Solo, Greta LeBar.
Motion Song, Sleep Little Baby, by 9 little girls.
Recitation, by Annie Christie.

RE-OPENING OF THE SCHOOLS MONDAY

The Collegiate Institute and the Public Schools of the city re-open on Monday for the winter term.

No changes have been made in either the organization or staffs of teachers at the South Central, West Ward or East City Schools. These schools have been made ready for the re-opening, and the necessary promotions will be made on resuming work.

Some necessary changes have been made at the King Edward School. Miss Sloan of Owen Sound will take charge of the form heretofore taught by Miss Pratt, and Miss Macnecar of Dunnville will have charge of a new form, organized to relieve the overcrowding. Everything is in readiness at this school for the re-opening.

At the Queen Alexandra School two rooms have been fitted up and are in readiness for the commercial students of the Collegiate Institute. The fitting up of the new rooms for the Public School pupils of this school will not be completed for a few days, but the school work will not be interrupted, only the organization will remain the same as during last term, until the new rooms are ready.

No changes will be made at the Central School until the new rooms of the Queen Alexandra are ready.

When the new rooms of the Queen Alexandra are completed, Principal Walkey will have two teachers added to his staff.

The changes at the Queen Alexandra will be made at the end of the first week of school, and these changes will not only help to fill up this school, but will relieve the overcrowding and improve the organization of the Central School.

The opening of these additional rooms should improve matters generally and be better for both teacher and pupil.

SOME PERSONALITIES AND EVENTS ENTERING INTO THE MUNICIPAL CONTEST ON MONDAY NEXT

Resume of The Record of The Aldermanic Candidates — Polls Open at Nine O'Clock

On Monday morning, at nine o'clock, the eleven polling places in the city, will be thrown open to the hundreds of ratepayers who will mark their ballots for the man they wish to have Mayor of the city for the coming year; twelve Aldermen, or as many as they desire to see elected; five of the six candidates for the Board of Education; and one of the two candidates in the field for Water Commissioner.

In addition to the above there will be a plebiscite on Ald. Elliott's Garbage bylaw, and the proposal of the Water Commissioners to impose a frontage tax on vacant lots abutting on water mains.

That the election day will be a lively one is fully expected. The interest has been made keen from the fact that every one of the civic departments will be contested. In addition to that the Water Commissioners' bylaw proposing a frontage tax on all vacant property past which run the water mains, will be voted upon and this is also creating widespread interest throughout the city.

There are 17 candidates in the field for aldermanic honours, 6 for the Board of Education, and 2 for the vacancy in the Water Commission. The polls close at 5 o'clock. The entire list is as follows:

For Mayor

R. F. McWILLIAMS.

DARING HOLD-UP OF AGED HOSTLER IN THE ROYAL HOTEL YARD

About eight o'clock last night, after putting out the lights in the stables, Patrick Maye, the hostler for the Royal Hotel, was held up by what he considered to be a vicious-looking character, and struck on the nose. He was badly stunned, and his nose was cut. Some persons just then came out of the backdoor of the hotel, and the man hastened across the yard and made good his escape.

Mr. Maye had been in the bar talking to some men in the evening, and showed them one ten and two five dollar gold pieces, a present he had received from his daughters in Rochester. He also had fifty dollars in bills, and was wearing a gold watch at the time.

About eight o'clock he left the bar and went to the stable to put out the lights for the evening. The night was quite dark, and he did not see anybody in the yard. After turning off the switch he was about to shut the door when a man leaped from the shadows and struck him on the nose. He was about to strike him again when the hotel door opened, and the hold-up ran away.

His assailant was a medium sized man and stout. He wore light trousers, a short dark coat, and a Felora hat. He believes that the man was in the bar when he showed the money and that it was somebody who was pretty hard up. He saw enough of the man to give a good description of him, and is sure that he would know him again.

Mr. Maye is an old man, in his 72nd year, and is still quite vigorous. He was so proud of his daughters' thoughtfulness that he was showing the coins to everyone, never suspecting that anyone would try and steal them from an old man like him. The blow he received is still giving him considerable pain, but he says that he will be more careful of his money in the future.

PROVINCIAL OFFICER INVITED TO SPEAK AT ANNUAL MEETING

The annual meeting of the Children's Aid Society is being arranged for Friday evening, January 17. This year an effort will be made to prepare a programme which will be of general interest to the public. Accordingly, Mr. J. J. Kelso, chief officer in charge of the department of neglected children, has been invited to lecture before the meeting, and if the above date is convenient to him he will be present, as he has expressed his willingness to attend. In his address he will probably deal with the subject in which the Society is interested, the care of the children. Mr. Kelso has had considerable experience in the work and will doubtless present his address in a skilful manner.

During the evening the officers for the ensuing year will be elected, and the annual reports will be received. Those interested in the Society should keep the 17th clear and endeavour to be present.

PICTURE OF OLD HUNTER ST. BUILDING GIVES IDEA OF THE CITY THIRTY-SIX YEARS AGO

On Exhibition in Primeau Bros. Barber Shop—Board Walls and Rough Cast Buildings Were Then in General Use

An interesting picture of a section of Hunter street, taken more than thirty-six years ago is one of the mural decorations of Primeau Bros.' barber shop. It is a photograph in excellent preservation, of a number of stores that were destroyed by fire in the early seventies. The present buildings occupying the site are those of the Best Hardware store, O'Connell's real estate office, and perhaps another store still further west.

It is a picture of Peterborough in the days of the broad wooden sidewalks, store window panes of the 8x10 inch variety, and low buildings of only a storey and a half, and mostly constructed of wood, with a rough-cast or plaster outside wall. It shows quite distinctly three stores. Farthest west is a doctor's office, with a large sign in front, showing that it was occupied by Dr. McCullough.

Next door coming east, is a barber shop where a man named Meyette, a brother-in-law of Mr. Primeau, wielded the scissors and razor just as is done to-day. The most easterly part of this building is a hotel, which was at that time occupied by Mr. Ted Cavanagh, then new in the business. There was a lane east of the building leading to the hotel yards, which occupied the lot in which the postoffice has been erected. In fact, on the corner of Hunter and Aylmer streets were the stables in connection with the yard.

St. Paul's Spire

Just between the right border of the picture and the east end of the hotel there is an opening, and in the in the distance the tall steeple of St. Paul's Church is clearly discernible. The whole picture is very interesting to the new generation who have heard many stories of Peterborough of the past, but whose imagination fails to conceive a real idea of it.

The building just described, composed of the three stores mentioned, occupies the centre of the photograph. The window panes in the hotel front are the small kind of which but few are used to-day. In the other two stores, however, large panes are used. The building is two storeys in height, with a gabled roof forming a garret. Upstairs are windows which probably look out from bedrooms. The exterior of the building seems to be of plaster, which is boarded up from the sidewalk about six feet for protection from damage by people who undoubtedly gathered there.

Although taken about two score years ago, the picture is very clear and is an interesting relic of the times of our fathers.

THE POINT TO CONSIDER

Do the electors of Peterborough take municipal matters seriously enough?

Do they realize that the choice of a Mayor and Council is the most important matter that can engage their votes?

Do the electors realize that the mere personality of a mayor is a matter of little moment, but that his qualifications and capacity for good service are all-important?

In casting their votes Monday the electors will make the casting vote between a continuance of ineffective and extravagant and unbusiness-like methods and a change to prudent, careful and business-like methods.

The electors should seriously ponder the situation. They should consider that the material interests of Peterborough are at stake. They should reflect how the progress and good name of the city are involved in extravagant expenditures, interrupted by weak financial management.

The huge over-draft of $110,000 represents a serious obligation. After we have paid $128,000 in taxes and after we sell our debentures at a high rate of interest, we shall not have enough proceeds to wipe out the over-draft.

We have this as a specimen of general inefficient management of our finances.

The electors should study carefully the financial situation. The average ratepayer may not fully appreciate the situation, but business and banking men regard it with grave concern.

The credit of a man or a city is as delicate a thing as a woman's honour. If a bank which is always open for business declined or does not seek the account of a business man or firm, that very fact would cast suspicion upon the soundness of their standing, or the unbusiness-like management of their affairs.

The banks did not respond to the invitation of the city to take charge of the city's account. There must have been some reason for this? It may have been financial stringency. But that did not prevent the city authorities from plunging into large expenditures for sewers and pavements, even to the extent of building sewers on streets where there are no water mains and in opposition to a legal majority of the ratepayers affected. The financial stringency did not prevent an extravagant expenditure in cutting down Armour's hill for a road to the lift lock—spending three or four times the estimate of the engineer. A watchful Mayor and Finance Committee could in the face of financial stringency, have got authority from the Council to spend the additional money or cease the work. But it seems the money was spent to the extent of $800 or $1,000 beyond the authorized appropriation.

The electors should ask themselves if these conditions are in the interests of the city. They may not involve very large amounts, but they all combine to explain the situation.

The situation is simply this. We have an immense over-draft at the bank, the banks don't seem to want the city account. This means that there is a feeling that the financial management of the city is not worthy of confidence.

Let the electors think over these things without passion or prejudice, with a single eye to the best interests of the city and vote accordingly on Monday.

We have no guarantee of any better management if the administration of last year is continued.

We have good reason to expect that the application of business-like methods will make a decided improvement.

We want a Mayor and Council which will lift Peterborough from the financial and administrative muddle of the past year, set the city on its feet and inaugurate a sane, sober and business-like management of its affairs.

This is the chief point to consider.

MR. HILL'S CLAIMS

The claims of some electors that some members of the Council should be replaced on account of inefficient or defective service is understandable. But there is no justice in replacing any man who has done good work and has a good record. Mr. W. H. Hill, the retiring member of the Board of Water Commissioners, is again a candidate. It can be urged, in favour of his return, that he has had twelve years' experience with the waterworks, and no blame has been found with his record as member of a commission that has managed the waterworks with an efficiency that has won universal approval and produced splendid results. Mr. Hill, as the other members of the Board, has shown skill, care and efficiency, and with his ability, experience and record, his return to membership on the Board of Water Commissioners will be in the interests of the city.

LIFT LOCK ROAD "SCANDAL"

The construction of a road-way through Armour's Hill, to the Lift Lock, is referred to as a "scandal." It is not a scandal, in one sense. There is reason to believe that the money was expended under capable supervision, and that as good value as can be expected from civic expenditure, was secured. In this respect, there is no scandal. But the scandal consists in the amount expended, and in the circumstances under which it was spent. It is understood that $500 was the estimate, and appropriation, but, according to Mr. O'Brien's figures, the net cost was $2,385.28, between four and five times greater — nearly $1,900 more —than the estimate and appropriation. The scandal consists in the fact that the over-expenditure was made without the authority of the council, and, in the face of an extravagant general expenditure by all odds the greatest in the history of the city. If due care had been exercised the work could have been stopped when the appropriation was exhausted, and the city's interests would have suffered less than they have done in fact by contributing nearly $2,000 to an overdraft of $110,000, by unauthorized expenditure on a roadway that could have been postponed a year without any bones being broken. Herein consists the scandal. Herein is evidence of incompetency, carelessness, recklessness, which go to explain the serious financial condition Peterborough is in to-day. Is it not time for a change?

THE WATER WORKS BYLAW

The bylaw to provide for the extension of payment of frontage water tax to mains fronting all vacant property, demands the support of all who have a desire for cheaper water. This extension will permit the Water Commissioners to reduce the price of water by increasing the discount for prompt payment to 33 1-3 per cent. This will mean that a water rate bill for $1 can be paid for 66 2-3 cents. That is one good reason for passing the bylaw. Another more general in character, is the fact that the Water Commissioners want the bylaw to pass. When we consider how admirably and effectively they have managed the water works, we must conclude that they have the city's interests at heart in asking the electors to pass the bylaw. It is claimed that the bylaw will be unjust to the holders of vacant property. It will be just to the other ratepayers and not unjust to the persons mentioned. A water main passing a vacant property, increases its value, and fairness demands that this benefited property should pay its share of the expenditure which contributed to its increased value, and fairness demands that others should not bear all the burden of increasing the value of vacant property. The bylaw is in the public interest.

ALD. MORGAN'S CAUSE ENDORSED

A correspondent writes to the Examiner asking that Alderman Harry Morgan be re-elected. He says he has had only one term in the Council, that he was last year an acceptable representative of Ward Five, and that his re-election should be certain. The correspondent goes on to say that he is a valuable servant of the city; broad-minded, and liberal, has the courage of his convictions, and votes without fear or favour. He has been outspoken in all public affairs and believes nothing to good for Peterborough. When speaking at the opening of the new fire hall on New Year's Day, he said: "We have a good city, a good council, a good sanitary inspector, two good assessors, and Romaine street sewer, but they all want fixing. While the new fire hall is an improvement on the old one it needs some fixing to make it up-to-date. A few hundred dollars would do this. The city's business should be run on similar lines to private business." Alderman Morgan has taken considerable interest in the fire hall matters and thinks that Peterborough has as good a volunteer brigade as any in the world. Ward No. 5 will be glad to see Mr. Morgan re-elected by the whole city. He is a strong supporter of Union Labour, is popular, reliable, and his motto is "Peterborough first." The Examiner is pleased to give space to our correspondent's remarks.

A MECHANIC'S REASONS

For Supporting Mr. Rush For The Mayoralty For 1908,

COMPLAINS OF BAD STREETS

To the Editor of the Examiner,

Sir — I see that considerable interest is being taken in the mayoralty fight and I desire to say a word or two.

I have lived in Peterborough for nearly seventeen years, and have been employed in two different factories. I live on King street and am trying to pay for my little home, which I bought three years ago.

Now, without any apparent reason my assessment was raised $400 this fall, and I had made no improvements in my place, and the road in front of my door is in a disgraceful condition. I think that with all the money placed at the disposal of the Board of Works, some $17,000, better results should be shown. A walk around our streets shows the short-sighted policy of some of our representatives, of whom Mr. McWilliams is chief. I think he wanted the assessment run up to show what a big fellow he was; how much the city increased in material wealth, when he was mayor, and, generally, to display great results. Well, sir, he has counted on too much, and made too many people restless. I have talked with a number of my fellow employees in the shop, and almost to a man they are going to support Mr. Rush, who, we believe, is a man who is free from frills, vain ambition, and a desire to make too big a fellow out of himself.

Yours,
MECHANIC.

MR. GEO. HATTON ON BY-LAW

Gives Some Figures Regarding Cost of Water Pipes—System Used in Other Cities

NEW PLAN UNFAIR, HE SAYS

To the Editor of the Examiner:

As apparently the question of what is or is not right does not appeal to many the ultimate query being, "How does it affect me?" and leaving for a time the principle at issue, let us go into details.

The centre of business population, we are told, will vote for the by-law. Surely not. If we are to expect a thoughtful consideration of any question we should get it from our merchants, manufacturers and professional men. The man who votes on the basis that his ox is gored and he is the man who suffers or benefits is of a selfish and narrow-minded disposition. We expect a broader view to be taken by our citizens.

We are told that they, the merchants, etc., will load up the outlying districts with a view of relieving themselves of a portion of the water rate now charged them, and that the property of non-users of water and vacant property does not pay any sum or tax towards the water rates. The opponents of the by-law and the friends of Mr. Best say that this class of property pays more than its share to-day and always has. It pays for street watering, sewerage flushing, hydrant tax and fire protection in addition to the ordinary tax for schools, police protection, etc. In addition to all this property owners are to be subject, under the Water Commissioners new act, of confiscation of a maximum tax of five cents per lineal foot per annum for ever. fifty dollars per thousand feet, one hundred dollars per thousand feet should the property owner own property on each of that? seriously you know. An irresponsible Water Commission can exact this tax which, of course, virtually amounts to, as said before, confiscation.

One thousand feet of six inch pipe can be purchased and laid down, trenched and covered up at about sixty-five cents per foot. 1000 feet at 65c. per foot, $650.00; interest on $650.00 at 5 per cent. per annum, $32.50, and your property owners are liable to be taxed $100.00 a year for an outlay, the interest on same being $32.50, a net gain to the Commissioners of $67.50 per annum. All this, remember, in addition to the general taxes this class of property already pays. How many years would it take to get back the original outlay? Certainly tax vacant property, tax it out of existence, not by vote of the property owners but of the hobos and riffraff. As the property fronted by the main is improved in value, the unearned increment and that sort of stuff, assessors, if they do their sworn duty must increase the assessment of this class of property to a percentage probably ascertained by the Water Commissioners only. All this is a matter of detail—the principle at stake is lost sight of and must not even be considered.

Yours truly,
G. W. HATTON.

Reasons why

Vote for Best:—Water Commissioner.
Vote against the by-law.

The legislation was sneaked through at an adjourned hearing before the Private Bills Committee, no notice of same having been given to the opponents of the act, although when the question first came before the Private Bills Committee it was understood and agreed that only ratepayers entitled to vote should do so.

It should be voted on by the property owners only.

It is of the same class as a money by-law.

It is unfair, unconstitutional and not needed.

It rates now too low, raise them.

As profit last year is said to be $30,000, they are now higher than necessary to pay maintenance, interest and sinking fund and should be lowered.

Vacant property now pays all, if not more than its fair share of water tax.

Belleville consumers only pay. No tax to non-users and vacant property.

Galt consumers only pay. No tax to non-users and vacant property.

See letters from Belleville and Galt Water Commissioners printed below.

Toronto does not tax non-users or vacant property.

Property owners, your well will be arbitrarily closed, your property taxed whether or not you use city water.

The water at certain seasons, and when low, is very close to the danger line and why compel property owners who do not need or wish for city water to close their wells of clear, pure water and dpay money not required to the Water Commissioners.

Property owners can lay the pipes and cover them, hand them over to the city free at less than the rate proposed to be charged in many instances.

Land on the outskirts, land covered by water, land not saleable for years is to be taxed the same frontage tax as land in the centre of the city on the main business and residential streets and in immediate demand.

The following letters have been handed the Examiner by Mr. G. W. Hatton for publication re the Water Commissioners by-law:

G. W. Hatton, Esq., Barrister, Peterborough:

Dear Sir,—Referring to your letter of the 30th ultimo, I have to say that vacant lots and non-users of water are not charged any rate for water in Toronto. In any year, however, in which there is a deficit between revenue and expenditure, the difference is made up by a rate on all the rateable property, both real and personal, in the city. Only at such times do vacant lands and non-users of water become subject to a special rate.

Yours truly,
(Sgd.) R. T. COADY,
Treasurer.

Toronto, Jan. 3rd, 1908.

G. W. Hatton, Esq., Peterborough, Ont.:

Dear Sir,—Your letter of Dec. 30th last to the Chairman of the Water Commissioners of the Town of Galt was handed to me for reply. We make no direct charge against vacant land or non-users of water. What we do is to charge up to the town a sum for hydrant rental. This amounts to $5,500 per annum for about 135 hydrants. In this way every ratepayer pays something, whether he uses water or not.

Yours truly,
(Sgd.) JOSEPH McCARTNEY,
Secretary Galt Water Commission.

Galt, Jan. 2nd, 1908.

G. W. Hatton, Esq., Peterborough:

Dear Sir,—Your favour of the 30th instant addressed to Chairman of Water Commissioners has been handed to me for reply.

I may say that our Water Works Plant is virtually owned by the consumers only, the city guarantees the debentures only. Consumers are charged a rate sufficient to cover the cost of maintenance, interest and sinking fund. Vacant property and non-users are no taxed at all by the Water Department.

Yours truly,
(Sgd.) R. CROFT HULME,
Manager.

Belleville, Dec. 31, 1907.

RATEPAYER ENDORSES CAUSE OF MR. NELSON

Believes That East City Should Have a Representative on School Board

To the Electors of the City of Peterborough:

In supporting Mr. W. F. Nelson as candidate for Board of Education, I do so, believing that it is in the interests of the city. Although Mr. Nelson is a resident of Ashburnham, I think Peterborough people should endorse a candidate of East City to this honourable and responsible position. The general opinion of the business men, is, that the East City representative is a man of undoubted business ability, being thoroughly conversant with banking as well as general industrial business. His interests are all centred in Peterborough. Being not a stranger to teaching, he has some knowledge of the requirements of schools in general. Outside of business, I find him an active leader in the music department of the St. Paul's Sabbath School. I have every confidence in him that if elected, he will become one of the most efficient members of the board.

Yours truly,
RATEPAYER.

Lieut. Colonel Greenwood Commanding The Forces

Has Returned to South Africa After His Visit to Canada—Instructive Manoeuvres

DRILL IN THE TRANSVAAL

The Transvaal Leader, in a recent issue, gives an interesting account of the Railway Volunteers out with the armoured trains in South Africa, with the operations at Hatherley. Colonel H. S. Greenwood, who is well known in Peterborough, on account of his connection with the construction of the Trent Canal, was the commander of the forces in the manoeuvres. It was only last summer that Colonel Greenwood visited Peterborough, and he attended the opening of the Kirkfield Lift Lock, last summer. The Leader says:

The Central South African Railway Volunteer Corps have not yet adopted the system of standing camps extending over a week and with drill morning and evening, but have found an excellent substitute in having a run out to Hatherley on the armoured train, and there indulging in useful camp and field exercises. On Saturday afternoon the armoured trains one each from Johannesburg, Germiston, and Pretoria, concentrated at Hatherly and a camp was pitched till Sunday afternoon close to the station. About 300 men attended and were under the command of Lieutenant-Colonel Greenwood, who has just recently returned from Canada via England. The officers present included Major F R Collins, Major J M Fairweather, Captain Cornish Bowden, Captain Bland, Captain Brady, Captain Jones, the adjutant, Lieutenants R G Forbes, D S Brazil, E D J Taunt, Brown, Rogers, Fellows, Thiekens, Robinson, Walters, Corkill, Harvie, Evans, Rees, Young, Bowen and Carter, all of the C.S.A.R.C.; Lieutenants Morgan and Lieutenant Holder of the Signalling Company; Major J Lamont, C. S. O., Transvaal Volunteers; and Sergeant-Major G Cross, the Armourer.

Immediately on the arrival of the trains at Hatherley, the veld just below the station was a scene of great activity. Tents were quickly pitched, fires for cooking purposes were set a-going; helios were at work all round, the telephone to Pretoria was tapped, fatigue squads were employed in putting things in shipshape, and by nightfall so completely and thoroughly was everything done that the camping ground looked as if it had been in occupation for a week, alone only for an hour or so. Instructions were given in the pitching of tents and the general laying out of a camp, and the men no doubt benefited largely from the experience. After the evening meal nearly all the men who were not required for camp and other duties, were paraded and divided into two parties, and were practised in outpost work at night. The camp was surrounded by a cordon of sentries and the outposts were linked up by lamp signal. The interest of the operation was enhanced by the use of the searchlight but it is questionable where it was more useful to the attackers or to the defenders. Captain Brady, who was in charge of the party deputed to make the attempt to get into the camp, made a wide detour, and employed a feint at one part, but his main endeavour had not proceeded far enough when the cessation of operations to mark it possible to say whether he would have succeeded or not. Then the advent of the moon, too, would have had much to do in lessening the possibility of the attack succeeding.

Interesting and Instructive

The whole affair was interesting, instructive, and was carried out in a thoroughly capable manner. The outposts were well placed, and the sentries had good command of their front. Officers, however, might be advised to see that all the men under their command know exactly what is going on and what is expected of them. In the same way it is necessary for the officers of the outposts to be kept prompted on what is taking place in other parts, and in this connection it is not passable that the signalling was not all that it should have been. There was a paucity of information at the headquarters, and even just before the "Cease fire" went it was difficult to get from the different camp stations information of what had transpired. In a case such as that, where the camp itself was looked upon as supplying the reserve, and the purpose of the outposts would have been to have held off any attack, pending reinforcements, the necessity of complete signalling can be appreciated. As it was, what really happened was that Capt. Brady with the attackers sent a small party out to make a bold attempt, and so attract the attention of the defenders, while in the meantime his main force was working east and over the Pienaars river at a convenient drift. The movement was well carried out, and every advantage was taken of the formation of the ground to get as close as possible without being observed. Major Fairweather was having an interesting position to deal with when the operation ceased, a party of attackers having rushed on his position; but, as the closure had just then been applied, it was difficult to determine which side was entitled to the honours. One of the most interesting features of the operation was the employment of the searchlight. Ostensibly it was for the locating of the attackers, but as things turned out it was as much use to the attackers in locating the position of the defending forces' sentries, and also in giving the advancing party an opportunity of securing the ground before traversing it. So far as the attackers were concerned, their efforts were mainly concentrated in dodging the rays of the searchlight. Those in charge of the searchlight would realise in the light of after events how best the searchlight can be employed, and that is well to the front of the outpost line, so as not to give away the position of the sentries, and not to move it in definite regular sweeps so that those attacking have merely to lie down and wait till the beam of light has passed, and then dodge forwadr, and so on, repeating the performance.

Assisting Both Sides

Captain Brady in charge of the attack for instance, give the searchlight movements ordeit for assisting his advance, and then, on the other hand, Major Fairweather attributed the finding of the enemy to the use of the searchlight. That the searchlight is useful is undoubted, bt an important requirement is to confine the use and advantage to the side on whose behalf it is being operated. It is a military maxim that sentries should walk about so as to keep themselves awake, but that maxim is scarcely applicable when a searchlight is playing about, except, perhaps, when the sentries can be placed just under a ram, that whilst the searchlight lights up their front it does not reveal their position.

Meantime the gun teams on the armoured trains were putting in their time in a useful manner. Major Lamont, whose forte is gunnery, gathered the men on the 12-pounder an instructive lecture, dealing with the mechanism of the weapon, pointing out the effects of fire under certain conditions, demonstrating the effects of mistakes in the handling, and the causes of laxity and of accidents. Sergt.-Major Geo. Cross, who is regarded as an expert in machine guns, had a large audience listening to an able exposition of the handling of the maxim, showing the causes and remedies of jamins in the different positions.

The proceedings of the day concluded with a camp fire concert, which was carried on well into the night. Sunday was not a very trying day so far as the "orders" were concerned, sports being the most prominent feature. Several teams put in some practice at bridge building, and a number of officers indulged in revolver practice.

Taken all over, the outing was a very instructing one, and was not without its pleasurable side. The fact of such a large number of men parading equally well for the efficiency of the corps at the end of the Volunteer year. The arrangements were all well carried out, and a special word of credit is due to R.Q.S. Greenberg, who was responsible for all the catering.

"I Want The Proof" You Say

WHEN TOLD THAT NERVOUS EXHAUSTION AND PROSTRATION ARE THOROUGHLY CURED BY

What is more discouraging and disheartening than trying to cure nervous exhaustion and prostration by means of ordinary treatments? Because you do not look sick and are suffering great pain, and because they cannot realise your feelings of weakness, helplessness and discouragement, your friends fail to show much sympathy for you, and most doctors are simply helpless in the face of exhausted nerves.

Of course you need not expect Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to work a miracle and cure you in a day or a week, but you can be absolutely sure that you will be benefitted, to at least some extent, by every dose of this great restorative that is taken into the system.

The dreadful weakness and helplessness which makes life miserable to you and leads to all sorts of dark forebodings, will gradually and certainly give way to strength and vigour under this treatment, headaches will disappear, your appetite will improve, you will sleep and rest better and you will find that day by day your nervous system is being built up to health and strength.

That Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is actually bringing about just such cures is proven in thousands of cases of which records are kept on file in these offices. The invigorating, upbuilding influence of this great medicine will surprise you if you only persist in its use.

Mrs. D. O'Connor, 278 Simcoe street, Peterborough, Ont., states: — "My heart has given me a great deal of trouble lately. The least undue exertion affected it, and brought on weakness and fainting spells. My nerves were also very unsteady, and I became so bad that I decided to try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, which was highly recommended to me. Now I am happy to be able to say that I am completely restored to health. My nerves are strong and steady, the action of my heart regular and the dizzy spells have ceased to trouble me."

BY-LAW HAS ANOTHER FRIEND

Advocates The Ordinary Working Man Supporting It

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Dear Sir,—Of all the bylaws that the citizens of Peterborough have been asked to vote on, this one is the most important, and should be passed at all costs. There are only about a dozen people in the city opposing it. Some of the others live outside the city. They have property here and there; little farms, in fact. Do you ever see any of them making improvements? Not much. They let the man on either side of their property build a nice house and make the locality a good one to live in, but meanwhile, the farm, covered with weeds and burrs, is there, increasing in value from other people's labour. The bylaw will cure that. It will do away with those farms, and the poor man who has a little piece of his own will not have an unsightly weed farm next door. When they have to pay taxes the same as another man (which they don't do now) they will do some improving. It is neither unfair, unheard of nor yet unconstitutional, because it is for the good of the greatest number of people.

EDWARD HANLAN DEAD.

Famous Oarsman Passed Away In Toronto This Morning.

Toronto, Jan. 4.—After battling for three days against an attack of pneumonia, Ned Hanlan died this morning at one o'clock. First a cold, then la grippe and finally the fatal inflammation of the lungs. Ald. Church visited last night that, anticipating the worst, Mayor Coatsworth and members of the City Council had practically decided to honor the deceased ex-alderman and world's greatest oarsman with a public funeral, which will likely take place next Monday. The late Mr. Hanlan was in his 53rd year and for the past several years had lived a retired life.

LATE NED HANLAN.

JAPANESE REMANDED.

Four Charged With Attempted Murder at Vancouver.

Vancouver, Jan. 4.—In the Police Court yesterday the police magistrate flatly refused bail for the Japanese prisoners charged with the attempted murder of three city firemen. A fourth arrest has been made, but the evidence against him has not been disclosed. There is no sign of rioting at Vancouver.

The Trades and Labor Council representatives declared in a meeting that Japanese houses are arsenals, and that if they arm themselves the whites should do likewise. He received hearty endorsement, and a committee of three was appointed to investigate the situation.

Prominent Japs are giving assistance in locating the perpetrators of the outrage, but it will be difficult to get other than circumstantial evidence.

The influx of Japs from Honolulu is increasing rather than abating. Inside information received here says a small steamer is chartered to leave Honolulu next week with a hundred and fifty Japs for Vancouver. The Canadian-Australia liners have steerage passages booked ahead for six months by Japs in Honolulu—fifty to each ship. Charters are now being arranged for at least two more vessels to bring big loads.

HOPE GROWING FAINT.

Still No Word of Missing Steamer Mount Royal.

London, Jan. 4.—(C. A. P.)—There is no news of the Mount Royal on which insurance at 25 guineas was placed at Lloyd's.

St. John, N. B., Jan. 4.—C. P. R. officials were disposed yesterday to give up hope that the Mount Royal will ever reach port. There are no first or second-class passengers on the list, but 294 immigrants, mostly Hungarians.

An Even Chance.

Montreal, Jan. 4.—The missing steamship Mount Royal is a steel ship, built in 1898 by Swan & Hunter. She is rated 100 A1 at Lloyds'. She is 470 feet long, 56 feet beam, 32 feet deep, gross tonnage 7,054, net register, 4,500 tons.

What the underwriters think of it is shown by the insurance rate. The Lloyds quotation yesterday is not known, but is some way between 25 and 30 guineas. The latter figure means even chances that she will not turn up.

Warship May Search.

Halifax, Jan. 4.—It is now believed the Admiralty will order a warship to make a search for the missing vessel.

Body Identified.

Newark, N. J., Jan. 4.—Frank Elnert, a friend of Mrs. Theodore S. Whitmore of Brooklyn, yesterday viewed the body of the mysteriously murdered woman found in the Passaic River a few days ago, and identified it as Mrs. Whitmore.

Whitmore is a Brooklyn motorman. He viewed the body, but declared he was unable to say whether or not it was that of his wife. Yesterday he told the police it might be her. He said his wife has been missing for some time.

Company Blamed.

Cobalt, Ont., Jan. 4.—Touching on the death of George Kelly, who was killed New Year's night in the Trethewey mine, the jury rendered the following verdict:

"The jury find that George Kelly came to his death on Jan. 1 by a bucket falling on him from the 50-foot level of Shaft No. 2 of the Trethewey mine. The accident was caused by gross negligence and incompetence on the part of the shaft boss and gross negligence on the part of the company."

Toronto's New Postmaster.

Ottawa, Jan. 4.—It is understood that Hon. A. B. Aylesworth, who holds the patronage of the district, is favorably disposed towards W. B. Rogers for the vacant postmastership of Toronto, and that the appointment is practically a certainty.

Ate Poisoned Cheese.

Wharton, Ohio, Jan. 4.—A dozen people were poisoned here yesterday by eating cheese. Clarence Bell, wife and three children, are dying. The others poisoned are: Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler Critser, and two children, and the family of L. J. Long.

Saddle Lake, Alta., Jan. 4.—A man was killed and eaten by wolves at a point 40 miles south of Lou St. Vincent. Only the man's arm and a few hairs were found, while nearby were the remains of seven timber wolves which the man had evidently shot before being overcome by the rest of the pack.

Some half-breeds from St. Paul de Mets have gone to try and identify the victim, if possible. The victim is supposed to be an English or American tourist-hunter.

Baby Swallowed Pills.

Cobourg, Jan. 4.—A sad fatality occurred here on New Year's Day, by which a little boy, only two years and nine months old, lost his life. A doctor had given an adult member of the family of Robert Brooks some morphine pills. About two o'clock in the afternoon the little boy secured the box and took four of the pills. A doctor was summoned, but all attempts to save his life proved futile, and two hours later he died.

HANDSOME SUM FOR THE SOCIETY

Mr. Edwards of The Crystal Gave Afternoon's Proceeds to Children's Aid Society

THE GIFT IS APPRECIATED

The generous offer that Mr. Edwards of the Crystal, made to the Children's Aid Society, was accepted, and, as a result, the Society received $22.15, the proceeds of yesterday afternoon's exhibitions.

Mr. Edwards made the offer in the best of spirit and the acceptance of it on the part of the society meant that 443 persons visited the Crystal to aid the society in a small measure.

The programme consisted of several rolls of films with illustrated songs besides. In fact it was but regular programme. Mr John King assisted by singing during part of the afternoon and Miss Edwards contributed the remaining solos.

Mr. Edwards' gift is a good one, and is fully appreciated by the society. Mr. George Cochrane was present during the afternoon and represented the society. In Berlin, Mr. Edwards' former home, he made a monthly offer of the same nature to the hospital there, a kindness which won him the best regards of the Berlin public.

CONDITIONS IN WEST BY LETTER

Mr. E. Dawson of Manton Tells of The Beautiful Weather There

A letter has been received by a friend in the city from Mr. E. Dawson, of Nanton, Alta., and formerly of Peterborough, in which he gives some interesting news of the west. In part he says:

"So far we have no complaints to make but the reverse, and my only regret is that I did not make the move years ago. There is the very great possibility of a fellow getting inoculated with the Great West, and never wanting to leave it. So far as climate is concerned, it has the East beaten on all hands. I have never experienced such delightful weather in all my life as we have had this fall and winter. While our crops have been a partial failure, and business has not been what we anticipated, it is no proof that the country is not all that it is claimed to be, as the failure has been general."

STRIFE AMONG GYPSY TRIBES ON THE EVE OF WEDDING DAY

Member of One of The Tribes Got Into Trouble With Queen Mary George Who Attended Peterboro' Exhibition

WEDDING BELLS SILENT

New York, Jan. 4.—A story of strife which disrupted an amalgamation of three Gypsy tribes, and a romance which brought them together again in a reunion which ended with the three factions farther apart than ever, was told in the police court here to-day, in the presence of bejewelled and gayly-garbed members of the three tribes. When the story was finished, the king of one of the tribes and eight of his followers were sent to prison cells in default of $10,000 bail each, for further hearing on a charge of grand larceny.

According to the story as told by Queen Dora Parse, the complainant, up to three weeks ago the camps were located in Westchester, all under the leadership of Queen Bess Stanley.

Then came internal strife, and the tribes separated, Queen Bess continuing to reign over the original camp, while the other tribes moved away a short distance and established themselves under the leadership of Queen Dora and Princess Belle Marti respectively.

In the days of pleasant relations between the tribes it appears that a warm attachment had sprung up between Prince John Kruse, of the Kruse-Parse camp, an dPrincess Ethel Stanley, of the mother camp. An intermediary finally succeeded in gaining the consent of the parents of the young lovers to their marriage. A temporary truce was then arranged for last night, to celebrate the announcement of the engagement. Queen Dora told the court to-day that after some merrymaking, when she led the assembled party to the tent, where the money and jewels were kept, to bestow upon the bride-to-be her dowry and the marriage jewels and chain, she found that everything had been carried away by robbers. She accused Stanley and his followers, and, on her complaint, he and eight others were arrested.

After hearing the story the magistrate ordered the prisoners to furnish bail in $10,000 each, and directed them to appear later in the week for further hearing on a charge of grand larceny. When the call for bail was made, a score or more of Stanley's followers rushed to the desk of the clerk and threw a shower of gold ornaments before him. They left the court room in tears when informed that only real estate would be accepted as security. Stanley and his followers were taken to the cells.

Stanley got into trouble at the Ottawa Fair last autumn with the Queen May George party over an old grudge that took place at the Pan-American Exposition at Buffalo, Queen Mary George will b eremembered as having a Gypsy camp at the Peterborough Exhibition last autumn.

HOW CITY MONEY HAS BEEN WASTED ON UNNECESSARY SEWERS

One Third of Mile of Sewer Illegally Constructed

To the Editor of the Examiner.—

Dear Sir, — I have read, at different times, in your paper, some severe strictures on the methods pursued by the members of our city council. Extravagance, incompetency and unbusinesslike methods of looking after the affairs of the city, have been charged. As to whether this condemnation was at all times deserved, I am not prepared to say. One instance of folly—to use no stronger word—is fresh in the memory of a number in the north-western portion of the city. I refer to a sewer on Downie street, running from London street northward, to Smith street, east on Smith street to Reid, and north on Reid to the junction of the Communication road. A gentleman living near the latter corner, was instrumental in circulating a petition for the construction of a sewer along the stretch named; after strenuous work it is said he obtained one name on the petition above the number required. A counter petition was circulated, and some half dozen or more who signed the first petition rued their action, and signed the contra petition. The sewer project was apparently killed. It might be mentioned here that on these streets there is no water mains, and that there are comparatively few residences, and that a sewer was about as necessary as a fifth wheel to a wagon. However, our aldermen, who are supposed to be elected to look after the interests of the public, were induced by some means, to have this stretch advertised as one on which it was their intention to construct a sewer, and notification was given, that if it was not desired, the parties concerned would have to petition against it. This was done, and a majority of those concerned affixed their name to it. The petition was handed in to the city clerk, and it was supposed that the sewer was killed again. But, no, in spite of this, and in the face of the fact there there was no water mains laid the council went ahead with the work. The sewer was laid, and there is now a stretch of dry sewer pipe, over one-third of a mile long, and not connected with a single residence. But hold, a gentleman living near the extreme northern end, whose property however does not abut onthe sewer, has obtained permission to connect with this precious piece of folly, for the sum of $25. If the true inwardness of this Downie street sewer were laid bare, I firmly believe that it would have a stronger aroma than the now notorious Romaine street botch.

A New Verse of The Bible Is Dug Up From The Sands

Archaeologists Are Told of Discovery of Sayings of Christ—Part of St. Mark's Gospel Found

REASONS WHY OMITTED

The following reprinted from the Cosmopolitan Magazine by the Cottam Bird Seed Company, of London, for private distribution, is given with endorsation of its orthodoxy:

All rational pleasure is prayer; all sincere work and effort are prayers; all exaltation in the presence of beauty is prayer; all aspiration is prayer.

Prayer is an uplifting, a rising of the soul toward the object of its desire, an elevation of instinct.

All sincere thought is prayer; the doubts of skeptics are prayers, though they themselves would repudiate the term.

All strength that tends to elevate and glorify man is prayer.

There is eother modes of praying than with the lips. Galileo prayed with a telescope, Columbus prayed with a ship, Franklin prayed with a lightning rod.

Knee praying seems a puny thing when once we feel that the forests are the eternal fanes of nature; or when we stand on a mountain top, that everlasting natural altar; or when we bathe in sunlight, that incalculably aged censer.

Amid these natural objects awe, admiration, a sense of infinite force, of infinite life, of a duration that is eternal, sweep through us in waves, leaving us humiliated with the sense of our own nothingness, at the same time that it brings us something of intellectual pride that we are part of that Hidden God.

All sublime emotion is prayer. A poem, a painting, a great essay, a beautiful face, the wreathing of a vine around a window, all exalt, generating wonder, amazement and thankfulness.

Meanness, lying, cowardice, double-dealing, these are all blasphemies; they offend the dignity of the soul, and debase you in your own eyes. The blasphemies of the mouth are laughed away in the winds. They mean nothing. But the blasphemies of vile actions set in motion forces that must be combatted through all time.

Man prays when he least knows it. The normal evolution of prayer is from the lip to the deed, from bare utterance to strong action.

HAS TROUBLE WITH HIS LETTERS

Some Stories of How They Travel Considerably—Money Lost

Mr. John Young of Ennismore, has complaints to make about the straying of some letters, which has been annoying to him.

On November 18th he wrote a letter to Mr. Frank Kearns in Peterborough, which, although it was plainly addressed, was never heard of until December 19th, when Mr. Young got it back from the Dead Letter Office. The letter contained a request to change an order of wire from Toronto but of course it was not changed, and cost $1.30 extra for freight both ways in addition to the 2 cents required to lift it.

About December 17th, Mr. Young sent a letter to London, Ont., containing, $2.25, which has never yet arrived there. Another letter to Lindsay took a circuitous route to reach there.

We're working hard now to clear the book-shelves, cases and counters for stock-taking. Several influences combine to bring about a revision of prices on the most Useful Goods that people buy, as well as on the more Fancy and Ornamental Things.

A Host of January Reductions and Savings

No Regular Prices will prevail this month, as it is only by selling the goods at a loss that we can hope to reduce our stocks.

Expect 25 to 33⅓ per cent. Reductions

From now until stock-taking is over. Our Annex across the street will be closed this week.

AN ARTISTIC CALENDAR

Among the best of the business calendars for 1908, sent out by our local merchants, is one bearing the address of W. Lech & Sons, Furriers, George street. The picture is entitled "A Morning Walk," and is reproduced from the original oil painting by Horace T. Carpenter, New York. It shows a tall, graceful New York girl, out for a brisk walk on Fifth avenue, New York, on a bright crisp winter morning. Warmly yet freely clad in velvet costume, with the Gainsborough hat making a splendid background for her light hair and bright complexion, she swings along with the easy grace of youth, exhilarated by the exercise in the winter wind. The scene is characteristic of the snow-covered avenue, "the street of the millionaires," on a winter morning. Pleasure sleighs pass smoothly by, the "buss"-horses tug the heavy wheels of their loads through the yielding snow, a handsome cab stands in front of the typical Fifth avenue hotel across the way, and the girl herself, with her ermine furs, and fresh violets, is thoroughly characteristic of the time and place.

Peterborough Supply Well Above the Average in Butter Fat

The report of the last milk tests made in the Provincial laboratories just received by Sanitary Inspector Ball, would appear to indicate that Peterborough milk supply is well up to the standard. Of the twenty-seven samples sent all are well above the average in the percentage of butter fat, while in not a single sample is there a trace of formaldehydes or borates. Following are the names with the percentage of butter fat, anything below 3.00 percent being considered low:

Secret Sewer Construction In South-West Part of City

"Economy" Suggests An Explanation Of Extravagant Expenditure Last Year

Editor of the Examiner,—

Dear Sir, — In conversation with a ratepayer of more than the average intelligence and reliability, I learned last night of an incident, in connection with sewer construction, which it seems to me, will stand a lot of explanation. Last year, 1907, a stretch of sewer was built, in the face of a properly signed counter petition, and therefore illegally, on a section of three streets, in the north west part of the city, on which there are no water mains, and we have now to pay our good money for nearly half a mile of dry sewer, in which there is not a single connection with any residence abutting on the sewer.

In this raw deal we have some partial explanation of how loose business methods have contributed to an overdraft of $110,000, on top of a tax bill of nearly $130,000, with money a good deal tighter than the Romaine street sewer. The council plunged into a large expenditure for pavements and sewers at a time when money was hard and costly to get. In the zeal to spend money, recklessly and lavishly, sewers were even laid down contrary to law, and on parts of streets where there were no water mains, the first requisite to the justification of sewer construction.

Why was this done, or more to the purpose, why was it allowed? Mayor McWilliams caused to be compiled for publication (I saw it in the Review) a list of all the council and committee meetings, and the number attended by each member of the council, during the past year. Of course the Mayor's name led all the rest. He attended every meeting and committee meeting. Therefore, the order for the construction of the unauthorized, and unnecessary sewer referred to, must have been made with his knowledge. If he attended every meeting of every committee, he must, unless, peradventure, he was asleep, or gone on a journey, or—talking—he must have known what was being done, and must have been cognizant, or privy, to the construction of a sewer that was being built contrary to law, and where it was not needed, and when financial conditions did not call for the incurring of an indebtedness that was unnecessary and embarrassing. It is likely that the general ratepayers will have to pay the cost of this stretch, for I am told that some of the property owners have received legal advice that they will not have to pay sewer frontage tax, contrary to their petition, which met legal requirements.

This may be a small matter, but taken with other things that have marked last year's civic record of weakness, carelessness and inefficiency, it shows that it is not safe to intrust the financial and general management of the city to a mayor who shows such carelessness, such a fatal faculty for making mistakes! Where can we get a better example?

Is it any surprise that we have an overdraft, a shortage, of $110,000, after paying a tax-bill of $128,000? Is it not time for a change, if our city expenses are not to mount higher, and our financial condition to go from bad to worse? Is it good business for any ratepayer to vote for a continuation of the unbusinesslike methods that have led to the alarming conditions in connection with our money, and our increasing taxes? Ask any business man, ask any banker, if our financial business has been well managed the past year, and not one of them will answer, "Yes."

ECONOMY.

PETERBOROUGH MASON IN ALASKA

Mr. James Millar, a Former Resident of This Place, Installed as Well

A copy of the Daily Miner of December 11, published in Ketchican, Alaska, has been received at this office. Among the local news is an account of the formatin of a new Masonic lodge in Ketchican. In the list of officers installed appears the name of Mr. Jas. Millar, as W. M., a former resident of Peterborough, and a P. M. of Peterborough Lodge No. 155, A. F. and A. M. After the installing ceremonies, which were held in the afternoon, a banquet was held in the evening. Although we are liable to think of Alaska as a far-away place in the frozen north, the inhabitants apparently enjoy quite as many of the temporal luxuries of life as ourselves, judging by the following menu:

Caviar, Sur Canape
Olympia Oyster Cocktail
Young Celery Queen Olives
Consomme
Baked Salmon Steak Parsley Sauce
Potatoes Parisienne
Young Turkey Cranberry Sauce
Sifted Peas Fried Sweet Potatoes
Shrimp Salad En Mayonnaise
Assorted Cake Macaroons
Vanilla Ice Cream
Cheese Wafers
Coffee

This splendid service was followed by the toasts of the evening, with Mr. James Millar, W. M., occupying a position at the head of the table as toastmaster.

Ratepayer Shows That Water Rates Will Be Lessened

Providing That The Water By-law Passes on Monday—Value of Vacant Lots Enhanced by Passing of The Mains

STEP IN RIGHT DIRECTION

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—There appears to be considerable misunderstanding in reference to the proposed water works by-law on which the ratepayers are to vote on next Monday.

Some people appear to have the idea that this bylaw will raise the water rate to all consumers, whereas the very opposite will be the result—for instance, suppose a present or prospective water consumer's bill is now $50.00, the commissioners assure us the passing of the bylaw will enable them to give a reduction (in addition to the present discount) of 8 1-3 per cent., or $4.16 2-3, and this does not take a cent from any ratepayer except those who own or hold vacant, unoccupied lots, past which the water pipes are now or will hereafter be laid.

This is only fair, as owners of such vacant lots have the benefit of the enhanced value which these improvements bring to their property and for which they have not heretofore contributed a cent. The only mistake that appears to have been made by the Commission, is that this rule should have been adopted from the time the town purchased the water works. The Commissioners certainly deserve the greatest credit for their management of this service. I doubt whether there is any business, private, corporate or public that can show such a record as they can today. I am sure every person would be delighted if all our corporation business were handled in the same business-like manner—it would save the taxpayers tens of thousands of dollars annually.

Vote for this bylaw and compel those who hold vacant lots for speculative purposes, and who desire to have their value increased at our expense. It is a step in the right direction. If it is carried it will and should cost the large land owners in the city more, and to that extent it will benefit the remainder of the ratepayers. Incidentally, if carried it will cost Mr. LaPlante, the Chamberlain Estate, ex-Mayor Best, the latter of whom is a candidate for a place on the Commission, more money—hence their opposition.

It must always be remembered that twenty-four years hence, when the water works will have been paid for in full the city will own this asset, and those large land owners will hold a proportionately larger share of them, notwithstanding they have not paid a cent toward their purchase, while you and I have contributed the full cost of a very valuable public utility.

Vote for the bylaw and the old Commission who have done their duty so ably.

Yours truly,
RATEPAYER.

Since writing the above, I noticed letters in the evening papers — the one in the Review being signed, "G. W. Hatton" which are evidently the product of the same pen.

In these it is intimated that our Water Commissioners succeeded in having an unconstitutional Act passed by a "sleepy" Legislature, which, of course, includes Premier Whitney, for he cannot see "how the Act ever got past the watchful eye of Premier Whitney."

Never mind the constitutionality of the Act. I will venture the opinion that Premier Whitney and the Legislature can look after the constitutionality of their acts quite as well as the Solicitor of the few Land Owners of our City.

Vote for the greatest good to the greatest number, VOTE FOR THE BY-LAW AND FOR MR. HILL.

RATEPAYER.

Water Commissioner Refers To Mr. Hatton's Remarks

Mr. Moore Calls His Talks and Writings "Silly Clap-trap"—He Explains The By-law

THE COMMISSIONERS VIEWS

Editor of the Peterborough Examiner:

Sir,—Electors who were present at the nomination of candidates on Monday heard from Mr. Hatton on behalf of Mr. Best, a speech of much sound and fury and self assertion, but wanting either in coherence or candor, and of superior wisdom and twaddle an excellent selection. His published letter, in one paper signed "Citizen," is quite consistent with his speech. He says the measure was sneaked through the Legislature. The truth is it was printed in the very words and form in which it passed, two weeks before it came before the House. Both he and Mrs. Best were in Toronto when it came up, but though both knew the contents of the bill neither made objection to it. Never was there an act passed with more consideration, and it will be remembered that a year ago and before the bill was framed, it was substantially the sole subject of discussion at this writer's election for Water Commissioner, and that he publicly advocated what he now contends for.

Mr. Hatton talks and writes of the by-law mortgaging the people's land forever, and much other silly claptrap. The by-law does not create a debt of any kind whatever, nor does it pretend to do so, and therefore there is no reason the vote on it should be restricted to freeholders, and that tenants who pay the rates should be disfranchised. Reckless statements, however, must do duty when naked truth will not answer the interests of a dozen selfish land holders of the city. The by-law simply adjusts the annual water rates, equitably and conformable to right and justice, between the owner who is benefited by the main in front of him and refuses to take the water and the water consumer. The Commissioners are committed to a net rate of three cents per foot frontage, and if the water rate should be equal or exceed that sum no frontage rate will be charged.

Mr. Matthews, Chairman of the Commissioners, is at one with them in securing what the by-law provides for, and citizens well know that he is the last man who would advocate a measure not based on good business principles and not in every sense just to the ratepayers at large. Mr. Hill, if elected, will do what is in his power to mitigate the burden borne in the past by the water users for the benefit of others. He has given years of faithful service. Between him and the other Commissioners there is complete harmony. The public should consider whether it is to their interest he should be displaced, by the election of another with whom the remaining Commissioners are not, and in pursuance of their policy, cannot be in accord.

It remains for the voters to determine whether the union of men, who have treated the waterwork's asset as a strictly business proposition, shall continue or how otherwise. The electors at large have the right to exercise a franchise on the question. They are supreme, and I fear not the result.

Your obedient servant,
W. H. MOORE.

DID NOT OPPOSE THE SALE

Mr. Robt. Fair Corrects the Statement Made By The Mayor

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Sir,—In this morning's issue of a local paper, under the heading "City Finances," the following misleading reference appears, signed by Mr. R. F. McWilliams:

"In October last a conference was held with the Finance Committee of the School Board as to the sale of $86,000 school debentures, and at their request the sale was deferred. Mr. Robert Fair, one of the signers of the circular, was present as a member of the Board, and strongly opposed selling the debentures until money became easier."

Now, sir, this in unfair and places me and other members of the committee in a false position. At a joint meeting, held in March last, of the Finance Committee of the Board of Education and the City Council, Mayor McWilliams requested the Board of Education not to insist on a sinking fund and interest being provided in 1907 for the foregoing debentures, as it would result in the tax rate being increased, which, according to the Mayor, was undesirable for 1907. His request was agreed to. Now the sinking fund and interest for these debentures are being prepared, and the bonds will be sold.

This is the exact position of affairs. I never opposed selling the debentures, but as I have already stated, consented with other members of the Finance Committee of the Board to the plea of the Mayor to postpone the sale until this year so as not to raise the tax rate.

Yours sincerely,
ROBERT FAIR.

Music and Drama

WE NEVER SLEEP

The Partello Stock Company demonstrated its versatility last evening when David Belasco's dramatization of Ouida's famous novel, "Under Two Flags," was presented in a very creditable manner by the clever organization which has delighted Peterborough theatre-goers all week. The company carries special scenery for the presentation, and it was staged most elaborately. Four of the acts are laid in Algiers, giving wide scope for the display of scenery, and of this the company took full advantage. Miss Alice Kennedy gave a capital interpretation of the role of "Cigarette," the strange, half wild, yet wholly lovable daughter of the regiment, whose death saves the life of the man she loves, but who loves another. Ernest G. Kast did some good work as Hon. Berthe Cecil, afterwards Corporal Victor of the French army. The other roles were in good hands.

To-night the company will finish its local engagement with the thrilling melodrama, "We Never Sleep."

BROKEN RAIL AGAIN THE CAUSE

Fatal Wreck on C.P.R. Between Chapleau and Cartier.

PASSENGERS ARE INJURED

Imperial Limited, Traveling Fast, Met Disaster—One Woman Killed Outright—Others Cut and Bruised—Miss Alice Smith Tells Graphic Story — She Was Imprisoned in a Car While Water Rose.

North Bay, Jan. 4.—The Imperial Limited express, east-bound, was wrecked at 1.10 yesterday morning 35 miles west of Chapleau by a broken rail. The train was running on time at a good rate of speed when the passengers were suddenly startled by a grinding noise, followed by a loud crash as the cars turned over and plunged down an embankment into a creek. A colonist, second-class and first-class cars were ditched, the Pullmans remaining on the rails.

Fortunately the acetylene gas was extinguished by the shock, which explains the low casualty list. The passengers in the forward coaches were penned in and the work of extracting them by trainmen and fellow-passengers was speedily begun.

The victims are:

Dead—Mrs. B. Sloan of Lindsay, Ont.

Injured—Alex. Ross, Dundurn, Saskatoon, Sask., lost right hand; W. Reynolds, head cut; Duncan Livingston, Durham, Ont., shoulder bruised; Louis Hartle, Deloraine, Man., head cut; F. E. Perkins, Port Arthur, head cut; Peter McKean, Black, cut on head; David Lindsay, London, Ont., cut on head; Edward McLean of Paynton, Sask., head and hand cut; Daniel McDougall of St. Almon, Ont., cut on head; Robert Matthews of Moosejaw, back injured; A. Gilchrist of Glenanean, scalp wound. In addition to these, two employes of the C. P. R., named James Hale and James Stanley of Chapleau, were injured.

The worst horror of the wreck was the finding of the woman's dead body in the lavatory, where she had been crushed to death, her arms and head protruding from the broken side of the car, and her body swaying in the water from the creek, which covered the floor of the car for several feet. It was impossible to release the body for several hours, but death must have been instantaneous. The unfortunate woman was Mrs. Ben Sloan of Fielding, Sask., on her way to visit a sister in Lindsay. Before the wreck she talked of the surprise she would give her sister, who did not know she was coming east. A husband and 13 children survive.

Engineer Badly Injured.

James Stanley, C. P. R. engineer, who was on his way to Schreiber as a passenger, was badly injured about the head, besides internal injuries. One arm was broken and an eye seriously injured.

Miss Alice Smith of Durham, returning from a visit to Brandon, described the wreck as follows:

"The car was hot and I stepped into the vestibule to get a breath of fresh air. While there, Mrs. Sloan came out, smiled and chatted for a moment, then entered the lavatory, which was to be her tomb. An instant later the crash came, and I felt the walls of the car closing upon me while we plunged down into an eternity of space seemingly. My feet were tightly wedged and I was hemmed in with debris. The lights went out and I was in darkness. After a while a brakeman peered down through a hole in the roof and saw my predicament with the light of his lantern. Help was summoned and release came. My feet and limbs were nearly broken from the creek water, which was gradually creeping up as the car slowly sank to the bottom and I was afraid of death by drowning." Miss Smith stated that her injuries were trivial, consisting only of bruises.

One man was caught in the wreck in such a position that his hand was almost chopped off before he could be released. The surgeons finished the operation by amputating the hand. The dining-car was converted into a hospital and the injured, numbering about 12, were given every attention and removed to Sudbury Hospital as soon as possible, where most of them spent the night before continuing their journey. It is reported that the injured are all doing well. It is a remarkable fact that the express was wrecked by a defective rail at 1.10 a. m. and a freight train ahead on the same division was ditched from a similar cause 30 minutes later. It is reported that James Stanley died at the hospital, but this is not confirmed.

Runaway Car on Ferry.

Cobourg, Jan. 4.—While the G.T.R. car ferry was unloading Thursday morning a loaded coal car broke loose and ran down towards the stern of the boat. There it collided with another car and jumped the track, breaking one of the steel supports of the deck, as well as derailing two other trucks.

Trainman Injured.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Jan. 4.—In a collision between a light engine and a work train on the Grand Rapids & Indiana Railroad, just south of this city, yesterday, Engineer Charles Taylor of Kalamazoo, and Fireman Grout of Fort Wayne, Ind., were badly injured.

Rockefeller Gives More.

Chicago, Jan. 4.—Martin A. Ryerson, president of the board of trustees of the University of Chicago, announced yesterday that John D. Rockefeller has added $2,191,000 to his gifts to the university, making the total of his benefactions over $23,000,000.

Pipes to Float Mount Temple.

Halifax, N. S., Jan. 4.—Compressed air is to be used in an attempt to float the steamer Mount Temple, on the rocks at Ironbound. A syndicate, with R. M. Brookfield at its head, has been formed here for the purpose, and divers have gone to the scene. Mr. Brookfield says the chances of floating the steamer are good. It is not thought the inside hull is pierced.

HAS ANOTHER EARTH QUAKE

Heavy Shock Felt Throughout Island of Jamaica.

CHURCH WAS SHAKEN DOWN

Reports of Much Damage Done at Kingston — Other Points on South Shore Suffer — Chiefly Stewardstown — Negroes in a Panic—Solar Eclipse Was Added to Their Fears—Awful Scenes.

Brownstown, Jamaica, Jan. 4.—A heavy earthquake shock was felt throughout the Island of Jamaica at 8.05 o'clock yesterday morning, and it is feared that much damage was done.

Stewardstown was the chief sufferer in the north. The Episcopal Church, which had been badly shaken by the big 'quake of last year, was reduced to debris. Other buildings in the town were damaged.

There are reports that much harm was done in Kingston and other points on the south shore.

There is a heavy rush at the telegraph offices with inquiries regarding the safety of relatives and friends and with messages giving assurances to anxious ones.

Superstitious ones among the inhabitants of the island, particularly negroes, are in a panicky state of mind. January has been called the "fatal month" since the great earthquake of last year. The coincidence of a solar eclipse, which is due today, coming at the same time as the earthquake, has added to their fears. Yesterday morning's earthquake, which was violent, had a movement from east to west, and lasted for more than twenty seconds. There was an increasing vibration which culminated in two sharp shocks.

EDITOR GETS FOUR MONTHS.

Harden Denied Any Intention of Libelling Count von Moltke.

Berlin, Jan. 4.—Maximilien Harden has been sentenced to four months' imprisonment on the charge of libeling Count Kuno von Moltke.

Harden was sufficiently recovered to appear in court yesterday and the hearing of Count Kuno von Moltke's libel suit against him entered upon its final stage. Harden was attended by his own physician, Dr. Eisenburg. He spoke in his own defence.

In the beginning his voice was feeble and he could scarcely be heard, but later, during portions of his address, he developed something of his customary elocutionary vigor. His first impressions concerning Prince Philip Zu Eulenburg and the persons attached to the prince's interests at court, had been gained, he said, from the late Prince von Bismarck and members of his household.

It was impossible to obtain absolute proof, but Harden said he was convinced that a ring had been formed around the Emperor which, while he considered it almost impenetrable, he was determined to endeavor to break through. If his articles had accomplished this result he was glad, but if in his writings he had libeled von Moltke, all he could say was he had never intended to do so. "I never meant to libel the count," Harden continued, "and nobody knowing me could imagine that I would deliberately defame anyone. Everybody is aware that I was working purely from political motives. If, however, owing to the peculiarities of my style, this tribunal considers that I should be punished, then I am prepared to undergo imprisonment, but it will be with the conviction that I do not deserve this punishment."

Arrested Seventeen.

Berlin, Jan. 4.—The police of this city raided a house in the suburb of Charlottenburg Thursday night and arrested seventeen members of the central committee of the Russian workingmen's party.

TERRIBLE TRAGERY IN RUSSIA

Two Families Slaughtered by Band of Midnight Robbers.

THREE CHILDREN ESCAPED

Thieves Broke Into House Flourishing Revolvers — Demanded Money But Could Only Get Four Dollars —Bound Father and Mother—Slew Others With Hatchet—Even Cat Was Not Spared.

Rostoff-on-Don, Jan. 4.—Two families were practically exterminated recently at a lonely farm on the steppes, near Novotcherask by a band of robbers, who despatched even the household cat and dog.

The names of the killed are Bondarenko, his wife, his son Nikita, his fourteen-year-old daughter Xenia, and a young man named Limorenkoi; and of the other family Gretchenko, his wife, his brother, and his two young children. Three little boys of the Bondarenko family hid from the murderers and escaped.

It appears that the Bondarenko family had just retired for the night when the door was burst in and three strangers entered. Brandishing revolvers, they commanded everyone to come out. Dazed with sleep, the family obeyed, and saw several other men with revolvers and ropes outside the door. Bondarenko was ordered to hand over all the money he had. He replied that he possessed only 16s., to which the robber leader retorted that that would give his men just 21-2d. each.

At this point the girl Xenia fell into hysterics. A robber threw a cloth over her head and brained her with a hatchet. The boy Nikita and the young man Limorenkoi were next seized and killed in the same manner. Bondarenko and his wife were then locked up in a cupboard, whence they heard the robbers enter the adjoining building where Gretchenkos slept. Shrieks and groans arose as the whole Gretchenko family were overpowered and murdered. Gretchenko's wife was strangled with a piece of rope.

Next the robbers returned, dragged forth Bondarenko and his wife, and slaughtered them. The three youngest children escaped the murderers' notice and were left alone with the dead. A peasant visiting the farm discovered the tragedy and rescued the children next day.

To Save Plains of Abraham and Erect Memorial.

Ottawa, Jan. 4.—Arrangements have been concluded for the conferences of delegates from all the Canadian clubs to be held in Ottawa on the 15th inst., to devise ways and means for raising a fund of one million dollars by public subscription to supplement grants which are already promised by the Federal and Provincial Governments toward the conversion of the Plains of Abraham, the more important parts of the battlefields and Ste. Foye, at Quebec, into a national park, and the erection thereon of a monument to commemorate the reconciliation of the British and French races in Canada. The conference will be held in the afternoon, and will be followed in the evening by a public meeting in the Russell Theatre, to be addressed by his Excellency Earl Grey and a number of gentlemen prominent in Canadian public life.

Attacked Wife With Poker.

Cornwall, Jan. 4.—Joseph Ashworth was committed to jail yesterday afternoon by Police Magistrate Days to await trial on a charge of attempted murder. Ashworth, who is a wizened, little man, 60 years of age, has always been jealous of his wife, whom he married in England thirty years ago. The family say that he has not worked for five years, and usually one of the children stayed around the house with the mother, whom he has frequently threatened to kill. On Dec. 23 he assaulted his wife with a stove poker and knife. He would probably have killed her but for the interference of his two little children.

Two Struck By a Car.

Montreal, Jan. 4.—As a result of being struck by a street car, Mrs. Arthur Farquharson of Wood avenue, Westmount, is lying in a critical condition in the Western Hospital with a fractured skull, while her husband is in an adjoining ward with his right hand amputated and suffering from serious internal injuries. Mr. and Mrs. Farquharson were crossing at the corner of St. Catharine and Wood avenue yesterday evening on their way home, when they were struck by a passing car and knocked down. Mrs. Farquharson is not expected to recover.

Opposed to Curzon.

London, Jan. 4.—Considerable opposition has developed to the candidature of Lord Curzon for the vacancy in the Irish representative peers, caused by the death of Lord Kilmaine. Viscount De Vesci and Lord Ashtown already had been nominated for the vacancy before Lord Curzon appeared upon the scene and they show little disposition to retire.

Chronic Grumblers.

London, Jan. 4.—(C. A. P.)—The Brasilian Review, Rio de Janeiro, says: "The Englishman who emigrates is always grumbling. He thinks he has nothing to learn, and, further, if he cannot get beefsteak to his liking, he thinks the land of his adoption is a very poor sort of place, and he does not hesitate to say so."

Arrested Ex-Berlin Treasurer.

The case of ex-Express Agent Simpson, charged with misappropriation of funds, has been adjourned until the 9th. inst.

TELL THRILLING STORY.

Shipwrecked Sailors at Mercy of the Waves For Eight Days.

New York, Jan. 4.—Seven shipwrecked sailors, believed to be the only survivors of the crew of 16 of the Norwegian bark Germanic, were brought here yesterday by the oil-tank steamer Hotham Newton. They were picked up in midocean in a terrible condition from exposure, eight days after their vessel had been abandoned.

The seven men rescued tell a story of fearful suffering. Obliged to leave their sinking ship in the midst of a storm which had twisted and opened the seams of the big bark until she was unseaworthy, their little boat was tossed helplessly about by the waves. The scant store of provisions which they had succeeded in getting together was in constant danger of being ruined by the salt water, and their cask of drinking water became tainted.

For many days they had nothing to drink but rain, which they caught in tarpaulins and squeezed out of their wet clothing. The supply of food became exhausted after seven days, and the men had been entirely without food for more than 24 hours, when they were picked up by the steamer.

Their bodies were covered with sores from the constant contact of salt spray, and they were so weak from exhaustion and lack of nourishment they were scarcely able to stand.

It appears that the Germanic had bad luck from Nov. 23, when she sailed from Weymouth, N. S., for Fleetwood, England, until she went down in midocean on Dec. 9. Battered about by the tremendous seas and buffeted by the fierce wind, the Germanic sprung aleak, her decks were burst open, the cabins washed away and she became completely waterlogged.

SUES LONDON FREE PRESS.

Robert Reid of Ottawa Claims $20,000 Damages.

Ottawa, Jan. 4.—Robert Reid of this city, commissioner of the Transcontinental Railway, has entered an action for libel against The London Free Press, and claims damages to the extent of $20,000. The case will come up in the high court in Ottawa next week. Last February an enquiry made by the public accounts committee showed that a large quantity of envelopes were purchased by the Transcontinental Railway Commission from the Munro Company of Toronto, of which John O'Gorman was a partner. The order was turned over to the Barber Ellis Co. of Toronto, it was claimed, with considerable profit.

It was brought out in the enquiry that Mr. Reid had suggested that the purchasing agent should deal with the Munro Company. The result of the enquiry appeared in The London Free Press, also an editorial commenting on buying through the commission instead of direct with the Barber Ellis Co., and pointed out that Mr. O'Gorman and a brother of Commissioner Reid were joint defendants in the London election conspiracy case.

N. W. Rowell, K. C., of Toronto, will probably conduct the case for the plaintiff, and J. F. Hellmuth, K. C., of Toronto, and George F. Henderson of Ottawa for the defence.

Lisbon, Jan. 4.—The assumption yesterday of the local Government by commissions appointed by Premier Franco, which it was feared might lead to trouble, is officially declared to have passed off without incident.

Vesuvius Erupts Again.

Naples, Jan. 4.—Mount Vesuvius, after a month or more of comparative quiet, has again resumed activity. A huge column of flame and smoke is arising from a number of large fissures at the summit of the crater.

Washington, Jan. 4.—Allison J. Naillor, secretary-general of the supreme council of the Ancient and Accepted Order of the Scottish Rite Masons, southern jurisdiction, died of the grip.

ESTIMATES AND RESULTS

The evidence before the Royal Commission showed that over 700 SUN LIFE policies had already matured and that in thirty-four per cent. of the cases the amounts originally estimated as likely to be received at the end of the terms, had been realized or exceeded. On all the cases combined the average amount paid had been about ninety-seven per cent. of the estimate. The management may be pardoned for being proud of this record. The estimates now in use since 1900 are lower than former ones, and premiums are higher, so that present estimates should certainly be realized. Statements were also filed showing that $108 is on hand for every $100 required to pay the amounts called for by the present estimates for every deferred profit policy on the books and this without taking into account the Company's great and increasingly valuable contingent fund. Our policyholders are therefore justified in being particularly optimistic in regard to the Company's probable future profits.

Some one has said "the true value of a life assurance policy must be gauged by the security of the protection given; if it proves to be a good investment, all the better: when both are shown, there is nothing on earth to equal it."

The security of the protection afforded by the Sun Life of Canada needs no comment and the profits paid—let our results tell their own forceful story.

The Following Letter Speaks For Itself

Peterborough, Nov. 1st, 1907.

W. G. MORROW, Esq.,
Agent Imperial Life Assurance Co.,
Peterborough.

Dear Sir:—I have received notification of the option available in respect to my ten-year Endowment Policy of $2000 which matured to-day and it affords me pleasure to say that I view with much satisfaction the results of my investment with your Company.

The substantial surplus which the Policy has earned in the comparatively short period of ten years makes the returns which would be made to me, under any of the options now open to my selection, most liberal and attractive.

It is greatly to the credit of the Company that after having granted me an Insurance of $2000 from the issue of the Policy in 1897 to the present time, it can now offer me under the cash-value option a sum so greatly in excess of the total premium that I have paid into it, or under the paid up Insurance option, a paid up life Policy considerable more than double the amount of my original Policy.

Perm t me to wish the Company a long continuance of its prosperity

Yours very truly,

J. R. STRATTON.

THE STRATHCONAS FINE PRACTICE

Some Lively Work Was Done at Last Night's Practice Match

The Strathconas had their best workout of the season last night and travelled at a clip that promises disaster for the Lindsay Midgets when they play here on Friday night of next week. Two full teams were out and a lively practice game was played in which some good work was done. Wally Parnell was out, playing a fine game at cover point where he will likely be seen this season. A forward line composed of Rose, right wing; Dusty, lover; McMillan, centre, and Weatherston, left wing, worked splendidly together. Dusty's shooting was one of the features of the practice and there is trouble ahead for Newton. Lindsay's onuck goal keeper.

Among those out were Darocher, Parnell, Rose, Long, Dusty, McMillan, Weatherston, McWilliams, Hillier, Wilson, Quinlan, Staunton.

ROAD RACE HAS BEEN ARRANGED

Longboat Bennett Will Meet a Fellow Countryman

Peterborough people will in a short time have an opportunity to see a five mile road race between W. (Longboat) Bennett and J. Blows 449 Chamberlen street. Bennett, it will be remembered was fourth in Examiner road race, and has won a number of other races in the district. Blows however is willing to meet him and the runners have signed papers for the race. Bennett is to beat Blows by 55 seconds to win the race, the date of which will be given later. Bennett is training hard and is running every night in the snow.

GAMES WILL BE VERY FAST

City League Contests Will Begin on Wednesday Night Next

The City Hockey League will open on Wednesday night next with the Strathconas smashing with the High Lifes and Bridgenorth stacking up against the Lakefield seven. Both games should be warmly contested. There is keen rivalry between the High Lifes and Strathconas and a battle royal should be the result. Both teams are big and fast and will be in good shape. Lakefield are determined to win the City League championship this year and will play hockey from the drop of the hat, while Bridgenorth are determined to show that they are entitled to a place in the league. Mr. Geo. Lynch will be asked to referee.

WALTER PARNELL TO BE BE CAPTAIN

Will Be At The Head of The Strathconas O.H.A. Team

After the practice last night Wally Parnell was elected captain of the Strathcona O.H.A. team for the season. The choice was an unanimous one. Wally is in every way suited to the position. He has had a long experience in the game, and will therefore be able to coach the younger players, with all of whom he is most popular. With Parnell at the helm and such a large amount of material to hear from, the Strathconas should cut a wide swath in this district.

Why Beauty Fades

Real beauty is rare. It belongs to perfect health. Just as soon as the blood gets thin and watery and the nerves become exhausted, beauty fades, wrinkles show themselves, and the glow of health disappears and beauty curves give place to leanness and angles. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the great blood builder and nerve restorative, is woman's greatest blessing from youth to old age. A few weeks' use of this treatment will do wonders for any woman who is pale, thin, weak and nervous.

SPORTING NEWS AND VIEWS.....

It was very kind of the Keene curling club to send their sympathy to the Peterborough curlers, but, while it was appreciated, it wasn't quite as warm as the fire.

• • • •

The mild weather of Christmas week has played havoc with the schedule for this district, and there is every prospect of a grand mix-up before long. Peterborough's game with Port Hope on Wednesday had to be cancelled, and the Whitby-Cobourg game scheduled for last night is off. Cobourg is supposed to play in Lindsay Monday night, and the chances are there will be no ice in Scugogville. The district games should all be played here, where there has been ice ever since the season opened.

AUSTRALIAN BUYS LAND HERE

A few days ago the Examiner mentioned the purchase of a fifty acre farm in the south end by a man in Warden, B. C. To-day the real estate firm of R. A. Elliott & Co., Water street, completed a deal for a fifty acre lot in the eastern portion of the city. This man is Mr. R. J. Robinson, of Sidney, Australia. He is bent upon coming to Canada and is selling his property in Australia to come here in the spring. He will use the property as a market garden.

THE CHILDREN'S HOLIDAY.

In China New Year's Is the Little Ones' Great Festival.

Except at the Chinese New Year, which comes in February, it is very hard to catch a glimpse of children in China. Little beggars will run beside you for miles to earn 1 cash, a copper coin with a square hole in the middle of it, worth the twentieth of a cent, but children who have parents to care for them seem to be kept indoors all the time or only allowed to play in walled yards and gardens. We used to say to each other: "Why, where are the children? Haven't they got any?" But at New Year's we found out that they had. This is the great holiday of all the year in China, when everybody hangs out flags and colored lanterns and sets off firecrackers. (We borrowed our custom of firecrackers for the Fourth of July from China's New Year's.) All the people put on their best clothes and the children the best of all, jackets and trousers of bright blue or green or yellow or purple, the boys and the girls so much alike that you can only tell them apart by their hair. The boy's of course is braided in a pigtail, and the girl's is done up on her head with silver pins or, if she's a very grand little girl, with gold or jade. Thus decked out, the children go walking with their proud papas and mammas and often go to the theater, which is a rare treat for them.

Perhaps Chinese children have romping plays together, but they always look as if they were born grown up.—St. Nicholas.

Where New Year's Lasts a Month.

The celebration of New Year's is carried on more extensively in Japan than in any other country. The reason for this can only be accounted for by the fact that the custom has been handed down to succeeding generations for centuries. The time the occasion involves is quite lengthy, lasting from the 13th of December (Koto Hajime—viz, beginning of things) to the 16th of January (Hokonin no yabuiri), which is apprentices' holiday. On both of the occasions a sort of stew is eaten, composed of red beans, rice, sliced fish and konnyaka root.

How Kingfishers Perish.

Dreadful is the death of the stately kingfisher. A hard winter is his certain doom. Long observation seems to indicate the birds do not migrate, and from having to enter the water for their prey in winter their dripping feet quickly become incased in ice. As in hard weather it is only possible for them to alight either on snow or ice or in water, it is easy to see how the ice around their feet would quickly accumulate and bring about a lingering death.—London Globe.

A Stuttering Story.

A noted humorist tells a stuttering story: "It is about two blacksmiths, both stutterers. The first snatched a redhot lump of iron from the forge, rushed with it to the anvil and then began this conversation: 'N-n-now, th--th-then, st--strike qu-quickly!' 'W-w-where shall I strike?' 'J-j-just at the end. H-h-hurry up!' 'Th-th-this end?' 'Yes, of c-c-course. Mind you hit s-s-straight.' 'All r-r-right. Shall I l-l-let her g-g-go?' 'N-n-no, you f-f-fool; the iron's c-c-cold.'"

Loss Fully Covered.

Adjuster—I've called to fix up that matter of your house burning down. Was the loss total? Heck Penn—Oh, th' house is plumb gone; but, young feller, ef I tuck a cent from yore company I'd feel like a thief. Mebbe you heven't heard thet my wife tuck advantage o' th' excitement t' slope.—Puck.

Color Blindness.

There are three distinct kinds of color blindness or three colors which those with affected eyesight cannot see. These are red, green and violet. Red or green blindness is considered a serious defect. Children should have proper training in color study. All of the colors should be kept before the eyes of the pupils in the kindergarten and up until the nerves of the eyes are trained to distinguish to the slightest shade any shade of difference in color. The work in color in the kindergarten is a good one and one that has more merit than one would think at first thought. Woolen balls colored are good for baby playthings.—Des Moines Register and Leader.

A Gracious Negative.

"The other day I got the politest turndown," said a bond salesman, "that ever happened. I had been talking from 11 o'clock till almost noon to a man I'd known at college, trying to interest him in $10,000 of what I considered very exceptional bonds. Finally he looked at his watch.

"'Bob,' he said, 'it's lunchtime.'

"'That's so,' I answered.

"'Bob,' he went on, 'if I buy those bonds will you take me out to lunch?'

"'Of course,' I said. 'Why, sure.'

"'Well, Bob,' he concluded, 'you'd better have lunch with me this noon.'"

TTE ASSESSOR MAKES A DECLARATION

The following declaration has been sworn to and signed by Mr. Thomas McKee, assessor:

I do solemnly declare that:

It having been stated that I had informed a well known citizen that I had been "instructed by the authorities to raise the assessment to every cent property was worth," I say that if by this is meant the mayor or aldermen, it is not true. I got no instructions from either the mayor or aldermen as to the manner I was to make the assessment, but I read the Assessment Act and consulted the City Solicitor about the same, who read me parts of the act and the assessors' oaths and told me to assess accordingly. The only conversation I had with the mayor as to the assessment was while I was delivering the schedules in No. 1 Ward, when he said the people were complaining that I was assessing too high and asked me if I was not doing so and I told him I was assessing according to the oath which I had to take and that I would not take instructions from him as to making the assessment. This was the only time the mayor spoke to me about the assessment until after it was completed and neither the mayor or any member of the council ever told me or suggested to me that I should raise the assessment. The assessment act says that real property shall be assessed at its actual value and that the buildings thereon shall be assessed at the amount by which the value of the land is thereby increased, and the assessor's oath, which I had to take, states that I had justly and truly assessed each parcel of real property at its actual value and this I endeavoured to do, and neither the mayor or any member of the council tried to interfere with me.

THOMAS McKEE.

EXAMPLE OF HONESTY OF MR. RUSH

Opportunity to Sell Property Which He Would Not Accept

To the Citizens of the City of Peterborough:

Gentlemen,—I think the following will show to the fullest Mr. Rush's principal of fair and square dealing. About fourteen months ago I went to see him about a piece of land he owned. He said that he was anxious to sell the same, asking for what purpose I wanted it. I told him, poultry raising and gardening. His answer was that if I wanted it for poultry raising he could talk terms but if I want it for gardening it was no good discussing terms as he would not knowingly sell it to any man for gardening purposes, as it was not suitable. After a few minutes pleasant conversation I left him without a price being mentioned or any attempt on Mr. Rush's part to sell the property.

Yours truly,
T. H. VAUGHAN.

Messrs. J. J. Turner & Sons Have Just Completed One

Messrs. J. J. Turner and Sons have just completed for the Medical Health department of the Ontario Government, a model tent for the treatment of consumptive patients. The tent is complete with doors, windows, ventilators, stove pipe hole and floor and is of the same style as the one for which the firm were awarded the first prize and diploma at the Canadian National Exhibition last year. THE FUNERAL OF FRANK GIBSON

Was Held Yesterday Afternoon to The Little Lake Cemetery

Yesterday afternoon the funeral of the late Frank Gibson was held from the family residence. It was largely attended and a body of the S. O. E. walked to the cemetery. The pall bearers were Messrs. Harry Lloyd, Walter Libby and Fred Reid, and the following from the S. O. E. Brothers Welch, Kitney and Dedge. Among the many floral tributes was an anchor from the 57th Band, wreath from the S. O. E., wreath from J. J. Turner, wreath from Examiner Printing Co., and a wreath from the soldiers and officers of the Salvation Army. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. A. H. Brace.

THINKS ALDERMEN SHOULD GIVE THEIR PLATFORM

Editor of the Examiner, —

Sir, — I am sorry to see so many new men asking for the office of aldermen without giving us their platform or policy of government. Are they not playing the part of "Mr. Slick?" "Blessed are the Slick, for they shall put the other party in a hole.

While I know personally that our past council was composed in part of some of the best business men of the city, it was still lacking. I think a goodly number should remain for fear we might make choice of some who might not have any more than a "peanut policy." The result would be like jumping out of the frying pan into the fire. How can an intelligent citizen vote for a candidate with whom he is not acquainted when he does not state his principles which should guide a growing city like Peterborough. But I am pleased with the statement Mr. Rush makes through the press when he says:

"I shall discharge the duties of office to the full extent of my powers with a "single eye" to the promotion of the best interests of the city." This is a platform which if carried out will give us the best government the world has ever seen. kind of "policy" eradicates all kinds of public "graft."

Not knowing this man I will vote for his uprightness of policy.

JOHN LEE'S FEAR

Was Averted by the timely use of South American Nervine—Doctors did their best but were powerless.

Mr. John Lee, of Pembroke, says:—"I had indigestion. I had lost my appetite. I was run down in flesh. I was so sick that I feared fatal results, and was almost in despair because my physician seemed powerless to cope with the disease. I was induced to try South American Nervine. I received so much benefit from one bottle that I persevered in the treatment, and today I am a new man and am cured completely. (13)

ALL RUN DOWN

Weak---Nervous---Unstrung.

Thousands get run down and become invalids before they realize anything is wrong. By permitting low vitality to develop, the way is paved for fevers, pneumonia and diphtheria. To put off makes it all the harder to get well. The time to repair the system is right now, before the damage gets any worse. The remedy is Ferrozone; it revitalizes, renews, builds up vitality that outlasts old age.

FERROZONE is a genuine invigorator that banishes weakness, and instils surplus force and vigor into every organ of the body. Ferrozone sharpens the appetite, produces rich nutritious blood, and thereby contributes that sense of buoyancy that adds so enormously to one's pleasure and usefulness in life.

For all forms of debility, weakness, lack of blood or nerve tone, sleeplessness, tiredness and exhaustion, there is no medicine so vitalizing and potent as Ferrozone. Even one trial demonstrates its rapidly and certainty of action.

To restore the energy of youth, to get back your vital stamina and reserve force, there is positively no treatment so certain as Ferrozone. You have only to try Ferrozone to know the enormous benefit it invariably brings to all in poor health.

FERROZONE

Miss Dorothy B. Ladue of Chester gives the following convincing evidence of Ferrozone's power:—"My work compels me to rise early in the morning and work ten hours daily as a saleslady. Last Spring I was run down, lost my color, and fell off in weight. I seemed to lack ambition and the life was out of me. A friend recommended Ferrozone, and I took one tablet after meals with wonderful results. Ferrozone brought back my complexion, and has given me new strength and abundance of energy and spirits. I would advise all young ladies to use Ferrozone."

Mrs. H. G. Wilder of Dexter says:—"My daughter was not very well last Winter, and lost her strength completely when the Spring came. I gave her Ferrozone, and am glad to say it did wonders. After six boxes were used my daughter was strong, and looked the picture of health."

Gave New Strength

FERROZONE

It makes the weak strong, the sick well, and assures lasting good health.

WARNING—Beware of any substitute for Ferrozone; it alone can cure you. Sold by all druggists and dealers in medicine, only in 50c boxes containing 50 chocolate-coated tablets. By mail to any address if price is forwarded to N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont., or Hartford, Conn., U.S.A.

THE CITY FINANCES

In reply to the misleading circular issued against me, permit me to call the attention of the electors to the following facts:

1—On January 1, 1907, the overdraft for works for which debentures had not then been issued amounted to over $73,000, which included nothing for schools.

2—Of the overdraft now existing, $40,000 is for advances made this year to the Board of Education for the Collegiate and Queen Alexandra School.

3—The sale of the debentures was entrusted by the Council to the Finance Committee, composed of Aldermen Tovey, Morrow, Bradburn, Phelan and the Mayor, and later delegated to Aldermen Morrow and Bradburn.

4—In October last a conference was held with the Finance Committee of the School Board as to the sale of $80,000 school debentures, and at their request the sale was deferred. Mr. Robert Fair, one of the signers of the circular, was present as a member of the Board, and strongly opposed selling the debentures until money became easier.

5—The rate of taxes for purposes over which the Council has any control was in 1906—7.41 mills; and in 1907—6.90 mills.

6—The highest taxation in the history of this city was in the year that Mr. Rush was chairman of the Finance Committee.

Kindly publish the above and charge to me as per your notice.

R. F. M'WILLIAMS.

HE ENDORSES THE THREE EAST CITY CANDIDATES

Joseph Jasper Thinks They Will Make Worthy Aldermen

Dear Mr. Editor,—

I would like to appeal to the fair-mindedness of your readers regarding the attitude of Peterborough electors to East City. While the ward system has been rightly abolished, it is but right that we should accord to the citizens across the river a fair representation on the councils, both municipal and educational. In the case of John C. Anderson, Geo. A. Gillespie and H. Morgans, all have had valuable experience in business management and development in this city for some years; all are men whose sterling character stands four-square, and who are in no sense office-seekers, but have been led to comply with the urgent request of fellow citizens from a true sense of their duty to their city. Their residence in East City, and their business interests in the heart of the city in every way qualify them intelligently to stand by all that concerns the interests of Peterborough.

Yours sincerely,
JASPER GEORGE,
Rubidge street.

HAPPENINGS AT THE MARKET

Scales Too Narrow For Large Loads of Hay—A Dear Turkey

At the market this morning a lady purchased a turkey for $1. She gave the farmer a five-dollar bill, thinking it to be a one-dollar bill. As a result she is minus the other four "Williams." The farmer is requested to leave the change with the market clerk.

Four loads of hay proved too large for the market scales to-day, and were caught fast in the narrow little box-like affair the city has provided. It is about time this was enlarged, as the farmers say they will go elsewhere to have their hay weighed. It is up to the city to provide modern scales if it wants to maintain the standard of the market.

CHAMBERS WAS NOT THE MAN

Porteous Says The Man in Custody in Toronto Did Not Shoot Him

Examiner Special

Millbrook, January 4. — It would appear that George Chambers, who is in custody in Toronto on many hold-up charges, is not the man who fired at, and hit, four times, Chas. Porteous, a Cavan farmer, a few weeks ago. The case caused much excitement in this vicinity, and nothing had been heard of the assailant until Chambers was arrested in Toronto, where he was suspected of being the man who shot Porteous. Porteous was taken to Toronto by the authorities on Thursday his condition having improved considerably. When confronted with Chambers, however, he stated that he was not the man who has shot him; so that the man's identity is still a mystery.

Mr. Porteous returned last night.

Mr. Samuel A. Northey Gives Facts and Figures About It in Owen Sound

According to the statement made to the police this morning there is some female peddler in this city who becomes very abusive to her customers if they do not buy. Yesterday afternoon a gentleman was sitting in the kitchen when the door bell rang. His eldest daughter answered the door and was confronted by a ragged woman, who greeted her with all kinds of smiles. She was showed several different articles but the lady did not care for any of them. The peddler grew very abusive and finally spit in the young woman's face and walked away. This gentleman is very indignant about it and says that something should be done to stop such a nuisance.

MR. WM. PRINGLE PASSED PEACEFULLY AWAY SATURDAY NIGHT AFTER A BRIEF ILLNESS

Well Known Principal of Business College Dead—One of the Most Useful and Able Citizens of Peterboro' Gone — Contracted Pneumonia Little Over a Week Ago

WILL BE GREATLY MISSED

Peterborough lost one of its most useful and best known and most highly respected citizens on Saturday night in the death of Mr. Wm. Pringle, principal of the Peterborough Business College, who passed quietly away at his home at the corner of Bethune and Edinburgh street, after a brief illness. The intelligence of his demise has cast a gloom over the whole city and formed the chief topic of conversation yesterday. Many citizens did not know that he was ill, at least, seriously so, and the information that he was dead was doubly shocking under the circumstances.

The deceased was taken ill on the Thursday following Christmas Day, when he, with a number of other members of the Board of Education, he inspected the King Edward School. In doing so he caught a slight cold, which at first was not considered serious, but which gradually grew worse. He was out on the Sunday after and attended church, but on Monday he was forced to go to bed, pneumonia having developed. His chances for recovery were considered bright at first, but as the week wore on his condition became more serious. Pleurisy followed the pneumonia, and then the action of the heart became affected, and the attending physician held out little hope for his recovery. Gradually becoming weaker, he passed away peacefully at 9.45 o'clock on Saturday night, surrounded by the members of his family, and with Rev. Dr. Pogue of St. Paul's Church at his bedside. The latter was present for several hours before the end came.

Few citizens of Peterborough had so many friends and so few enemies as had the late William Pringle. During the thirteen years of his residence in the city he had come into contact with a large proportion of the population, and his many good qualities rendered it easy for him to make friends. His demise will be mourned by a very large circle, whose sympathies will go out to the bereaved family.

By reason of his connection with different public institutions, the deceased was much in the public eye, and no servant of the people has done more faithful service or more useful work. He was active and conscientious in his attitude towards the public offices which he held, putting forth the same efforts which enabled him to make a success of his own business. As a member of the Board of Education he was noted for his strict attention to the duties of the position, and no one will miss him more than the members of that body, who look upon him as one of the ablest and most faithful members who ever sat at the Board table. His services in connection with his chairmanship of the Supervision Committee were of especial value. His conscientious devotion to duty, added to his expert knowledge of school requirements, from his teaching experience, made his services especially valuable. His loss will be felt in many circles in Peterborough, where his pleasing personality and sterling qualities have made him needed and appreciated.

The deceased had been a member of the Board of Education for the past four years, and for three years had been chairman of the Supervision Committee. "He was one of the most able and efficient chairmen the Board ever had," was the tribute paid him by Mr. W. H. Hill, another member of the Board. As chairman of the King Edward School Building Committee, he was more than any other member of the Board responsible for the erection of that institution, and worked most arduously and faithfully for the completion of that scheme.

The late Mr. Pringle was an active member of St. Paul's Church, and his death will be felt severely by the congregation. He was a member of the Board of Managers and Secretary-Treasurer of the Sunday School for several years. He was also secretary of the Supply Committee during the vacancy caused by the resignation of Rev. Dr. Terrance. He was an active member of the Peterborough Public Library Board, a director of the Y.M.C.A., and also of the Peterborough branch of the Astronomical Society. He was also a popular member of Corinthian Lodge, A. F. and A. M., and of the Canadian Club.

The late William Pringle was born in Stanley, N. B., in 1861, and after receiving his early education there went to Fredericton, where he graduated from the Normal School. Afterwards he taught school at Cardigan, N. B., and Prince William, N. B. From this he took an improved step and became principal of the Lake George Public School. Leaving there he came to Belleville, and took a course in the business college in that city, accepting a position on the staff after his graduation. During this period he was married to Miss Rapsey of Port Arthur, who survives him. From Belleville he returned to New Brunswick, and, with Mr. S. Kerr, started a business college in the eastern province.

Thirteen years ago, in May, 1893, he came to Peterborough, and with the late Mr. McCrea, opened the Peterborough Business College, which he continued to conduct after the death of his partner. He was most successful in that enterprise, and the Peterborough Business College under his regime became widely known as an admirable business school. While he was in charge it had been several times enlarged, and the number of pupils continued to increase. As a teacher, the deceased was most popular with those in his charge, treating them with a uniform kindness and attention that made them very loth to leave the institution. He was a friend not only to them, but to the children of the Public Schools, whose efforts he encouraged by giving prizes for penmanship and in many other ways. In his death the Public School pupils of the city have lost a true friend.

The deceased on Monday last was nominated for re-election as a member of the Board of Education, a circumstance which makes his death appear particularly sad. His name is on the ballots which were to have been used to-day, and it is almost certain that he would have been re-elected to the office had not the hand of death intervened. Although his illness prevented him from canvassing, yet his worth was known to the ratepayers, and his success at the polls was regarded as assured.

He is survived by a wife and four children, Stanley, Mabel, Rapsey and Donald, all residing at home. One brother, Mr. Gilbert A. Pringle, Edinburgh street, city, and late of Fredericton, N.B., is also left to mourn his loss.

The funeral will take place on Tuesday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock from the family residence, corner of Edinburgh and Bethune streets, to Little Lake Cemetery, and will be conducted under Masonic auspices. It is probable that the members of the Board of Education and of the Sea-body.
sion of St. Paul's will attend in a
At St. Paul's Church yesterday morning the pastor, Rev. Robert Pogue, made a feeling reference to Mr. Pringle's demise. It would be, he said, a great blow to the congregation to lose such an active and faithful member. The loss would be a personal one to almost every member of the congregation. The deceased was referred to as an esteemed and upright citizen.

THE LATE MR. WILLIAM PRINGLE,
Principal of The Peterboro' Business College, Member of The Board Of Education and Chairman of the Supervision Committee

And on Four Charges Preferred by Dr. Nesbitt—Has Secured Bail

Examiner Special.

Toronto, Jan. 6.—Mr. J. A. MacDonald, managing editor of the Globe, was this morning committed for trial on four charges of criminal libel preferred by Dr. W. The charges arose out of articles published in the Globe on Dec. 28th and 30th, two of them under the heading "The Real Nesbitt," and the two other editorials. SETTLE

At a city church last night the rector prefaced the sermon with his annual appeal to his congregation to settle their indebtedness with their neighbours and thus begin the year with a clean slate. This is not only good morality, but good business. It can't be urged that neglect to settle bills, to pay honest debts, is due to dishonest inclinations. Giving way to the habit of procrastination in these matters works a great deal of embarrassment and suffering which no Christian man would willingly be a party to. Prompt payment of obligations is a carrying out of the golden rule. Then, it is good business. Banks are to us the highest types of good business methods: prompt payment and settlement are the vitals of their system. Ten dollars of a debt promptly paid, by passing from one to another in the payment of accounts, may be instrumental in paying, in a few days, hundreds of dollars of debt. If you pay your neighbour, you help him to pay somebody else who will pay you, and thus the chain of benefit is extended indefinitely. Therefore, don't neglect to settle.

FACTS VS. FANCIES

Conservative newspapers, in their zeal for discrediting a Liberal Government, cease to be consistent. They fail to bring into concord their blue ruin political articles on the editorial page, with contradicting facts in their news columns, which indicate the wonderful progress and abounding prosperity of the country under Liberal administration. We see instances of this in the Mail and Empire almost every day. Now, the Halifax Herald furnishes another example. Probably no newspaper in this country has been more violent in its attacks upon the Laurier Government for having "caused the business depression," for having conducted the affairs of the country without regard to business principles, and for generally having produced a paralysis of the wheels of industry. The Herald was especially virulent during the recent bye-election in Colchester; but even when there has been no bye-election in sight it has daily preached blue ruin and commercial stagnation. Now, the Herald, when it comes to state facts, cannot truthfully avoid bearing tribute to conditions implied in the statement that the people of the Province "were never in a more prosperous condition," and abundant evidence is presented in proof. One would think that the organs would get tired of preaching a blue ruin, which is extinguished by facts supplied by themselves. But such is the force of habit. These same organs, in the days of the Conservative regime, when stagnation and depression were the rule, wasted columns of matter and piled up columns of figures to try to show that the country was prosperous, when it was not prosperous. This is what led Sir Wilfrid Laurier to declare in Toronto that if the government of the country were entrusted to the Liberals the people would not have to use elaborate figures to prove their prosperity—they would feel it in their pockets. And it has been even as he said.

The business transacted on the Toronto Stock Exchange in 1907 was the smallest in many years. The dearth of money, and the heavy liquidation in securities which it involved, drove what little public interest there was in stocks a year ago out of the market altogether. The losses, which were heavy, came on the wealthier classes. While securities may be in fairly strong hands to-day, there is little doubt but that many would be marketed if prices should have a fair advance. This market has recently been called an investors' market only, and the small business would indicate that the elements of speculation have been entirely removed. The total sales for 1907 were only 395,211 shares, including all stocks excepting mining issues, of which there were 39,000 shares. In addition there were $2,925,200 bonds traded in. In 1906 the business was 576,175 shares of stock, $3,218,400 bonds, and 110,271 mining shares. In 1903 the trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange amounted to 1,682,645 shares of stock, $2,856,000 bonds, and 712,703 shares of mining stock.

DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT.

NOVA SCOTIA THE SALT OF THE DOMINION

"I have always had an unbounded admiration for the old lands of the north of Europe, from which the greater proportion of the population of this Province has come, and which has given its name to the Province. I speak my mind when I say that in my humble opinion old Scotland is the salt of the earth, and it is my humble judgment that in Scotland there is more common sense to the acre than in any other portion of the earth. If again I had to speak my mind, I must say that this new Scotland, Nova Scotia, is a chip off the old block. To look at it on the map it does not cut a large figure, but to look at its history, and the character of its people, especially as it is represented on the floors of the House of Commons, it is undoubtedly the banner Province of Canada. The broad sentiment on which Canadian statesmanship rests seems to be better understood here than in any other part of Canada. The old causes of dissension, which prevailed in the days of our forefathers seems to be more deeply buried beneath the soil of Nova Scotia, than in any other part of Canada. The new ideas of brotherhood, the the new elements of which our population is composed, seem to be better appreciated, and practised, here, than in any other part of Canada. All honour therefore to Nova Scotia. It is the salt of this Dominion, as old Scotland is the salt of Europe." — Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

There are 286 municipalities in Ontario under local option, and to-day there are 101 municipalities voting upon the question of entering the list.

Distance and lack of communication make the Maritime Provinces almost strangers to us. Here we hear but little about the great east, but in the onward march of national progress and development the provinces by the sea are taking a prominent position. In the special New Year's number of the Halifax Chronicle we find a mass of information concerning the resources and output of Nova Scotia. Last year the Bluenoses turned out wealth to the amount of one hundred and seven millions of dollars, to which coal contributed $13,875,000, and manufactures, ships and freights, $39,800,000, and the farm, $23,500,000.

The shell of "Ned" Hanlan has crossed the river for the last time. It is doubtful if any other Canadian in any walk of life was ever more known, discussed and admired than Hanlan in his palmy days. So far as known he was a rara avis among sporting men—he rowed a straight course not only in a race but in the turbulent financial eddies that swirl around a sculling course. As a sample of his "whiteness," and of his staunch Canadianism, it is stated that in his race with Tuckett, the Australian, Hanlan could have made $100,000 by consenting to "throw" the race. But he knew that the people of Canada wanted to see him win, and he did win. A sum as large as $100,000 would be something of a temptation to a man who had not good sound principles.

JOHN D. AS SANTA CLAUS.

How the World's Richest Man Celebrates Christmas.

Not to be outdone by the scores of others who contributed to the happiness of the younger generation last Christmas, John D. Rockefeller assumed the part of a generous Santa Claus to the children about Pocantico Hills and provided them with an entertainment and Christmas treat at the Lyceum there.

Mr. Rockefeller visited the hall after the decorations were in place and pronounced everything "fine." Mrs. Ramsay, a trustee, conducted him, and he inspected the tree, which was electrically lighted in many colors.

A large star in evergreens above the platform attracted his attention.

"Doesn't that star remind you of the good old song—let me see, 'Oh, Star of Bethlehem, Guiding Star?'" he said, singing the words to the hymn. Then, not readily recalling the words, he whistled the refrain to the end. He inquired whether a fire would be lighted in the fireplaces to add to the comfort of the children and expressed a regret, when asked, that he would not be able to witness the distribution of the gifts.

Mr. Rockefeller recognized a young man there whom he had not seen for five years.

"My, how you have grown!" he exclaimed. "I distributed the prizes at your school when you stood at the head of your class. That was four years ago, wasn't it?"

The Lyceum trustees sent to the provider of their Christmas cheer a message wishing him "a merry Christmas and many years of good health and happiness." At the conclusion of the entertainment Mr. Rockefeller's reply was read to the audience:

"I am deeply grateful for the words of cheer that you have conveyed to me and hope that you will feel the uplifting of the season commemorative of the birth of him who said, 'Peace on earth, good will to men.'"

He was turned over to an officer and Saturday Magistrate Bartlett sent him to the Central Prison, Toronto, for six months.

WHO SHE WAS

SKETCH OF THE LIFE OF LYDIA E. PINKHAM

And a True Story of How the Vegetable Compound Had Its Birth and How the "Panic of '73" Caused it to be Offered for Public Sale in Drug Stores.

This remarkable woman whose maiden name was Estes, was born in Lynn, Mass., February 9th, 1819, coming from a good old Quaker family. For some years she taught school, and became known as a woman of an alert and investigating mind, an earnest seeker after knowledge, and above all, possessed of a wonderfully sympathetic nature.

In 1843 she married Isaac Pinkham, a builder and real estate operator, and their early married life was marked by prosperity and happiness. They had four children, three sons and a daughter.

In those good old fashioned days it was common for mothers to make their own home medicines from roots and herbs, nature's own remedies—calling in a physician only in specially urgent cases. By tradition and experience many of them gained a wonderful knowledge of the curative properties of the various roots and herbs.

Mrs. Pinkham took a great interest in the study of roots and herbs, their characteristics and power over disease. She maintained that just as nature so bountifully provides in the harvest-fields and orchards vegetable foods of all kinds; so, if we but take the pains to find them, in the roots and herbs of the field there are remedies expressly designed to cure the various ills and weaknesses of the body, and it was her pleasure to search these out, and prepare simple and effective medicines for her own family and friends.

Chief of these was a rare combination of the choicest medicinal roots and herbs found best adapted for the cure of the ills and weaknesses peculiar to the female sex, and Lydia E. Pinkham's friends and neighbors learned that her compound relieved and cured and it became quite popular among them.

All this so far was done freely, without money and without price as a labor of love.

But in 1873 the financial crisis struck Lynn. Its length and severity were too much for the large real estate interests of the Pinkham family, as this class of business suffered most from fearful depression, so when the Centennial year dawned it found their property swept away. Some other source of income had to be found.

At this point Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was made known to the world.

The three sons and the daughter, with their mother, combined forces to restore the family fortune. They argued that the medicine which was so good for their woman friends and neighbors was equally good for the women of the whole world.

The Pinkhams had no money, and little credit. Their first laboratory was the kitchen, where roots and herbs were steeped on the stove, gradually filling a gross of bottles. Then came the question of selling it, for always before they had given it away freely. They hired a job printer to run off some pamphlets setting forth the merits of the medicine, now called Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and these were distributed by the Pinkham sons in Boston, New York, and Brooklyn.

The wonderful curative properties of the medicine were, to a great extent, self-advertising, for whoever used it recommended it to others, and the demand gradually increased.

In 1877, by combined efforts the family had saved enough money to commence newspaper advertising and from that time the growth and success of the enterprise were assured, until to-day Lydia E. Pinkham and her Vegetable Compound have become household words everywhere, and many tons of roots and herbs are used annually in its manufacture.

Lydia E. Pinkham herself did not live to see the great success of this work. She passed to her reward years ago, but not till she had provided means for continuing her work as effectively as she could have done it herself.

During her long and eventful experience she was ever methodical in her work and she was always careful to preserve a record of every case that came to her attention. The case of every sick woman who applied to her for advice—and there were thousands—received careful study and the details, including symptoms, treatment and results were recorded for future reference, and to-day these records, together with hundreds of thousands made since, are available to sick women the world over, and represent a vast collaboration of information regarding the treatment of woman's ills, which for authenticity and accuracy can hardly be equaled in any library in the world.

With Lydia E. Pinkham worked her daughter-in-law, the present Mrs. Pinkham. She was carefully instructed in all her hard-won knowledge, and for years she assisted her in her vast correspondence.

To her hands naturally fell the direction of the work when its originator passed away. For nearly twenty-five years she has continued it, and nothing in the work shows when the first Lydia E. Pinkham dropped her pen, and the present Mrs. Pinkham, now the mother of a large family, took it up. With woman assistants, some as capable as herself, the present Mrs. Pinkham continues this great work, and probably from the office of no other person have so many women been advised how to regain health. Sick women, this advice is "Yours for Health" freely given if you only write to ask for it.

Such is the history of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound: made from simple roots and herbs; the one great medicine for women's ailments, and the fitting monument to the noble woman whose name it bears.

Shot by Sheriffs.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Jan. 6.—Garrett Hedden, a desperado, who six years ago murdered his brother in Polk County, Tenn., was yesterday shot and killed by Sheriff Biggs of Polk County. Hedden's 18-year-old son was shot and killed by deputy sheriffs a few hours later.

Officers hesitated to invade the mountain fastnesses until Hedden recently become so defiant that he made frequent trips to Benton and openly defied arrest.

Policeman Shot Down.

Oakland, Calif., Jan. 6.—James Fenton, a policeman, was shot and killed Friday in West Oakland by F. A. Boyle, who said he was a United States sailor, stationed at Mare Island. Thomas Shields of West Oakland then took Boyle's revolver and fatally shot Boyle in the abdomen. Boyle died later at a hospital.

Policeman Fenton had accosted Boyle and another man, whom he suspected of theft.

Killed by Street Car.

Buffalo, N. Y., Jan. 6.—Lieut.-Col. John C. Cautley, 58 years old, a retired British army officer, who made his winter home at the Grand Union Hotel, Toronto, was instantly killed yesterday by a street car. He had alighted from a car on his way to the home of John M. Provost, where his two daughters, students at the Technical High School, are guests.

He did not hear a car coming in the opposite direction, and was struck with terrific force. Death was instantaneous, his head being crushed and body mangled, being carried 130 feet on the fender of the car.

Col. Cautley fought through campaigns in India and Egypt, was with Kitchener at Khartoum, and with Lord Roberts in the Boer war.

Druce Case Not Settled.

London, Jan. 6.—At a conference on Saturday of the lawyers and others interested in the claim of George Hollamby Druce to the estate and title of the Duke of Portland, it was decided after receiving the reports of the doctor and surveyor who attended the exhumation of the Druce coffin, on behalf of the claimant, to continue the prosecution of Herbert Druce for perjury when the case comes up in the Police Court to-day.

While no statement was given out, it is understood that the prosecution will insist that the burden of proving that the body found in the coffin is actually that of T. C. Druce, lies with the defence.

Imagination Killed Him.

New York, Jan. 6.—Christian Henry is dead at the King's County Hospital of pure imagination, the doctors say. Henry had been expecting to have hydrophobia for four years, finally worried himself into all the symptoms and expired just as those do who really have the disease. The autopsy yesterday showed he did not have rabies at all, however. The physicians pronounce his case one of the most remarkable on record. They attribute death to complete nervous collapse and a queer form of brain disease.

Henry's pet dog was bitten by a rabid animal four years ago. There were no indications that the dog had hydrophobia.

Press Praises Hanlan.

London, Jan. 6.—(C. A. P.)—The press of Great Britain does justice to the memory of Hanlan, paying tribute to his powers in a warm, sympathetic fashion.

Schooner Wrecked.

Halifax, N. S., Jan. 6.—A cable message yesterday to the owners here announces the total wreck at Falkland Islands of the sealing schooner Baden-Powell, and the loss of the entire cargo. The crew were saved. The vessel was valued at $6,500.

General Booth Denies.

London, Jan. 6.—(C. A. P.)—General Booth, speaking at Liverpool, ridiculed the allegations that emigrants were starving in Canada. Not a hundred of the 20,000 the army had sent were unemployed.

CHRISTMAS TREE AT ST. AIDAN'S

Presentation at Young's Point to Rev Mr. Battersby and Mrs. Jones

AN EXCELLENT PROGRAMME

Examiner Special.

Young s Point, Jan. 6—The annual Christmas tree was held in the basement of St. Aidan's Church, Young's Point on New Year's Eve. Their was a large attendance of children who were all made happy by gifts from the tree. There was an excellent programme given by the children and during the evening an address was read by Master Wilbert Shannon to Mr. Battersby and Miss Reid presented him with a gentleman's handsome travelling case with his name engraved in gold.

Master Arthur Heard then read an address to Mrs. Jones and Gertie Hookaday presented her with a Bible also engraved. Both the recipients made suitable replies.

St. Aidan's Sunday School has a very large attendance and everything is done to interest and instruct the children.

The following were the addresses: Rev. H F Battersby, Young s Point.

Dear Friend. — Your Association with the work of our Sunday school while you and your estimable wife have been in Young s Point have been such as to promote the highest interests among the pupils of the school, and we take this opportunity of conveying to you our appreciation of your services. In all our Sunday School work you have shown the greatest attention to the furtherance of a Christian spirit. Your relations with St. Aidan's Sunday School have been most creditably sustained and we esteem it a privilege to bear testimony to the excellent work you have done while amongst us, not only in your capacity as our teacher but also as a friend to all in trouble.

In token of our sentiments we ask your acceptance of this gift as a souvenir from your pupils and of the esteem in which you are held by us.

Signed on behlat of the Sunday School,

MRS. JONES,
MISS HEARD,
MRS. ALLAN,
MR. G. STEWART.

Dear Mrs. Jones,—It is with feelings of deep regret we learn this is your last Christmas with us; that you are returning to England in the spring. Since you came amongst us you have endeared yourself to every one of us. You have been a faithful teacher and kind friend, and it will be very heard to fill your place. We ask you to accept this Bible as a small gift and may it help to remind you when far away of the boys and girls of Saint Aidan's Sunday School, Young s Point.

Signed on behalf of the Sunday School,

MISS EVA HEARD,
MRS. ALLAN,
MR. G. STEWART.

Kidney Troubles From the Liver

COMPLICATED CASES WHICH LED TO THE DISCOVERY OF THAT GREAT MEDICINE

In his study of kidney disease, Dr. Chase found that fully 90 per cent. of the cases arose as a direct result of liver and bowel disorders, and it was working on this idea that led to the discovery of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Through over-eating, irregular meals, or food that does not agree the liver is deranged, poisonous bile is left in the blood, and the digestive system is upset. Headaches, biliousness, pains in the back and limbs, ill-temper, and general out-of-sort feelings result.

These are among the symptoms of liver complaint, but during such attacks the kidneys are overworked and after a while there is pain and smarting when passing water, the urine is highly coloured and contains deposits, the pains in the back become more severe, you have rheumatic pains it may be, and are gradually falling a victim of Bright's disease of the kidneys.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills were prepared for the express purpose of effecting cure in every stage of such cases. They enliven the liver, regulate the action of the bowels, and invigorate the kidneys.

In this regard they are entirely different to any treatment you ever used, and are successful in complicated cases in which ordinary kidney medicines have little or no effect. There are people in every neighbourhood in Canada ready to certify to this statement.

Mrs. John Shanahan, 319 McDonel street, Peterborough, Ont., states:—"I was troubled with pains in the back, and dropsy, and was subject to fluttering and palpitation of the heart. In order to set my kidneys right I began using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and I also used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food at the same time.

"The combined use of these two preparations has done me a world of good. I used to have rush of blood to the head, dizziness, and headache, but I am thankful to say that all these symptoms have disappeared, and I have been cured by Dr. Chase's remedies."

QUEEN ALEXANDRA SEATS ARRIVE

Will be installed This Week—About 300 Were Necessary

The seats for the Queen Alexandra School arrived in the city to-day and this week will be installed by Mr. D. Beligheim, who attended to the securing of them. Between 250 and 300 will be installed during the week.

Popular Cure for Croup

Anyone who has tested Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, as a cure for croup, will not hesitate to pronounce it an unqualified success. It is wonderfully prompt in relieving the cough, clearing the air passages and soothing the excited nerves. Many mothers who realise the suddenness with which croup comes on keep this great medicine promptly on hand for use in case of emergency.

A WARSAW MINISTER'S OPINIONS

Rev. Geo. Nickle Writes in "Pioneer" On Effects of Local Option

To the Editor of the Examiner,

Sir, — Having noticed an article in the Examiner of December 22nd, regarding local option in Owen Sound, I thought that I would give you some figures which speak for themselves.

Perhaps, one of the most conspicuous features of local option in Owen Sound, is the decrease in pauperism, as evidenced by the decreased payments of public funds for the support of the needy. Under the license system, comprehensive and well-devised measures were adopted to grapple with this question; but in spite of the work of charitable societies, and establishment of a county House of Refuge, the town's bill for public charities continue to grow.

With the advent of local option, the growth of expenditure for aid to the poor was promptly and effectively checked.

The decrease of pauperism is all the more remarkable in the face of an increased population, and an influx of the people of the poorer classes from the old country.

The following figures are instructive and speak for themselves. For 1907 the figures are brought down to November 30th:

Year.	Population.	To public Charities.
1903.....	9,479.....	.....$617 35
1904.....	9,716.....	..... 689 36
1905.....	10,192.....	..... 794 46
1906.....	10,765.....	..... 536 01
1907.....	10,963.....	..... 431 20

Now, take 1905, the last year wholly under license and compare it with 1907, the first year wholly under local option, and we have this result:

In 11 months of 1905, with a population, there was distributed in public charities $789.21.

In 11 months of 1907, with a population of 10,192, there was distributed $431.20.

Hence for 1907, under local option, with an increase of 771 in population, there is a decrease of 45 per cent. in expenditure to help the poor, as compared with the same period of 1905, under license.

What more conclusive evidence is needed to prove that the licensed bar is responsible for much of our poverty?

Thanking you for space in your valuable paper, I am yours, in the uplifting of humanity.

SERMON ON "WORLDS NEED OF MEN"

By Rev. Dr. Talling in The Montreal Daily Star of Saturday

In Saturday's issue of the Montreal Star is an excellent sermon from the pen of Rev. Marshall P. Talling, Ph. D., of Toronto, who is well known in Peterborough, having occupied the pulpit of St. Paul's church, for some months. The sermon is accompanied by a portrait of the reverend doctor, and is on the subject of "The World"s Needed of Men." His text was:

Jer. v., 1, "Run ye to and fro through the streets of Jerusalem, and see now, and now, and seek in the broad places thereof, if ye can find a man, if there be any that doeth justly, that seeketh truth, and I will pardon her."

Editor Post Card Column:

Dear Sir,—In your interesting paper on Tuesday you speak about "the true aspects of conditions in Canada," and "a damper on the general desire to cross the Atlantic." The Ontario Government all this year has been advertising and paying to get people to come, and has had a press agent to influence newspaper readers. There have been over 30,000 applications for Barnardo children, only a few being granted. Europe has been ransacked to get immigrants.

Yours truly,

W. A. BAILEY.

INFORMATION

About a Reliable Medicine

Vinol is not a patent medicine, as everything it contains is named on the label of every bottle. We guarantee Vinol contains besides tonic iron all of the medicinal, curative and body building elements of cod liver oil actually taken from cods' livers, but without a drop of the useless oil to clog the system, upset the stomach and retard the work. This is why Vinol is so far superior to old-fashioned cod liver oil and emulsions.

Vinol is guaranteed by over five thousand leading druggists of the United States to create health and strength for old people, weak and sickly women and children, nursing mothers, and after a severe sickness, and after a hacking cough, chronic colds, bronchitis and throat and lung troubles.

Try Vinol on our guarantee. McDermid and Jury, druggists, Peterborough, also the Market Drug Store.

LUMBER MILLS RE-OPEN.

Twelve Thousand Men Will Resume Work This Week.

Galveston, Texas, Jan. 6.—Fourteen lumber mills, the property of four companies and employing more than twelve thousand men, will resume operations on Jan. 10. Nine of these mills are located in Eastern Texas, and five of them in Western Louisiana. Some of them have been closed down for nearly three months and others for about two months.

It is understood that six or eight other mills will resume operations, at least on half day shifts, before the first of next month.

Suspension of these mills indirectly affected other industries in the building trades and nearly 4,000 men employed by the railroads in handling trains in the lumber sections were thrown out of work when the plants suspended operations. Mill men say the outlook for a busy spring is very flattering.

ESCAPED FROM PRISON.

Convict Returns to His Home and Kills Wife's Friends.

Little Rock, Ark., Jan. 6.—Posses of citizens are searching the woods in the vicinity of Spence, Harton County, in an effort to capture Yates Standridge, an escaped convict, who on Friday killed two persons and wounded another. They declare Standridge will be lynched if caught.

Standridge, after escaping from the state prison, where he was serving a sentence for robbery, went to the home of his wife and threatened her life. The woman sought protection at the home of a neighbor. Standridge followed her to the neighbor's home and killed N. Rousemont and dangerously wounded Mrs. Rousemont. Mrs. Standridge is missing and is believed to have been killed.

Thaw Trial To-Day.

New York, Jan. 6.—The final conferences of the attorneys engaged in the defence of Harry K. Thaw were held without the presence of Mrs. William Thaw, the mother, who was expected to go over the case in its entirety with the lawyers.

Mrs. Thaw is still too ill to come on from her home in Pittsburg, and will not be in court when Thaw is called to his place this morning at 10.30 o'clock. She is expected to arrive in New York within the next week or ten days, however, and will be ready to again take the stand if the attorneys for the defence deem her testimony necessary to their case. Josiah and Edward Thaw, two brothers, and Mrs. George Lauder Carnegie, a sister, are expected to-day.

The trial will be held in the same branch of the Supreme Court as before.

Justice Victor Dowling, who will preside, is one of the youngest members of the state supreme branch, but has already attained a wide reputation as a jurist. He had expressed an intention to hold the opposing attorneys steadily to their tasks, and to expedite the trial as much as possible.

Prosperous Farmer Suicides.

Port Hope, Jan. 6.—Richard N. Smith, one of the most prosperous farmers in the Township of Hope, committed suicide yesterday morning at Starkville.

Mr. Smith left the house about nine o'clock, to do the chores, and not returning at the usual hour, his son went to look for him and was horrified to find his lifeless body hanging from one of the beams in the barn. Coroner McKenzie of Newtonville has been notified and will conduct an investigation.

Mr. Smith lived at Starkville and was well known and highly respected. He was comfortably situated, owning his farm of 300 acres. A widow, one daughter and one son survive.

U. S. Lieutenant In Trouble.

Detroit, Jan. 6.—The warrant issued Saturday for the arrest on a charge of forging a check for $46.50 of Lieut. R. E. Hazzard of the 7th United States Infantry will not be served on the lieutenant until after he has faced the court-martial which convenes at Fort Wayne to-day to try him on five charges, including duplication of pay accounts, breaking his pledge, and conduct unbecoming an officer. It was said yesterday that Miss May Masseth, a 20-year-old girl who lives in the vicinity of Fort Wayne, called at the fort Saturday night to see Lieut. Hazzard, and notified Col. Gorman that they were married last Monday at Walkerville, Ont.

Charged With Arson.

Belleville, Jan. 6.—William H. Bradshaw of Tyendinaga is under arrest in this city, charged with arson in burning down a barn belonging to his uncle, James H. Bradshaw.

It is alleged that someone set fire to the barn, hoping to be able to steal $800 which was in the adjoining house while the occupants were at the barn trying to put out the fire. The prisoner, it is said, was seen in the vicinity at the time, hence his arrest. Saturday morning he came up in the Police Court and the case was enlarged till next Friday.

U. S. Fleet Will Be Escorted.

THE SMITH REEVE WAS SERENADED

Left His Bed In The Morning and Made a Speech

Reeve Robert Scott, the popular leader of Smith Council, was forcibly ejected from his own home on Friday night with very little of his usual daily apparel covering his body. But the reeve was by no means held up for his money. A party of Foresters returning home to Bridgenorth about 2 o'clock in the morning from an installation at Peterborough, was the cause of the unexpected ejection.

They demanded admittance and Mr. Scott, lightly clad, hurried downstairs to discover the cause of the trouble. Immediately on the door being opened he was pulled outside where he was compelled to make a sleigh his platform and to make a speech. On the termination of the serenade he was permitted to again seek the solid comfort of his downy couch.

LOCAL MAN DISCOVERS SUN SPOTS

Mr. Herbert Collier Made Some Interesting Drawing of Them

Mr. Herbert Collier, 555 Weller street, a member of the Peterborough section of the Royal Astronomical Society, has recently made some interesting drawings of disturbances on the sun which he discovered through his own telescope. Mr. Collier last week found that there were large spots plainly visible on the surface of the sun and were developing rapidly and that they gave every indication of becoming enormous in size. He has made some drawings of the disturbances and invites any person interested in astronomy to see them.

The disturbances were noted on New Year's Day.

COUNCIL DREW MARE FROM THE MUD

Were in Session When The Horse Began To Sink

Tweed, Jan. 6.—(Special.) On Monday, Dec. 16, Mr. A. W. Will's got a mare into a very boggy wood road, where she got stuck fast, and as he was unable to extricate her he sent word to his neighbour, Mr. Wm. Ogilvie, for assistance. It happened that the township council was in session, and the councillors turned out in a body to render what aid they could. Ropes were procured, and by the aid of sheer strength the beast was pulled out of the hole and over twenty feet of hard frozen bog and landed on terra firma. Without the help of the councillors the mare would certainly have perished, and Mr. Wills is deeply thankful to them.

Eighth Anniversary of The Organization of The T. A. S.

A Few Facts About The Society Which Has Developed As a Power For Good in St. Peter's Congregation

IT PRACTISES TEMPERANCE

On Wednesday St. Peter's T.A.S. will celebrate the eighth anniversary of its organization by a concert in the assembly hall of St. Peter's School. Eight years have passed since the society was formed, Jan. 8th, 1900, when about forty or fifty members of St. Peter's congregation pledged themselves for the cause of temperance. The early struggles against adverse criticism, and doubt as to the success of the society, were indelibly marked on the first few mile stones, but, with the advent of Rev. Dr. O'Brien, as Spiritual Adviser, the T. A. S. took on a new life. By his persistent efforts, unfailing care and fatherly advice, the society soon began to assert itself, and the intervening years have, by the grace of God, seen it grow into one of the strongest temperance organizations on the American continent.

The Inauguration

When the Catholic Literary Association, was in existence, prior to 1900, Rev. Father Frank O'Sullivan, endeavoured to have it branch into the cause of temperance. After preaching on the subject, and advocating it, until the time for action was almost ripe, Rev. Father Murphy, a native of Peterborough, and himself a successful temperance worker, was invited to lecture at St. Peter's. His sermon, still remembered by the large assembly, who were fortunate in hearing it, left the influence desired, and a meeting was held during that week, when the society was organised.

The citizens of Peterborough are well aware of the extent and the nature of the work that it has done. The power for good which it wields to-day, is felt most by its members, who have been benefitted in a material manner known only to themselves.

REV. DR. O'BRIEN
Spiritual Adviser For The T. A. S.

The society has known no narrow boundaries. While total abstinence has been its chief aim it has always been liberal in providing for the intellectual, physical, social and spiritual welfare of the members. The dramatic club has been eminently successful, and likewise the literary branch. The library is continually being added to, and the reading room has the best papers and periodicals on its tables. The gymnasium for the physical department is fairly well equipped. The Social Club, the Ladies' Literary Society, Debating Club and other branches, are all flourishing.

Peterborough Is After Another Big Car Factory

Despatch From St. John Says The Company's Promoter is There

HAMITON WOULD LIKE IT

Peterborough is making another attempt to land a big manufacturing concern—no other than a car factory which will employ at the beginning 400 men, and later 1,000. At the present time the promoters of the scheme Mr. R. D. Isaacs, is at St. John, N.B., negotiating with the City Council there. According to the despatch from St. John, the only two Ontario cities making a bid for the big factory are Peterborough and Hamilton.

The erection of the factory involves an expenditure of more than a million dollars, and Mr. Isaacs states that almost $500,000 has already been subscribed.

The following is the despatch from St. John:

The car works project, which Mr. R. D. Isaacs placed before the City Council, involves the expenditure of a million or more, and the employment of 400 men, to be increased to 1,000. Mr. Isaacs says that nearly half a million dollars capital has been subscribed.

He asks important concessions and a reply before the end of January, as Peterborough, Hamilton, and St. John's, Que., are making him offers. The council will consider the matter next week.

Curlers Refuse To Remain Without Ice For Their Sport

Work Commenced at The Old Rink Clearing Away The Debris—Intend to Make Ice in a Short Time

THE INSURANCE SETTLED

The destruction of the Charlotte street rink, the worst blow the curling fraternity of the city has ever sustained, has left the club in a sorry condition for the winter's sport. Mr. McIntosh had just prepared six rinks of good hard ice, New Year's Day had given the curlers a foretaste of the fun that was coming, when, with a puff, the building was almost wiped out.

But not so the hopes of the curlers. A mere fire could not daunt them, and the same day the officers met to consider means of preparing a temporary sheet. A little delay was caused by waiting until the insurance officers had visited the rink. This morning Mr. Wm. Power of Toronto viewed the ruins, and being satisfied as to the loss, a gang of men was set to work. Some are clearing away the bricks that piled around the broom factory at the rear, and a carter contracted for removing the debris that covers the central portion of the rink.

Will Make Ice

It is the intention of the Curling Club to proceed in making ice on the floored portion, and the work will be pushed ahead rapidly. Every effort will be made to have a list of games before the season passed by, and the prospects for sport are looking brighter.

Next spring will probably see the club beginning the erection of a fine large building, which will be one of the best curling rinks in use.

THE WEATHER.

A sudden and very decided change occurred in the weather between Saturday night. Saturday was quite mild, with a light rain falling. During the night a strong wind from the north-west brought some decidedly colder weather, and by Sunday morning the thermometer was down to 2 below zero. The highest temperature on Sunday was 9 above zero. This morning the thermometer indicated 2 degrees above zero; no lower during the night.

RECORD VOTE BEING POLLED

Great Interest is Displayed in Municipal Elections

All indications point to a very large vote at to-day's election. Since the polls opened at nine o'clock this morning there has been a steady stream of electors to the different polling places, the contest for the mayoralty being the impetus that brought many out. It was an ideal day for bringing out voters, and as the different contestants in the aldermanic race as well as the mayoralty candidates, have been hard at work all day, there is every indication of a record vote being polled to-day.

At noon the different polling divisions reported a larger vote than up to the same hour last year, and by appearances continued during the afternoon great interest is being manifested in the result.

Why Beauty Fades

Real beauty is rare. It belongs to perfect health. Just as soon as the blood gets thin and watery and the nerves become exhausted, beauty fades, wrinkles show themselves, and the glow of health disappears and beauty curves give place to leanness and angles. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the great blood builder and nerve restorative, is woman's greatest blessing from youth to old age. A few weeks' use of this treatment will do wonders for any woman who is pale, thin, weak and nervous.

A Crash of Price Reductions

We're working hard now to clear the book-shelves, cases and counters for stock-taking. Several influences combine to bring about a revision of prices on the most Useful Goods that people buy, as well as on the more Fancy and Ornamental Things.

A Host of January Reductions and Savings

No Regular Prices will prevail this month, as it is only by selling the goods at a loss that we can hope to reduce our stocks.

Expect 25 to 33⅓ per cent. Reductions

From now until stock-taking is over. Our Annex across the street will be closed this week.

SELWYN WRITER ON LOCAL OPTION

Gives His Opinion on Success of Local Option in Owen Sound

The following letter by Rev. Geo. Nickle, pastor of the Warsaw Methodist church, appeared in the last issue of The Pioneer: The local option bylaw has been in force in Dummer township, Peterborough county, since May, 1906. The opponents of the measure prophesied ruin to the business interests of the village, but instead of ruin, business has gone on about as before, with same progress in the volume of business done, and some improvement in the cash paid; also considerable building improvements.

For a time the topers, presumably aided by the brewers, brought in some kegs of liquor, which was consumed by gangs gathered in old stables, etc. Happily, one hears very little of that now. And in the absence of the open bar, no sign of drink is seen. "Local option saved that man" is the remark heard re certain former drinkers who are now sober, industrious citizens.

A few of those opposed to local option still claim that there is more liquor drank than under license, while those who favour the bylaw seem well satisfied that there is a big improvement. There is little reason to believe that there is any illegal selling of liquor. Many feared there would be a serious difficulty in providing hotel accommodation if the bar was closed, but the same hotel accommodation is here now as before, and it is all that is required.

We do not see how any neat, intelligent person can say other than that Dummer township is a long way better in business, socially and morally, under local option than with the open bar.

The Latest Bargain Contribution to the January Economy Sale

IN the midst of the busy buying that has prevailed here since this sale began we were forced to pause and reassemble lots for easier selection. In going through these stocks we have found various lots that have not been selling as quickly as we desire and they are again dropped in price to a point that should dispose of them. Bargains now are even more notable than when the sale opened and in every department you'll find many evidences of our intentions to stop at no sacrifice in order to clear counters of these goods. Examine these offerings, you'll find that you can buy to supply all your needs at figures for more Economical than have prevailed in months.

ST. PETER'S T.A.S. AT CHURCH

Received Holy Communion in a Body Yesterday Morning

At the 8 o'clock mass at St. Peter's Cathedral yesterday over 400 members of the T.A.S. received Ho'y Communion in a body. His Lordship Bishop O'Connor, who said mass, at the conclusion made reference to the splendid showing the society had made, and expressed his gratification at seeing so many of the members keeping steadfast to their pledge. The example they were setting for the rest of the congregation was very edifying, and was exerting a powerful influence for good.

The members of the society walked to the hall where they renewed their pledge. The marshals for the occasion were Messrs. P. O'Donnell and Geo. Ahearn.

THE STODDARD STOCK COMPANY

Mr. E F Barnstead, business manager of the Stoddard Stock Company, is in the city to-day, making arrangement for his company which will play here all next week. The company is one of remarkable talent and among their plays are "The Christian," "The Bells of Richmond," "A Gambler's Daughter" and "The Counterfeiters" which they produce with great success.

PARTELLO STOCK COMPANY

The Partello Stock Company finished its engagement in the city on Saturday night with a presentation of the thrilling melodrama "We Never Sleep." The play while it did not compare favourably with those given earlier in the week was cleverly presented, and well received by the audience. The company on its first appearance here has established a reputation for itself that will always insure crowded houses for it in this city. Theatre-goers would gladly welcome the news that the Partello attraction was billed for another engagement here.

THE NEW YEAR'S START IN COUNTY COURT

Magistrate Edmison has every prospect of a busy week from present appearances. On Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock His Worship will hear the case of Geo. The case will be heard in the county police court.

On Wednesday the enlarged case of Rae vs. Holland will be continued.

On Thursday Magistrate Edmison will go down to Norwood to hear a charge which Mr. W. J. Puffer has preferred against Wm. Saunders for having used abusive language on the public highway. REPORT OF LABOUR CONDITIONS

For The Month of November—Prospect For Winter's Work Not Encouraging

THE LABOUR MARKET FREE

In the December issue of the Labour Gazette the following report of Ald. W J. Johnston, on the labour conditions in this district, is published:

Labour during November was fairly active although a number of workmen were out of employment. Most mechanics were fairly well employed. The general outlook for the winter, so far as outdoor work is concerned is not encouraging. A number of men will be employed completing the interior work of unfinished buildings. Sewer work is still under way. Dredging also is giving employment to a number of men. The water commissioners are laying water mains on some of the streets. The Bell Telephone Company is putting its wires underground. A few permits were issued for the erection of buildings, and a number of houses are under construction to be completed by the end of the year. Railway transportation was very active. Banks reported steady business and wholesale and retail trade was active. Wages remained unchanged, and the labour market was free from unrest.

Agriculture. — Threshing, hauling grain to market and the fall ploughing furnished the chief occupation.

Lumbering. — Busy conitions prevailed.

Manufacturing. — This industry experienced a busy month.

Mining was dull.

Building. Bricklayers, masons, carpenters joiners, lathers and plasterers, painters, decorators and paper hangers and plumbers, were busy, with gas and steam-fitters, stonecutters and builders' labourers active.

Metal, engineering and shipbuilding. — Iron moulders and helpers, machinists and engineers, steam engineers, electrical workers and linemen, brassworkerrs and shipbuilders, were busy; also sheet metal workers. Blacksmith, tool sharpeners, horse shoers and jewellers were active, but boiler makers and bicycle workers are somewhat dull.

Woodworking and furnishing. — Woodworkers, upholsterers, varnishers and polishers, and carriage workers, were active, car builders experienced dullness of employment, while pattern makers were active and coopers busy.

Printing. — The allied trades were active but not so active as last year at this season.

Clothing. — Journeymen tailors and garments workers were active. Hat makers were dull and boot and shoe workers busy.

Food and tobacco preparations. — Bakers confectioners, butchers and meat cutters were busy; cigar makers, etc., active. Ice handlers had a poor month.

Leather—Busy conditions prevailed.

Miscellaneous — Active conditions prevailed with the barbers and broom makers. Other trades under this heading were busy.

Transport. — Busy conditions prevailed in all railway branches. With steamboat employees dull conditions prevailed towards the latter part of the month. Street railway employees, cab men, hackmen, carters, and draymen were active.

Unskilled. — This class was well employed.

District Notes

The cheese board at its last meeting sold 2840 boxes at 12 13-16c per pound. The total number of boxes sold during the past season was 41,118, netting $400,000. The average price per pound was 12c.

The general stores in the district report a steady trade. The grist and saw mills were becoming slack.

Campbellford. — Good headway is being made with the improvement work on the canal.

Lindsay.—The Machine Telephone Company is busy installing underground work.

Cobourg. — The large car ferry has been placed in commission. The boat is 317 feet long, 56 feet beam, and 37 feet from top deck to keel, fitted with twin screw expansion engins, developing 3,000 indicated horse power, and averages 15 miles an hour. She will carry 25 loaded cars and 250 passengers, with a loaded draught of fifteen feet. It is intended to carry coal north and lumber south. It cost $375,000.

PROSPERITY OF THE FARMER IS RECALLED

By The Number of Fur Coats That They Own

That the farmers of Peterborough county are among the most prosperous in the Province has long been known. A little reminder of this was pointed out to the Examiner on Saturday at the Munro House, where many farmers stay when they come to Peterborough.

Hanging on the wall in the sitting-room were fifteen coats, and out of that number thirteen of them were handsome furs. Also in several other places in the hotel could be seen the expensive fur coats predominating over the cloth variety. The farmers of this county are certainly prosperous, indicating the dependence of the majority, of the people upon their industry.

LIVERY BARNS DO GOOD BUSINESS

Every Conveyance Was Ordered The day After Nominations

The liverymen of the city are today walking around the stables with their hands in their pockets. Every horse and cutter in thier establishments are being used to draw some voter to the polls. Many men who left off the ordering of a vehicle until this morning were sadly disappointed when they reached the barns to find that all sleighs had been ordered. The liverymen state that the orders for conveyances began to pour in the day after the nominations. The applicants were around the barns as early as 8 o'clock this morning, and when the polls opened at 9, had a load of voters outside waiting to vote.

One liveryman states that every conveyance in his barn is being used for one candidate, and every horse in his stable is out except an old mare. This mare has done service on other election days, but is now on the retired list of the barn.

OBITUARY

MRS. FRANK J. ROGERS

Kingston, Jan. 6.—(Special) — A very sad death was recorded on Friday morning, when, at eight o'clock, Mrs. Rogers, widow of the late Frank J. Rogers, passed away suddenly at her home, Gore street. The deceased had been a patient sufferer from heart trouble for some time, and had been in a critical state several times last month, yet death came as a great shock to her family and to hundreds of warm Kingston friends. Mrs. Rogers had lived in the city, when her husband was connected with the Bank of Montreal. They later moved to Peterborough, when Mr. Rogers was made manager of the branch there. After the death of her husband, Mrs. Rogers had lived in the city.

The deceased was deeply attached member of St. George's Cathedral congregation, where she was always a willing worker as long as her health parmitted. Five daughters and one young son mourn one of the very best of mothers, and have the sincerest sympathy of the whole community.

Many friends of the deceased in Peterborough will add their sympathy with the family of Mrs. Rogers who as well as her late husband was well known here when the latter was manager of the local branch of the Bank of Montreal, a position he filled for two or three years some eight or nine years ago.

WEDDING BELLS.

KENNEDY—GILSON

Lindsay, Jan. 6.—A very pretty wedding was celebrated at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Gilson, Ops, on New Year's day, when their only daughter, Cora Maud, was united in marriage to David Kennedy.

After the ceremony the happy couple were conveyed to Lindsay, next morning taking the train for Peterborough.

PASSENGER TRAFFIC IS HEAVY

School Teachers Travell on Both Line Of Railway

The two railway stations in the city report a large passenger traffic to-day. This fact is explained by the large number of school teachers who were on their way to their respective schools for the present term. Many of them changed trains in this city going mostly from G.T.R. to the C.P.R. on the noon train going east.

NO ELECTION FOR BOARD

Death of Mr. Wm. Pringle Renders It Unnecessary

ELECTED BY ACCLAMATION

Owing to the lamented death of Mr. Wm. Pringle there was no election for the vacant positions on the Board of Education to-day. In receiving notice of his demise, City Clerk Armstrong notified the deputy returning officers not to give out the ballots to-day and therefore Messrs. W H Hill D W Dumble, Dr. Geo Burnham, John Crane and W F Nelson are elected to the Board by acclamation. No one will regret Mr. Pringle's death more than will the five gentlemen who by his demise are returned to office. He was most popular with his fellow members of the Board.

Only six were nominated and as five were to be elected Mr. Pringle's death renders an election unnecessary.

SPLENDID OPAL COMES TO THE CITY

A Christmas Present To a City Lady, From Windora Opal Mines

Mr. Lambert Lynn, C.E., this morning showed the Examiner a magnificent opal from the Windora Opal Mines, New South Wales. It was sent by his brother as a Christmas present to Mrs. Lynn, and it arrived to-day. This beautiful stone has its iridescent splendor enclosed in a matrix of brown ish agate and, with the matrix weighs 892 carats and the opal itself is about 1-3 of this weight, will out about 400 carats and at $16 a carat would represent a value of about $6,400, a Christmas box worth getting in the abstract, apart from its interesting associations.

A FRENCH SPY WHO IS IN TROUBLE

Sensational Case Now on Trial In English Courts.

CHARGED WITH BLACKMAIL

Demanded Money With Threats From Well-Known Financier and Millionaire — Calls Himself Baron—Was Formerly Accused of Murder—Declares He Is Victim of Revenge—Wants Extradition.

London, Jan. 6.—Not since the time of Whittaker Wright have Londoners of all classes flocked to the Guildhall in such numbers as in the early stages of the trial of Franz Von Veltheim, who styles himself Baron Carl Ludwig Von Veltheim — possibly the world's most widely known international adventurer. The man is now charged with attempting to extort, on threat of murder, $8,000 from Solomon B. Joel, the London and South African mine owner and financier.

The defendant is believed by some to be Frank Kurtze, the murderer of Woolf Joel, brother of the prosecutor in the present case. That crime was committed in Johannesburg ten years ago, and Veltheim's lawyers are using this fact on which to base the defence that the present prosecution is instituted out of revenge by the murdered man's brother.

A French Secret Agent.

When his case was called Veltheim candidly admited that he was a secret agent of the French Government, and boldly announces his address as the Quai Dorsay (the French Foreign Office), Paris, which fact, by the way, may account for the zeal of the German detectives in attempting to obtain his extradition from the French Government on the charge of obtaining $10,000 from a German woman.

Veltheim told of questioning the detective who brought him from France concerning the eleven warrants which formed the basis of his arrest, the chief of which was that involving the alleged Joel blackmail threat.

"When the warrant charging me with an attempt to blackmail Joel was read," said the prisoner, in an unconcerned manner, "I said: 'Fancy an innocent letter like that being construed into a threat to kill and murder!' I have had the opinion of Sir Thomas Barclay on that letter. He said to me that no one could see any harm in the letter if he considered it with candor and honesty.

"Three months elapsed between the time I wrote that letter and the first step taken by anybody to secure my arrest. They are trying to make out that that letter is a continuation of some crazy letter written ten years ago."

Once Tried For Murder.

The detective who brought the prisoner from Paris testified that Von Veltheim had said to him when they were coming to London:

"These letters were put in evidence against me in my trial for the murder of Joel's brother in Pretoria, and I am advised that an absolutely illegal use of them is being made a second time in the effort to procure evidence against me."

It was then brought out that Inspector Pentin, the detective referred to, had not taken down Von Veltheim's remarks until an hour after the warrant had been read to him.

Cross-examined by Von Veltheim's counsel, Pentin was asked: "Did Von Veltheim, on being arrested in Paris, tell you to go back to Joel and tell him not to make an ass of himself? Did he tell you to advise Joel to read that letter a second time?"

"No," answered the detective. "Von Veltheim simply said that Joel was a fool to take any notice of the letter."

In response to further questions, the detective admitted that he did not caution Von Veltheim that any statements he should make would be used against him.

In view of this fact and the strength of the counsel who are conducting Von Veltheim's defence, there seems to be a pretty good chance that the prisoner will again slip from the clutches of the law. Before the case will be finally determined, however, a number of witnesses will have to be brought to London from South Africa.

Preacher Jilted at Altar.

Toledo, Ohio, Jan. 6.—When Rev. Walter Clapp, formerly rector of St. John's Church here, now a missionary in the Philippines, entered St. John's Church Saturday morning to be wedded to Miss Alice Thorne, a prominent Toledo society girl, he was handed a note sent by the bride, declaring the match off. Miss Thorne gives no public reason for her action.

Rev. Dr. Clapp came direct from the Philippines to wed Miss Thorne, who is from one of the most prominent families in the city.

Dynamite Judge's Home.

Wellsville, N. Y., Jan. 6.—The residence of Justice E. R. Carpenter, at Andover, was badly damaged by dynamite early Saturday. The explosive was placed in a cellar window under a bedroom usually occupied by Justice Carpenter. Fortunately the family were sleeping in another part of the house and were uninjured. The damage will exceed $500.

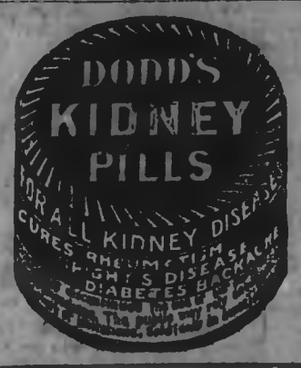
Justice Carpenter has rigidly enforced the liquor laws, and the crime is attributed to someone angered by his action.

Strong Denials.

Washington, Jan. 6.—A sweeping denial of the charges by officers and counsel, and more particularly by President Ripley of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railroad, upon the Government and the court in connection with the fining of that road of $360,000 for granting rebates, is contained in a letter to President Roosevelt.

Baby Saved Family.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Jan. 6.—About three o'clock yesterday morning the residence of Albert Bush on Barker street, was completely destroyed by fire, with the contents, the family escaping partly clad, having been awakened by their little baby crying. Loss $1,500, partly insured. Cause of fire unknown.



BOMB EXPLOSION IN A BANK

Kansas Financial Institution Scene of Bomb Outrage.

THREE PERSONS INJURED

Explosive Was Placed In Corner of the Basement—Shock Was Felt In All Parts of the City—Shaken as By an Earthquake—People Fled In Panic From Bank Building —No Arrests Yet Made.

Kansas City, Jan. 6.—The explosion of a bomb at noon Friday in the basement of the magnificent three-story marble building at the northeast corner of Tenth and Baltimore, occupied by the First National Bank and other offices, caused considerable damage.

Three persons were injured: Elbert Ward, negro porter in the bank, condition serious; Logan Wilson, bank clerk, rendered unconscious, will recover; J. Donaldson, bank clerk, cut by falling glass.

John F. Pelletier, superintendent of the fire insurance patrol, who was in the banking rooms at the time of the explosion, and E. F. Swinney, president of the bank, are authority for the statement that the explosion was the result of a bomb set off by some persons unknown to them. Neither were able to give any cause for the commission of the act. The bank was crowded with customers at the time, these, together with the employes, numbering about 250 persons. A panic ensued and there was a wild scramble for the doors.

The First National Bank building was one of the most beautiful structures in the city. It was finished last year, and cost close to $1,000,000. The main floor was occupied by the bank, which is the largest financial institution in Kansas City. The two upper storeys are occupied principally by real estate and law firms.

Investigation developed the fact that a bomb had been placed in a toilet-room in the northwest corner of the basement, 20 feet from the main vault. The toilet-room was 18 by 20 feet square, and was separated from the adjoining room by a 3-inch plaster partition. This partition was supported by a steel post.

The bomb struck this post with such force as to bend the post a foot out of perpendicular, wreck the partition and send a cloud of dust up the wide stair way leading to the banking rooms. The building was shaken as if by an earthquake.

The explosion was felt in all parts of the city.

Premier Has Recovered.

London, Jan. 6.—While not relishing the notion of bye-elections to Parliament on the eve of the reassembling of the Commons, Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman is looking forward to Jan. 29 with full confidence in the ability of the Liberals to hold their position at Westminster and with the country.

His health is much improved, and what was diagnosed at Bristol as a heart malady is now understood to have been merely a bad attack of indigestion.

The Prime Minister is described from Biarritz as in his best fighting form. Talk of his promotion or retirement to the House of Lords is in abeyance.

Sir Henry recognises, however, that one of the principal obstacles to the smooth working of his plans is the trade reaction in all parts of the United Kingdom. Forecasts of economic writers for 1908 dwell upon the decline in prosperity.

Republic of Egypt.

Cairo, Jan. 6.—The "Republic of Egypt" is a new idea in politics, but though the name has a strange air, and sounds more strangely still, it is none the less the watchword of a new party, who are styling themselves Republican Nationalists.

Their manifesto is not yet proclaimed, but it is being drawn up, apparently at secret conclaves held in one or another of the international clubs in Cairo. Meanwhile those who might fear that the rising Republicans intend emulating the deeds of the mountain, or of Robespierre, are reassured by a moving spirit of the new republic. In a letter to the press he states that the aims of the party will be to diffuse in Egypt the ideal of an Egyptian republic.

Illness of the Pope.

Rome, Jan. 6.—Rumors of the illness of the Pope are unfounded, as it is known that on Friday he received Archbishop Riordan of San Francisco, and yesterday he gave an audience to Baron von Rotenhen, who has his letters of recall as minister to the Holy See from Prussia.

Herr von Muhlberg, ex-Under Secretary of the Foreign Office, will take the place of Baron von Rotenhen, and it is understood that the Prussian Minister will seek the assistance of the Vatican in the Germanization of Poland.

Ordered to Get Out.

Berlin, Jan. 6.—The 17 Russians, members of the central committee of the Russian workingmen's party who were arrested Thursday night in a raid on a house in the suburb of Charlotteburg, were released yesterday and ordered to leave Germany within 24 hours.

TROOPS CALLED INTO SERVICE

Street Car Riots at Muncie, Indiana, Assume Serious Phase.

MARTIAL LAW DECLARED

Two Days' Desperate Fighting In the Streets—Mob of Three Thousand Stoutly Resist Police and Sheriffs —Special Police Sworn In—Women and Children Are Ordered to Keep Off the Streets.

Indianapolis, Jan. 6.—Governor Hanly on Saturday issued a proclamation declaring martial law at Muncie and placing Brigadier-General McKee in command of the state troops assembled there, namely, twelve companies of infantry and one battery.

The martial law order covers a radius of four miles from the Delaware County court house, and takes in the factory districts of Muncie. As the attorney-general, Dowling, was sent to Muncie by the governor to act as legal adviser for Brigadier-General McKee, Governor Hanly's action in sending troops, supplemented by the energy displayed Saturday by the attorneys and citizens of Muncie resulted in checking the mob spirit.

There were no outbreaks during the day. Five hundred citizens, including some members of the Commercial Club of Muncie, have been sworn in as special officers to preserve the peace. These men will endeavor to control the situation, but will be backed by the soldiers.

Mayor Guthrie has closed all saloons and ordered all women and children to keep off the streets except on errands of necessity. The determination of the governor to call out the state militia followed a riot at Muncie late Friday afternoon, when the police and deputy sheriffs fought with a crowd of 3,000 men, women and children.

There has been no serious trouble at Anderson, Marion, Alexandria and Elwood. Twenty-seven employes of the various lines voted to strike, but the car service was only partly interrupted.

Mount Royal Still Missing.

Halifax, N. S., Jan. 6.—Up to midnight there is still no word of the missing C. P. R. steamship Mount Royal and almost all hope for her safety has been abandoned.

Even if still afloat, the last of her coal and provisions must be now reached, and the situation of the four hundred passengers and crew must be desperate.

One theory among shipping men here which would account for the loss of the Mount Royal is that the liner may have got out of her course and possibly struck an iceberg and gone down at once with all hands.

Public sentiment generally expressed is that either a warship or some other vessel should be sent at once in search as was done several years ago when the Allan liner Huronian went astray.

Pettibone Acquitted.

Boise, Idaho, Jan. 6.—An end to the prosecution of the men charged with the murder of former Governor Frank Steunenberg, except the cases of Harry Orchard and Jack Simpkins, came Saturday with the acquittal of George A. Pettibone and the discharge of Charles H. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners, both charged with conspiracy with Wm. D. Haywood to murder Steunenberg. Moyer will return with Pettibone in a few days to Denver. Haywood was acquitted last summer, and Moyer will not be tried.

The case of Orchard, confessed assasin of Steunenberg, and chief witness against Moyer, Haywood and Pettibone, is in the hands of Prosecuting Attorney Van Duyn of Canyon County, Idaho.

Saved From Suicide.

Niagara Falls, Jan. 6.—The reservation police late Saturday afternoon arrested Frank H. Dunbar of the Vancouver hotel. The police say that Dunbar was contemplating suicide by throwing himself into the river.

Dunbar was seen near the brink of the falls weeping and behaving in an irrational manner. He started to run toward Prospect Point as the officer approached, but was caught before he reached the iron railing.

He said that he was tired of life; his wife was very ill, and he had little money to supply her needs. He was taken to police headquarters, and there lodged for the night. He is only 24 years old.

Boring For Oil.

Walkerville, Jan. 6.—Very quietly for the past three months, the Walkerville & Tecumseh Oil and Gas Co., a recently incorporated organization, has been boring for oil about four miles above here.

The company has a lease on 7,000 acres of land and should either oil or gas be found the promoters say that it will be fully as good as the field at Tilbury, 20 miles away. There are very strong surface indications of oil on the farm, but so far the well, now down 800 feet, has given forth no signs of oil.

Terrorist Activity.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 6.—Revolutionists at Peterhof Saturday night quietly entered the armory of the Caspian Regiment and got away with sixty rifles.

Discoveries of bombs and explosives in St. Petersburg are reported almost every day, and the police declare they have information to the effect that certain groups of terrorists are preparing to resume activity.

Saturday the police seized 14 bombs in the lodgings of a laborer and took 20 men into custody.

Strike Is Broken.

Goldfield, Nev., Jan. 6.—The backbone of the miners' strike seems broken. It is hoped that all mines will be in full operation within ten days. The hills are full of miners applying for work, and they are deserting the Western Federation by the score.

Smallpox at Brockville.

Brockville, Jan. 6.—Three new cases of smallpox came to light yesterday.

DENIES ALLEGED INTERVIEW.

Japanese Ambassador Repudiates Emigration Statement.

San Francisco, Jan. 6.—Viscount Aoki, Japanese ambassador at Washington, who arrived in San Francisco Saturday night, en route to Tokio, having been recalled by his Government at his own request, in an interview with the Associated Press last night, denied the statement attributed to him in an alleged interview Friday night, and in which he was quoted as saying:

"Japan is restricting the emigration of laborers to this country and will continue to do so," and "that it would be regarded as offensive to the dignity of Japan for this country to pass an exclusion law, or endeavor to embody the subject in a treaty."

"Such a statement did not emanate from me," emphatically declared the ambassador, in German, a language with which he is much more familiar than with English. "I did not talk with any newspaper man last night, nor did I authorize any one to speak for me, much less make any statement. Furthermore, I have not discussed the emigration question with anyone since I left Washington, nor have I anything to add to my farewell statement, made by me to the American people through the Associated Press, prior to my departure. I am returning to Japan after a long absence, to confer with my Government on various matters.

"The attitude of Japan toward this country is of the friendliest character, but the emigration question and other matters of policy between the two countries are for statesmen and diplomats and cannot be so freely discussed in public."

Being able to express himself readily in German, the ambassador talked at length on various topics, but declined to discuss the Vancouver race troubles, the immigration question in general or comment on the transfer of the battleship fleet from the Atlantic to the Pacific Ocean.

BLAZE AT MONTREAL.

Firemen Narrowly Escaped Death by Falling Wall.

Montreal, Jan. 6.—Five firemen had a miraculous escape from death on Saturday at a fire in the departmental store of Arsene Lemay at St. Denis street and Duluth avenue. The building was totally destroyed, and the loss will amount to between $50,000 and $75,000.

The firemen were standing on a fire escape when the wall gave way, and the men were thrown headlong into the burning building. How they managed to escape is a mystery. All of them were more or less injured, but not seriously.

DEAR SIRS:—

I beg to acknowledge the receipt of cheque for $500.00 in full settlement of my loss by fire to Dwelling House at Garden Hill.

I appreciate the fair and liberal treatment which I have received from the Guardian Assurance Company, as well as from yourselves as Agents. It is a pleasure to do business with Agents who take a personal interest in your Insurance when a loss occurs.

The Following Letter Speaks For Itself

Peterborough, Nov. 1st, 1907

W. G. MORROW, Esq.,
Agent Imperial Life Assurance Co.,
Peterborough.

Dear Sir:—I have received notification of the option available in respect to my ten-year Endowment Policy of $1000 which matured to-day and it affords me pleasure to say that I view with much satisfaction the results of my investment with your Company.

The substantial surplus which the Policy has earned in the comparatively short period of ten years makes the returns which would be made to me, under any of the options now open to my selection, most liberal and attractive.

It is greatly to the credit of the Company that after having granted me an Insurance of $2000 from the issue of the Policy in 1897 to the present time, it can now offer me under the cash-value option a sum so greatly in excess of the total premium that I have paid into it, or under the paid up Insurance option, a paid up life Policy considerable more than double the amount of my original Policy.

Permit me to wish the Company a long continuance of its prosperity.

Yours very truly,

J. R. STRATTON.

Any person contemplating taking out Life Insurance will find it to his advantage to secure our rates before placing the risk.

BIG GAME BILLED FOR FRIDAY

Lindsay And Strathconas Open The O.H.A. Season Here

The first Intermediate O.H.A. game of the season will be seen here on Friday night when the famous Lindsay Midgets will be seen in action here for the first time against the Strathconas. A lively contest should be the result when the two get together. It was Lindsay's boast last year that they could defeat three teams in one night, but the Strathconas will be greatly astonished if they prove able to defeat one team on Friday next. The Strathconas have been practising faithfully for the past three weeks and will be in the pink of condition to meet Lindsay. They will have a number of surprises to uncork on the hockey public this week and some familiar faces will be seen on the line-up. The old rivalry between Lindsay and Peterborough is still in evidence and a report from Lindsay says that the Midgets are determined to beat Peterborough. They were confident last year that they could trim the senior team; it remains to be seen if they are fast enough to be an intermediate organization. F. C. Waghorne, the old favourite will likely referee the contest.

ENGLISH CANOE CO. OUT WITH CHALLENGE

Want a Game of Hockey or Slugging With The Peterboro' Canoe Seven

The Examiner has received a challenge which it has been asked to publish. The English canoe factory challenges the hatchet wielders of the Peterborough canoe factory to a game of hockey to be played at the earliest possible date. The English seven declare that they will put it over the Rogers' aggregation to the same tune as last winter. They are very anxious for a game and are waiting for their rivals to pick up the gauntlet.

CITY LEAGUE GAMES WEDNESDAY

Two Fast Games are Assured For The Opening Bill

A big mill is promised for the opening of the City League on Thursday night and patrons will see two fast games of hockey. The old rivals, the Strathconas and High Lifes, the only two local teams in the League will play the first game and it will be a battle royal from the drop of the hat. Both teams have been practising faithfully and both will play hockey all the way. The High Lifes are right in the hunt for the cup and figure on getting a good start by upsetting the champions. On the other hand the Strathconas mean to show that their victory last year was not a fluke by winning the honours again. Bridgenorth, one of the new teams will clash with the plucky Lakefield seven in the second game, which should be worth going miles to see. Bridgenorth has gone crazy over its team and four or five 'bus loads of supporters will be on hand to root for the seven while Lakefield will not lack supporters. Geo. Lynch will referee and the popular prices of last year, 15c. and 10c. for the double header will be in vogue.

SPORTING NEWS AND VIEWS.....

A meeting of the Knox Church Hockey Club will be held on Thursday evening after the practice when the officers will be elected. All last year's officers are requested to be present as well as the following: Bellgham, Galley, Archimbault, Hamilton, White, Killenbeck, Foley, Ryan and Morphet.

ENGLEHART MAN IN THE CITY

James Coughlin, Construction Station Agent of T. & N. O.

Mr. Joseph Coughlin, construction station agent on the T. & N. O. Railway, arrived in the city on Saturday night and spent Sunday with Mr. Martin McFadden.

Mr. Coughlin is at present stationed at Englehart, and is greatly pleased with the country. He went there from Hastings a few years ago, and has been very successful since his arrival. He secured a position with the T. and N. O. Railway and has risen rapidly in their employ.

The railway is making good progress and will be very valuable in opening up the northern country.

Mr. Coughlin told of the terrible tragedy which occurred at Bell's siding a short time ago when three Italians, members of the construction gang, were seriously injured, and another was blown to pieces.

He said that northern Ontario affords great opportunities to young men of ambition and ability. Several of the young clerks on the line are also owners of mining claims. Mr. Coughlin, while out prospecting one day, secured forty acres of land on which he found traces of copper, silver and gold.

He and his friend, Jas. Smiley, a cousin of W. E. Wason of this city, took charge of the claim, and after a short time Mr. Coughlin took the whole claim over. He must do a certain amount of work on his land for the next two years, after which he may purchase it from the Government for $100. Mr. Coughlin leaves for Englehart to-morrow night.

WITNESS ARRESTED IN ROCHESTER

On a Charge of Vagrancy—Are Wanted Here To Give Evidence in The Stanley Goeman Case

WILL BE BROUGHT BACK

The Chief of Police received the following telegram this afternoon:

Rochester, N. Y.

Chief Constable, Peterborough:

Fred Sullivan, 18 years old, of 98 Weller street, and Jos. O'Toole, of Hunter street, Peterborough, under arrest for vagrancy; understand they are wanted in Peterborough for grand larceny and burglary in connection with the case against Stanley Gorman, do you want them? Wire answer. Signed.

J. C. HAYDEN,
Chief of Police.

It will be remembered that Stanley Gorman was arrested a short time ago while in bed, on a charge of the theft of a cash box from the steamer Monarch. The cash box contained some money and valuable documents. The two boys mentioned in the above telegram were supposed to be accomplices of Gorman's, and the Chief summoned them as witnesses. The boys had disappeared when the summons reached their home, and the Chief was of the opinion that they left the city as soon as they heard of Gorman's arrest. The magistrate decided to have the case laid over from week to week and keep Gorman man confined to jail awaiting the appearance of the other two to give evidence.

Chief Rozel wired back this afternoon that these two men were wanted as witnesses to appear at the spring Assizes, and for the Rochester chief to deal with the vagrants accordingly.

It is likely both men will soon be brought back to the city after they answer the charges against them in Rochester.

PEOPLE HAD TO CRAWL ACROSS CEREAL DAM

Wind Was so Strong Saturday Night—There Was Danger Their

The high gale of Saturday night was almost responsible for blowing several persons off the Cereal Company's dam. In fact the danger became so great that a man was stationed on the west side of the dam to prevent people from crossing. However a number came over from the eastern side but were compelled to get down on their hands and knees to make their passage over in safety.

THE COAL SACK IN THE SKY.

It Is Visible Because It Contains Nothing That Is Visible.

Immediately below the lower stars of the group which forms the Southern Cross there is a black patch in the sky, dark, sack shaped and mysterious. Scientifically accurate astronomers explain that it is not a patch, but rather something which becomes visible by reason of the anomaly that it contains nothing that is visible.

The lay mind, preferring bald reality to abstract truth, is somewhat startled to learn that an object is seen because there is nothing in it to see, but no one can dispute the fact. The coal sack is visible because it contains nothing that is visible.

In other words, it is a vast hole in the stellar system in which there is not even a pinch of stellar dust to shed a flicker of luminosity. It is typically and absolutely the quintessence of blackness.

Because it is so, and in contradiction of all preconceived notions, the human eye can see it without the aid of a telescope or other instrument.

Between the stars of the Milky Way there are many little holes in the stellar system—little by comparison, that is to say—but one must have telescopes and patience to find them. One need only cross the line to the southern hemisphere and locate the Southern Cross in order to see the coal sack.

With the wealth of legendary tale and fable woven around the northern stars by the highly gifted races gazing on them through the ages that are gone one is tempted to speculate what tales would not have been constructed around that fathomless mystery had it appeared north instead of south of the equator.

When it rouses the poetical impulse within the brain of aboriginal Australians, what might it not have done with the ancient Greeks or still more ancient Egyptians? But they were denied it. The aboriginal uses it as he uses most things, in a topsy turvy fashion. To him the world is a flat plain crowned with a dome shaped roof.

When a man dies he has to go up to the roof and slowly journey over it until he can clamber down to the flat again and squeeze through, once more a man. The coal sack is the hole he goes through to get on to the roof, and to get up to it is a very long climb.

The journey over the roof is also very long, and it is hard to squeeze through when he reaches the flat again. So long does it take that by the time a man has completed the journey not only his hair, but his skin, has grown white with age.

Wherefore the black fellow who has made the journey rejoins his tribe as a white fellow. Thus it was that when the white man first came to the land the aborigines regarded him as a long lost comrade.—Macmillan's Magazine.

How Would You Like to Be a King?

For King Edward's Christmas table the swankeeper has selected some thirty cygnets. Some of them will weigh as much as twenty-five pounds. The king will make presents of a few of his cygnets to members of the royal family. The king's poulterers, Messrs. Bellamy Bros. of Jermyn street, will probably have about half a dozen young swans for sale. The price, about 40 shillings a pair, makes them a luxury even for the rich. For centuries the cygnet has been a royal dish, and King Edward is very fond of it. The flavor is like that of goose. Queen Alexandra and two of the city companies maintain swans and cygnets on the Thames, protected by special laws. The largest swannery in the country is kept by Lord Ilchester.—M. A. P.

Of Course!

Early in the morning session, when the pupils were feeling bright and happy, the teacher thought it a good plan to give them sentences to correct, both as to grammar and sense. She accordingly wrote on the blackboard:

"The hen has four legs. He done it."

Thoughtful little Ignatius, at the foot of the class, pondered deeply, and at the end of fifteen minutes' time, allowed for correction, he wrote:

"He didn't done it. God done it."—Philadelphia Ledger.

T. A. S. DRAMATIC CLUB PRACTICING

Preparing For Annual 17th of March Concert

The dramatic section of St. Peter's T.A.S. has begun the preparation of an Irish drama that will be presented at the 17th of March concert. It is none other than the famous "Shaugraun," written by the same author as the "Colleen Bawn," which was so successfully presented two years ago. The new play is in the hands of the best talent in the society and should be greeted by a large audience when presented on the 17th of March. The people are assured that the production of the "Shaugraun" will be one of the best the T.A.S. has ever attempted.

INTERESTING NEWS FOR MONTH OF JANUARY

The Readers of the Examiner will do well to watch the daily store news of Richard Hall and Son, Limited. A fresh list of bargains will be added each day to the great January Economy Sale now going on at this store.

KNOX CHURCH HAS A SURPLUS TO BEGIN YEAR

Year Was Much Better Than Congregation Anticipated

Last year in connection with Knox Presbyterian church the financial statement shows a small surplus this year, which was much beyond the expectations of the congregation. It is particularly gratifying considering that the congregation paid out a large amount towards the building of the gallery and other schemes of the church. Yesterday the attendance at the Sunday school was the largest on record, reaching a total of over 160.

The annual meeting of the congregation will be held on January 29, when reports of the different organizations will be received.

LARGE NUMBER OF WOMEN VOTED TO-DAY

A noticeable feature of to-day's elections was the large number of the women of the city who exercised their right to vote. At all the polling booths there were more women voted than ever before. Apparently the women of Peterborough like the suffragist notion and are in favour of equal rights. The total vote to-day will undoubtedly be affected by the women who used their influence to-day as never before.

Lindsay and Cobourg are scheduled to play an intermediate O.H.A. game to-night in Lindsay. It is just a question whether the Scugog bunch will have ice or not. The return game will be played in Cobourg on Wednesday, after which Lindsay plays here on Friday, so that the Midgets will have three games this week. The yahould be in good shape by the time they hit Peterborough at the end of the week.

TREES BEING CHOPPED DOWN AT C.P.R. STATION

The old willow thicket bounded by Aylmer, George and Townsend sts. and the C.P.R. tracks, to-day presents an ideal lumbering scene. A number of men have been at work chopping down the tall willows which have grown unrestrained in this damp, low lands. The scene is a bank country one in the heart of a city. The stumps remain but the willows have been transformed into poles and cut wood and the limbs have been piled in large heaps.

PEOPLE OF PETERBORO' SELECT A GOOD MAYOR AND COUNCIL

Mr. Harry Rush is Chosen Mayor Of The City by a Majority of 763—Did Not Solicit a Vote

MR. W. H. HILL RE-ELECTED

Four New Members of Aldermanic Board Elected—Messrs. Gillespie, Neill, Buller and Turner

It is with no feeling of exultation, but with a sense of profound satisfaction, that we announce, as a result of yesterday's municipal elections, the return of a Mayor and Council which will warrant the expectation of an improvement in the administration of city affairs. During the past year the Examiner has felt it its duty to criticise the manner of city government to which we were treated. In doing this, the only object in mind was the promotion of the city's interests, to provide for proper and legitimate returns for the large amount of public money expended. This action was not appreciated by the authorities; but public opinion was aroused; and fortunately, for the good of the city, the people recognized the necessity for action, to the end of creating a new order of things in the management of civic matters. This feeling was translated into action, and Mr. Harry Rush was brought into the field by popular influence, as he was strongly endorsed by popular approval. Never, perhaps, in the history of the city, was there a more spontaneous and general demand for a change as expressed in both the mayoralty candidature and in giving it effect. The extent of the Examiner's interest in the contest was the selection of a Mayor and Council of a character and quality which would reasonably assure good sound, sane, economical and efficient city government. Must therefore, is expected from the new Mayor and Council, and there is every reason to hope that they will justify expectations. They enter upon their duties confronted with a serious financial condition, and with a good many defects to remedy. They have been favoured with a very emphatic expression of popular confidence. It is theirs to justify this confidence. They begin the year high in favour of the people, and it rests with themselves to see that they close the year occupying a similar relation. If they discharge their duties faithfully, prudently, and with evidences of business capacity and due regard for efficiency and economy of civic service, they will merit approval. Otherwise, their relations to the public, as expressed in the vote of yesterday, will be subject to revision. The Examiner criticised and condemned the course and conduct of the Mayor and Council of last year for cause. It was influenced by a sincere desire to promote the public interests. With the same desire in evidence, the present Mayor and Council, if they as conspicuously fail to discharge the trust conferred upon, or justify the confidence reposed in, them, cannot expect different treatment. The Mayor and Council of 1908 have a great chance to show their metal. The public expects much from them, and will be disappointed if expectations of efficient administration are not reasonably realized. This year's Mayor and Council represent the people, in the matter of spontaneous initiative and choice, in a manner unprecedented. Mayor Rush was brought brought out by the people, he was elected by the people without any personal appeal on his part; as he said at the conclusion of the voting yesterday, he did not solicit a vote. It remains for him to use every endeavour to justify the popular favour as flatteringly expressed in a majority of 794. We believe and hope he will do so. It is in his power, as in that of any mayor, to mould and influence the City Council, and it is in the power of the Council to give that measure of co-operation and support to a sound, progressive and careful civic policy which will insure good results. There must be mutual confidence and friendly co-operation. With these in evidence and operation, we may reasonably expect a beginning of good civic government this year.

The school trustees were elected practically by acclamation. The lamentable and lamented death, on the eve of polling, of Mr. Wm. Pringle, one of the candidates, reduced the the number of candidates to five, the number to be returned. These were Dr. Burnham, Messrs. John Crane, D W Dumble, W H Hill and W F Nelson.

In the re-election of Mr. Hill, as Water Commissioner, by a very decisive majority, the people showed that they appreciated faithful and efficient service, as they are prepared to appreciate it in any other capacity—mayor or council. Mr. Hill has given many years of good service as Water Commissioner, and has contributed his share to the very successful achievement of good management by the Board of Commissioners. Any mayor or alderman who gives the city similar service, would have similar approval, and similar continuity in office. The election of Mr. Hill is another evidence that the people appreciate good business service, applied in the discharge of a public duty. There does not seem to be any reason why civic affairs generally could not be transacted with a similar deference to the sound principles of business.

The people have also spoken in regard to the Water Commissioners' bylaw to extend the payment of water rates to vacant property, increased in value by being fronted by water mains. This will increase the revenue of the water works, and sensibly decrease the water rate to actual consumers.

The fate of the Garbage Bylaw plebiscite, which was decidedly adverse, cannot be regarded so much as a condemnation of the principle involved, as an expression of popular opinion that the project is premature, that the city has not reached that stage when such a system would be warranted. The public was unfamiliar with its proposed provisions. They knew what they were voting upon in connection with the Mayor, Aldermen, Water Commissioners, and Water Commissioners' bylaw, and they expressed their opinion emphatically. The people can be trusted to support what they consider to be in the interests of the city. The story of the elections, the incidents of the fray, and the record of the results, will be found on another page.

THE AGONY IS NOW OVER; MOUNT ROYAL SAFE IN PORT

Battled With The Waves For a Fortnight When Boilers Gave Out

THE PASSENGERS ALL SAFE

Examiner special.

Queenstown, Ireland, Jan. 7. — The long overdue Canadian Pacific steamship "Mount Royal" entered the harbour here to-day, under easy steam. The "Mount Royal" had trouble with her boilers and was compelled to put back. She is at best a slow boat, and shortly after leaving the British coast she encountered a series of violent gales.

She battled with the heavy weather, when serious trouble with her boilers developed. The steamer was then in longitude 24.30 west and latitude 45 north. The engine room staff succeeded in obtaining a moderate supply of steam, but the weather was such that the captain reluctantly decided that it was best to make for the Irish coast. The steamer was headed about, and slowly steamed into port. The Passengers and crew are all well.

CONDITION OF PORTEOUS IMPROVING

His Facial Wound Causes Trouble But is Healing Slowly

Examiner Special.

Manvers, Jan. 7.—The condition of Charles Porteous is still doubtful. Last week he went to Toronto to see the prisoner, George Chambers, who was thought to have been guilty of the shooting. However, Porteous did not recognize in the man his assailant, and returned. Porteous is staying at the home of one of his relatives near this point. His face and head are still bandaged and the wounds are healing fairly well. The diagonal shot through the face is the most serious, but the victim is expecting to entirely recover from the awful experience which he went through.

The people have given up hopes of the criminal being captured, especially since Chambers proved to be the wrong man.

GREAT EXCITMENT IN WARSAW

Eight Candidates in The Field—New Man In The Council

Never before in the history of the village of Warsaw, was there such keen interest taken in the municipal elections as those of yesterday. Mr. Joseph Crowe, the driver of the Warsaw stage, was seen by the Examiner this morning, and he seemed greatly pleased with the result. Every sleigh and cutter available was put into commission yesterday to bring the votes to the poll. There were eight candidates in the field and only four of these were necessary to compose the council.

Mr. Jas. Graystock is a new man in the council, and as he is very popular in the village he polled a large vote. The reeve was elected by acclamation.

PLENTY OF HAY ON THE MARKET

This Morning Saw a Good Market in Peterborough

To those interested in the purchase of hay the market this morning presented a lively scene. There was a long row of about ten loads at 10 o'clock, the most of it having every appearance of being quality hay. The general price was $18 per ton, but it was not expected that this would remain firm throughout the morning. There were several loads of wood, which also retailed reasonably.

A noticeable feature to-day was that many of the farmers had driven a long distance. They reported very good roads, with the sleighing at its best.

EPIDEMIC OF HEART DISEASE FELT

Recent Money Panic Cut Off Many Lives Earlier Than The Natural Course

HIGH PRESSURE LIFE

New York, Jan. 7.—(Special.)—"Additional causes (of death) are dependent upon the conditions of high pressure under which we have been and are at present living; the rapid wear and tear of feverishly active commercial life, and the consequent recourse to over-indulgence in strong drinks and food are undoubtedly prominent factors."—Official statement of the Board of Health for the semi-annual period ending December 1.

There is a grim significance in the comment of a department that since its establishment, nearly half a century ago it has confined itself to the presentation of strictly statistical information. The "wear and tear of feverishly active commercial life" applies particularly to the last six months, when, as the records show, there have been more deaths from heart disease and apoplexy, due primarily to the stress and worry brought about by the financial situation, than in any previous corresponding period in the history of New York City.

Apoplexy due to sudden shocks caused by grief over losses or apprehension of poverty increased more than 20 per cent.; heart ailments in which no other vital organs were known to be involved, about 15 per cent., and nephritis (kidney complaint) in which the mental defect on the heart's action brought about a fatal ending, about 20 per cent.

"The smash-up of a bank, the fear that invested money is in danger, or the shock that comes from a revelation of dishonesty in a quarter where the utmost confidence was reposed," said a medical officer of the Health Department, "will hasten death as surely as a blow from a bludgeon.

"The emotions have a direct and important connection with all the physical functions, and there should be no surprise that the panic, which now appears to be over, should have resulted in increasing the death rate. Victims of Bright's disease, who might have lived for years, were stricken suddenly because of the intimate relation of the heart, through the circulatory system, with the kidneys, and vice versa.

If We Could Look at the Heart of a Pale-Faced Person!

Few people ever stop to consider what pallor to the countenance means. In the first place it indicates an absence from the blood of the rich, red, life-giving elements so requisite to health; and in the second place it indicates a weakened heart action. These two things act and re-act. If we could look at the heart of one of these pale-faced people, we would see it flabby, weak and palid. No wonder they are easily tired, get out of breath quickly, have palpitation, are nervous and downhearted. Their muscles are poor, their stomach disordered, and their lives are seldom free from misery.

Let them take Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills; there is no remedy to equal them for making pale faces rosy, weak hearts and shaky nerves strong, flabby muscles firm, and infusing new hope and ambition into life.

Mr. W. J. Churchill, Lombardy, Ont., writes: "I was troubled for three years with a weak heart and nervousness. I could not sleep and ever so little food would distress me. I also had faint and dizzy spells, and doctored with three doctors but was growing worse. After taking three boxes of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills I feel as well as ever I did. They are the best pills on earth."

Price 50 cents per box, or 3 for $1.25 at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Learn Dressmaking

We teach you everything from the plainest shirtwaist to the most elaborate toilet that can be found in the fashion books. We show you not only the lining but all the outer in coats, skirts, waists, wrappers, sleeves, children's dresses, collars, etc. Why spend months at a dressmaking shop where you do nothing but hem, overcast, sew on hooks and eyes, and then, after you have served months there what do you know about cutting? Absolutely nothing. You will know no more how to cut out a dress at the end of a year than you did the first day you went there. So why spend your time there when we can teach you in less than two weeks. You can come and try for a few days and if the course is not what we have advertised it to be you have the privilege to stop, as there is no pay in advance. You certainly do not lose anything by trying. If you do not wish to be a professional dressmaker the cost is so small that you can well afford to take it up, if only for your own use. We have taught over 7,000 in this way within the past five years.

Charge for the full course is only $10, to be paid when through, including one of the most perfect charts in use, which we will give free. An evening class will also be taught for the benefit of those who cannot come during the day. In this class we will teach shirtwaists, sleeves and sacques. Terms $4.00 Hours from 7 to 9.30. We will teach at Peterborough from

January 30 to February 7

Hours for this class from 2.30 to 5.

For full information we would be pleased to have all those interested call and have the system explained to them at

MINER PREDICTS A BIG FUTURE

For The Mines in Hastings County—Practical Miners are Needed There

THE MINING DEPARTMENT

"This part of Ontario has the richest iron mines in the known world," said Mr. A. Virtue, manager of the Mundic Mine, Queensboro. Mr. Virtue was in the News office to subscribe to this journal of Hastings county, and he waxed eloquent regarding the future of Hastings county as a mining centre. He said this part of Ontario had received a set back because men had been placed in charge of mines who knew little more about mining than the ordinary schoolboy. He said the success in Cobalt was mainly due to the fact that practical miners from other fields had taken charge of the work there. Had the Cobalt mines fallen into incompetent hands, such as had been the misfortune of some places in this section, he said, the mines would never have been developed.

Mr. Virtue was on his way to Queensboro from Buffalo, N. Y., where he has been on a most successful business trip. He says there will be a market for all the iron ore that can be produced, and he feels confident that as soon as the financial market becomes normal there will be all the capital necessary to develop the resources of this district.

He said that people who had grown up in this part of the country rarely realised the great mineral wealth to be found here. He also blamed the governments for a lack of interest. He said, naming a member, "I asked him, 'how would you vote regarding the mines of Central Ontario?' The member answered, 'Someone would hand me a slip of paper, telling me how to vote.'"

What Joy to be Freed From Piles

THERE IS SCARCELY A SUFFERER IN THIS BROAD LAND BUT CAN BE CURED BY

The utter misery and despair of the sufferer from a severe case of piles, or hemorrhoids cannot be described in words.

It is not only the intense itching and stinging which in themselves are bad enough, not only the dread of a surgical operation, with its pain, expense and danger, but the whole system seems to be undermined, and as the ailment drags on from day to day, and year to year, one becomes discouraged, despondent, and in despair gives up all hope of cure.

The joy which cured ones experience on being cured from itching, bleeding and protruding piles, is told in the thousands of letters which we have received from time to time.

You need not tell the writers of these letters that there is a case of which Dr. Chase's Ointment will not cure, for they will not believe it. They alone know how they suffered, and also know that Dr. Chase's Ointment cured them. In many cases the cures were almost like miracles, so little ointment was used. In other cases, while relief came quickly, cure was only affected by the persistent use of several boxes of the Ointment.

W. E. Talbot, of Talbot Bros., tobacco merchants, 362 George street, Peterborough, Ont., states: "It is from a desire to help other sufferers that I offer a statement of my experience with Dr. Chase's Ointment as a cure for itching piles. I was for a long time troubled with this unpleasant and torturing disease and though I tried many treatments remained uncured until I came across Dr. Chase's Ointment. It was highly recommended to me, and I find that every word of praise that is given to it is true. I can truthfully say that I am completely cured, and knowing the misery that this ailment produces, I am anxious for others to know of the surprising virtues of Dr. Chase's Ointment."

It matters not how long you have suffered, if you have itching, bleeding or protruding piles Dr. Chase's Ointment will relieve and cure you, and it is the only positive and guaranteed cure for every form of piles; 60 cts. a box at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

THE SEED GRAIN DISTRIBUTION

Will be Made From the Central Experimental Farm at Ottawa

STOCK COME FROM WEST

By instruction of the Hon. the Minister of Agriculture, a distribution is being made this season of samples of superior sorts of grains and potatoes to Canadian farmers for the improvement of seed. The stock for distribution has been secured mainly from the Experimental Farms at Indian Head, Sask., and Brandon, Man. The samples consist of oats, spring wheat, barley, Indian corn, (for ensilage only,) and potatoes. The quantity of oats sent is 4 pounds, and of wheat or barley 3 pounds, sufficient in each case to sow one-twentieth of an acre. The samples of Indian corn and potatoes weigh 3 pounds each. A quantity of each of the following varieties has been secured for this distribution:

OATS. — Banner, Wide-awake, White Giant, Danish Island, Thousand and Dollar, Improved Ligowo, all white varieties. Black oats are not recommended for general cultivation; a few samples, however, are available, which can be sent if specially asked for.

MR. GEO. A. GILLESPIE
Who is a New Member Of City Council For 1908

WHEAT. — Red Fife, beardless; Preston, Pringle's Champlain, and Huron early bearded sorts; Percy and Stanley, early beardless varieties.

BARLEY. — Six-rowed, Mensury, Odessa, Mansfield and Claude. Two-rowed, Standwell, Invincible, Canadian Thorpe and Sidney.

INDIAN CORN, for ensilage. — Early sorts, Angal of Midnight, Compton's Early and Longfellow; later varieties, Selected Leaming, Early Mastodon and White Cap Yellow Dent.

POTATOES. — Early varieties, Early White Prize and Rochester Rose. Medium to late varieties, Carman No. 1, and Late Puritan. These later varieties are as a rule more productive than the earlier kinds.

Only one sample can be sent to each applicant, hence if an individual receives a sample of oats he cannot also receive one of wheat, barley, Indian corn or potatoes. Lists of names from one individual, or applications for more than one sample for one household, cannot be entertained. The samples will be sent free of charge through the mail.

Applications should be addressed to William Saunders, Director of Experimental Farms, Ottawa, and may be sent in any time before the 15th of February, after which date the lists will be closed, so that the samples asked for may be sent out in good time for sowing. Applicants should mention the variety they prefer with a second sort as an alternative. Applications will be filled in the order in which they are received, so long as the supply of seed lasts. Farmers are advised to apply early, so as to avoid possible disappointment. Those applying for Indian corn or potatoes, should bear in mind that the corn is not usually distributed until April and that potatoes cannot be mailed from here until all danger from frost in transit is over.

No postage is required on mail matter addressed to the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

DOUBLE CROSSED THE ROAST GOOSE

Local Cattle Buyer Got Even With Hotel Waitress

A few days ago a local cattle buyer, with a friend, was on business in a little village to the east of Peterborough. Both registered at one of the hotels in the place, and when the dinner hour was sounded they went into the dining-room. Already there were two men in the room at the travellers' table. They were well dressed, as commercial men generally are, and one of the two cattlemen suggested that they take another table as they were dressed in their every-day, "out-in-the - country" clothes, and did not wish to intrude.

When the waitress came in to take the orders she first went to the table where the two Peterborough men were seated. She asked them if they would have "roast beef or "roast pork." One of them took beef and the other asked for pork. The girl then went to the other table and the cattlemen casually overheard her add "roast goose" to the two viands which she had mentioned to them.

They said nothing, but waited for their chance to get even. The waitress finally brought in the food and was surprised when she was told she had made a mistake in taking the order.

"Why, I asked for roast goose," one of them said. "I asked for the same," his companion chimed in.

"I am sure you did not ask for goose," replied the girl, "your orders were for beef and pork."

The men were steadfast in their demands, and the girl finally became angry.

"I'm certain you did not ask for goose, for I did not mention it at this table," and the cat was out of the bag.

"Well, we want goose," one of the men said. "There are to be no favours when we pay the same price."

The men got their roast goose.

A FINE NEW YEAR'S GIFT

From the Montreal Daily Witness.

One of the best New Year's gifts that Canada can receive is the announcement that the Canadian Pacific Railway is about to increase its capital by $28,320,000. At the head of the Canadian Pacific are not only many of the ablest men of the country, but, because of the vast enterprises they own and administer on the land and rivers the lakes and the oceans, men exceptionally in a position to judge the likely course of future events. In such circumstances, the words of Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, president of the company, speaking for the board of directors are most inspiring. The directors "are convinced that Canada will continue to progress, and that if there be any temporary set-back resulting from financial conditions in other parts of the world, it will prove comparatively unimportant." Therefore it is held to be vitally important that the Canadian Pacific should proceed without cessation in the course adopted some years ago, of adding to the railways facilities in every direction, so as to "prepared to cope with the very largely increased traffic sure to be thrown on your lines." Such language is indeed inspiring, and will restore confidence and buoyancy to those who inclined to be mildly pessimistic as to the immediate future, even so far as Canada was concerned. As the Witness has persistently reiterated and has shown abundantly by facts and figures, there never has been any reason to fear any general or prolonged contraction of business in the country, and the action of the Canadian Pacific Railway goes to show that by the springtime everything should be in full swing again. The railway, at least, deserves our thanks at this time for the expression of its well-founded confidence, a confidence that not only covers this country, but extends to Europe, where most of its securities outside of Canada are held. Indeed, its confidence that its securities will find an advantageous market at this time is the most cheering financial feature of many months.

Thirty years experience has taught us the exact blend of Mocha and Java coffees that gives a delicious, mellow liquor. Our advanced method of roasting develops and preserves the richness and flavor of the bean.

NEW YEAR'S AT HALL'S GLEN

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Carveth Have a Union At Their Home

Examiner Special

Hall's Glen, Jan. 7. — It takes more than the wintry elements of frost and storm to prevent the annual banquet gotten up on Christmas day in the Glen.

This lively and industrious little village of less than 200 inhabitants, was unusually quiet, except at the residence of Mr. William Carveth. It was interesting to witness the scene during the day of relations, friends and connections, flocking in from all parts of the vicinity, and more distant parts, and on their arrival were welcomed by hearty greetings and with the compliments of the festive season.

The most important feature of the day was the sumptuous dinner which had been carefully prepared by the mistress and her assistants, of the home, to whom much credit is due; and which would tempt the appetite of the most fastidious and delicate. After all had partaken of the good things provided to their satisfaction, and the tables had been cleared, old Santa Claus made his appearance, and distributed the numerous presents from the tree. The host and hostess were the recipients of not a few valuable ones, which showed the esteem and respect with which they were remembered by their friends.

The next in order was the target practice which occupied a part of the afternoon, and which was indulged in by the men only; while the ladies in turn chatted and discussed the various phases and events of the time, as only the ladies can.

The home was tastefully decorated with artistic trimmings and artificial flowers, etc., which added wonderfully to the bright appearance and cheerfulness of the surroundings. In fact no effort was spared towards making this event the most delightful of all previous gatherings.

Towards the close of the day's exercises the tables were again arranged with the best that could be had, and notwithstanding the hearty dinner which had been indulged in, all enjoyed themselves again.

When the tea was over, the guests after offering the usual farewells and wishing Mr. Carveth and wife long life and prosperity, departed to their various homes.

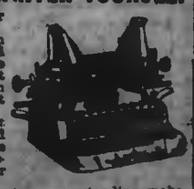
YOU CAN EASILY OPERATE THIS TYPEWRITER YOURSELF



Don't worry your correspondent.

Don't write him anything he hasn't time to make out that may leave him in doubt, that he can't easily read.

And don't fill out legal papers or card memos— or make out accounts or hotel menus in your own hand writing.

It looks bad, reflects on your standing, make people think you can't afford a stenographer, and sometimes ambiguous.

You can write out your letters, make out an abstract—fill in an insurance policy—enter your card memos—make out your accounts, or note menus—or do any kind of writing you need, on any kind, size or thickness of paper, and space any way you want on

The OLIVER Typewriter

The Standard Visible Writer

You can write any of these things yourself if you do not happen to have a stenographer.

For you can easily learn with a little practice to write just as rapidly, and as perfectly as an expert operator on the Oliver. Because the Oliver is the simplified typewriter. And you can see every word you write. About 50% more durable than any other typewriter, because it has about 50% less wearing points than most other typewriters.

50% easier to write with than those other complicated, intricate machines that require "learning"—both knowledge—long practice and special skill to operate.

Then machines which cannot be adjusted to any special space—with which it is impossible to write abstracts, insurance policies, or odd-size documents except you buy expensive special attachments requiring expert to operate.

You can adjust the Oliver to any reasonable space—you can write on any reasonable size and thickness of paper, right out to the very edge, without the aid of any expensive attachment or special skill, and your work will be neat appearing, legible and clear.

For the Oliver is the typewriter for the doctor the lawyer, the insurance agent, the merchant the hotel proprietor—or any man that does his own writing.

HOW THE CITIZENS ACCEPTED THE RETURNS ON THE CANVAS AT THE EXAMINER OFFICE

Street Blocked For Several Hours Speech By Mr. Rush From The Window

RETURNS WERE PLEASING

Long before the first returns of the elections were received last night a crowd of eager and interested spectators assembled in front of the Examiner office, to watch for the bulletins that were thrown on the canvas across the street. About 5.30 o'clock the first telephone message was received from East City, showing that Mr. Rush was the East Ward candidate, and the crowd went wild with excitement. It began to gradually grow in numbers, and before seven o'clock, George street, in front of the Examiner was black with a moving mass of humanity, all eager to get the first glimpse at the incoming bulletins.

At the time advanced Mr. Rush's majority grew enormously, and as the majorities, as well as his portrait were thrown on the canvas, the noise grew proportionately. At six p.m., the mayoralty election was a thing of the past, showing Mr. Rush, the mayor for 1908, elected over his opponent by almost 800 of a majority—one of the largest in the history of Peterborough.

Mr. Rush heard the good news in his committee rooms on Simcoe street, where he and a number of his friends, had quietly assembled to hear the returns. He was there heartily congratulated upon his election, and later came up George street, where he was greeted by many handshakes.

The New Mayor Speaks

At the Examiner office he was called upon to make a speech and from a window in the second story of the building addressed the immense crowd below in the following words:

"Ladies and Gentlemen, — I thank you one and all, for the hearty and very general support extended to me to-day. As a result I am mayor of Peterborough for the year. I appreciate the responsibility of the position you have placed me in by your votes, and I shall do my utmost, with the cordial support of the excellent council you have elected, to satisfy you all. I did not make a personal canvass—I did not ask a single elector for his vote—and to be elected by the handsome majority of about 800, is something to be proud of. At the request of the 600 petitioners, I accepted the nomination, I was the candidate of the people, and I will be the people's representative. I was not the candidate of any one; and as I have no promises to fulfil, I am free to do what is in the best interests of the city. I thank you all for your support, and I assure you that I shall faithfully do my duty as I see it."

The Aldermanic Contest

The mayoralty contest having been decided the crowd next centred their attention to the results of the aldermanic and the water commissioner competitions, and, judging from their cheers, no votes could have been lost.

A number of portraits and caricatures were shown on the screen, as well as beautiful and comic pictures, which kept them on the move. One thousand Evening Examiner election score cards were issued, and distributed on the street, and these kept the pencils going until the twelve aldermen for the council of 1908 were discovered.

To add to the pleasure of the evening the "People's Band" rendered several appreciated selections in front of the Examiner office, and at ten p.m. the majority dispersed, after inquiring about the elections in foreign fields, that they could recall to mind.

A Crash of Price Reductions

We're working hard now to clear the book-shelves, cases and counters for stock-taking. Several influences combine to bring about a revision of prices on the most Useful Goods that people buy, as well as on the more Fancy and Ornamental Things.

A Host of January Reductions and Savings

No Regular Prices will prevail this month, as it is only by selling the goods at a loss that we can hope to reduce our stocks.

Expect 25 to 33⅓ per cent. Reductions

From now until stock-taking is over. Our Annex across the street will be closed this week.

THE WALLS OF JERICHO

Henry Stanford, who plays Jack Frobisher in "The Walls of Jericho," was born at Ramleh, near Alexandria, Egypt, where his father for many years was advocate for the Crown. After his father's death Mr. Stanford went to England and devoted two years to studying for the bar, but gave it up in favour of the stage. His early experience was gained in such parts as Romeo, George d'Arroy, Angus McAlister, Lord Beaufey, etc. A season at the Haymarket, London, followed, during which he played small parts and understudied Mr. Lewis Waller. From there he went to the Criterion Theatre to understudy Sir Charles Wyndham in the "Home Secretary." His list of parts following was a long one, and he was finally engaged by Sir Henry Irving, in whose company he acquitted himself most creditably in such parts as the Christian in "The Bells," Oliver in "Robespierre," assumed the title role in "Faust," in which he played opposite Sir Henry Irving and Cecile Loftus when it had its splendid run of 100 nights at the Lyceum Theatre in London, and in many other prominent roles. Mr. Stanford was a member of Sir Henry Irving's company, and was on the stage with him at the time of the latter's sudden and tragic death.

Miss Laura Burt, an artiste of international repute, is co-starring with Henry Stanford in "The Walls of Jericho" this season, which play is under the management of Ernest Shipman, and will be presented at the Grand next Saturday, matinee and night.

Successful Opening Of The Sacred Week of Prayer

Held in St. Andrew's Church Last Night—Address by Rev. E. A. Pearson

BAPTIST CHURCH TO-NIGHT

St. Andrew's church was well filled last evening, on the occasion of the first meeting of the Week of Prayer, and it is said that it was the largest meeting of the kind ever held in Peterborough, and if the congregations increase from night to night, as is expected, it will tax the seating capacity of the largest churches. There was a far larger proportion of women than of men, but the elections probably accounted for that.

Requests for prayer were sent in from twelve men under conviction of sin, for a wayward son, and for the conversion of a husband. These in addition to those mentioned on the card, were special objects of prayer and the people made ready responses.

Familiar hymns, such as Rock of Ages, Jesus Lover of My Soul, and other favourites, were heartily sung by the choir and the congregation.

Rev. Mr. Webb acted as the chairman, and the Rev. Mr. Pearson gave the address of the evening. He did not speak on the theme announced, but spoke on Phil. i, 21, "To me to live is Christ," and as the course of his address he gave a clear and helpful rendering of the words. He spoke of Christ as the source, the sustainer, and the end of life, and the power of the indwelling Christ to keep from falling. There is no Christ in life unless he is reproduced, and to be like Christ in the inner and outward life should be the aim of the Christian.

Two meetings will be held to-night at eight o'clock one in the Park street Baptist church, and the other in the Murray street church.

The subject for the evening is "The Consciousness of Sin," and the topic for prayer, "The deepening of Spiritual Life."

RING WORM AND DANDRUFF

They are Each Caused by a Pestiferous Germ

Ring worm and dandruff are somewhat similar in their origin; each is caused by a parasite. The germ that causes dandruff digs to the root of the hair and saps its vitality, causing falling hair, and finally baldness. Without dandruff there would never be baldness, and to cure dandruff it is necessary to kill the germ. There has been no hair preparation that would do this until the discovery of Newbro's Herpicide, which positively kills the dandruff germ, allays itching instantly and makes hair glossy and soft as silk. Take no substitute. There is nothing "just as good." Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Two sizes—50 cents and $1. NEW CANDIDATES POPULAR

Mr. Harry Phelan at the Top Followed Closely by Mr. G. A. Gillespie

VOTING ON THE BY-LAWS

The election of the City Council seemed to give general satisfaction among the large number who assembled. The weather was ideal, so that none were inconvenienced by either cold or rain in watching the returns on the canvas. In the early stages it could be easily seen that Ald. Phelan was a popular candidate, and when the totals were tallied when four subdivisions were heard from, it was found he headed the list and held his lead till the finish.

It was generally believed that Gillespie would poll a large vote, so that when his name appeared second on the list it was no surprise. Morrow, Neill, Buller and Elliott were also popular, all following closely on the leaders. Bradburn, McIntyre, Morgan and Turner also polled four-figure votes. Johnston and Tovey brought up the rear. Leary and Duncan, two members of last year's Council, were defeated, together with Boyce, Clancy and Anderson, all of whom did well considering the length of time they were in the field, and also how well they were known in the various parts of the city.

The result of the voting for Water Commissioners gave Hill, a member of last year's Board, a majority of 767 over Best. The Water Commissioners bylaw also carried by a majority of about 700, which was generally conceded beforehand. Best received a majority in the first subdivision only.

The garbage bylaw was defeated by about 300, possibly owing to the fact that the people were not very well acquainted with its make-up.

The Examiner bulletin sheet was the most popular one in the city last night, especially to an hour which suggested the domestic sheets.

The People's Band serenaded the victorious candidates last night, and it was no "uncommon" band either.

Mr. Hill and Mr. Best, the candidates for the Water Commissioners, exchanged courtesies by voting for each other yesterday.

Ex-Ald. Leary heard the returns at the city clerk's office where there was considerable excitement over the race between himself and Ald. Tovey. When the results became known Mr. Leary took the defeat philosophically. "You have to go after votes if you want them in this town," he remarked.

Mayor Elect Rush received a large number of congratulations by telegram and long distance telephone last night and this morning.

No. 5 polling subdivision, where J. M. Greene was returning officer, was the first to report the mayoralty results to the city clerk's office. The vote showed 122 majority for Rush.

MISSING MOUNT ROYAL REPORTED SAFE

Carries Consignment For J. J. Turner & Sons of This City

A despatch was received here last night that the C. P. R. Steamer Mount Royal, which had been missing for some days, was sighted at a point about one hundred and seventy-five miles off St. John, N. B. A later despatch however states that the missing steamer had arrived safely at Queenstown, Ireland.

The boat sailed from Antwerp 30 days ago carrying a crew and over 400 passengers, mostly Bulgarian emigrants. She was also carrying large consignments of goods to different Canadian firms, among which were Messrs. J. J. Turner & Sons, of this city.

"I am awfully glad the boat is safe," said Mr. J. J. Turner, ar. this morning to the Examiner. "The disappearance of this boat has been causing us considerable anxiety. We had two large consignments of bunting and rugs from Manchester and Ipswith, England, on board. We have been held back considerably by the delay and have been wanting the goods in the worst way to go on with our work."

NEXT FRIDAY'S GREAT BATTLE

Lindsay Midgets Will do Battle With The Strathconas

Great interest is being taken in the Intermediate O. H. A. game on Friday night beetween Lindsay and the Peterborough Strathconas, and indications point to a big crowd for the opening attraction of the season. The game should be a great exhibition as the Lindsay team is said to be faster and more aggressive than the Midgets of 1907; and if so they will make the locals extend themselves to win. The Strathconas will have several of last year's seniors on the line up as well as the pick of the best players in the city, and will put a team on the ice that will surprise the fans, who have not seen them practice this season. They are coming along at a rate that is delighting the management, and if they perform on Thursday night as they have been doing in practice, Lindsay should go home with much the smaller end of the purse. At any rate the fans will see a lively battle as with Waghorn's refereeing the teams will have to play hockey all the time.

The Strathconas will practice tomorrow night before the City League game.

DEFENCE MAKES PLEA OF INSANITY

Second Trial of Thaw For Murder Began Yesterday.

EVELYN NESBIT AS WITNESS

Will Again Go Through Ordeal of Severe Cross-Examination — Night Sessions to Be Held — Several Jurors Chosen—They Will Be Locked Up Whole Time Trial Last — Thaw Is Hopeful.

New York, Jan. 7.—Harry K. Thaw yesterday, for the second time, faced a trial of the charge of wilful murder. After months of waiting in the Tombs, the tedious work of securing a jury to try the young Pittsburger for the killing of Stanford White was begun in the criminal branch of the Supreme Court, the same room in which Thaw sat daily for nearly three months during the previous trial. Compared with the former trial, interest in New York is at a low ebb.

It is probable that many tedious days will be spent in securing a jury for the trial of the case. It has already been decided that jurymen will be placed under lock and key from the moment they are chosen until they finally finish with the case and this will add to the difficulty in finding qualified jurymen who will be willing to serve in the case and who will not in some way be able to squirm out of that duty. It will not be a surprise to the attorneys in the case if a month or more is consumed in securing the jury.

District Attorney Jerome and Assistant District Attorney Garvan will again represent the people in the case, while Martin W. Littleton, a well-known Brooklyn attorney, will appear as Thaw's chief counsel, replacing Delphin Michael Delmas, the California lawyer who headed the defence's corps of lawyers at the former trial. The prosecution's direct case will be brief. The actual killing will be proved and then the defence will have an opportunity to prove, if it can, that Thaw was not mentally responsible when he fired the shot which ended the life of Stanford White. It is said that the defence has subpoenaed a large number of additional witnesses for this trial, but it is believed that Evelyn Nesbit Thaw will still be the principal witness for the defence. That she will tell practically the same story she told on the last trial is probable, but it is rumored that the prosecution will cross-examine her even more severely than was done at the other trial. Assistant District Attorney Garvan is said to have spent the greater portion of his vacation in Europe last summer in going over the route of the trip through Europe made by Thaw and Evelyn Nesbit before they were married, and it is not impossible that he secured information there that may come out in the cross-examination.

A special venire of 300 jurymen had been summoned, all of whom reported yesterday. A second 100 will report to-day and the remainder to-morrow.

The usual curious crowds were gathered about the criminal courts building yesterday morning in the hope of catching a glimpse of Harry Thaw as he crossed the bridge of sighs on the first day of his second trial.

The word that women were to be barred had been judiciously spread abroad, and there was none but newspaper writers on hand. Last year at the beginning of the trial women predominated in the court room, and it was their insistence which caused much of the disorder of the opening day.

Thaw was visited by members of his counsel in the Tombs Prison yesterday morning. He was elated over the fact that the day of his new trial, so long awaited, had at last arrived.

Mrs. George Lauder Carnegie, his sister, and Josiah Thaw, one of his brothers, also called on the defendant yesterday morning, and brought him a message of greeting from his mother, who is still too ill at her home in Pittsburg to come on for the trial. It was the first time Thaw had seen his sister and brother for some months, and his greetings were most affectionate.

Mrs. Harry K. Thaw went directly to the Court House, coming downtown too late to stop at the prison.

Thaw was called to the bar at 11.27 o'clock. His appearance showed little change from last year.

As soon as they appeared his chief counsel, Martin F. Littleton, announced that the former pleas of not guilty entered by his client would be amended to read "that the defendant was insane at the time the deed was committed."

Thaw was seated at the counsel table, with Mr. Littleton, A. Russell Peabody and Daniel O'Reilly. District Attorney Jerome and Assistant District Attorney Garvan represented the people.

Mrs. Evelyn Thaw, attired in the blue school dress, which became familiar during the first trial, was in the courtroom, accompanied by Mrs. Carnegie and Josiah Thaw.

Justice Dowling announced that until further notice there would be three court sessions each day, as follows: From 10.15 a. m. to 1 p.m., from 2 p. m. to 6 p. m., and from 8 p. m. to 10 p. m. He also announced that the jury would be locked up throughout the trial.

After a somewhat informal discussion as to the methods of selecting jurors, the work of filling the twelve vacant chairs was taken up.

PERJURY CHARGE DROPPED.

Crowded Court Sees Final Act of the Famous Druce Case.

London, Jan. 7.—The perjury charge brought against Herbert Druce by his nephew, George Hollamby Druce, collapsed yesterday, and the famous case is now conclusively lost.

The resumption of the case before a crowded court house testified to the revival of interest brought about by the recent exhumation and the hints given out by the attorneys for George Hollamby Druce, that the body found in the coffin was not that of T. C. Druce.

The first witnesses called testified to the condition of the vault and the coffin. They said there was absolutely no lead in the vault, and declared they were satisfied that neither the vault nor the coffin had been tampered with since the latter had been deposited.

Then Prof. Pepper took the stand and gave a detailed description of the coffin and its opening. Within the coffin, he said, was the body of a male, aged between 65 and 73 years. It was extremely well preserved, the skin being broken in only one place. The face was covered with a handkerchief bearing the initials "T. C. D." The removal of this handkerchief revealed the features of a bearded man, quite easily recognizable by anyone who had known him in life. He had reddish brown moustache and whiskers and a beard of reddish brown and white.

On this evidence, Mr. Atherley-Jones announced the withdrawal of the perjury charge, saying that it would be contrary to the best traditions of the legal profession if he persisted therein.

Magistrate Plowden, in discharging Herbert Druce, whose truthfulness, he remarked, had been absolutely and conclusively vindicated, thanked him for having consented to the opening of the grave in the interests of justice.

George Hollamby Druce declared yesterday that the civil action would be continued, but public interest in the affair vanishes with the collapse of the case against Herbert Druce.

G. W. Thackeray, who was closely connected with T. C. Druce, testified in court yesterday that the body was unquestionably that of his former friend.

A prominent physician states that the excellent results that have been obtained from the use of the mixture are due to its direct action upon the kidneys, assisting them in their work of filtering all poisonous waste matter and acids from the blood and expelling same in the urine, and at the same time restoring the kidneys to a healthy condition.

He further states that anyone suffering from afflictions of this nature will find it to be very beneficial, and suggests that it be given a trial.

The Following Letter Speaks For Itself

Peterborough, Nov. 1st, 1907.

W. G. MORROW, Esq.,
Agent Imperial Life Assurance Co.,
Peterborough.

Dear Sir:—I have received notification of the option available in respect to my ten-year Endowment Policy of $2000 which matured to-day and it affords me pleasure to say that I view with much satisfaction the results of my investment with your Company.

The substantial surplus which the Policy has earned in the comparatively short period of ten years makes the returns which would be made to me, under any of the options now open to my selection, most liberal and attractive.

It is greatly to the credit of the Company that after having granted me an Insurance of $2000 from the issue of the Policy in 1897 to the present time, it can now offer me under the cash value option a sum so greatly in excess of the total premium that I have paid into it, or under the paid up Insurance option, a paid up life Policy considerable more than double the amount of my original Policy.

Permit me to wish the Company a long continuance of its prosperity.

Yours very truly,

J. R. STRATTON.

Any person contemplating taking out Life Insurance will find it to his advantage to secure our rates before placing the risk.

ESTIMATES AND RESULTS

The evidence before the Royal Commission showed that over 700 SUN LIFE policies had already matured and that in thirty-four per cent. of the cases the amounts originally estimated as likely to be received at the end of the terms, had been realized or exceeded. On all the cases combined the average amount paid had been about ninety-seven per cent. of the estimate. The management may be pardoned for being proud of this record. The estimates now in use since 1900 are lower than former ones, and premiums are higher, so that present estimates should certainly be realized. Statements were also filed showing that $100 is on hand for every $100 required to pay the amounts called for by the present estimates for every deferred profit policy on the books and this without taking into account the Company's great and increasingly valuable contingent fund. Our policyholders are therefore justified in being particularly optimistic in regard to the Company's probable future profits.

Some one has said "the true value of a life assurance policy must be gauged by the security of the protection given; if it proves to be a good investment, all the better: when both are shown, there is nothing on earth to equal it."

The security of the protection afforded by the Sun Life of Canada needs no comment and the profits paid—let our results tell their own forceful story.

TO-MORROW'S TWO BIG MATCHES

The City League Season Will Open With Two Games

The City Hockey League will open to-morrow night with two lively games that will start the season in a proper manner. The old rivals, the Strathconas and High Lites have the honour of opening what promises to be the most successful season in the history of the League, and from all indications there will be a grand contest. The High Lites have been keeping their line-up dark and may spring some surprises when they take the ice to-morrow night. They have gathered together a likely squad and will give the champions a hard run. The Straths, however, are in good shape and will not take any chances of losing the championship by going down in the first game.

The second game will introduce to the hockey public a new team, none other than the Bridgenorth seven who are billed to clash against the Lakefield aggregation. Bridgenorth have an open air rink this season, and are practicing faithfully. From all reports the Chemong Lake boys will take a lot of beating. Lakefield have last year's team intact and with the experience they have gained will be a much more formidable aggregation.

The prices for the two games are 15 and 10 cents, and there should be a big crowd on hand for the opening. Mr. Geo. Lynch, who refereed the League games so satisfactorily last year will handle the bell.

Band to-night at Street Railway Rink.

Obstinate coughs yield to its grateful soothing action, and in the racking, persistent cough, often present in Consumptive cases, it gives prompt and sure relief. In Asthma and Bronchitis it is a successful remedy, rendering breathing easy and natural, enabling the sufferer to enjoy refreshing sleep and often effecting a permanent cure."

Mrs. C. Townsend, Lockport, N.S., writes: "I feel it my duty to let you know of my experience with Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. I was troubled with a cold and severe cough all the time, and very severe spells of Asthma. The doctors did all they could for me, but could only give me relief for a short time. I happened to see your medicine advertised and purchased three bottles, and it gave me great relief, and I do not cough at all. CABLEGRAM BRINGS SAD NEWS

Mrs. Murdoch Learns of Sudden Death Of Mother in Glasgow

A cablegram from Glasgow, Scotland, to-day, brought to Mrs. Robt. Murdoch, 584 Chamberlen street, the sad intelligence of the death of her mother, Mrs. E. Hart at 7 o'clock this morning. The despatch was simply, "Mother died at seven this morning." It came as a decided shock to Mrs. Murdoch, who had received no news of any illness in the letters from her relatives. But a day or two ago she received a letter from her mother, and nothing was said of sickness. Mrs. Murdoch therefore believes that the death was a sudden one.

Mr. and Mrs. Murdoch came to Peterborough in August, taking up residence on Chamberlen street. Mr. Murdoch is an employee of the Brinton Carpet Factory.

ALD. TOVEY'S THANKS

TO THE ELECTORS:—

Ladies and Gentlemen,—Please accept this acknowledgment of my warm appreciation of your confidence in re-electing me as a member of your Board of Aldermen. I will continue by faithful service, to show that your respect and esteem has not been misplaced. Again thanking one and all, and wishing you and the city a happy and progressive new year, I remain,

Your obedient servant,
GEO. TOVEY.

Ald. Elliott's Card

TO THE ELECTORS,—

Permit me to thank you, Ladies and Gentlemen, for your valued support yesterday at the polls, which has elected me again as a member of your Board of Aldermen for 1908.

Believe me, I fully appreciate the importance of the trust you have again imposed in me. The increased number of the votes polled for me I take as a vindication of my course in the council, which is very gratifying. I accept the verdict of the people regarding the Garbage Bylaw, not as an indication that they do not want some efficient system of disposing of the city's garbage, but because the garbage of the city has been so well looked after by individual householders, it has not become a menace to the health of the community.

Your obedient servant,
GEO. E. ELLIOTT.

MR. RUSH'S THANKS

To The Electors of The City of Peterboro'

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN,—

My most grateful thanks are hereby publicly tendered to you for the strong confidence reposed in me by electing me yesterday your mayor for 1908, by so handsome a majority.

I take this as a very flattering honour you have conferred upon me, because, as you all know, I did not personally canvass a single voter. My election, therefore, is entirely due to the independent support I received from all classes of citizens, to the strong public sentiment in my favour, and to the energetic work of my friends.

It affords me additional pleasure to know that you have also elected an intelligent Board of Aldermen for the year, whose support and assistance will be of great help to me in the discharge of my municipal duties.

Having made no promises to any one, I feel at liberty to use my own judgment in all matters coming before the council, unbiassed by any pledge, and so, with the assistance of my colleagues in the council, it will be my aim to promote the city's welfare and to safeguard the interests of all classes of the community.

The result of the election conclusively shows that the large and representative requisition presented to me was an honest expression of the feeling of the citizens, and that I would have been recreant to my duty had I not complied with its request.

Let me again thank you all for the honourable position you have placed me in and for the trust reposed in me, and to wish you, one and all, a Happy and Prosperous New Year.

Respectfully yours,
H. RUSH

ALD. JOHNSTON'S THANKS

TO THE ELECTORS OF PETERBOROUGH:

I desire to express my warm appreciation of the renewal of confidence which I received yesterday from my friends, which re-elected me for a fifth year as a member of your Board of Aldermen. I know no better way of continuing to enjoy the confidence of the ratepayers than by a consistent discharge of the duties of the position. This I have always aimed to do, and will continue to do, without fear or favour.

Let me again thank my friends and "the boys" who faithfully worked in my behalf, and to add my best wishes for a prosperous new year for the citizens and the city of Peterborough.

Your humble servant,
W. J. JOHNSTON.

To the Electors

It is my duty to thank nearly 700 electors for their support in Monday's elections, and while not successful in being returned, I have every reason to be proud of the support given me. I had not decided until the last moment to become a candidate, engaged no rigs, used no advertising, and had only a few hours at my disposal in which to see my friends, so that the support given me was almost entirely voluntary, and given me without solicitation.

I feel, therefore, that in making my first bow to the electors, I have every reason to be satisfied with the result, and heartily thank one and all for the interest manifested towards me.

Wishing you all a prosperous and happy new year.

Yours, etc.,
J. C. ANDERSON.

ALD. McINTYRE'S THANKS

Ladies and Gentlemen, — I take pleasure in returning my thanks to all who by their vote and influence in yesterday's election, assisted in re-electing me as alderman for 1908.

I have special reason to feel honoured with this result seeing that this is the fifth year in succession that you have expressed your desire that I should occupy a position in your Board of Alderman. The large vote which was polled for me in each of the subdivisions was an evidence of the favour shown for my candidature, and which I highly appreciate.

Yours very truly,
A. A. McINTYRE.

ALD. MORGAN TO HIS HELPERS

TO THE ELECTORS OF PETERBOROUGH:

Ladies and Gentlemen,—

Allow me to return you my thanks for the large and substantial support accorded me yesterday in the elections for aldermen. I feel highly honoured at being again returned to represent the city's interests. The obligations you have placed me under are fully recognized, and I will continue to do what I can to merit your fullest confidence.

Yours truly,
HARRY MORGAN.

Ald. Neill's Card

TO THE ELECTORS OF PETERBOROUGH:

I thank you most heartily for so kindly supporting my candidature for alderman, and insuring my election. It will be my duty to endeavour to faithfully discharge the duties of my office in the interests of the city.

Very respectfully,
ROBT. NEILL.

CARD OF THANKS

I beg to return my thanks to those who supported my election for alderman. I am particularly indebted to the ladies who supported me by turning out in such large numbers.

Assuring all of my best efforts for the city and again thanking you.

I am yours sincerely,
id J. J. Turner, Jr.

CARD OF THANKS

TO THE ELECTORS,—

I wish to assure the ratepayers that I appreciate very highly the substantial vote given in my favour and thus ensuring my return.

While untried in the city's service, I promise to do all that I possibly can to ensure an efficient and economical administration of our affairs during, 1908. With renewed thanks,

Very respectfully,
WILLIAM BULLER.

MR. GILLESPIE'S THANKS

TO THE ELECTORS,—

My thanks are due and are hereby tendered, to the electors—the ladies as well as the gentlemen in every section of the city—for the large and representative support I received yesterday, which elected me one of your Board of Aldermen for 1908. This strong evidence of your confidence is all the more pleasing to me seeing that you succeeded in placing me next to the head of the poll, on this, the first occasion, of offering myself for your suffrages. I strongly feel the responsibilities of the position you have elected me to. Let me assure you that I shall endeavour to discharge the duties appertaining thereto in such a faithful manner as will justify your confidence in me.

Respectfully yours,
GEO. A. GILLESPIE.
January 7th, 1908.

CARD OF THANKS

TO THE CITIZENS OF PETERBORO'

I desire to thank of my fellow citizens, who by their votes and influence endorsed my past career as a Water Commissioner of the City of Peterborough by returning me to a renewed term of office. I shall, as in the past, endeavor to merit the very flattering expression of confidence which the public have thus been good enough from time to time to bestow upon me. I regret that my election necessarily involved the defeat of an opponent who stood so deservedly high in the public favor and I can only recognize the results as another obligation to the most faithful service which it is in my power to render.

idiw W. H. HILL.

TO THE RATEPAYERS OF THE CITY OF PETERBOROUGH

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN,—

Permit me to thank you for the evidence of your confidence in again electing me alderman by such a magnificent vote.

I can only add that I shall endeavour to merit a continuance of that confidence by doing my utmost to advance the interests of the city, and to manage its affairs with the greatest economy consistent with efficiency and progress.

Yours respectfully,
W. G. MORROW.

Ald. Bradburn's Card

TO THE ELECTORS,—

Permit me to publicly thank you for the large general vote which you gave me yesterday for alderman, and which resulted in your re-electing me one of your Board for 1908. Such a renewal of your confidence is very gratifying to me, and I will do my utmost to justify your choice.

Your obedient servant,
W. H. BRADBURN.
Peterborough, Jan. 7, 1908.

Some New Blood in The County Council For Year

Six New Members Out of The Seventeen — Warden McNulty Retired From The Field

WARDEN TO BE CHOSEN

The municipal elections throughout the county yesterday were keenly contested. They had a special bearing upon the whole county on account of the reeves of each township becoming members of the County Council which will this year contain 17 members instead of 16 as last year. The additional member comes from Smith which now has the right to send a deputy reeve.

A new Warden will have to be elected as Warden McNulty of 1907 was not a candidate for re-election in Asphodel, having dropped out of the race after the nominations.

The County Council for 1908 will consist of the following:—
Chas. Coben, Galway and Cavendish.
C. D. R. Booth, Anstruther and Burleigh.
Jas. Ingram, Harvey.
Wm. Hales, Chandos.
Samuel Killen, Ennismore.
Robert N. Scott, Smith.

Father Struck Daughter On Shoulder With a Chair

Story of a Cavendish Family's Trouble Between Father And Daughter Aired in The County Police Court

CHAIR BROKE IN THE AIR

The troubles of a Cavendish home were aired at this morning's session of the County Police Court before Magistrate Edmison. George Moncrief was charged with having assaulted his daughter, Martha, on Sat. Dec. 21st. There was another charge of having, on the same day, without lawful cause, pointed a firearm at a number of people.

The prisoner replied to each charge "I ain't guilty." The trouble arose about seven o'clock on that night after the father had brought Martha home. She is about 17 years of age, the second in a family of six. The girl had started for a lumber camp with a neighbour, Mrs. Gill, who went to meet her husband, returning home for the week end. The father had met them on the road and said something about the hour, but the girl did not head his statement and proceeded on her way. The father after going home returned to meet his daughter. He met the party and brought his daughter home.

MR JOHN ANDERSON
East City, One of the Unsuccessful Candidates For The Council

Struck With Chair

The girl stated that her father was very angry, and in a temper picked up a chair, saying "for little I would knock your brains out." The chair broke into two pieces and he struck her with the piece he retained in his hands. The girl said she did not go to the camp as they met Mr. Gill on the road.

The only other witness called was Karl Harling whose speech was so indistinct that the court had trouble to learn whether it was Karl Harling, or Henry Karling. He was in the house when the assault occurred. He corroborated the girl's statements but further stated that the affairs of the family were none of his, and he did not interfere.

To Mr. Kerr he said that no matter how serious the assault might have been he would not interfere.

The witness was not of the brightest appearance.

Adjudged guilty and allowed to go on suspended sentence.

Case of Drawing Gun

The second charge against Moncrief was that of having pointed a firearm at a party composed of Mrs. Gill, Howard and Sidney Gill and Martha Montcrief. The latter was called to the witness box. She said that she had gone with Mrs. Gill towards the camp to meet Mr. Sidney Gill. They met the two men on the road and turned around to return. They met Montcrief who said to his daughter, "Get down out of that or I'll d— soon make you." While speaking he held a revolver in one hand. He first called to Gill to stop the horse. Howard Gill was going to spend the Sunday with his brother. Witness said her father had forbidden her to keep company with Howard. The father was in a fighting mood and said he "could kill a dozen Gills."

To Mr. Kerr the girl said she had seen the revolver in one of the drawers at home.

Judgment, guilty; sentence, $50 and costs, or ten days in jail. Mr. Goodwill for prosecution; Mr. Kerr for defense.

On the first charge of assaulting his daughter, His Worship found Moncrief technically guilty, but imposed no sentence. On the second, Moncrief was fined $50 or one month in jail.

MONEY CAUSED FRACAS IN CHARLOTTE STREET RESIDENCE AMONG THE ITALIAN ELEMENT

Proprietor of Boarding House in Trouble With Two Boarders Last Night

POLICE RAIDED THE HOUSE

Arm Cut by Being Shoved Through Window—Trio in Police Court This Morning

The quiet neighbourhood of Charlotte and Louis streets was aroused last night about 9 o'clock by a tumult in the house of Nicholis Renzetti, who keeps a boarding house at the corner of these two streets. The trouble, according to the statement of one of the boarders, occurred over some money. When Renzetti was asked for the coin by Antonio Marrone, one of the star boarders, he hit the latter a blow on the jaw.

Marrone's brother, Nicholas, then Antonio and Nicholas Marrone for became to his assistance and a combat began between these two brothers and the Renzetti household. Renzetti apparently became very boisterous, and several bad cuts were sustained in the fracas. Nicholas was pushed through a window and had his hand badly cut.

While the fight was in progress, one of the more peaceable lodgers sallied out for a policeman, and brought P. C.'s Newhall and Adams to the house. The two officers entered, and went to the back of the hall, where the fight was in progress. After a desperate struggle they secured the three combatants.

Nicholas Renzetti tried to explain the trouble, and said that he was the boss of the house. The officers paid not attention to his appeal, and P. C. Newhall took charge of Renzetti, while P. C. Adams handled the two boarders, who became quiet and walked to the station in an ordinary manner.

In Shirt Sleeves

All three were dragged from the dwelling in their shirt sleeves, and each was bleeding about the face. Renzetti had a lump on his head which he received in the fracas. On the way to the station he was inclined to be boisterous and attracted a large crowd of curious sightseers, who followed the Italians and officers to the lock-up.

At the station the men were searched in the usual way and then lodged in the cells. The two brothers were placed in the upper cell and Renzetti was given a berth to himself.

The Marrone brothers claim Renzetti began the disturbance. They had a considerable amount of money in their possession and this, they said, was the cause of the trouble.

The three Italians were in the police court this morning to answer several charges. Their wounds had all been repaired, and Renzetti's hand was bound up. A doctor was called last night about midnight to attend the men in the cells.

Mr. G. Gordon, of O'Connell & Gordon, appeared for Renzetti, and Mr. Minicolo acted as interpreter.

The first charge read was against Antonio and Nicholas Marrone for being disorderly in a public place, to which charge they pleaded not guilty. Renzetti was charged with having assaulted P. C. Newhall, and also for assaulting the two Marrones. Mr. Gordon asked to have the charges against his client laid over until tomorrow morning, and the Chief asked to have the other two men remanded. His Worship decided to remand the three until to-morrow morning, and bail of $500 was granted for Renzetti, and $200 each for the Marrones. Renzetti claims he was bitten by one of his opponents, and Mr. Gordon will lay a charge of assault against them.

BOYD, THE COLORED MURDERER DIED ON THE SCAFFOLD TO-DAY

Examiner Special

Toronto, Jan. 8.—At Toronto jail at 8.11 this morning John Boyd, the coloured hotel porter, who murdered E. B. Wandle, also coloured, a restaurant keeper on York street, on July 11, 1907, was executed by Hangman Radcliffe. He walked to death between guards with an unfaltering step and was absolutely composed. The drop of seven feet broke his neck and there was not a tremor in the body after the fall. The spectators were strictly limited to press representatives, police, and representatives of the Salvation Army. Boyd's crime showed premeditation and a resolution to kill. After a quarrel with Wandle over a woman, Boyd bought a revolver and going to Wandle's place, hunted his victim from room to room, killing him with two shots.

Star Witness Faints Under Cross-Examination To-day

Mrs. Weston of Lakefield Tells of Christmas Day Assault in Home of Fred Holland—Fainted When Speaking of The Affair

TWO CHARGES AGAINST HIM

At the County Police Court this morning before Magistrate Edmison the Lakefield case of Weston vs. Holland was heard. The charges have been stated in these columns before. One of them was that Holland had illegally sold whiskey to Mrs. Weston and the other a more serious one, that of criminal assault committed by Holland on the plaintiff on Christmas Day. On the first charge His Worship found a conviction, but did not give judgment; and the second was brought to a dramatic close by Mrs. Weston fainting while being cross-examined by Mr. Gordon at 12.15

Mr. Gordon appeared for Holland Mr. Geo. Cochrane assisted in the prosecution.

Mrs. Weston was the first witness. She said that on Christmas Day at noon she went over to Holland's residence to get a bottle of whiskey. Her husband had given her a dollar bill and fifty cents in silver. Mrs. Holland was taking her husband's dinner to the Cement Works. On the way they met Mr. Holland coming home. The whole party turned around and went back to the house, going into the kitchen. Mrs. Holland gave witness a small glass of liquor. Mrs. Holland also had one and their little girl. Mr. Holland had a glass of whiskey. Witness said that she was sitting one chair near the stove. At about 2.30 Mr. Holland made an indecent proposal to witness. During the intervening time witness said she sat by the stove, said nothing waiting for the bottle of whiskey. Mr. Holland said he would give her the whiskey when she was going home. Witness said it was not her place to go to the "larder" and take the bottle. During this time Mr. Holland was drinking whiskey and when he made the proposal was good and drunk. When he made the proposal he offered the dollar back again on certain conditions.

Mrs. Weston Fainted

Mrs. Weston said that soon afterwards she fainted, excited by the indecency of the man's suggestions. When she regained consciousness a half hour later Mr. Holland was sitting at the foot of the bed and Mrs. Holland was down stairs apparently getting water. Mr. Holland recommenced his insulting remarks, and officers and witness then screamed. Mrs. Holland wanted to know what her husband was doing, and came into the room. Witness said she wanted to go home to her children, but Mrs. Holland said they were downstairs. Witness said they were not there, but were at home, as she found out when she went downstairs.

Just at this point Mrs. Weston, who had shown signs of weakness and had removed some of her wraps, sat down on the seat in the box and fainted. A bottle of tincture of iodine fell from her hand. She had just been speaking about the fainting spell at Holland's home.

In her evidence to His Worship, before Mr. Gordon had commenced his cross-examination, witness said that when later, she was in the yard, Holland had again spoken as before.

"My wife has no go in her," he said. "I've taken a fancy to you."

Witness said she replied, "Well I have not to you."

Mrs. Holland was within hearing distance at the time, witness said, but did not seem to take any notice. On her way home, after five o'clock, Mrs. Holland took a bottle of whiskey from under her cloak and gave it to witness.

When Mrs. Preston fainted, an adjournment was called until 2 o'clock.

RUNAWAY HORSES RAN FOUR MILES

Bit Broke Near Nassau And Horses Became Unmanageable

A runaway occurred last night near Nassau, in which the horses travelled four miles before they were captured. The cause of the trouble was that the bit on one of the bridles was weak in some spot and broke. The cutter contained a youth, a woman and two children, but fortunately they escaped without injury. Mr. P. Allen captured the horses in Douro.

THE PETERBORO' BAND TOOK PART

Not The Peoples Band in the Election Demonstration

Through a misunderstanding the Examiner last night referred to the band which took part in the election demonstration on Monday night as the People's Band, whereas it should have been the Peterborough Band. The Peterborough Band wishes to thank the many citizens who have so kindly and generously contributed to the funds of the organization. Any further donations will be gladly received by the leader, Mr. Roland Common, 48 Bolivar street, or by the secretary-treasurer, Mr. W. A. Elliott, 45 Wescott street.

THE McLEANS IN THE LEAD

The Conservative majority among the members of the Clan McLean in the House of Commons, which has been wiped out by the election of Dr. McLean in Centre York, bids fair, says the Ottawa Free Press, to be turned into a minority after January 22, for all the indications are that South Huron will send another McLean to Parliament in the person of the Liberal candidate for that riding. To-day there are four McLeans in the House. Two of them are Liberals, the member for Lunenburg and the member for Centre York, and two of them are Conservatives, the member for Queen's, P. E.I., and the irrepressible one from South York, who undoubtedly belongs to the same clan, even if he does spell his name with an extra "a" and a small "I."

With five representatives in the popular House, the McLeans will completely overshadow the Smiths, who have until now, been in the ascendency. Two of them have the good sense to be Liberals, while only one is a Conservative, and he is tired of politics.

There are, it is true, three Martins in the House, but one of them is a French-Canadian, so that he can scarcely be counted as one of them, even if he does spell his name the same way.

It is curious to note how men bearing the same names can differ in politics. Take the present House for example.

There are two Bordens; two Chisholms; two Hughes, two Jacksons; two McCarthys; two Reids; two Roches; two Walshes; two Wilsons, and two Wrights; and in each case one is a Liberal and the other is a Conservatives. There are, on the other hand, two Lauriers, two Lavergnes, two McIntyres, and two Schells, all of whom have the good fortune to be Liberals.

Just now, however, the McLeans have the lead.

LOCAL RURAL DELIVERY

It does not seem all present practicable to have a general national system of free rural mail delivery. The population of Canada is so sparse in comparison with the vast expanse of territory over which it is distributed, that the cost would at present seem to be out of all proportion to the advantages to be derived. But there does not seem to be any reason why the system, in a modified and inexpensive form, might not be applied to the thickly-settled portions of the country in the vicinity of the cities and towns.

Free postal delivery for cities is an accepted policy of the Postoffice Department, and the congestion of population makes it easily practicable. Could not the extension of a modified form of, or equivalent to, free delivery, applied to a limited radius immediately outside Peterborough be made easily practicable? This city is surrounded by a a series of rural postoffices within a distance from Peterborough which leaves considerable portions of territory not conveniently served either by the Peterborough postoffice or by the postoffices mentioned. We have, as the nearest postoffices to Peterborough, Lakefield, Bridgenorth, Fowler's Corners, Springville, Graystock and Douro postoffices. A little consideration suggests the possibility of inaugurating a modified form of postal delivery to serve the population intermediate between Peterborough and these places. It seems practicable that two men conveying mail from the Peterborough postoffice might take a daily route that would cover the district mentioned, and deliver mail in boxes, something like our street letter boxes. These boxes could be so arranged as to provide for the postman delivering letters for farmers in the vicinity who might be provided with keys, so that by going a short distance—compared to going to the nearest postoffice—residents could get their mail, and at the same time post in a specially arranged compartment, their letters and other mail matter, which could be collected by the postman on his daily delivery rounds and mailed at the Peterborough office. The route through the intermediate district need not be a straight line, but so arranged as to conform to the area of denser population, and as many boxes as necessary along the route could be provided. The country surrounding the city, if divided into two districts, could be served daily by two men provided with a good horse and a light vehicle, which could cover the district rapidly. For instance, one man might begin at Nassau and pass through the country by some arranged route to Douro, to Graystock, and through the country back to the city. Another might pass through Smith to Bridgenorth, to Fowler's Corners, and through North Monaghan to Springville, and by a circuitous route through the country back to Peterborough. These suggestions are merely thrown out as a general indication of what might be done in the establishment of a modified form of rural mail delivery. Or if another system should be found preferable, say in the form of small branch postoffices served by a daily mail, delivery and collection might be established as economically as possible at convenient points. It seems that the matter is worth considering.

OBITUARY

MRS. J. McDONALD

About 12.15 o'clock last night at the home of Mr. N. T. LePlante, 87 Locke street, there passed away in the person of Mrs. Delphina McDonald, one of Peterborough's best known and most highly esteemed citizens. Her demise will be learned with deep sorrow and regret by all who knew her. The deceased lady had been ailing for some time and had been in poor health since her husband's death twenty-five years ago. About two week ago she caught a slight cold which had to pneumonia and which deceased was given as the cause of her death. During her illness she was always patient and kind and bore her troubles with true Christian fortitude.

Mrs. McDonald was 78 years and 9 months of age. She was born in Montreal and came to this city about 4 years ago and has lived here since. After the death of her husband, she lived with her son, Alfred, the late manager of the McDonald Lumber Company, until his death, two years ago. Since then she has lived with Mr and Mrs. LePlante. She leaves behind her two daughters, Mary Louise MacDonald, of Medicine Hat, and Mrs. Cecile Stramelin, of Lindsay; three sons, Daniel, of Louisville, Ky.; Charles, of New York, and John, of Chicago, late of the Peterborough police force and a sister, Miss I. Kulsh, of this city, also a brother in Montreal.

The funeral will take place on Friday morning at 9 o'clock, from the residence of Mr. N T LePlante, 78 Lock street, to the Roman Catholic Cemetery.

The Romance of Ocean Travel Has Disappeared

With Present Ocean Greyhounds to go to Liverpool is a Mere Ferry Ride With a Steep Price

"Good-bye, Romance," the skipper said;
He vanished with the coal we burn;
Our dial marks full speed ahead,
Our speed is timed to half a turn
Sure as the tidal trains we fly,
Twixt port and port, Romance good-by.
—Kipling.

Romance has indeed gone from trans-Atlantic travel. That is, all except the Cupid variety, which buds and blossoms in sequestered deck corners and cosy, hidden nooks of ocean steamships and leads to matrimony or alimony. But the romance of the sailing vessel, clipper ships and the packets, as far as the passenger service to European ports is concerned, disappeared with the arrival of the steamship. When the steamer Asia in 1851 crossed the Atlantic in ten days and two hours the death knell of the sailing vessel as a passenger craft was sounded, and the old-time clipper, with her skysails, star scraper and heaven disturbers bellying to the breeze, has long since disappeared from the sea. With them has gone the last element of romantic contact with the person of the jack-tar who knew every rope and spar and could box the compass forward and backward, whereas they can only repeat their prayers one way.

Steam has accomplished its mighty mission well. So well, in fact, that the ordinary globe trotter thinks little more of a voyage to London than a ferry ride to Staten Island. There is a difference in the fare and the service is better, but essentially the Atlantic ocean is nothing more than a ferry between countries. The modern leviathan, driven by powerful reciprocating or turbine engines, makes connections with stated trains, barring fog or accident. Throughout the trip passengers on the big floating palaces are enabled by means of wireless telegraphy to keep in constant communication with both sides of the Atlantic. The arrival of a steamship in port can now be foretold almost to the hour.

A ten day Trip

From the year 1851, when the steamship Africa made the trip between Liverpool and New York in ten days and six hours, the science of shipbuilding and the development of high-speed engines has gradually cut down the time of passage between Europe and America and drawn the two continents closer together. Steamships which ten and fifteen years ago were considered queens of the sea, have now been superseded by vessels of size and power that was not dreamed of. Their laurels wrested from them they are now classed as second, third and fourth class boats.

In the early days of transatlantic steamship navigation inferior machinery and poorly modelled ships made travel between the two continents a more or less precarious undertaking. Deep-sea skippers of the old sailing vessels laughed steam and the propeller to scorn, and not without cause, for the very old mossback still discuss the marvelous feat of Captain Samuel Samuels, of the Dreadnaught, who sailed from Sandy Hook to Queenstown in nine days and seventeen hours in 1859. During the entire 2,800 miles the swift vessel maintained an average speed of over twelve knots an hour.

But steam soon overtook the sailing craft and left her hull down on the horizon of transatlantic transportation. Between 1860 and the 90's steam vessels developed gradually. During the last ten years the growth of the mighty transatlantic fleet has been stupendous. The present year will mark an era in ocean navigation in having witnessed the practicable operation of the turbine engine and the passage of the first boat in less than five days. For years the dreams of the ocean navigator has been to command a four-day boat and the honour of staying inside of the five-day mark and getting well on toward the hoped-for time went to Capt. Watts when he brought the Lusitania from Queenstown to Sandy Hook in four days, nine-teen hours and fifty-five minutes.

The Ocean Records

Following are the records of transatlantic steamships in the last fifty-six years:

The great transatlantic passenger fleets of to-day consists of eighty-eight steamships, owned by twelve lines. This number does not include the scores of tramp and semi-passenger lines of vessels which extend to every part of the world from New York. The total tonnage amounts to 1,102,400, while the mammoth engines of this fleet have a united strength of 1,124,464 indicated horse-power.

The steamers that plough across the Atlantic Ocean between east and west to-day are treble the number of ten years ago. Then there were twenty-one first class steamers, with a total tonnage of 157,872 and an indicated horse-power of 240,849. A comparison of these figures with the totals of the present day will give a fair idea of the growth of transatlantic service. In those days the St. Louis, the St. Paul and the New York represented the American line; the Philadelphia has since been built. The Anchor line had three ships and now numbers five. The Atlantic Transport line's four vessels were placed in commission since 1897. Four vessels were then operated by the Cunard line, among them the still famous Lucania. In the last ten years eight steamships flying the Cunard flag have been launched, including the record-breaking turbiners, the Lusitania and the Mauretania.

Increase in Fleet

The French line, which had three vessels, has doubled its fleet; the Hamburg-American line has entered the American field since 1897 and now owns a fleet of fifteen splendid transatlantic liners. The five ships of the Holland-America line were all built within ten years. The North German Lloyd line's fleet of four liners in 1897 has since been increased to sixteen modern steamships. The four vessels of the Red Star line were built within ten years and the same might be said of the Scandinavian-American line. Six new steamers have been added to the White Star line and three to the Wilson line.

The number of passengers conveyed across the Atlantic yearly in these huge floating hotels goes into the millions. As an express service between two countries the value of high-speed steamships was demonstrated less than a month ago, when in response to a demand for gold to allay the Wall street panic and money market stringency $100,000,000 in specie was hurried across the ocean in record time.

THE ELECTIONS AT OMEMEE

Local Option Campaign Was Warmly Conducted in Village

THE FIGURES ARE GIVEN

Examiner Special.

Omemee, Jan. 6.—The annual concert under the auspices of the Presbyterian church, held on January 1, was one of the best in every respect held here for a number of years. Miss Julia Choate, violinste, on this her second appearance, charmed the audience and held old and young from beginning to end of every number, and pleasingly responded to encores. It was the universal opinion of all who had the privilege of hearing her, including a number of Toronto critics visiting here, that it would be a difficult matter to get anyone nearer master of the "king of instruments." Mrs. (Dr.) Snelgrove, as vocalist, was excellently received, also answering to encores. Mr. Bennett of Toronto, the refined comic vocalist, caught the audience from beginning to end. Miss Ivory of Omemee and Mr. Bowles of Toronto skilfully played the accompaniments. The improved hall with new electric lights, comfortably seated about 450. The proceeds were $105.

Rev. Mr. Peckover acted as chairman.

Mr. John Tisdale and son and other former citizens were here on New Year's Day.

Nearly all the visitors have returned.

The L.O.L. brethren held a very successful concert on Christmas Day.

A shooting match held on New Year's Day for turkeys gave lots of sport. It was conducted by Captain German, and some excellent shots made.

A week of prayer has commenced, all the churches taking part.

Following are the results of the elections:

EMILY—

Reeve—R. Boates elected by 100 over Isaac Fee.

Councillors — Herlichy, Courtney, Wilson, Cottingham.

OMEMEE—

Reeve—R. J. Grandy of Omemee. J. H. Beatty has been reeve for the past three years without opposition, and it was thought that he could not be defeated.

Councillors—Geo. Griffin, Dr. Rogers, S. Skence, R. Carey.

Local option carried by three-fifths majority, with five votes to spare, after a keen contest.

Mr. Beatty, proprietor of the Commercial House, did not canvass, but circulated a little of the current literature. An effort will be put forth by the local optionists to conduct a temperance house.

HON. E. J. ARLESS.

"I have been afflicted with nasal catarrh to such a degree that it affected my hearing.

"This was contracted some twenty years ago by being exposed to draughts and sudden changes of temperature.

"I have been under the treatment of specialists and have used many drugs recommended as specifics for catarrh in the head and throat—all to no purpose.

"About three years ago I was induced by a confrere in office to try Peruna.

"After some hesitation, as I had doubts as to results after so many failures, I gave Peruna a trial, and am happy to state that after using eight or ten bottles of Peruna I am much improved in hearing, and in breathing through the nostrils."

COL. EDWARDS AGAIN LOSES

Was Aldermanic Candidate in Edmonton A Second Time

Col. Edwards, of Edmonton, was again defeated in the Edmonton civic elections held in that city recently. There were two other candidates in the field, Messrs. John Galbraith and D R Fraser, the latter winning by 217 over Col. Edwards and 525 over the other opponents. The election was for sixth alderman, one of the number recently elected having dropped out, causing the vacancy. The Edmonton Bulletin says:—

Colonel Edwards put up a good fight especially among the west end residents and in the part of the city west of First street he came out with 60 majority over the elected candidate. Mr. Galbraith did not poll a large vote, the east end going largely in favour of Mr. Fraser, to his correspondents loss.

Are You Bankrupt In Nerve Force

THERE IS A RICH FRIEND TO RESCUE YOU—LEARN MORE ABOUT

If you spend three dollars a day and earn two you are sure to come to bankruptcy, unless, perchance, some rich friend comes to your assistance.

And yet this is just what thousands of us are doing in regard to our health. By worry, overwork, anxiety or the disobedience of the laws of nature, the energy and vigour of the body is wasted more rapidly than it is built up, and the result is the bankruptcy of the health and the decay of the body.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food may be likened to the rich friend, for it supplies in condensed and easily assimilated form the very ingredients from which nature constructs nervous energy and builds up the human system.

Mrs. F. Turner, 336 Aylmer street, Peterborough, Ont., and whose husband is employed at the Hamilton foundry, states: "For some months past I found myself growing nervous and gradually becoming a victim of sleeplessness, and subject to frequent attacks of nervous headache. About six weeks ago I began the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and cannot speak too highly of this medicine. I can sleep well now, the headaches have entirely disappeared, and I believe that my system generally has been improved greatly by the use of this treatment."

Sleeplessness, headaches, indigestion, loss of appetite, worn-out feelings, spells of weakness and despondency are some of the symptoms of exhaustion which point to the approach of nervous prostration, locomotor ataxia and paralysis.

No one would think of neglecting such ailments if they realized their condition, but they do not, so gradual and insidious is their approach.

If you are persistently subject to these symptoms you are in danger. Your blood must be enriched. Your nerves must be invigorated. Your system must be built up. And there is no means whereby this can be so certainly accomplished as by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food; 50 cents a box at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.—2.

A RESOLUTION OF CONDOLENCE

Passed by L.O.L. No. 321 and Court Chemong I.O.F. To Friends of The Late Joseph Monerief

MUCH RESPECTED MEMBER

That the death of Mr. Joseph Monerief was greatly lamented by the members of L.O.L., No. 321, of which he was a member, and by Court Chemong No. 530, I.O.F., will be shown by the following letters of condolence:—

To the Brothers and Sisters of our Brother Joseph Joseph Monerief, who died on Monday, Dec. 16th, 1907:

We, the officers and members of Col. Saunderson's L.O.L., No. 321 of Downer's Corners, Otonabee, desire to convey to you our heartfelt sorrow at the loss you have sustained in the death of your beloved brother.

Whereas, it has become the sad duty of our lodge to record the death of one of its honoured members, Bro. Joseph Monerief, whose call to the great beyond has left a vacancy not easily filled, either in the hearts of his many friends or brethren; one whose aim was progress and harmony in our institution and his manhood and ability made him a potent factor to the end.

Whereas, his life as a faithful brother has been of such an exemplary character, so as to stand out as a shining light worthy of emulation; be it, therefore,

Resolved, That we, his brother Orangemen, do hereby extend to his bereaved brothers and sisters our earnest sympathy and most tender condolence in this their hour of bereavement; be it further,

Resolved, That the Charter of Col. Sanderson's L.O.L. No. 321, be draped for three months and a copy of these resolutions be sent to Mrs. Emmerson and that she be requested to inform each of the brothers and sisters of the above resolutions.

JNO. C. WALDIE, W.M.
WILLIAM WATT, Rec. Sec.

Mr. Geo. Emmerson:

Dear Sir,—We have been instructed by Court Chemong, 530, I.O.F., to convey to you and your relatives their sympathy in your recent bereavement, by the death of our late Bro. Joseph Monerief. We are aware that earthly sympathy availeth but little, but we would commend you all to the care of our Heavenly Father, who hath promised to comfort those that mourn who put their trust in Him.

Signed on behalf of the Court,

PICTURES COMING TO PETERBORO'

Artists Here Will be Given Treat To Famous Dutch Pictures—Toronto Art Association Have Them

WILL GO BACK TO EUROPE

Toronto, Jan. 8. — (Special.) — The monthly business meeting of the Woman's Art Association was held yesterday in the gallery, Mrs. Dignam presiding. This being the initial meeting of the year the work of the many committees was reviewed. The Art study was shown to be holding its fortnightly meetings as usual; the Musical Committee had arranged programmes for January and February; the various handicraft clubs would re-commence work next week in pottery, wood carving, book binding, needle lace, stained wood, tooled leather and ceramics.

The president in her remarks, referred to the large attendance at all the various clubs, meetings, and social affairs held in the galleries, and considered the widening scope of the associations efforts and interests as most encouraging. Satisfactory relations have been established with similar societies in Europe and America. One of the results of this was an exhibition which would open towards the end of January of Italian handicrafts. This was being sent by Le Industrie Seminile of Italy, which was organized in 1904, with the object of developing individual efforts, and had branches at Perugia, Assisi, Ancona, Venice and Florence and was seeking to revive many old arts and handicrafts.

It was announced that the Dutch pictures now on view in the gallery would remain until the end of this week, after which they would be sent to Ottawa, where the exhibitions would open on January 15th, in the W. A. A. Gallery, and from there the pictures would go to Peterborough and Kingston before returning to Europe.

MANY CASES HERE OF RHEUMATISM

Noted Authority Tells People How To Get Relief at Small Cost

A SIMPLE HOME REMEDY

Thousands of men and women who have felt the sting and torture of this dread disease, which in no respecter of age, persons, sex, colour or rank, will be interested to know that while for many years rheumatism was considered an incurable disease, now it is one of the easiest afflictions of the human body to conquer. Medical science has proven it not a distinct disease in itself, but a symptom caused by inactive kidneys. Rheumatism is uric acid in the blood and other waste products of the system, which should be filtered and strained out in the form of urine. The function of the kidneys is to sift these poisons and acids out and keep the blood clean and pure. The kidneys, however, are of sponge-like substance, the holes or pores of which will sometimes, either from overwork, cold or exposure, become clogged and inactive, and failing in their function of eliminating these poisons from the blood, they remain in the veins, decompose, and settling about the joints and muscles, cause the untold suffering and pain of rheumatism and backache, often producing complications of bladder and urinary diseases, weakness, etc.

The following simple prescription is said to relieve the worst cases of rheumatism because of its direct action upon the blood and kidneys, removing, too, the most severe forms of bladder and urinary troubles:—Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Karzon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Mix by shaking well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and before bedtime. The ingredients can be had from any good prescription pharmacy, and are absolutely harmless and safe to use at any time.—15.

DRINK KILLS FORMER CHAMPION

Geo. Dixon Once Famous Pugilist Died Penniless

New York, January 8.—The greatest fighter of his time, and the winner of several hundred fistic encounters, George Dixon, the negro pugilist, familiarly called Little Chocolate, died yesterday in the alcoholic ward of Bellevue Hospital, a victim of drink. Idolized in his prime by thousands as a pugilistic hero, Geo. Dixon passed away practically penniless and without friends. Dixon was 37 years of age and for many years held the title of Featherweight Champion.

George Dixon fought several hundred ring battles, his first fight being in 1886, when he whipped a boy named Johnston in Halifax, N. S. From that time until Terry McGovern knocked him out in 1900, and broke his heart, no man of his weight ever whipped him. He won the featherweight title in 1891 by whipping the champion Cal. McCarthy. Dixon was a veritable fighting machine, his attack and defence being perfect, and his peculiar ability to strike a blow from any position made him a formidable opponent. Dixon won thousands of dollars in the prize ring, which he spent with convivial companions.

Sadness and Gloom Prevail At The Coucluding Meeting

Members of the Board of Education Show Esteem For Their Departed Colleague, Mr. Wm. Pringle---A Memorial Portrait Will Be Hung In King Edward School---Resolution Of Condolence

The vacant chair was sadly noticed Board of Education, which was held last night. The circle which had so frequently gathered during the last few years, for the consideration of the questions which have been so ably dealt with by the Board, was suddenly broken by the hand of Death, and Mr William Pringle called to his reward. The meeting was a memorial to the late member, whose ability, recognized while living, was duly eulogized by his companions, who met without him last night. Mr. Pringle died in harness. A week ago Thursday, he, in company with Mr. W. H. Hill, were on an inspection visit to the King Edward school. While there he took a chill, which was but the forerunner of his death. The King Edward school, dearer to him than the other projects, which he carried to a successful issue, was ultimately his downfall. In the words of Dr. Burnham, he laboured too hard in his duties on the Board.

Chairman's Remarks

Mr. Fair said that since the last meeting a clamity had befallen the Board in the death of one of the members, Mr. William Pringle. He said that he had a suggestion to make, namely, that for the occasion the regular business of importance be dispensed with, and after the minutes were read that the members be given an opportunity of expressing their feelings of sympathy on the loss of one of their most respected fellow-members.

The minutes, as read by Mr. Morrow, were approved.

Mr. Fair, as chairman, officially conveyed to the Board the intelligence of the death of Mr. Pringle. His loss would be felt by the Board for years, he said, and referred to the excellent services which the late Mr. Pringle had rendered the city, and the cause of Education, in general. As chairman of the Building Committee of the King Edward school, he was especially interested in the work, and gave his undivided attention to the supervision of the erection of that building, which will be a lasting monument to his energy, sincerity and capability.

Mr. Fair also suggested that in memory of the late Mr. Pringle, and as a recognition of the esteem in which he was held, and his four years of most valuable service on the Board, that a portrait of the deceased member be placed in the King Edward School with a suitable tablet.

The following members were present: Messrs. Robt. Fair, chairman, D W Dumble, B F Ackerman, W S Robinson, L M Hayes, John Crane, W H Hill, Dr. Morrison and Dr. Burnham.

Resolution of Condolence

The following resolution of condolence, prepared by Mr. Dumble, was read by Mr. W. H. Hill:

The Peterborough Board of Education deeply laments the untimely death of Mr. William Pringle, Principal of the Peterborough Business College, who for four years had been a member of this Board.

Mr. Pringle gave to this Board the benefit of his large experience as an educator; he gave his valuable time and his best services; and, as chairman of the Supervision Committee and chairman of the Building Committee for the new King Edward School, rendered most valued service to the Board.

We lament the loss of so zealous a member, always ready to give his time and labour to aid a work which he had at heart. Mr. Pringle, by his gentle, courteous, and kindly manners, so endeared himself to us all that we feel his death as a personal loss, and mourn with the dear ones of his stricken home.

We unite in tendering to his bereaved widow and family our heartfelt sympathy.

It was moved by Mr. Hill and seconded by Dr. Burnham, that a copy of this resolution be entered in the minutes of the Board, and also that a copy be sent to the bereaved family. Out of respect, the motion was carried by a standing vote.

Tender Eulogies

In speaking of the late Mr. Pringle, Mr. Hill paid a tribute to the sincerity of his efforts. He had ideals, he said, which were above the ordinary. To the question of text books Mr. Pringle had devoted much of his time, and the subject was seldom out of his mind. He took an especial pride in the King Edward School, in the construction of which he acted as supervisor. He modestly believed that there was no Public School in the Province ahead of it.

Mr. Dumble also made a sympathetic speech, and the other members of the Board voiced their sentiments in brief remarks.

The question of arranging for a portrait of Mr. Pringle, with an inscription, to be given a prominent place in the King Edward School was left with the chairman, Mr. Fair, on motion of Dr. Burnham and Mr. Hill.

In conclusion, Dr. Morrison moved, seconded by Mr. Hayes, that out of respect for the late Mr. Pringle, the meeting adjourn.

Who Will Be Chairman Of Council Committees?

Speculations Already Among The Aldermen Over This Question—Some of The Names Mentioned In This Connection

THE BOARD OF WORKS

Although the personnel of the aldermanic board has just been decided, there is already much speculation among the members of the Council as to who will receive the chairmanships of the various committees. This will not be decided until the inaugural meeting of the Council on Monday next, but the question is being talked over among the aldermen and among those closely in touch with municipal affairs.

In connection with the Board of Works chairmanship, Ald. Elliott's name is most frequently heard. He very nearly got the plum (or perhaps lemon), last year, when the question was decided by the casting vote of the Mayor, and is looked upon as having a good chance to secure the position this year.

It would not cause much surprise to see Ald. Morgan chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee. During the year he has taken a keen interest in matters pertaining to that department, and worked hard for improvements to the new firehall.

Ald. Morrow is spoken of as chairman of the Finance Committee, and Ald. Bradburn's name was also heard in this connection to-day. There may be a change in the chairmanship of the Property Committee this year, but if so, no new name has been mentioned so far. It is said that Ald. Phelan may either be chairman of the Reception and Legal or of the Manufacturers' Committee, and Ald. Bradburn is also suggested for one of these positions.

An ex-alderman who is closely in touch with municipal affairs prophesied a slate something like this:

Board of Works—Ald. Elliott.
Property—Ald. McIntyre.
Fire, Water and Light—Ald. Morgan.
Reception—Ald. Phelan.
Manufacturers'—Ald. Bradburn.

The new aldermen are strong men, and although with the exception of Mr. Neill they have no municipal experience, they may not be overlooked in the selection of chairmen.

Ladies and Gentlemen,—

I take this opportunity of thanking my friends and supporters for their active efforts in my behalf during the election for aldermen for 1908. FUNERAL OF MR. WM. PRINGLE WAS A STRIKING TRIBUTE

Conducted Under Masonic Auspices and Attended by Hundreds of Citizens—Streets Thronged And Flags Flew at Half Mast

THE SCHOOLS DISMISSED

The funeral of the late Mr. Wm. Pringle yesterday afternoon was a striking tribute to the esteem in which the deceased was held by the entire community. Hundreds of people thronged George street to see the funeral cortege pass on its way to the Little Lake Cemetery and hundreds more took part in the long procession that accompanied the remains to their last resting place.

Flags flew at half mast on the schools and other public buildings in respect to the memory of the deceased. Yesterday at noon the Public Schools and Collegiat Institute pupils were dismissed for the day and the staff and many of the pupils attended the funeral.

Many citizens gathered at the family residence at the corner of Edinburgh and Bathune streets in the early part of the afternoon to view for the last time the remains of one who had been loved by all. Services at the house were conducted by Rev. Robert Pogue, of St. Paul's church, of which the deceased was a member, assisted by Rev. J. R. Webb, president of the Ministerial Association; Rev. H. A. Keith, of Knox church and Rev. J. G. Potter, of St. Andrew's. All made feeling references to the many sterling qualities of the late Mr. Pringle, and expressed the sense of loss felt by the community in his death. The Masonic service was conducted by Wor. Bro. T F Matthews, Worshipful Master of Corinthian Lodge, A.F. and A.M., assisted by Wor. Bro. Col. H C Rogers, Chaplain of Corinthian Lodge.

The funeral cortege was a long and most imposing one. It was headed by the male pupils of the Peterborough Business College, who walked in a body and who were followed by the staff of the Collegiate Institute. The members of Corinthian and Peterborough Lodges A.F. and A.M. came next, headed by Wor. Bro. D H Burrett, Tyler of Corinthian Lodge. There was a very large turnout of the members of both Lodges. Preceeding the hearse were the clergymen in carriages and cabs bearing the many beautiful floral tributes. While the funeral cortege was passing George street, the shops, as a mark of respect, were closed.

The members of the Board of Education and of the Board of Managers and Session of St. Paul's church in carriages followed the remains and behind them were hundreds of citizens in carriages.

The streets were crowded with people and a large crowd had gathered at the Cemetery. Here the beautiful and impressive Masonic burial service was conducted by Wor. Bro. T F Matthews, Worshipful Master, and Wor. Bro. H C Rogers, Chaplain of Corinthin Lodge, after which the Masonic apron and the scroll giving the name of the deceased and that of the Lodge of which he was a member were deposited in the grave. Each members then threw the sprig of evergreen which he wore, upon the coffin.

The ordinary burial service was conducted by Rev. Robt. Pogue, of St. Paul's church.

The pall bearers were Wor. Bro. T. A. S. Hay, Wor. Bro. John Crane, Bro. W G Morrow, Bro. Jos. Carey, Bro. W H Hill and Wor. Bro. M A Morrison.

The floral offerings were unusually numerous and beautiful. The different institutions with which the deceased had been connected, sent wreaths and other forms of floral tributes and many private citizens did similarly.

Winter in Saskatchewan Is Reported Mild and Open

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Dewinter Are in The City on a Business Trip—He Has One Thousand Horses to Dispose of

CONDITIONS IN THE WEST

A mild winter is being experienced in Western Canada this year, according to the statements of Mr. E. B. Dewinter, who, with his wife is spneding a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lee, Albert street. Mr. Dewinter arrived in the city last night from the west and will remain in the city for some time. He is here on a business trip looking forward to making a good sale of his horses and cattle, which he will ship east. Mr. Dewinter lives about a hundred miles west of Moosejaw, where he has a large ranch. At present he owns 5,000 head of cattle, and 1,000 horses. To-day he was visiting the prominent cattlemen and farmers, with a view of getting an idea of the possible prospects. Mr. Dewinter says that the ranchers are corralling their stock, and that a large sale will be made before spring.

Present Conditions

Speaking of the weather conditions, Mr. Dewinter said that the people are enjoying a fine open winter, up to the present time at least. This is especially true of Alberta and Saskatchewan; in Manitoba there is more snow than in the neighbouring provinces. There is but little business being transacted, but the feeling is that the country will recover rapidly from the depression in the spring. The mild winter is a blessing as it relieves the stringency to a certain extent. The people are making the best of the situation, and are enjoying themselves socially as much as possible.

The greatest drawback that is threatening is the scarcity of seed grain. Many of the farmers will have to buy their seed grain this year, a condition that never before existed. However, while this will greatly inconvenience them, some not having the finances, the hopes are for the old time crops next summer.

A New Verse of The Bible Is Dug Up From The Sands

Archaeologists Are Told of Discovery of Saying of Christ—Part of St. Mark's Gospel Found

REASONS WHY OMITTED

Chicago, Jan. 7.—A new saying of Christ, lost to the world for thirteen centuries and found in Egypt, was given to the world for the first time Tuesday by Prof. Henry A. Sanders, of the University of Michigan, addressing the members of the Archaeological Institute, now in session at the University of Chicago. The fragment is part of an old Bible dating back to before the Moslem conquest of Egypt in the seventh century and on its face so authentic as to disarm hostile criticism.

The long-lost fragment belongs to the sixteenth chapter of the gospel of St. Mark and follows the fourteenth verse. It relates to the story of Christ's appearance, following his death, to eleven of his apostles who were gathered together in a room in Jerusalem. Its harmony with the context is regarded as perfect, coming in to soften an abrupt transition from criticism to fervent exhortation.

How new Text Fits in

With the new verse, which is designated as Mark 16: 14 a, the Bible reads thus:

Mark 16: 14: "Afterward he appeared unto the eleven as they sat at meat and upbraided them with their unbelief and hardness of heart, because they believed not them which had seen Him after He was risen."

New Verse

Mark 16: 14 a: "And they answered, saying that the age of unrighteousness and unbelief is under the power of Satan, who does not permit the things which are made impure by the (evil) spirits to comprehend the truth of God (and) His power. For this reason, 'Reveal thy righteousness now,' they said to Christ and Christ said to them: "The limit of the years of the power of Satan has been fulfilled, but other terrible things are at hand and I was delivered unto death on behalf of those who sinned in order that they may return to the truth and sin no more, to the end that they may inherit the spiritual, indestructible glory of righteousness (which) is in heaven."

Mark 16: 15: "And he said unto them, Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature."

In discussing the new verse Prof. Sanders said: "This newly discovered paragraph was known to St. Jerome, and the first few lines of it are cited in Latin translation. It has long been claimed that Mark 16: 9-20, was a later addition to the gospel, thought to have been borrowed from some other unknown gospel near the end of the second century. This new manuscript probably presents the original form of that part of the lost gospel, which, mutilated, was added to Mark. The reason for the omission is quite apparent as the new verse contains the statement that the destruction of sin in the world is near at hand. This idea is found in the epistles of Peter and Paul, but the four gospels do not have it and it is avoided by the later church writers."

Health and Vitality for old People

A old age creeps on vitality is lowered, the heart beats more slowly, the blood becomes thin and watery, and the power is resistance is lessened. It is thee old people above all others who require the new life and energy, which comes with the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. Thousands of old people depend on this treatment, because it calms and quiets the nerves, gradually and certainly enriches the blood, builds up the system and instills new life and vigour into their shrivelled arteries.

WORDS ATTRIBUTED TO OUR JESUS

"The limit of the years of the power of Satan has been fulfilled but other terrible things are at hand and I was delivered unto death on behalf of those who sinned in order that they may return to the truth and sin no more, to the end that they may inherit the spiritual, indestructible glory of righteousness (which) is in heaven."

LOOK WHO'S COMING

THE STODDART STOCK COMPANY

Read what a Hamilton, Ont., exchange says about the "Belle of Richmond":

The Stoddart Stock Company pleased a very large audience in the Grand Opera House last night by the presentation of "The Belle of Richmond." The play deals with incidents in life in Virginia, with the usual scheming of the villain, the overthrow of his plans, and the final triumph of love and justice. The company gave an excellent interpretation of the piece, and patrons of the theatre expressed the opinion that it was one of the strongest offerings yet made by the Stoddarts. Each part was taken with an earnestness that was delightful, and throughout the audience gave closest attention. The Stoddarts are above the average stock company that has appeared at the Grand Opera House this season, and last evening's presentation more firmly strengthened the good opinion patrons of the theatre have formed of the company. The opening play for Monday night is "The Belle of Richmond." Seven high class vaudeville acts will be presented, including the world's greatest musical artists, Paull and Reynolds, and others. The plays are all new—no waits—a continuous show from start to finish—the best repertoire company you have ever had in your city. Seat sale opens Friday morning.

DANNY SIMMONS AGAIN

While the Adam Good Company was playing Winstead, Conn., recently the management gave an Elks' Night, inviting all the members of the local lodge. Eighty-five brothers attended, and during the evening Danny Simons, the popular star of the company, was presented with a gold handled umbrella, suitably engraved, by the members of Winstead Lodge.—New York Clipper.

Mr. Ed. Barnstead, advance agent for the Stoddart Stock Company, which holds the boards at the Grand all next week, is visiting his old friends in the city. It is about 20 years since he has been in Peterborough, and finds a splendid advance made in every line. The company he represents is new to this city, appearing in all the larger places, such as Hamilton, London, Toronto, Kingston, etc. Among its productions are "The Belle of Richmond," "The Gambler's Daughter," "The Heir to the Hoorah," "The Girl from the Golden West," which Blanche Bates made famous; "Tom Moore," an Irish drama, and others which will be presented here. There are eight specialties of a high order, among them being Mr. W. L. Phillips, formerly of Havelock. As a monologuist, he is above the ordinary, and has made a success in his line. The company numbers 18 members.

THE TRAINMASTER'S ORDERS

Havelock Official Says all Trains Should Be Examined

For impressing upon trainmen the importance of examining trains at every opportunity, while on their routes to ensure against accidents, Mr. V. A. Harshaw, C. P. R. trainmaster at Havelock, has issued a circular, in which he says:

"This company pays higher wages and offers better protection to employees than any other road in Canada; why should we not consider their interests as our own, and protect them accordingly."

He declares that a hot box has been the cause of many accidents, and that the breaking of a journal at Orr's Lake recently resulted in a considerable loss to the company and endangered the lives of the crew. Very great care should be taken, he advises.

JUROR IN THAW TRIAL ROBBED

Lost Gold Watch and Chain While at Thaw Trial.

ONLY THREE YET CHOSEN

Six Others Dismissed—Prisoner Bit His Nails When Snubbed by Counsel—Tugged at Littleton's Sleeve Without Effect—Both Sides Severely Critical in Securing Jury—Talesmen Challenged.

New York, Jan. 8.—The Thaw trial at 10.15 p. m. yesterday was adjourned until to-day, with three sworn and four provisional jurors in the box.

District Attorney Jerome has challenged peremptorily Jurors Hatchett, Goss, Weiss and Fraser. The defence has excused Jurors Morewood, Sanford, Bouvier and Pitcher. This leaves three jurors, who were sworn and thus are accepted finally for the trial panel, They are: Gremmels, Naething and Carp.

Fred W. Pitcher, a shipping clerk, about 30 years old, was one of the talesmen to take his place on the temporary panel. He declared he held an opinion in the case.

"Do you feel you are in a position to lay that opinion aside?" asked Mr. Littleton.

"Not now," he replied, "but I might be if I got into the box."

Pitcher called attention to the fact that the president of the company by whom he is employed is also under summons as a possible juror.

"If he got on the panel," said Pitcher, "I might be influenced by him. And I will also say I am a little skeptical about defences of insanity."

Both sides were willing to take Pitcher under the conditions he named and he was escorted into the box as Juror No. 11, but later excused by the defence.

During the absence of one of the jurors there was a conference between District Attorney Jerome, Assistant District Attorney Garvin, Martin Littleton, Dan O'Reilly, and A. Russell Peabody. The lawyers stood near the end of the table where Thaw was seated. They talked earnestly for several minutes, the prisoner looking at them intently. Dexter O. Tiffany, a broker residing at 224 West 82nd street, had been called for examination, and it was whispered that the combat of the attorneys was concerning the talesman. Thaw tugged at Mr. Littleton's sleeve several times before that attorney turned around. When he saw that it was his client who was endeavoring to attract his attention he gave a curt nod and turned his back squarely upon Thaw. The latter seemed annoyed. He began to chew his finger nails and a slight flush spread over his pallid face.

Juror's Pocket Picked.

The fact that the talesmen in the box created something of a sensation as the afternoon session opened by announcing that he had lost his gold watch and chain, valued at $150, since coming to court. Detectives were assigned to the case.

The detectives arrested two men loitering in the court house lobby on suspicion of having been concerned in picking the talesman's pockets. The incident caused quite a commotion in the court room, District Attorney Jerome taking a lively personal interest in the matter and assigning some of his own staff to the case. He also undertook the examination of the suspected men.

Stole Bishop's Coat.

Cornwall, Jan. 8.—Twenty-three months in the Central Prison was the sentence handed out by Judge O'Reilly yesterday to Philip Benoit of Alexandria, the young man who stole Bishop MacDonell's fur-lined coat from the Palace Alexandria on New Year's night.

Benoit has already served a three-year term in the Kingston Penitentiary.

Gives Her Brain to Science.

New York, Jan. 8.—Unless some one "beats her to it" the distinction of being the first woman to proffer her brain for scientific purposes after the immutable law has decreed that she is done with it, will go to Miss Louise Randolph, a society leader. According to present plans, her brain will some day repose in a glass jar in the custody of the Anthropometric Society.

OKUMA MISREPORTED.

Did Not Urge India to Rise Against Great Britain.

Tokio, Japan, Jan. 8.—A remarkable situation has arisen as a result of the publication in London of a mistranslation of the speech delivered by Count Okuma at Kobe. He promptly repudiated the published version, which was in substance that he had urged India to rise against Great Britain.

"My views on the subject of trade with India, as well as my friendliness to Great Britain, are too well-known to make it necessary for me publicly to repudiate the absurd construction which has been placed upon the remarks I made at Kobe. I have never entertained a thought which could be stretched into such a meaning. India offers us a fine field for trade and I urged my people openly and consistently to enter that field in fair competition with friendly Great Britain—that is all."

JAILED UNDER SCOTT ACT.

First Sentence on Woman Hotelkeeper at Moncton, N. B.

Moncton, N. B., Jan. 8.—Mrs. David McCleave, proprietress of the Windsor Hotel, was yesterday sentenced to one month in jail, having been found guilty of violation of the Scott act. Henry Cormier, another hotelkeeper, was given the same sentence.

The sentence on Mrs. McCleave is the first ever given a woman for Scott act violation here, and created quite a sensation in court circles. Following the issue of search warrants Moncton barrooms are now practically closed. Most of the dealers have removed their stock from the hotels to other places, and there is much uneasiness among dealers, search warrants being expected at any time. There are jail sentences hanging over a number of dealers as well.

CIGARETTE CAUSES BLAZE.

Man and Cattle Burned in Stable at Whitmouth.

Whitemouth, Man., Jan. 8.—Whisky and cigarettes caused the death of a Galician yesterday morning up the river. The man chopped for W. Carichanskey and went home Monday night with his team of oxen and put them in the stable, which also held three other head of stock. It is supposed he fell asleep with a lighted cigarette. Flames and smoke awoke the people in the house, and the charred remains bodies of the unfortunate man and all the cattle were found.

Russia Keeps Christmas.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 8.—The Russian Christmas, which comes 13 days later than the day set, observation of the feast by the Gregorian calendar, was celebrated yesterday by the members of the Imperial family, in a very simple way. A Christmas tree, with presents for Alexis, the little crown prince, and his sisters, was set up in the apartments of the Empress. Only members of the immediate royal entourage were present.

Yesterday afternoon Emperor Nicholas was present at two Christmas trees in Tsarskoe Selo, one for the guards and another for the Cossacks. The Emperor made short speeches in which he thanked the soldiers for their valiant services and bestowed a number of presents.

Dancer a Banker's Wife.

New York, Jan. 8—"Little Egypt's" death in her flat at No 226 West 37th street, discovered Monday, reveals that she was the wife of Frederick Hamlin, a wealthy banker of East Bloomfield, Ontario County, N. Y. They were married a year after the famous Sealey dinner, where she won national notoriety by her dance on the table at Sherry's. At the time of the wedding Hamlin was a student at Yale.

Struck by Falling Limb.

Wiarton, Jan. 8.—A young son of James Colwell, a farmer living at Mar, while out in the woods, was accidentally struck on the head by the falling of a tree, and is lying unconscious. Indications are that there is a fracture at the base of the brain. Chances for recovery are very doubtful.

CHARGE OF MURDER PREFERRED

Tearse to Stand Trial at Assizes For Brampton Shooting.

EVIDENCE OF EYE WITNESSES

Curry Tells Clear Story of Father's Tragic End—Says He Himself Might Have Touched Gun — Barnardo Boy's Testimony — Distinctly Heard Two Shots Fired—No Motive Shown Says Counsel.

Brampton, Jan. 8.—J. C. Tearse (this is the spelling of the name officially accepted), was formally committed for trial yesterday afternoon by Magistrate Crawford, on a charge of murdering old William Curry on Christmas night.

At the conclusion of the evidence for the crown. A. R. Hassard argued on behalf of the prisoner, that the crown had utterly failed to show any motive; without motive, he said, there could be no murder, hence he claimed that the prisoner could not be committed on a charge of murder, although he might be committed on a charge of negligence with firearms.

Crown Attorney McFadden said all the evidence pointed to murder, and there was only one thing for the magistrate to do, and that was to commit the prisoner. He was not called upon to weigh the question of intent.

Magistrate Crawford said he believed it his duty to send the prisoner on for trial at the next Assizes. The prisoner, through his counsel, said he had nothing to say.

Being recalled, James Curry admitted that he had said that if Tearse was allowed to go free he would be in fear of being shot by him. He said he had kept a light burning in the house every night since the death of his father.

James Reid's Story.

The boy, James Reid, in his evidence yesterday morning referred to James Curry as Mr. Curry and to the old man as "father."

"Jack said," declared the boy, after telling about doing the chores, "that he hoped Mr. Curry and father would not come home until late, and would come alone, I was sitting by the stove and heard Jack saying it was his laugh now. He was standing pointing a gun at Mr. Curry. Mr. Curry jumped and Jack said, 'Don't you dare move now or I'll shoot.' Then Mr. Curry sat down with his hands behind his back and didn't move. Then Jack kind of pulled at the twine and said, 'Here, Jimmie.' I didn't know what he wanted. Then father came out and Jack said 'Don't move or I'll shoot you,' to him.

"Then the gun went off and shot father. I went out on the verandah with the lantern. I saw another shot go off. Then Mr. Curry told me to go over to Mr. Mackay's, the neighbor's. Jack said, 'Don't go, Jimmie.' I put on my boots and went, leaving leaving them struggling on the floor."

James Curry on the Stand.

At the request of Mr. A. R. Hassard, counsel for the prisoner, the witnesses for the crown were excluded while the evidence of James Curry, the first witness for the crown, was taken. Crown Attorney McFadden devoted somewhat more attention to questioning him regarding the dispute between him and the prisoner when the length of time he had been engaged was discussed.

"He said that he had been engaged for a year, and he was going to stay a year, and I told him that he was not going to stay a year, and that if he said he was engaged for a year he was lying," said Mr. Curry.

A new point was brought out when he admitted, in answer to a question of Mr. McFadden, that when told by Tearse to put his hand behind his back he obeyed. It was just at this point that his father came into the room and a moment later the shot was fired which killed the old man.

"Did you touch the gun while it was in Tearse's hands?" asked Mr. Hassard. "Will you swear that you did not?"

"I might have touched it with my elbow," admitted the witness. This, however, he said, was after the first shot was fired.

Drs. Arthur Jukes Johnston, D. L. Heggie and J. A. Lawson, testified to the results of the post-mortem examination and the nature of the wound.

Walter Baldock and Fred Deadman, together with Detective Greer, testified that they had examined the hole in the ceiling, had cut an entrance into the loft above the room in which the murder was committed and had extracted shot from the rafters and sheeting of the roof above.

Dr. M. A. Albens of Burnham Thorp, the physician who attended William Curry before his death; J. M. Mackay, the neighbor who was summoned on the night of the murder, and John Black, brother-in-law of James Curry, who was also summoned to the house after the terrible occurrence, were the other witnesses called.

The most intense interest prevailed throughout the entire proceedings, the gallery being filled with ladies, who remained throughout the day. W. H. McFadden appeared for the crown.

Has Lemieux Failed?

Vancouver, B. C., Jan. 8.—That Mr. Lemieux has completely failed, and that Japan intends to obtain the full benefit of the treaty, is the belief of officials here, even in the wake of a report that Ishii, who recently investigated Japanese conditions in Canada and the United States, advised the restriction of emigration to both.

Certainly had Mr. Lemieux succeeded, his gratuitous typewritten interview would have been differently worded and not so long. He declined a banquet here.

Will Support McBride.

Vancouver, B. C., Jan. 8.—J. A. Macdonald, leader of the Opposition in the Provincial Legislature, said yesterday he would support Premier McBride in the coming session of the Legislature in renewing the passing of the Natal Act against the Orientals, though, at the same time he believed it was unconstitutional.

MISSING LINER IS SAFE AGAIN

Mount Royal Makes Queenstown Harbor With All on Board.

BOILERS WERE DISABLED

Broke Down on Christmas Eve After Terrible Struggle With Waves—Passengers All Reported Well—Baby the Only Victim—Captain Decided to Turn Back to Ireland —Several Other Wrecks.

Queenstown, Jan. 8.—(C. A. P.)—Steaming slowly up the harbor the Canadian Pacific liner Mount Royal arrived yesterday morning after being out thirty days from port.

With independence that was admirable in the face of the terrible experiences of the last thirty days, the Mount Royal declined the assistance of a tug.

The four hundred people on board, passengers and crew, crowded the sides of the vessel as though no sight in this life had been so beautiful as the harbor of this Irish port. The steamer was sighted off Roche's Point, but she flew no signal of distress and she wanted no assistance.

One baby died on the voyage.

London, Jan. 8.—(C. A. P.)—On arrival at Queenstown the passengers of the Mount Royal assembled and thanked Capt. Purcell for all he and the officers and crew had done for their comfort during their trying month on the Atlantic.

The officers of the Mount Royal state that after leaving the Lisard they met the worst gales experienced in years. The boilers began to leak badly in consequence of the buffeting.

In latitude 50 north, longitude 40 west, 1,100 miles from land, in consequence of the engineers reporting they could only effect temporary repairs, it was decided to abandon the fight against the violent head gales and return eastward.

The passengers kept below decks nearly the whole day, but they were cheerful in the assurance that the vessel was seaworthy and provisions ample. The children were remarkably courageous.

Being interviewed the passengers described the terrific nature of the gales, declaring the ship almost stood on end sometimes, and they saw nothing for fifteen successive days but a wall of green water on each side of the vessel, which sometimes fell aboard with huge force.

Terrible Experience.

London, Jan. 8.—(C. A. P.)—Another tragic story was told by four survivors of the crew of the barkentine Fanney Breslawer, which landed at Milford Haven. The vessel, which was bound from Santos to Halifax, N. S., got within 12 miles of Halifax, but was blown out to sea again. For twenty days she endeavored to enter, but failed. The captain, though short of rations, decided to sail to the home port in Jersey, but he, the boatswain and a seaman died as a result of injuries and exposure about 250 miles off the Lisard, when the vessel was extensively damaged.

The survivors were weakened from overwork and lack of food. They flew signals of distress, which, fortunately, were answered by a steam trawler.

Another Ocean Tragedy?

Halifax, Jan. 8.—News of what may be another tragedy of the sea comes from Charlottetown, P. E. I. Yesterday an unknown schooner was reported off Pugwash, N. S., in the ice, and flying signals of distress The Government steamers Minto and Stanley were sent to the scene. The Minto passed a raft with a man's shirt on it, but no other sign of the schooner was seen.

Swept to Edge of Cataract.

St. John, N. B., Jan. 8.—Caught in the ice jam, the ferry steamer E. Ross, which runs across the St. John River about a half-mile above Reversible Falls, was carried to the brink of the cataract yesterday, and for a few minutes given up for lost.

A peculiar turn of the current swept her into an eddy and so close to shore that a workman in the mills nearby caught a rope thrown by the captain and succeeded in holding her until she was brought to shore.

Several passengers were on board.

Richard's Himself Again.

Ottawa, Jan. 8.—Sir Richard Cartwright, who has been confined to his residence for the past two or three weeks through illness, resumed his Ministerial duties at his office yesterday morning.

Eczema, Salt Rheum.

Eczema or Salt Rheum, as it is often called, is one of the most agonizing of skin diseases. It manifests itself in little round blisters, which contain an extremely irritating fluid. These break and subsequently a moist or colloid formed.

The intense burning, itching and smarting, especially at night or when the part is exposed to any strong heat, are almost unbearable.

The pre-eminent success which Burdock Blood Bitters has met with in permanently curing a disease of such severity is due to its wonderful blood cleansing and purifying properties.

No other remedy has done, or can do, so much for those who are almost driven to distraction with the terrible distress, as our thousands of signed testimonials can testify to.

Mrs. Jas. R. Handy, Linton, N.B., writes: "I was so troubled with Salt Rheum for eight years, that I could not work my hands were so sore. By using Burdock Blood Bitters my hands were eventually cured."

Mrs. Ira C. Buckner, Eden, Ont., writes: "I was troubled with Eczema for a long time. It came out on my face and between my shoulders. A friend told me about Burdock Blood Bitters. I took two bottles and it helped me so much I cannot recommend it too highly."

Why Accept Counterfeit Goods?

GOOD money is made by the government in which you have implicit faith and confidence. Good goods are made by manufacturers who are willing to stake their reputations on the quality of the material offered to you through the medium of their advertisements in this paper. The Following Letter Speaks For Itself

Peterborough, Nov. 1st, 1907.

W. G. Morrow, Esq.
Agent Imperial Life Assurance Co.,
Peterborough.

Dear Sir:—I have received notification of the option available in respect to my ten-year Endowment Policy of $2000 which matured to-day and it affords me pleasure to say that I view with much satisfaction the results of my investment with your Company.

The substantial surplus which the Policy has earned in the comparatively short period of ten years makes the returns which would be made to me, under any of the options now open to my selection, most liberal and attractive.

It is greatly to the credit of the Company that after having granted me an Insurance of $2000 from the issue of the Policy in 1897 to this present time, it can now offer me under the cash-value option a sum as exactly in excess of the total premiums that I have paid into it, or under the paid up Insurance option, a paid up life Policy considerable more than double the amount of my original Policy.

Permit me to wish the Company a long continuance of its prosperity

Yours very truly,

J. R. STRATTON.

A GIGANTIC BABY.

Centralia, Ill.—Mrs. Joe Robinson gave birth to a child weighing nineteen and a half pounds. Two years ago, she bore a baby which tipped the beam at eighteen pounds.

It is easy to see that Mrs. Robinson enjoys perfect health. Many women will envy her, because they go through life, wretched and dispirited on account of ill-health. Mrs. Mary Shoreham, of Toronto, suffered for years with diseased ovaries, constant pain in the back, headaches, indigestion and sallow, yellow skin. "Seven months ago a lady friend recommended Fruit-a-tives," writes Mrs. Shoreham, "and I decided to try this medicine, though I had little faith in it, because the doctors said an operation was necessary. After I had taken four boxes of Fruit-a-tives I was free of all pain, and was well again."

"Fruit-a-tives" are made of fruit juices and tonics and are the best medicine in the world for women. 50c.

LINDSAY EXPECTS TO BEAT PETERBOROUGH ON FRIDAY

Lindsay will take a lot of beating this season, according to a number of the Strathconas, who saw them at practice last night, and who state that they are travelling at a fast clip. Lindsay will be here on Friday night to open the Intermediate O.H.A. season, and it looks as if Peterborough would have difficulties in winning out. However, the locals have been practising industriously, and if condition counts, should be in the running all the way. Lindsay will have the advantage of having played one game, but the Straths are not worrying very much about that and will go on the ice determined to put a stimp in the Midgets' championship aspirations.

Lindsay is crazy over their seved and confidently expert to carry off the Intermediate O. H. A. championship. They have the pick of their Midgets together with a number of new men, and are already talking of the different things they are going to do to Peterborough on Friday night.

The old rivalry between the two towns is still in evidence, and the struggle will be a ding dong battle from start to finish, but both teams playing for every ounce that is in them for victory. Indications point to a very large crowd for the first game of the season, which from the dope looks like a fine exhibition of hockey. Some old favourites will be seen on the Stratheonas line up and they are going to show that although Crowley and Whitcroft and Crowley are missing there is plenty of championship material left in the city.

WILL HAVE PRACTICE IN LINDSAY

Proposal For Local Rink To Curl in Lindsay

To-morrow about five or six rinks of the local curlers will take a jaunt to Lindsay for a practice. The invitation is an outstanding one, and if cold weather prevails the club will make the trip. At the Charlotte street rink, when a sheet of ice is prepared, a temporary waiting room will be erected for the curlers.

THE CANOE MAKERS INTEND TO FIGHT

Warring Houses For the Hockey Championship To-morrow Night

There is going to be doings at the Brock street rink Thursday night, when the Rogers and English canoemakers clash for the punt-making supremacy of the city. The English bunch says there is only one thing for the Peterborough bunch, and that is a trimming or the Dan Spence ambulance. While they are knocking hard, Rogers' pals have said nothing, but it is stated there is a surprise for the Charlotte street manufacturing house. Whatever is the result, the most strenuous article of hockey is sure to be seen, and the two sevens are saying farewell to their friends, realizing that it is a fight to the death.

THE STRATS TEAM FOR TO-NIGHT

Line-up Against The High Lifes in The City League Opening Attraction

The Strathconas team against the High Lifes in the City League game to-night will be chosen from the following:

Goal—Wilson.
Point—Barber.
Cover—Dusty.
Forwards—McMillan, Weatherston, Dobson, Long and Dunnigan.

The O.H.A. team will practice at 7 o'clock in preparation for Friday night's game with Lindsay, and the above players, together with the following are asked to be out sharp on time: Morgan, Glover, Moore, Rose, Hillier, Ray, Parnell, Fred McGrath, Derocher, Clarke.

UPPERS WERE NOT UP IN THE AIR

For The Third Time The Ground Floor Staff of Cressman's are Defeated

For the third time this season the employees of the second and third floors of Cressman's took the lower floor staff into camp in a game of hockey last night. This time it was a massacre and when the smoke had cleared away the uppers were carrying off a score of seven, while their goal keeper, Mr. John Titterson, was decorated with the "perfect average" medal, showing that he had not been scored upon. The upper seven demonstrated that while they are up in the air as far as the store is concerned, they are right on the ground floor when it comes to playing hockey. E. Cosford refereed satisfactorily and the teams lined up as follows:

Down Stairs.		Up Stairs.
	Goal.
Keen		Titterson
	Point.
Anderson		Warkis
	Cover Point.
Patterson		Scott
	Rover.
Harrison		Darling
	Centre.
Stewart		Tisdale
	Right Wing
F Cressman		H Cressman
	Left Wing
Little		Jones

The half time score was 5—0.

CITY LEAGUE OPENS TO-NIGHT

Two Lively Games Are Promised For The Opening Attractions

The City League season will open to-night at 8 o'clock when the Strathconas and High Lifes meet in the opening battle, and in so doing will usher in what is expected to be a red letter year in the history of that organization. A big crowd should be on hand to see the opening games, which promise to be keenly contested from start to finish. The Strathconas have a formidable line-up as announced elsewhere in this issue, while judging from the big squad which was out at practice for the High Lifes last night, Manager Rose's aggregation is not to be despised.

Bridgenorth will appear for the first time in a City League game when it goes up against Lakefield. According to all reports, the Chemong Lake seven has to be counted right from the start in figuring out championship prospects, and it will be on hand with a big bunch of rooters in an effort to begin right by trimming Cementville. Lakefield will be stronger than last year and will put up a big fight. The second game will start sharp at 9 o'clock. All the league teams have been notified that they will be fined if they are not ready to start on time.

Mr. Geo. Lynch will referee the contests.

The Edmonton Seniors and the (Wanderers, had another good turnout last night after the Skating Club assembly.....Whitcroft, as usual in command of the situation, was practising hard, and is in fine condition. Wilson and Crowley are working well and trying to climb into the pink of condition. The players during these practices, leave the bringing of the puck out to Whitcroft. In a game they are prone to do the same thing, and although "Whit" is capable of the trick every time, yet the constant strain will wear him out. This matter ought to be remedied.—Bulletin.

Mr. R. M. Waddell, secretary of the Peterborough Curling Club, has received messages of regret from Kingston, Orillia and Norwood about the loss of the curling rink by fire last week.

Fred Whitcroft's Edmonton team has won its second game of the season, defeating the Strathconas on New Year's Day by 9-4, Whitcroft scoring four of the goals. PETERBOROUGH CITIZENS GET GOOD MILK

Average Here Much Better Than in Toronto

Peterborough consumers of milk have reason to feel gratified with the quality received from local milk vendors. Since the beginning of the month of March the Sanitary Inspector states that only one case has been known to be less than three per cent. butter-fat. The Toronto Globe says of the milk in the Queen City: The quality of the milk supplied to the people of the city has improved since July and August, when 60 per cent. was below three per cent. butter-fat. The Medical Health Department has obtained 143 samples this month, and 50 of these were below the three per cent.

DINIZULU ON TRIAL.

Urged Bambata to Fight Against the White People.

Pietermaritsburg, Jan. 8.—At the preliminary examination of Dinizulu, the Zulu king, in the Central jail here, the first witness was the 13-year-old son of Chief Bambata. The boy related how after the outbreak of the native disturbances last year he went on a visit to the Usutu kraal—the residence of Dinizulu — with Bambata and others. Dinizulu summoned Bambata and said to him: "You are a coward. You waited until the white men came, and you looked at them, but you did not fight. You came here with words, seeking shelter. I will give you a gun and ammunition. Return and fight the white people. I will help you to that extent."

The witness said he had the gun, which was a Mauser, in his hands. He added that Dinizulu sent Cakigana to assist Bambata to manage his impi, Bambata being inexperienced. After the fighting Cakigana and Bambata went back to the Usutu kraal, Bambata subsequently returning to the bush.

After the final scattering of the impi many rebels came to Usutu, where Dinizulu employed them in general work. There were about thirty guns at Usutu. While at Usutu, the witness added, he noticed that guards were stationed at night whenever there was any suspicion that a European force was in the neighborhood.

TO ADVOCATE TARIFF REFORM.

Policy of London Times Under New Management.

London, Jan. 8.—The formal statement of the change in the management of The Times, which will appear in the newspapers, announces that the business management of the paper will be reorganized by Mr. Pearson and that "the editorial character of the paper will remain unchanged, and it will be conducted, as in the past, on lines independent of party politics."

The change in the organization requires the sanction of the court before being effective.

Despite the formal announcement that its editorial policy would not be changed, it is generally believed that the change in the management of The Times has been in the interests of tariff reform. It is understood that Sir Alexander Henderson, who played a leading part in the recent fusion of the Great Central and Great Northern Railroads, is associated with Mr. Pearson in The Times' deal. He is a strong tariff reformer, in addition to being a successful railway administrator, and is largely interested in South African railroads.

Sir Alexander Henderson was largely instrumental in the success of the Manchester ship canal.

Wreck Victim's Injuries.

Fleaherton, Jan. 8.—Henry Holman, a farmer, living near this place, has been removed to a Toronto hospital. Mr. Holman was injured in the Caledon wreck last September, and at the time the injuries were not considered serious, and a settlement was made for $25.

Since then the foot has been very painful, and he has been confined to his house all the time. Drs. Cotton, McPhedran and Walker, after examining it, declare it to be in a very serious condition, and the outcome of the crushing to be very uncertain. He will be confined to the hospital for some weeks.

Threaten to Burn Houses.

New York, Jan. 8.—Threats that their buildings will be burned if they evicted the tenants flooded east side landlords yesterday. The warnings were supposed to have come from the rent strikers, and in general were on postals worded as follows:

"We will move, but after your house has been vacated the fire department will visit you."

"The Red Flag" color was lent to this threat by a fire at a Madison street tenement, where the request for lower rents has been refused.

Dr. Chown's Charges.

Winnipeg, Jan. 8.—The charge that immorality exists in Midway attractions of western fairs is renewed by Dr. Chown of Toronto in a letter to a Winnipeg paper, in which he offers to prove same.

The City Council has decided in favor of an investigation of the broadest character into the methods of the Winnipeg police force, and particularly into the facts surrounding the death of James Robertson.

Deserters Sentenced.

Kingston, Jan. 8.—Driver Humphries was sent to the County Jail yesterday for 70 days with hard labor for desertion, and Driver Chateau for 112 days, also with hard labor, for the same offence.

Local option was carried in Pittsburg Township by 275 for and 174 against. It was defeated in Loborough by 54, also in Hinchbrooke by a small majority.

$10,000 Fine, If——

Ottawa, Jan. 8.—Justice Riddell in the High Court yesterday morning fined the J. W. Young rendering plant of Rideauville, one of the suburbs recently attached to Ottawa, $10,000 if the nuisance was not removed within 30 days.

Fell Dead at Prayer Meeting.

Elora, Jan. 8.—Edward Farrow of this town dropped dead at a prayer meeting being held in Chalmers' Church Monday night. He had just risen to speak when he collapsed and expired almost instantly.

Irish Afraid of Asquith.

Dublin, Jan. 8.—There is an uneasiness in Nationalist circles over rumors of the early retirement of Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman from the Premiership in favor of Herbert H. Asquith.

The latter is considered unsympathetic in the cause of home rule.

Augustus Heinze Arrested.

New York, Jan. 8.—Augustus Heinze was arrested yesterday, charged with false certification of a check, and was held in $50,000 bail.

The check was on the Mercantile National Bank. Mr. Heinze entered a plea of not guilty to the charge.

BATTALION BAND IS CRITICIZED

Chief Rutherford Expresses His Opinion —Fire Brigade Annual Meeting

OFFICERS FOR THE YEAR

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Fire Brigade was held last night in the rooms at the fire hall, and a full brigade was in attendance. The financial statement was read, and showed that everything to be in first class shape.

The social on New Year"s Day proved to be a great success, and the brigade intends to hold a social sometime in the near future for the young people of the city. A vote of thanks was tendered to all those who assisted and contributed to the enjoyment of the New Year's Day reception.

After the general business had been transacted the following officers were elected:

Asst. Chief, J. Gibbs.
1st Lieut., W. Metheral.
2nd Lieut., Chas. Butcher.
Secretary, W. Tremaine.
Treasurer, W. Adamson.

After the elections light refreshments were served.

At the conclusion of the meeting of the fire brigade last night, Chief Rutherford, speaking to the members of the Brigade, said that he wished to make a few remarks in regard to the opening of the new hall. He complimented the firemen on the manner in which they carried out the programme in making a complete public demonstration. He said: "There is one thing in conection with the matter that did not meet with the requirements of the day, and that was the shabby manner in which the band of the 57th Battalion used us and the general public. For twenty-five years the city has provided rooms and light for this band, which was originated by the Peterborough Fire Brigade, and it has ever since been supported by the citizens. I think that on an occasion, such as the opening of the fire hall, when there was no money to be made, but money to be spent, that after promising to come to give the public a little music, they should have done so, without being paid. These remarks apply only to certain members of the band, and not to those who were perfectly reasonable and willing to come, but to those who were inclined to kick. Many of you, gentlemen, have given a quarter of a century of far greater service to the city for practically nothing, in the interests of the citizens and their homes, and I feel very sorry that the children and the citizens and visitors, spent the day without one note of music from the band that has cost the city so much money."

A RECORD CROWD AT THE PARK

Hundreds at The Slide and Rink—Perfect Weather

By far the biggest crowd of the season was at Jackson Park last night and the gay scene will not soon be forgotten by those who were present. The toboggan slide was in grand condition, and several hundredd enjoyed the sport to the utmost, while hundreds more enjoyed the excellent skating. The ice was in good shape, and a section of the 57th Band rendered a choice programme. The night was perfect for outdoor exercises. The Radial Railway Company gave an excellent service to and from the park, and there was but little delay.

The restaurant, which is in charge of Mr. Jos. Sharpe, has been doing a rushing trade since it opened and is proving very popular with the patrons of the slide and rink.

BUTTER AND CHEESE FACTORY TO BE BUILT

Fraserville village will have a new butter and cheese factory erected this year. Tenders have been invited for the contract and will be received up to Jan. 15th. The plans may be seen at the post office there, or at the factory in North Monaghan, as will be seen by the advertisement in this issue. The factory will be located near the union school, north of Fraserville.

THE BANK EMPLOYEES GET 10 PER CENT BONUS

Montreal, Jan. 8.—(Special.) — An indication of the strong position in which some of the leading banks find themselves is given by the action of the Royal Bank, which has voted a bonus of 10 per cent. to all the employes of the bank. The action is all the more surprising because some of the banks are cutting down rather than increasing their operating expenses.

PLENTY OF WORK FOR THE UNEMPLOYED

Men Now Employed Breaking Stone are Not Satisfactory

The cry of the unemployed which was so strong a few weeks ago, has now died away and is scarcely ever heard. There is no need now for anyone being out of work. The city has plenty of stone on the Burnham property for breaking and any man wishing employment will be paid so much a cord for the breaking.

When the notice was first published about 80 men who were out of employment went to Mr. Finch Miller's store, seeking the advertised job. The men were told to come back on Saturday and start to work at breaking stones. How many of these men appeared? About one-quarter the number who applied turned up at the appointed time and went to work. What became of the other men? There are only two reasons for their non-appearance. They either must have found other employment or did not want to work. The latter reason is the most probable one as there are still a few men around our streets out of work.

The men who did go out to work are not proving satisfactory, and some of them are very impertinent to the city officials who were instrumental in giving these men employment. The stones are also being poorly broken some are merely chipping them, trying to do away with a cord of stone as quickly as possible.

One man was warned by the official in charge to be more careful in future. The official was told to mind his own business. "Finch Miller is my boss," the man said.

MEETINGS CONTINUED IN WEEK OF PRAYER

Held Last Night in The Two City Baptist Churches

The second meeting of the Week of Prayer, was largely attended in the two churches, where meetings were held last night. The meeting in the Murray street Baptist church was conducted by the Rev. Dr. Langfeldt. The subject, "The Consciousness of Sin," was discussed by Rev. Mr. Keith. Other clergymen were also present. The church was well filled by an appreciative audience of men and women.

Rev. Mr. Potter gave the address at the Park street Baptist church, where there was also a large congregation. Rev. Mr. Pearson conducted the service.

The meeting to-night in the George street Methodist church, promises to be very largely attended. The subject will be: "The Punishment of Sin."

The clergymen of the city express themselves as more than delighted with the response made to their appeal and with the spirit shown at the meetings.

THE NEW OFFICERS FOR YEAR ELECTED

At the regular meeting of the Bricklayers' and Masons' International Union, Local No. 17, held last night, the following officers were elected:

Pres.—A H Webb.
Vice-Pres.—Wm. Sharpe.
Rec.-Sec.—Wm. Stevens.
Fin. Sec.—H H Hillier.
Tyler—Wm. Doucette.

The officers' reports for the year were read, showing that the union is in a very flourishing condition, both financially and numerically.

The following committee was appointed to make arrangements for annual banquet to be held in the near future: Jas. Goodwin, F. Dobson, [illegible] Hayward, A H Webb and H. Hillier.

OBITUARY

MISS FRANCIS SMITH

The funeral of Miss Frances Smith, Colorado Springs, took place this afternoon upon the arrival of the G. T.R. train. A short service was held in St. Peter's cathedral, and the remains were taken to the Roman Catholic cemetery for interment.

The deceased was 65 years of age. She was born and educated in Peterborough and left here for Auburn, N. Y., about thirty-five years ago. From there she went to Colorado Springs, where she remained until her death. Miss Smith was governess for the Seward family, when Mr. Seward was Secretary for the United States, and was also with that family when the well known secretary was murdered. The deceased lady was a daughter of the late Andrew Smith of Peterborough, and leaves one sister, Mrs. Margaret May of Cleveland, Ohio.

Minimum Fine Imposed On Fred Holland in Liquor Case

Was Discharged in The Case Of Alleged Criminal Assault On Mrs. Weston of Lakefield—The Conclusion of the Testimony

LARGE CROWD PRESENT

Fred Holland, the Lakefield man who appeared before Magistrate Edmison yesterday, was fined $50 and costs to be paid before Friday noon on the charge of illegally selling liquor. On the charge of criminal assault on Mrs. Weston, alleged to have taken place on Christmas Day the prosecution failed and no conviction was made.

Mr. Gordon appeared for the defendant and Mr. Cochrane assisted in the prosecution.

Case Resumed

Mrs. Weston resuming her testimony as cross-examined by Mr. Gordon said that Mr. Holland asked her to come over in the evening with her husband besides making indecent insinuations. She also said that Mr. Holland had said "For God's sake don't tell anyone about this." Witness said that she told him she would find out anyway as she talked in her sleep and her husband would then find out.

Witness said that it was dark when she got home. The house was lighted by a lamp and her husband and three children were there. She went in and put the bottle of whiskey on the table, began to cry and then told her husband the whole story.

Mr. Weston's Evidence

At this stage Mr. Cochrane made objection to the prisoner Holland's frequent leaving the court room. He called him back on the sixth occasion and made him stay in.

Mr. Weston corroborated his wife's statements closely. Witness said he knew Holland had liquor as he had seen it there when he was working for Holland some time previous. He did not go to look for his wife as he could not leave the children and he thought she might be visiting friends. Witness said the house was not lighted when his wife returned. He produced in court the empty bottle which had contained the whiskey Mrs. Weston had purchased.

Mrs. Holland's Evidence

Questioned as to whether she had seen anything improper on the part of Mrs. Weston, Mrs. Holland replied, "nothing." She denied all the main points of Mrs. Weston's evidence point blank. She said her husband was not in the house at all, Mrs. Weston did not faint and practically that every item of her evidence was false. Witness said Mrs. Weston asked for the loan of $10.00 from Mr. Holland, but he said that his wife had the handling of the money. Witness refused to loan it as she was not accustomed to lending to strangers. Mr. Cochrane asked her questions pertaining to her family which stirred up Holland so that Magistrate Edmison had to warn him. The questions were ruled out. Witness said that no news was brought to her home that the cement mill was closed down. Mrs. Holland said her husband was out all afternoon.

Mrs. Roger, mother of Mrs. Holland, added a few more denials to Mrs. Weston's story. She also said that Mr. Holland went to his work about one o'clock.

Holland, the prisoner was sworn and stated that he started to work at 6 o'clock Christmas morning and came home at twenty minutes to one o'clock. He got his dinner pail out of his house and started for the works where he was supposed to put in the day until six o'clock. Before going to the mill he spent over an hour repairing a rooster that was damaged in his poultry house. He went to the mill got a saw and returned to clip the rooster's "heels." He did no work in the mill that day according to his statements. He denied every charge of having done anything improper towards Mrs. Weston and was not in the house after one o'clock.

Magistrate Edmison in summing up the evidence said that both parties must receive cautious consideration as the charge was a very serious one. On the evidence therefore the charge of criminal offence was not substantiated and His Worship could not find a conviction.

On the charge of selling liquor Holland was fined $50 and costs to be paid on Friday at noon and in default of payment 3 months in gaol at hard labour.

Opposition Successful In Mock Parliament Election

The Leaders Present Their Views on National Questions—An Interesting Opening

A MAJORITY OF SIX VOTES

The regular meeting of the Y. M. C. A. Literary and Debating Club, was held last night, being the first of the 1908 session, and it was well attended. The principal event of the evening was the election of a leader for the Mock Parliament, which opens at the next meeting of the club. The platforms of both the Government and the Opposition have been published in these columns, and leaders will no doubt be familiar with them.

A summary is as follows:

The Government platform, Mr. N. A. Howard-Moore, leader.

1. To build a Georgian Bay Canal, and thus facilitate in the carrying of millions of bushels of grain from the far west to the seaboard.
2. To assist the railways financially.
3. To restrict immigration, by placing a higher tax on Orientals entering Canada.
4. To introduce a system of compulsory military training.
5. To oppose the nationalization of all public utilities and pacing a protective tariff upon all manufactured goods, and admitting free all raw material not obtainable in Canada.

The platform of the Opposition, Mr. Wilfred Shiner, leader.

1. The nationalization of all railways and canals, and thus abolishing the system of competition.
2. Also to control all public utilities such as the telephone, telegraph, etc.
3. Compulsory arbitration.
4. The removal of the present protective tariff and placing a revenue tariff on all goods.

Both sides presented their platforms in a very forcible manner, and were listened to with deep interest by all present, Mr. Moore, as leader of the Government, making an excellent and concise address, dealing in a very able manner with the Georgian Bay Canal, and illustrating his points by a map of the route. He was ably supported by Messrs. Hamon and Armstrong, who also brought forward many strong points in favour of the Government.

The leader of the Opposition, Mr. Wilfred Shiner, was warmly applauded on rising to address the electors. Mr. Shiner pointed out the policy of the Opposition very clearly, condemned the policy of the Government and urged upon the electors the benefits that would be derived by the policy of the Opposition being adopted. He was ably supported by Messrs. Lillie and McClaren, who also condemned the policy of the Government and endeavoured to tear the entire platform of the Governmnet to pieces.

The audience seamed to favour the Opposition speakers somewhat, and continued to applaud the Opposition speakers and interrupt the Government speakers. They had to be called to order by the chair on several occasions.

After both sides had presented their views, the election took place, the voting being done by ballot. The result was a victory for the Opposition led by Mr. Shiner, by a majority of six.

Mr. J. E. Hodgson, critic of the society, then addressed the meeting regarding several important matters in connection with the coming session of parliament.

The meeting then adjourned to meet again on January 22nd, when the parliament will go into session and introduce a bill dealing with "Canada's Transportation Problem," and the other important issues as stated in their platform. The executive hope that there will be a large attendance.

THE RETURNS WERE NOT ALL COMPLETE

Vote on Garbage Plebiscite Was Omitted At Division 9

The official returns of the vote on the Garbage plebiscite, show that the measure was defeated by a vote of 1,277 against, and 940 for, a majority of 337 against the scheme. In reality however this is not the actual vote polled, which would be somewhat larger, but which would not have much effect on the result. The deputy returning officer at No. 3 polling sub-division neglected to send in his returns on the garbage plebiscite to the returning officer before 12 o'clock yesterday, and so the official returns are made up with the figures from that polling place left out.

SOFTNESS OF SEALSKIN

Is Rivaled by Human Hair Where Dandruff Is Eradicated

Sealskin is admired the world over for its softness and glossiness; and yet the human hair is equally as soft and glossy when healthy; and the radical cause of all hair trouble is dandruff, which is caused by a pestiferous parasite that saps the vitality of the hair at its root. Newbro's Herpicide is the only preparation that is fatal to the dandruff germ. Without dandruff there is no failing hair, but a luxuriant growth of glossy, soft hair is certain. Scouring the scalp won't cure dandruff. Kill the dandruff germ. Thousands of women owe their beautiful suits of hair to Newbro's Herpicide. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Two sizes—50 cents and $1. The Market Drug Store, Special Agents.

CLOTHING TOOK FIRE ON STREET CAR

Young Man Placed a Lighted Pipe in His Pocket

A young man accompanied by his lady friend, after skating at the street railway rink, boarded a Jackson Park car. The young man was smoking a gold-trimmed briar and upon entering the car was ordered by the conductor not to smoke. He took the pipe from his mouth and in his confusion placed it in his overcoat pocket. The pocket soon caught fire and burned a hole through the man's inside coat and also destroyed part of his trousers. The conductor became alarmed at the smell of burning cloth and soon found the blaze. The unfortunate fellow lost a beautiful silk handkerchief and also had his inside coat destroyed. The car was crowded with skaters and tobogganists who became greatly alarmed. The young man got off the car at the next crossing and made off for his home.

HOME-MADE MEDICINE

Said to Relieve Kidney Trouble and Rheumatism

One ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion;
One ounce Compound Salatone;
Four ounces Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla;

Mixed and taken in teaspoonful doses after meals and at bedtime, is stated by a prominent physician to give most excellent results in kidney or urinary affli tions, and also in rheumatism and sciatica. The mixture opens the clogged pores of the kidneys, thus assisting them in their work of filtering all waste and poisonous matter from the blood, and expels these in the urine. To allow this poisonous matter to remain means that it will settle in the muscular tissues or joints, and cause the untold misery known as rheumatism.

The mixture is composed of harmless vegetable ingredients which can be purchased at any good drug store, and mixed at home.

Anyone suffering from any of these afflictions will no doubt be pleased to learn of so simple and highly recommended remedy.

News of The Re-Opening Of The Blairton Mines

Expected That Operations Will Begin In The Spring

RESIDENTS ARE JOYFUL

Examiner Special.

Havelock, Jan. 7.—It is reported on good authority here that the Blairton Iron Mines will be re-opened once again in the spring of 1908 and that that small village which at one time promised to become a flourishing village will once more be known in the mining world for the vast amount of iron it will produce.

Where a town, once lively and business-like, and well known for miles around, has become quiet with nothing doing at all and has sunken into apparent obscurrity, all at once is surprised by the news that it may become known once more, there is great excitement among the inhabitants. This is the case with the small village of Blairton, once one of the most promising and rising villages in the district, when the iron mines were in operation there, but of late has been reduced to only a few inhabitants. But now those that reside in that small, yet picturesque village wear a smile on their face, and the hearts of the property owners in the place are filled with gladness for in all probability the Iron Mines there will be opened in the spring. The opening of the mines will affect many persons in Havelock as several own property in the neighbourhood of the village.

The Blairton Iron Mines are situated about eight miles from Havelock and about the same from Marmora. They are about 3-4 of a mile north of the Havelock-Marmora road. It is about 3 miles north of Blairton station. The mines which are in the near neighbourhood of the village cover about 25 acres.

When the mines were in operation before, Blairton was one of the most prosperous and gayest towns to be seen. At that time there was a large population and although men and their families were continually flocking in, still there was a demand for labourers.

The village soon grew from a few houses to fifty, some of them very large and of the latest design. Stores, blacksmith shops, harness shops and other buildings sprang up as if by magic and it is said that a person who was away for a month did not know the village when they returned. Saw mills were scarce in the district and although there was plenty of timber, lumber could not be cut fast enough to supply the demand.

A railway connected Blairton with the docks at Trent Bridge. This railway was kept in continual action even on Sunday for when there was no ore to ship there was something else. Machinery for the mines was brought in daily, and supplies of provisions and groceries could not be got in fast enough. On the whole, it was as hard to get goods to Blairton as it was to Cobalt when it first opened up.

Nor, was it all work for nearly every week during the summer there was excursions of some kind to Trent Bridge and from there to other points by steamboat. Every evening after working hours the lake near by was crowded with boats filled with the happiest people that ever drew breath in this broad country of ours.

Although the school and church were of a fair size, they were not large enough to accommodate the large number that attended.

But there is a fall to all greatness. The end must come and thus it was with Blairton, when operations at the mine were discontinued. There was a general exodus of people and although quite a number remained, they kept gradually dwindling away, until now there are only a few left; there is no weekly excursion, no crowded church or school, no great demand for labourers, and as any person now visiting the place would say "it is practically dead to the world."

But now it is stated on good authority that the mines will re-open again, men have been employed at the mines examining it, and seeing how much iron it contains and their report which will soon be sent to the company will likely be most favourable, as it is thought that iron forms a large percentage of the rock.

When Healey Falls is developed there will be plenty of cheap power and the result will be an electric railway from Blairton to Havelock by which the ore will be carried to to this place.

From Havelock it will be shipped by C.P.R. by the Georgian Bay grain route to Victoria Harbour where it will be sent by steamer to the Canadian Soo. The capitalists who have an option on the Blairton Mines which are at present owned by Messrs. Peance, of Marmora, have made arrangements with a large steel manufacturing concern, persumably that at the Canadian Soo by which the ore mined at Blairton will be bought from the company. A test has been made of its quality and it is pronounced to be of the proper constituents to satisfactorily work in with the Helen Mine ore which the company at the Soo would use in event of securing ore from Blairton.

Meanwhile the citizens of Blairton and Havelock wait patiently for proceedings in the matter.

You Would Not Accept Counterfeit Money!

Why Accept Counterfeit Goods?

GOOD money is made by the government in which you have implicit faith and confidence. Good goods are made by manufacturers who are willing to stake their reputations on the quality of the material offered to you through the medium of their advertisements in this paper. Counterfeit goods are not advertised. The reason for it is they will not bear the close scrutiny to which genuine advertised goods are subjected. Counterfeit money pays more profit to the counterfeiter. Counterfeit goods are offered to you for the same reason.

The Following Letter Speaks For Itself

Peterborough, Nov. 1st, 1907.

W. G. MORROW, Esq.,
Agent Imperial Life Assurance Co.,
Peterborough.

Dear Sir:—I have received notification of the option available in respect to my ten-year Endowment Policy of $5000 which matured to-day and it affords me pleasure to say that I view with much satisfaction the results of my investment with your Company.

The substantial surplus which the Policy has earned in the comparatively short period of ten years makes the returns which would be made to me, under any of the options now open to my selection, most liberal and attractive.

It is greatly to the credit of the Company that after having granted me an Insurance of $5000 from the issue of the Policy in 1897 to the present time, it can now offer me under the cash-value option a sum so greatly in excess of the total premium that I have paid into it, or under the paid up Insurance option, a paid up life Policy considerable more than double the amount of my original Policy.

Permit me to wish the Company a long continuance of its prosperity

Yours very truly,

J. R. STRATTON.

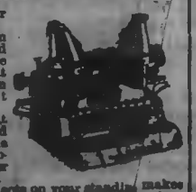
YOU CAN EASILY OPERAT THIS TYPEWRITER YOURSEL



Don't wear your correspondent.

Don't write him anything by hand that makes him time to make out that may leave him in doubt, that he can't easily read.

And don't fill out legal pap—or card manus— or make out statements of hotel menus in your own hand writing.

It looks bad, reflects on your standing, makes people think you can't afford a stenographer, and sometimes ambiguous.

You can write out your letters—make out an abstract—fill in an insurance policy—enter your card menu—make out your account, or hotel menus—or do any kind of writing you need, on any kind, size or thickness of paper, and space any way you want on

The OLIVER Typewriter

The Standard Visible Writer

You can write any of these things yourself if you do not happen to have a stenographer.

For you can easily learn with a little practice to write just as rapidly, and as perfectly as an expert operator on the Oliver. Because the Oliver is the simplified typewriter. And you can see every word you write. About 80% more durable than any other typewriter, because it has about 50% less wearing parts than most other typewriters.

50% easier to write with than these other complicated intricate machines that require "humpbacked" mechanical knowledge—long practice and special skill to operate.

Than machines with cannot be adjusted to any special space—with which it is impossible to write abstracts, insurance policies, or odd-size documents except at very expensive special attachments requiring experts to operate.

You can adjust the Oliver to any reasonable space—you can write on any reasonable size and thickness of paper right up to the very edge, without the aid of any expensive attachment or special skill, all your work will be neat appearing, legible and clear.

For the Oliver is the typewriter for the doctor the lawyer, the insurance agent, the merchant the hotel proprietor—or any man that does his own writing.

Woman's World

MISS ENID YANDELL.

Bronze Statue of Major Thomas' Latest Work of Famous Sculptress.

A beautiful bronze statue of Major John W. Thomas, subscribed by the employees of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railroad, of which he was president, has been executed by Miss Enid Yandell, the greatest American woman sculptor.

Miss Yandell is one of the three woman sculptors of America to receive a decoration from the French government and is the only woman member of the National Sculpture Society of America.

Miss Yandell is from Kentucky, a state where women have been famous chiefly for their beauty and the ease with which they have won social conquests both at home and abroad. This young woman sought out art and reached its highest plane. But now, when success has crowned her work, she says to her Kentucky sisters:

MISS ENID YANDELL.

"You are on the right road to happiness. Get married. Success in all lines is hard. It robs life of half its beauty and sweetness.

"I don't mean to intimate that the woman who has failed at everything else should resort to matrimony, for the woman who hasn't the right sort of heart and brain to succeed in other vocations will be a failure as a wife and mother. The secret to all success lies through three elements—love, kindness and charity.

"The road to any success is paved with sacrifices, and it is only a matter of whether you are willing to pay the price. The woman who decides upon a career must make up her mind to sacrifice that which is nearest and dearest to a woman's heart, home and love.

"I am of the belief that no woman should get married until she finds the man she cannot live without and of course must exact the same love in return."

Six Dishes From One Recipe.

Here's a novelty in cooking. A woman has found after a great many experiments that no less than six tasty, attractive and extremely economical dishes may be made from this one simple but reliable formula properly carried out. The ingredients required are one quart of sifted flour, five tablespoonfuls of baking powder, half a cupful of butter, one small teaspoonful of sugar, half a teaspoonful of salt and sufficient milk to make the dough of a soft consistency.

The method of mixing is to sift the baking powder with the flour. Then add the butter, which must previously have been cut into small pieces, and follow with the sugar and salt. Mix all these ingredients together thoroughly with the hands, rubbing the butter well into the flour, after which add the milk. Then mix as lightly and handle as little as possible.

With this dough as a foundation it will be easy to prepare any one of the following dishes:

Tea Biscuits.—Place the dough on the mixing board and flatten it with the hand until it is no more than an inch in thickness, but do not use the rolling pin upon it. Cut the biscuits with a tumbler, cup or biscuit cutter and bake in a buttered tin in a moderate oven for about half an hour.
